AMERICAN PLEAS REBUFFED

This letter sent by Mrs. John C. Duke of San Rafael to North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy at the Paris Peace Talks was returned to her yesterday unopened. Mrs. Duke said she had written asking that American prisoners of war be released and that she was moved to do so by the pleas of wives of prisoners. United Press International said today that all such letters from Americans are being sent back by the Paris post office at the request of the North Vietnamese and that the French postmaster has complained of the burden on his office. "I feel quite rebuffed," Mrs. Duke said.

A Major Break In Disarmament Talks

Nixon Says Impasse On Offensive Arms Solved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon announced today a major breakthrough in the disarmament talks with the Soviet Union —an agreement that the two sides will try to negotiate curbs on both offensive and defensive missiles.

In a brief statement carried live on radio and television, Nixon said if the effort succeeds, "today may be remembered as the beginning of a new era in which all nations may devote more of their energies not to war but to the works of peace."

In the view of White House sources, some form of agreement might be reached this year. Nixon, in his announcement, did not use the word "simultaneous" to describe the talks on defensive and offensive weapons but officials were inclined to believe this would be the case.

It was the first significant development in the SALT (strategic arms limitation treaty) talks which have been going on for more than a year and a half.

Previously, the Soviet Union had insisted the talks —for the present at least —be confined to defensive weapons. The United States wanted both offensive and defensive missiles on the agenda.

The agreement, announced in both Washington and Moscow, represents "a major step in breaking the stalemate on the nuclear arms talks," the President declared.

The step means that Soviet and U.S. negotiators will try to work out a pact to curb their defensive weapons such as antiballistic missiles (ABM) and offensive missiles such as MIRV (for multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles).

Nixon cautioned that "intensive negotiations ... will be required to translate this understanding into a concrete agreement."

He noted however that the ageement involved acceptance by the two governments "at the highest levels" and said negotiations will "be actively pursued."

Nixon's broadcast appearance lasted only about three minutes. He first read this formal statement:

"The governments of the United States and the Soviet Union, after reviewing the course of their talks on limitation of strategic armaments, have agreed to concentrate this year on working out an agreement for the limitation of the deployment of antimissile ballistic systems.

"They have also agreed that, together with concluding an agreement to limiting ABMs, they will agree on certain measures with respect to the limitation of offensive strategic weapons.

"The two sides are taking this course in the conviction that it will create more favorable conditions for further negotiations to limit all strategic arms. These negotiations will be actively pursued."

After making the formal announcement, Nixon said:

"If we succeed, this joint statement that is being issued today may be remembered as the beginning of a new era in which all nations may devote

Kidnappers' Execution Time Passes

ISTANBUL (UPI)—The deadline his captors had set for his execution came and went today with no word of the fate of kidnaped Israeli diplomat Ephraim Elrom. The Turkish government remained adamant in its refusal to give in to the abductors.

The "Turkish People's Liberation Army" said it was responsible for abducting the 59-year old consul-general from his Istanbul apartment Monday and added it would shoot him to death if all "revolutionary guerrillas" were not released from Turkish prisons by 5 p.m (8 a.m.PDT) today.

Deputy Premier Sadi Kocas said the government would "not bargain with hooligans.

"We don't fear they will kill the Israeli diplomat," he said.

Political sources said they believed the abductors would free Elrom and flee as was done in two previous kidnap cases this year.

Istanbul police chief Muzaffer Caglar said "the net around them is tightening." Ilgiz Aykutlu, chief of Istanbul's political police, said "we are nearing the end of this affair."

ever, authorities imposed a news blackout on most details of the hunt following the arrest Tuesday of one of Elrom's alleged abductors, identified by police as a former university student named Ayhan Yalin. One report said he was turned in by his father.

Oxnard Beaches Put On Disaster List

Has Stepped Up Fight On Drugs Paid Off?

By MICHAEL WIDMER
United Press International
(Second of two articles)

The country has responded to the drug problem with a bewildering variety of federal, state and local programs and nobody knows which are working and which are not.

By some standards, the results are encouraging. For example, drug arrests and seizures have skyrocketed; the number of addicts receiving treatment has risen; and drug education courses and materials now reach countless schoolchildren and adults.

The trouble is that most of these efforts appear to have had little impact so far on drug traffic or use among the young, a nationwide survey by UPI indicates.

The number of addicts overall is still on the increase.

Virtually no one, for instance, claims that a decline in drug use on college campuses is the result of a decline in the availability of drugs. If anything, most drugs are easier to obtain now than three years ago.

One of the most extensive community-wide drug education efforts in the nation took place in San Francisco in February. For the entire month, KQED-TV, the local public broadcasting station, carried daily prime-time programs on the drug problem. They included interviews with experts, teachers, ministers, ex-addicts, students, Timothy Leary, Huey Newton, Eldridge Cleaver and representatives of many other organizations.

Commercial stations helped promote the effort and it was estimated that 500 community groups watched the programs each night.

Mel Wax, public affairs director at KQED, said the station "received an enormous amount of mail but I couldn't guess whether in the long run it did any good."

The same uncertainty surrounds drug education in the nation's schools, where the major community efforts have been directed.

"We're funding a whole lot of educational experts, getting them to design drug education programs for us," said Milton L. Luger, director of the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission for New York State. "You ought to see the broad spectrum of approaches. They don't know which approach is really effective."

Some schools invite police officers to lecture students on the dangers of drug use. Others simply include "drug facts" in health classes. Others try to deal with the subtleties of drug use and abuse in the United States and in all societies in recorded history.

An example of the more sophisticated approach is in Rochester, Mich., an affluent suburb of Detroit, which has just set up a pilot project in Hamlin Elementary School.

At the kindergarten level, children are given a general health course on physical fitness and nutrition and introduced to common poisonous plants and household chemicals and compounds. By the eighth grade, they study the history of drugs and the social symptoms of drug misuse.

It is too early to say whether such a program can be successful in its avowed aim of teaching youngsters the dangers of playing around with drugs. The nature of the program suggests it is a long-term one with any meaningful results not expected for years.

"I don't think any town has a drug education program that is meeting the problem," said Robert Morgan, who directs a program in the Bedford, Mass., schools. "Ours is beneficial as a preventative for those who are wavering. But it doesn't convince the person who is already using."

Another response has taken the form of hotlines, drop-in centers, free clinics and self-help residential treatment centers like Synanon, Daytop Lodge and Marathon House.

Self-help is the theme of most of these programs which employ youthful and nonprofessional staffs, often former addicts. There is little evidence to indicate what kind of person profits from which type of program, if any.

"Drug treatment and prevention programs in New York City are a bewildering array," says a report of the city's Addiction Services Agency.

"The field is in a great state of confusion," said Dr. Victor A. Gelineau, research director for the Massachusetts Division of Drug Rehabilitation which helps fund 60 self-help and community based programs. Altogether, there are about twice that number in the state, plus more than 100 hotlines.

Dr. Matthew P. Dumont, head of Massachusetts drug rehabilitation, sees these noninstitutional, self-help programs as "models for new ways to deal with the young, where they may learn important skills such as how to communicate, how to get along with peers and authorities, how to organize, and perhaps most important of all, how to help a fellow human being.

"In many communities they are the only places where adolescents may congregate without being told to move on or buy something," he said. "The traditional adolescent crisis is now perceived in terms of the drug problem. What we are really setting up is a youth center rather than just a drug center.

"As examples of institutions for the young, self-help programs have implications for the primary prevention of drug abuse that may be more profound than any other effort, including the expenditure of millions of dollars on drug

Seale Jury Delayed On Clarification

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—The jury deliberating the murder-conspiracy case against Bobby G. Seale and Mrs. Ericka Huggins today requested clarifications of law before deciding the fate of the two Black Panthers.

Seale, 34, chairman of the Black Panther party, and Mrs. Huggins, 23, a Connecticut Panther leader, are charged with aiding and abetting in the death of Alex Rackley, 24, whose tortured body was found May 21, 1969 in Middlefield. Rackley allegedly turned police informer against the Panthers.

Shortly before the seven white and five black jurors broke for lunch Thursday, a sheriff in the Superior Courthouse reported he heard loud voices from the room where the jurors were deliberating.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey was asked by the jury during the morning to clarify kidnaping and being an accessory to kidnaping, which is part of one of the charges against the defendants.

The judge said that to find someone guilty of being an accessory, the accused must have been more than just "inactively present" and must have done more than just "passively acquiesced" in the crime.

The judge also reread his charge regarding the difference between kidnaping resulting in death, and just kidnapping. Conviction of the first charge could result in the death penalty or life in prison, while the kidnapping alone carries a maximum sentence of 50 years.

The jury also asked for a written list of possible verdicts for Mrs. Huggins and the legal definition of conspiracy. The jurors received the case Wednesday.

The state accuses Seale of ordering Rackley's murder and Mrs. Huggins with taking part in the interrogation and torture before Rackley was shot to death.

House Pronounces SST Dead On Senate Ballot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In the wake of an overwhelming Senate vote against the supersonic transport, the House today gave up any further effort to revive the faster-than-sound plane and formally pronounced the project dead.

"The SST is at the present time dead and cannot reasonably be revived," Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the Appropriations Committee told the House.

Mahon said the House negotiators would go along with the Senate in using $85.3 million in an SST bill to terminate the project rather than to revive it.

The House last week, in a surprise move, agreed to reverse the purpose of the money to keep the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane going rather to pay the Boeing Company for the cost of shutting down the project.

The Nixon administration official heading the SST project suggested today that Boeing itself was partly responsible for the defeat, saying the company had been "reluctant" to help revive the project.

William M. Magruder, director of SST development in the Transportation Department, said that reluctance was demonstrated by a statement made last week by Boeing's chairman, William M. Allen that the cost of reviving the SST program could run as high as $1 billion.

"The only conclusion we could draw from the air frame manufacturer's public speculation on the possible cost was that the company viewed a reinstatement of the SST program with some reluctance" Magruder said in a statement.

Congressional proponents of the SST agreed generally that they lost the fight when Allen made his statement.

The Senate finished off the faint hopes of SST supporters in a 14-hour session that lasted until nearly midnight Wednesday. When the votes were cast, the SST had gone down for the third time this year in the Senate.

On a roll call of 58 to 37, the Senate approved a motion by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to delete $85.3 million for SST development from a supplemental appropriation bill. Both California senators cast votes in support of the amendment.

The funds originally were included in the bill to be used to close out operations on the SST but the House, in a surprise maneuver, amended the language to stipulate further development.

After passing the Proxmire amendment, the Senate then voted to return the $85.3 million to the bill, add another $70.5 million and restrict the total $155.8 million to termination costs for ending the SST.

The House was considering today a motion by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to concur in Wednesday night's Senate action denying further funds for the SST except for $155.8 million to settle the contracts.

This would be used to pay:

The Boeing Co., the developer, $52.1 million; General Electric Co., the engine builder, $33.18 million; airlines that advanced Boeing "risk money" for early research, $58.5 million; the Transportation Department, $12 million.

Under the original $85.3 million, only Boeing and GE would have been paid.

Boeing management said in a statement that despite the Senate rejection of an SST for a third time this year, "this country must have one."

Ironically, it was Boeing itself which virtually killed off any hopes of reviving the 1,800-mile per hour plane. After the House action last week, Boeing estimated it would cost an extra $500 million to $1 billion to start up again and finish work on the two planned prototyes.

Backers of the SST began losing momentum after the Boeing statement.

Reed Trustee Calls For Probe Of $22,000 Foundation Grant

By GEORGE NEVIN

A Reed School District trustee today called for thorough investigation into a $22,000 foundation grant to clear up persistent suspicion of unauthorized travel and credit card expenditures by district officials.

The trustee, Kenneth G. Wells, said that although he has no proof that the expenses were not legitimate, improprieties do exist in expenses charged to a 1966 grant from the Charles F. Kettering Foundation.

The grant, originally $20,000, was awarded to the Marin County Schools office on Dec. 1, 1966, to establish an innovative educational program at Reed's showcase Granada School and to promote these programs in other school districts in California and throughout the nation. Two years later, the foundation added another $2,000 to the grant.

Only an audit or other investigation will determine if officials and trustees misappropriated foundation monies for their own purposes, Wells said, but three other points are known.

First, the contract for the grant was between the foundation and the Marin County Schools office, which was to have administered the program for Reed, but in February 1969 the balance of the fund, which stood at $4,244, was transferred to the Reed district in violation of the contract.

Second, $9,481 was spent for travel and $3,774 for operation of the experimental program, while the contract specified a maximum of $5,500 could be spent for such purposes.

Third, only $8,135 was spent for salaries in connection with the program, while the contract

Computer Men Get Spy Warning

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., appealed to the nation's computer technicians today to help him stop government from labeling people "on the basis of their thoughts."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the American Federation of Information Processing Societies, Ervin said computers and data banks have helped foster "the insatiable curiosity of government to know everything about those it governs."

He urged the several thousand computer programmers and technicians in his audience to prevent the government from going too far.

"If the attitude of the present administration is any indication," he said, "government will make increasing use of computer technology in pursuit of its current claim to an inherent power to investigate lawful activities and to label people on the basis of their thoughts.

"Some of you will help develop such systems ... It falls on your shoulders to make known the restrictions and the limitations of the machines as well as the alternatives for what is proposed. When the political managers ignore or abdicate their responsibility to assure the application of due process of law, then you may have the final say," he added.

By coincidence, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a report in Washington based on an investigation by hie Economy in Government subcommittee which said the federal tovernment now employs 5,277 computer systems — a nine-fold increase in 10 years. He estimated their annual cost at $2.2 billion.

In his Constitutional Rights subcommittee's investigation into spying by Army intelligence, Ervin said, he learned that an analyst was told to categorize people in computers on the basis of scraps of information.

The analyst "had to apply various number combinations which indicated a person's beliefs or status," he said. "For instance 134-259 indicated that a person was a non-Communist, while 135-395 indicated Communist party membership or advocacy of Communism.

"We were told that since many of these persons were young people with no political philosophy and no organized memberships, the analyst had nothing to go on but some political utterances, he said.

The House last week, in a surprise move, agreed to reverse the purpose of the money to keep the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane going rather to pay the Boeing Company for the cost of shutting down the project.

The Nixon administration official heading the SST project suggested today that Boeing itself was partly responsible for the defeat, saying the company had been "reluctant" to help revive the project.

William M. Magruder, director of SST development in the Transportation Department, said that reluctance was demonstrated by a statement made last week by Boeing's chairman, William M. Allen that the cost of reviving the SST program could run as high as $1 billion.

"The only conclusion we could draw from the air frame manufacturer's public speculation on the possible cost was that the company viewed a reinstatement of the SST program with some reluctance" Magruder said in a statement.

Congressional proponents of the SST agreed generally that they lost the fight when Allen made his statement.

The Senate finished off the faint hopes of SST supporters in a 14-hour session that lasted until nearly midnight Wednesday. When the votes were cast, the SST had gone down for the third time this year in the Senate.

On a roll call of 58 to 37, the Senate approved a motion by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to delete $85.3 million for SST development from a supplemental appropriation bill. Both California senators cast votes in support of the amendment.

The funds originally were included in the bill to be used to close out operations on the SST but the House, in a surprise maneuver, amended the language to stipulate further development.

After passing the Proxmire amendment, the Senate then voted to return the $85.3 million to the bill, add another $70.5 million and restrict the total $155.8 million to termination costs for ending the SST.

The House was considering today a motion by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to concur in Wednesday night's Senate action denying further funds for the SST except for $155.8 million to settle the contracts.

This would be used to pay:

The Boeing Co., the developer, $52.1 million; General Electric Co., the engine builder, $33.18 million; airlines that advanced Boeing "risk money" for early research, $58.5 million; the Transportation Department, $12 million.

Under the original $85.3 million, only Boeing and GE would have been paid.

Boeing management said in a statement that despite the Senate rejection of an SST for a third time this year, "this country must have one."

Ironically, it was Boeing itself which virtually killed off any hopes of reviving the 1,800-mile per hour plane. After the House action last week, Boeing estimated it would cost an extra $500 million to $1 billion to start up again and finish work on the two planned prototyes.

Backers of the SST began losing momentum after the Boeing statement.

Reed Trustee Calls For Probe Of $22,000 Foundation Grant

By GEORGE NEVIN

A Reed School District trustee today called for thorough investigation into a $22,000 foundation grant to clear up persistent suspicion of unauthorized travel and credit card expenditures by district officials.

The trustee, Kenneth G. Wells, said that although he has no proof that the expenses were not legitimate, improprieties do exist in expenses charged to a 1966 grant from the Charles F. Kettering Foundation.

The grant, originally $20,000, was awarded to the Marin County Schools office on Dec. 1, 1966, to establish an innovative educational program at Reed's showcase Granada School and to promote these programs in other school districts in California and throughout the nation. Two years later, the foundation added another $2,000 to the grant.

Only an audit or other investigation will determine if officials and trustees misappropriated foundation monies for their own purposes, Wells said, but three other points are known.

First, the contract for the grant was between the foundation and the Marin County Schools office, which was to have administered the program for Reed, but in February 1969 the balance of the fund, which stood at $4,244, was transferred to the Reed district in violation of the contract.

Second, $9,481 was spent for travel and $3,774 for operation of the experimental program, while the contract specified a maximum of $5,500 could be spent for such purposes.

Third, only $8,135 was spent for salaries in connection with the program, while the contract

Computer Men Get Spy Warning

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., appealed to the nation's computer technicians today to help him stop government from labeling people "on the basis of their thoughts."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the American Federation of Information Processing Societies, Ervin said computers and data banks have helped foster "the insatiable curiosity of government to know everything about those it governs."

He urged the several thousand computer programmers and technicians in his audience to prevent the government from going too far.

"If the attitude of the present administration is any indication," he said, "government will make increasing use of computer technology in pursuit of its current claim to an inherent power to investigate lawful activities and to label people on the basis of their thoughts.

"Some of you will help develop such systems ... It falls on your shoulders to make known the restrictions and the limitations of the machines as well as the alternatives for what is proposed. When the political managers ignore or abdicate their responsibility to assure the application of due process of law, then you may have the final say," he added.

By coincidence, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a report in Washington based on an investigation by hie Economy in Government subcommittee which said the federal tovernment now employs 5,277 computer systems — a nine-fold increase in 10 years. He estimated their annual cost at $2.2 billion.

In his Constitutional Rights subcommittee's investigation into spying by Army intelligence, Ervin said, he learned that an analyst was told to categorize people in computers on the basis of scraps of information.

The analyst "had to apply various number combinations which indicated a person's beliefs or status," he said. "For instance 134-259 indicated that a person was a non-Communist, while 135-395 indicated Communist party membership or advocacy of Communism.

"We were told that since many of these persons were young people with no political philosophy and no organized memberships, the analyst had nothing to go on but some political utterances, he said.

Controversial Aide Faces Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Otto F. Otepka, once fired for breaching State Department security, must convince the U.S. Senate he should keep his $36,000-a-year job on the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB).

Otepka

Indications were that Otepka, first confirmed to the SACB post two years ago after a bitter political wrangle, will face the same opposition and the same charges that he is linked to rightwing causes.

The Americans for Democratic Action, the United Auto Workers, and former Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, were among those lined up with anti-Otepka testimony as a three-man Senate Judiciary Committee panel opened hearings on President Nixon's nomination of Otepka to a full four-year-term.

Decision Reaffirms Court Faith

OPELIKA, Ala. (UPI) — The Deep South's first black sheriff since Reconstruction says his faith in American justice was reaffirmed Wednesday in an Alabama courtroom.

Amerson

Sheriff Lucius Amerson of Tuskegee and his chief deputy, Richard Coleman Jr., also black, were cleared by an all-white federal jury of charges they violated the civil rights of a Negro prisoner by beating him in jail. Their defense counsel included Alabama's white attorney general, William J. Baxley.

Amerson, 37, said the seven-man, five-woman jury, which deliberated an hour and five minutes, consisted of "12 unbiased people." They would have acquitted a white sheriff under similar circumstances, he said.

Steel Wage Hike?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 13.5 per cent wage increase Congress voted this week for railroad signalmen as part of egislation ending the two-day nationwide rail strike may become a target for steelworkers in their contract talks with the steel industry.

Top negotiators for both sides in the steel talks conceded that the rail pay settlement signed into law by President Nixon would have an effect on their negotiations, which appear headed for an August walkout —by 450,000 steel workers.

Union president I. W. Abel indicated he would be glad to settle for an annual ay raise that high for his members, but chief industry negotiator R. Heath Larry said the 13.5 per cent pay raise for one year was "not a very happy outlook"

On Mars Voyage

MOSCOW (UPI)—A five-ton Soviet rocket hurtled through space today on a six-month, unmanned voyage to Mars. It was the Soviets' second expedition to explore the Red Planet.

At Cape Kennedy, America's Martian probe, Mariner, sat on the launch pad, its firing postponed indefinitely for the second time since May 8 for additional tests on a control unit. The United Staes has photographed Mars in three other space missions since 1965.

Both the Soviet and the American rockets were scheduled to complete the 290-million-mile voyage in November.

Sadat On Canal

CAIRO (UPI) —President Anwar Sadat of Egypt declared today that the Suez Canal an be reopened only as part of an overall Middle East peace settlement and that barring this "it would be better to fill it with sand."

Sadt told a cheering national assembly in a speech televised throughout Egypt (and monitored in neighboring countries including Israel) that Egypt's insistence that its troops must occupy both sides of the canal in any settlement is "nonnegotiable."

In an apparent effort to demonstrate that he is as tough as the "hard-liners" whom he jailed after an attempted coup d'etat a week ago, Sadat said the Egyptian army is so keen to fight Israel again that "I can hardly hold them back."

(In Tel Aviv, an Israeli political source said, "It is a tough speech. But I read it as meaning he still wants the Suez Canal opened, but on his terms."

Sea Harassment

Aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Duane (UPI) — An American deepsea lobster boat reported Russian trawlers ran through her gear early today, 24 hours after Russian and American officials held an at-sea conference designed to halt such harassment.

The Pat San Marie, a lobster boat owned by Prelude Corp. of Westport, Mass., reported to the Coast Guard that about 16 small trawlers swept through her gear about 5:45 a.m. EDT 20 miles south of Nantucket Light Ship.

The Coast Guard said the Pat San Marie "gave descriptions of two of the trawlers" and said they saw their names, Curyz and Aeiv.

Dollar Buying Set

BONN (UPI) —Today was Ascension Day, a bank holiday. On Friday the money markets will open and the U.S. dollar is expected to drop nearly six per cent off its former value in West Germany.

This would put the Bonn government's seal on an exchange rate that has been a fact of life in Western Europe ever since the dollar ciris of earlier this month.

But when Friday comes and th West German central bank starts selling some of its $17 billion in American dollars at a new low rate, speculators will make millions.

9 Jews Convicted In USSR

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Leningrad court today found nine Jews guilty of illegal Zionist activities that included conspiring to hijack a plane and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from one to 10 years, Jewish sources said.

The three-man collegium combining the functions of judge and jury handed down its judgments after one day of deliberation following the 10-day-old trial.

This completed another phase in Soviet prosecution of more than 30 Jews or Zionists sympathizers arrested in June 1970. Twelve persons were sentenced previously to prison for attempting to hijack an airplane at Leningrad in a bid to flee the country.

The court today sentenced Hillel Butman to 10 years imprisonment and Mikhail Korenblit to seven years, the sources said.

They were singled out in official TASS news agency accounts of the trial as the ringleaders in the early stages of the plotting among Leningrad Zionists to seize an airliner.

The other sentences were:

Five years for Lassal Kaminsky, five for Lev Yagman, four for Vladimir Mogilever, three for Viktor Boguslavsky, three for Solomon Dreizner, three for Lev Korenblit and one for Viktor Shtilbans.

All the sentences wee for "strict regime" in labor camps. They followed exactly what the prosecutor asked except for Mikhail Korenblit and Lassal Kaminsky, who received terms of one year less than requested.

Tass news agency had indicated in its reports the guilty verdicts were a foregone conclusion. West reporters were not allowed to attend the trial.

In its dispatch on Wednesday, Tass said nothing of the verdict to be rendered and neglected to point out that the collegium of one professional judge and two lay jurors had to find the defendants guilty before passing sentence.

Tass referred to the defendants throughout their eight-day trial as "the criminal group."

Specifically, they were accused of having a role in an abortive attempt to take over a Soviet A-2 plane on June 15, 1970, and fly it to Sweden, there to seek asylum and make their way to Israel.

Twelve other persons were tried for the same hijacking plot in November. Two received death sentences, later commuted to 15 years in prison.

Mennonites Help Repair The Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There were no press notices to build advance support for these antiwar activists. They just appeared.

The women wore granny dresses. The men were bearded.

But instead of placards, they carried hammers and saws. And instead of littering, they began to pick up litter.

Seventy Mennonites from the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia came to Washington Tuesday to repair benches ripped apart for firewood by demonstrators and to pick up litter at West Potomac Park, the site of the May Day tribe's camping grounds two weeks ago.

"This is our way of showing we're for peace," one Mennonite said. "We want to be constructive, not destructive."

The 70 workers are members of the Mennonite Disaster Service, a 20-year-old organization that cleans up after tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and other natural disasters.

The Mennonites said they believe in "praying for, obeying and paying" the government.

Senate Kills U.S. Troop Cut Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate leader Mike Mansfield, beaten decisively in his bid to cut the U.S. military contingent in Europe by 50 per cent, has pledged to continue his fight to stop the drain of American resources in maintaining the 300,000-man force.

After a long day of debate, the Senate Wednesday night defeated the Mansfield proposal 61-36. It was a victory for President Nixon, who received the support of former Democratic Presidents, Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman, in opposing the move.

Mansfield said after the vote he had "no regrets, no apologies, no alibis." He said he felt he had achieved a victory by bringing the issue to the Senate floor and that he would raise the matter again once the impact of the debate sinks in.

"The vote doesn't represent the concern and uneasiness of a sizeable majority of the Senate," the Montana Democrat said.

Speaking to packed galleries, Mansfield said the issue of keeping a large American force in Europe a quarter century after the end of World War II "will not be hidden under a shroud forever, not from this week on."

Mansfield argued the United States faces "not only the possibility of an indeterminate stay ... but maybe a permanent stay" in Europe. He said the Nixon administration had given "not one hint of understanding" of the problem.

It defeated 68 to 29 an amendment by Rep. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., which would have required the President to come to Congress for authorization to keep in excess of 150,000 troops in Europe after Dec. 31.

Another amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, which would have required the withdrawal of only 50,000 troops in Europe rather than the 150,000 proposed by Mansfield, was defeated 81 to 15.

The Senate defeated 63 to 26 a proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., for a phased withdrawal. B

Still another amendment by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, RMd., which would have requested Nixon to negotiate with European allies on reducing the U.S. contribution to the NATO garrison and report back to Congress by Septemer, failed 73 to 24.

Fierce Battles In Two Valley Areas

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops battled dug-in North Vietnamese at both ends of the A Shau Valley today supported by U.S. helicopters that came under heavy fire. B52s bombed in neighboring Laos where a Communist offensive rolled on unchecked.

A military spokesman in the Laotian capital of Vientiane said North Vietnamese forces launched a 12-hour rocket and mortar attack which drove Laotian government forces out of Houei Kong, last government outpost on the strategic Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos.

New fighting flared in Cambodia where the government, balked in its efforts to keep Route 4 open to the port of Kampong Som, began a new drive southward on Route 3. Route 3, east of Route 4, is longer but Phnom Penh needs the supplies funneled through the big port. A Phnom Penh dispatch said 1,800 peasants abandoned their homes in the path of the government drive.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from a firebase overlooking the valey in the northern part of South Vietnam that ARVN troops killed 38 North Vietnamese in the bitterest fight of the campaign to drive Communists from bunkered strongholds.

That battle was at the southeastern end of the 35-mile-long valley. It began in darkness Wednesday night, raged until 3 a.m. today then picked up at dawn when the South Vietnamese launced a second attack. By the end of the day they had overrun 26 bunkers, captured 10 buildings and a Russian-built truck.

Another battle was reported at the northeastern end of the valley, which is 375 miles north of Saigon. There the 54th ARVN regiment fought for eight hours, killing five of the dug in enemy. ARVN casualties were reported light.

In southern Laos the military situation grew more serious by the minute and the North Vietnamese were reported consolidating their hold on the entire Bolovens Plateau—a drive that in effect widened the Ho Chi Minh Trail complex of supply lines to Cambodia and southern Vietnam.

Activist Jailed; Refuses To Talk

SEATTLE (UPI) —Leslie Bacon was jailed for contempt Wednesday when she defiantly refused to answer federal grand jury questions about the bombing of the U.S. Capitol and the May Day demonstrations in Washington, D.C.

As she was spirited off to a city jail cell, her attorneys said they would appeal.

The blonde antiwar activist had been granted a limited immunity from prosecution, but spurned the legal shield when asked 18 questions about radical activities before the grand jury.

The 19-year-old Atherton, Calif., girl was sentenced by Federal Judge William Goodwin to a jail term not to exceed the present grand jury term, which ends in February.

Goodwin ruled if she decides to cooperate with the grand jury investigation, the contempt sentence would be terminated.

"I have no intention of answering those questions," Miss Bacon said in court.

The buxom blonde said the government has "paranoid fantasies" of conspiracies and is trying "to frame innocent people."

Miss Bacon and her attorneys said she had already answered most of the questions put to her in the grand jury session Wednesday.

"She doesn't know what they are talking about when they ask about the bombing and she's told them so," an attorney said.

Nixon's Pot Views Raised Before Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Commission on Marijuana and Drug abuse, ordered to report next spring to President Nixon and Congress on the effectiveness of marijuana laws, will not necessarily be swayed by the President's opposition to legalizing "pot."

"Insofar as the statement by the President, he is entitled to his opinion just as any citizen of the United States is," former Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said as the panel wound up its hearings Wednesday.

The hearings produced an assortment of views on marijuana, ranging from suggestions that it be licensed and sold over the counter to reports of bizarre effects and potential escalation to harder drugs that suggested tighter controls.

The panel' next public hearings will be in San Francisco June 14 to 16 and Chicago Aug. 23 to 25.

Nixon, who appointed nine of the 13 members including Shafer and the vice chairman, told a May 1 news conference: "Even if the commission does recommend that it (marijuana) be legalized, I will not follow that recommendation."

The panel was formed by Congress to study both marijuana and drug abuse in general and to make recommendations on each.

"We know the President is just as concerned about the problem as you are," Shafer told the skeptical witness, Dr. Lester Grinspoon of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston. "He is a fair minded person."

9 Jews Convicted In USSR

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Leningrad court today found nine Jews guilty of illegal Zionist activities that included conspiring to hijack a plane and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from one to 10 years, Jewish sources said.

The three-man collegium combining the functions of judge and jury handed down its judgments after one day of deliberation following the 10-day-old trial.

Seventy Mennonites from the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia came to Washington Tuesday to repair benches ripped apart for firewood by demonstrators and to pick up litter at West Potomac Park, the site of the May Day tribe's camping grounds two weeks ago.

"This is our way of showing we're for peace," one Mennonite said. "We want to be constructive, not destructive."

The 70 workers are members of the Mennonite Disaster Service, a 20-year-old organization that cleans up after tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and other natural disasters.

The Mennonites said they believe in "praying for, obeying and paying" the government.

Phonics will ignite the fire of learning.
Illiteracy will extinguish the flame.

INSPECT BUNKER — Members of the 101st Airborne Division, who are assisting South Vietnamese in a new sweep of the A Shau Valley, inspect a bunker found during a patrol. Officials said the recently occupied bunker was big enough for two Communist regiments.

Senate Kills U.S. Troop Cut Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate leader Mike Mansfield, beaten decisively in his bid to cut the U.S. military contingent in Europe by 50 per cent, has pledged to continue his fight to stop the drain of American resources in maintaining the 300,000-man force.

After a long day of debate, the Senate Wednesday night defeated the Mansfield proposal 61-36. It was a victory for President Nixon, who received the support of former Democratic Presidents, Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman, in opposing the move.

Mansfield said after the vote he had "no regrets, no apologies, no alibis." He said he felt he had achieved a victory by bringing the issue to the Senate floor and that he would raise the matter again once the impact of the debate sinks in.

"The vote doesn't represent the concern and uneasiness of a sizeable majority of the Senate," the Montana Democrat said.

Speaking to packed galleries, Mansfield said the issue of keeping a large American force in Europe a quarter century after the end of World War II "will not be hidden under a shroud forever, not from this week on."

Mansfield argued the United States faces "not only the possibility of an indeterminate stay ... but maybe a permanent stay" in Europe. He said the Nixon administration had given "not one hint of understanding" of the problem.

It defeated 68 to 29 an amendment by Rep. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., which would have required the President to come to Congress for authorization to keep in excess of 150,000 troops in Europe after Dec. 31.

Another amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, which would have required the withdrawal of only 50,000 troops in Europe rather than the 150,000 proposed by Mansfield, was defeated 81 to 15.

The Senate defeated 63 to 26 a proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., for a phased withdrawal. B

Still another amendment by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, RMd., which would have requested Nixon to negotiate with European allies on reducing the U.S. contribution to the NATO garrison and report back to Congress by Septemer, failed 73 to 24.

Fierce Battles In Two Valley Areas

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops battled dug-in North Vietnamese at both ends of the A Shau Valley today supported by U.S. helicopters that came under heavy fire. B52s bombed in neighboring Laos where a Communist offensive rolled on unchecked.

A military spokesman in the Laotian capital of Vientiane said North Vietnamese forces launched a 12-hour rocket and mortar attack which drove Laotian government forces out of Houei Kong, last government outpost on the strategic Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos.

New fighting flared in Cambodia where the government, balked in its efforts to keep Route 4 open to the port of Kampong Som, began a new drive southward on Route 3. Route 3, east of Route 4, is longer but Phnom Penh needs the supplies funneled through the big port. A Phnom Penh dispatch said 1,800 peasants abandoned their homes in the path of the government drive.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from a firebase overlooking the valey in the northern part of South Vietnam that ARVN troops killed 38 North Vietnamese in the bitterest fight of the campaign to drive Communists from bunkered strongholds.

That battle was at the southeastern end of the 35-mile-long valley. It began in darkness Wednesday night, raged until 3 a.m. today then picked up at dawn when the South Vietnamese launced a second attack. By the end of the day they had overrun 26 bunkers, captured 10 buildings and a Russian-built truck.

Another battle was reported at the northeastern end of the valley, which is 375 miles north of Saigon. There the 54th ARVN regiment fought for eight hours, killing five of the dug in enemy. ARVN casualties were reported light.

In southern Laos the military situation grew more serious by the minute and the North Vietnamese were reported consolidating their hold on the entire Bolovens Plateau—a drive that in effect widened the Ho Chi Minh Trail complex of supply lines to Cambodia and southern Vietnam.

Activist Jailed; Refuses To Talk

SEATTLE (UPI) —Leslie Bacon was jailed for contempt Wednesday when she defiantly refused to answer federal grand jury questions about the bombing of the U.S. Capitol and the May Day demonstrations in Washington, D.C.

As she was spirited off to a city jail cell, her attorneys said they would appeal.

The blonde antiwar activist had been granted a limited immunity from prosecution, but spurned the legal shield when asked 18 questions about radical activities before the grand jury.

The 19-year-old Atherton, Calif., girl was sentenced by Federal Judge William Goodwin to a jail term not to exceed the present grand jury term, which ends in February.

Goodwin ruled if she decides to cooperate with the grand jury investigation, the contempt sentence would be terminated.

"I have no intention of answering those questions," Miss Bacon said in court.

The buxom blonde said the government has "paranoid fantasies" of conspiracies and is trying "to frame innocent people."

Miss Bacon and her attorneys said she had already answered most of the questions put to her in the grand jury session Wednesday.

"She doesn't know what they are talking about when they ask about the bombing and she's told them so," an attorney said.

Nixon's Pot Views Raised Before Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Commission on Marijuana and Drug abuse, ordered to report next spring to President Nixon and Congress on the effectiveness of marijuana laws, will not necessarily be swayed by the President's opposition to legalizing "pot."

"Insofar as the statement by the President, he is entitled to his opinion just as any citizen of the United States is," former Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said as the panel wound up its hearings Wednesday.

The hearings produced an assortment of views on marijuana, ranging from suggestions that it be licensed and sold over the counter to reports of bizarre effects and potential escalation to harder drugs that suggested tighter controls.

The panel' next public hearings will be in San Francisco June 14 to 16 and Chicago Aug. 23 to 25.

Nixon, who appointed nine of the 13 members including Shafer and the vice chairman, told a May 1 news conference: "Even if the commission does recommend that it (marijuana) be legalized, I will not follow that recommendation."

The panel was formed by Congress to study both marijuana and drug abuse in general and to make recommendations on each.

"We know the President is just as concerned about the problem as you are," Shafer told the skeptical witness, Dr. Lester Grinspoon of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston. "He is a fair minded person."

RAP SESSION

Youth Leader Sees Need Of 'Third Ears'

By GEORGE NEVIN

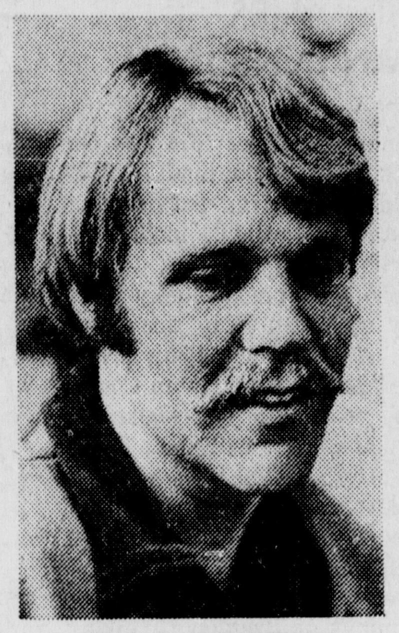
(22nd in a series of 24 raps)

Narrowing the divide separating youths from adults demands a lot of effort and understanding, but the situation needs more "third ears."

This is the feeling of John G. (Yohann) Anderson, area director of Young Life in Marin, an organization seeking to bring high school youth and adults together.

At 33, Anderson, called "Yo" by his young friends, is on the adult side of the temporal line. But he considers himself "an intermediary — a third ear — who can help parents relate to kids."

Why a third ear? Parents listen with one ear, he said, and their children with another. The truth lies in between, and it's the third ears who will help find it and point it out to young and old.



JOHN G. ANDERSON
'There's a God-shaped vacuum.'

Anderson, who wears his blond hair collar-length, sports a bushy mustache and drives a camper van, has been a Young Life staffer six years. He joined the organization in Southern California, where he was a high school teacher, and has been in Marin since October setting up programs at four high schools.

As far as he's concerned, "the generation gap has always existed, but we're in a different ball game today. Kids used to get in trouble by stealing a horse and buggy, but today they can take a car a lot farther."

Basic conflicts between young and old are more serious today, he said, not because they're different but because "kids today can destroy themselves faster. The tools of expression are that much more powerful."

Part of Anderson's work consists of training adults to work with youths in Young Life. "The most important thing is that they learn to be an adult ear rather than an adult mouth," he said.

The focus of Young Life is on communication. A brochure printed by the organization quotes author Philip Wylie: "The fundamental complaint of young Americans . . . does not refer to the hypocricies, lies, errors, blunders and problems they have inherited. It is, instead, this: that they cannot talk with grown people. Their efforts to communicate with us are invariably and completely squelched."

Anderson agrees: "The generation gap is mostly a communication gap. To narrow it, adults have to establish contact — literally — with youths."

He feels physical closeness helps break down the barriers keeping age groups apart. "We try to teach our adult volunteers to slap kids on the back, shake hands, punch them lightly — anything to set up physical contact."

The current generation of young people is searching for the answers just like past generations, he said. "Young Life tries to help by making them see what it is they're looking for. We believe they need to fill a vacuum inside — a God-shaped vacuum."

Since it's hard to relate to a concept like God on a personal basis, Young Life emphasizes establishing a rapport with Jesus Christ. "Everyone, even an atheist, needs to have something to worship, to look up to. The ultimate relationship is with Christ," Anderson said.

In working with youths, Anderson said he tries to keep one thing in mind: "Scratch them where they itch."

Today's youths itch to know what their lives lack and how to fill that lack, and they itch to establish meaningful relationships with others, said Anderson.

Lack of communication separates the age groups, but so does fear, Anderson said.

"Most adults are afraid of young people, just plain scared," he said. "That's why parents use the authoritarian approach, but this just tends to polarize both sides."

Some youths are trying to tear down American institutions, he said, but he believes the institutions are sound.

"We need changes in attitude. The people manning positions of leadership need to be changed. We could change institutions and put the same type of people in charge of the new ones and still have the same problems."

Ultimately, he said, the solution to the problem rests with each person. "Concern must start with each individual. If adults could stop seeing the trappings of you — long hair and wild clothes — and look into the heart of each individual, something significant would happen."

Marinwood Asks Fire Protection From County

Donald A. Duerr, chairman of the board of directors of Marinwood Community Services District, requested the service yesterday in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The fire station at the county farm was closed last October when the 1970 fire season ended.

Duerr cited "numerous fires in the hills surrounding Marinwood and upper Lucas Valley, which have endangered homes in this valley."

He said Marinwood has adequate fire protection for structures but is not equipped to handle large watershed fires.

Chrysanthemum Sale Saturday

More than 2,000 plants of 200 varieties of chrysanthemums will be on sale Saturday at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank at Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael.

The sale, sponsored by the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin will start at 9 a.m. Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance the society's annual show in October in San Rafael, said publicity Chairman Peg Keener.

Many rare and unusual varieties as well as new introduction species will be for sale, she said.

Novato Flood Work Pact Closer Now

The Novato Creek Flood Control District has indicated it is willing to enter into a joint powers agreement with the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District for improvements along Novato Creek, according to Betty L. Zoeller, district secretary.

The district is planning a dredging project for navigational purposes, and the flood control district is planning flood control work along the lower creek.

About 75 residents attended a special meeting on dredging Tuesday night, and Lewis E. Fredrickson, assistant flood control engineer for Marin County, indicated a joint powers agreement would be possible, Mrs. Zoeller said.

Some residents at the meeting advocated immediate dredging, but district directors held fast to their program to check all possible methods and financing before proceeding, Mrs. Zoeller said.

Fredrickson said yesterday that there is a possibility that there would be areas of work where the two district could share the costs. For example, he said, if dredging for flood control is in an area where it also is needed for navigation.

11 Killed In A Bus Plunge

SAN MIGUEL DE LUENS, Spain (UPI)—A bus carrying Italian veterans and widows of the Spanish Civil War went off a mountain road Wednesday and fell 120 feet, police said today.

Police said 11 persons, six of them women, were killed and 21 persons injured, nine of them seriously. The bus had 36 passengers, most of them in their 60s or 70s.

Bids Called For New Creek Bridge

The state Division of Highways has called for bids June 16 in Sacramento to replace the narrow bridge over Tolay Creek on Highway 37, just west of the junction with Highway 121, Sonoma County.

A total of $135,000 has been appropriated for the new, 42-foot-wide bridge.

10 Sentenced On Drunken Driving

Ten persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced last Friday by Judge David Menary Jr. were:

Charles James Power, 44, of San Francisco, arrested Oct. 7 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year, fined $250 and ordered to jail for 15 days.

Fred Hugo Peters, 46, of Santa Rosa, arrested Aug. 22, in Sausalito, who was placed on probation for six months and ordered to work 80 hours at the Hanna Boys Center in Sonoma.

Leo Thomas Cronin, 41, of 12 San Gabriel Court, Fairfax, arrested Dec. 30 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $360.

Sentenced Monday by Judge Menary were:

Earl Leslie Kemp, 55, of 256 Los Angeles Boulevard, San Anselmo, arrested April 29 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months, fined $302 and ordered to jail for five days.

Harry Edward Linder, 44, of 10 Fern Way, Kentfield, arrested March 24 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $182.

Jarrett William Bradley, 30, of Santa Rosa, arrested May 6 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $150.

Peter Anthony O'Shea, 44, of San Francisco, arrested May 14 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $211.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Sarah Elizabeth Brunetti, 56, of 657 McClay Road, Novato, arrested Dec. 3 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $150 fine or serve four days in jail.

Katherine Keyes Winburn, 36, of 70 Spindrift, Passage, Corte Madera, arrested Dec. 15 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $200 fine or serve four days in jail.

William Alexander Romack, 49, of 2575 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 6, Fairfax, arrested April 30 in San Rafael, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Nomination Of Nixon Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Donald W. Riegle, R-Mich., one of the leaders of the "Dump Nixon" movement, says there is only a 50-50 chance President Nixon will be the GOP nominee in 1972.

"If Nixon continues the policies of the last two years during the next two years, he is no going to be re-elected," Riegle said Wednesday. He also said there is a distinct possibility Nixon will not seek a second term.

Has Stepped Up Fight On Drugs Paid Off?

education curricula in schools systems which otherwise do violence to young minds," Dumont said.

Despite dramatic increases in the number of addicts under treatment—either in residential centers or methadone maintenance clinics—most addicts are not involved in rehabilitation programs, and those who are often end up back on drugs.

Dr. Robert DuPont of the Washington, D.R., Narcotic Treatment Administration said only about 3,500 of the city's 16,000 addicts are under regulated treatment. According to a recent survey by the New York Daily News, 22,000 of the city's more than 100,000 addicts are involved in some sort of rehabilitation program.

Dr. George Gay, director of the Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic, believes the San Francisco Bay area has a minimum of 15,000 heroin addicts—a several-fold increase over two or three years ago, he says.

Estimates of heroin addiction in the United States now range up to 500,000 persons. But that still doesn't begin to compare with the 6 million Americans who are addicted to alcohol. And there are countless others hooked on legal drugs.

Experts are unanimous in pointing to "a pilltaking society" as one explanation for drug use and abuse among the young.

An estimated 13 billion amphetamine and barbiturate tablets are produced by pharmaceutical companies in this country each year—and about half find their way into illicit channels, according to Matthew Dumont.

"Such tremendous production makes easy the diversion of large supplies into improper channels of trade," said Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Even the 50 per cent that are prescribed legally are enough "to provide every man, woman and child in the country with a month's supply," Dumont said. "Most of them were unnecessarily prescribed."

"The pharmaceutical industry is redefining and relabeling as medical problems calling for drug intervention a wide range of human behaviors which, in the past, have been viewed as falling within the bounds of the normal trials and tribulations of human existence," say four doctors in a recently published book, "Mystification and Drug Misuse."

"The drugs do not, however, reach the source of the anxiety or misery and do not remedy the unfavorable social and interpersonal arrangements and personal circumstances which generate anxiety or unhappiness," they said.

"To decry the use and misuse of drugs by young people while paying so little attention to the growing use and misuse of psychoactive agents in general, both those prescribed by physicians and those obtained over the counter without prescription, is highly misleading and unproductive," they said.

"Drug use, like war, is not a medical problem but a social, political and economic one."

Despite these constant temptations to try drugs and their easy availability, there are some signs that drug experimentation among precollege youth may soon level off as it apparently already has on most college campuses.

Experts unanimously point to the factor of "peer group pressure" —the youth subculture—as one of the strongest inducements to drug use by adolescents. Many observers say this factor may now be working in favor of less drug experimentation.

"I think there's a peaking out of the rate of drug use generally," said Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago and a nationally recognized expert on drug use. "The excitement and novelty is diminishing. With wider experimentation, there is also a growing know-how and less glamor."

Studies of seven high schools in Fullerton, Calif. (Orange County) show that marijuana smoking and drug taking in general no longer give the status they once did.

Drugs like LSD which were a central part of the psychedelic revolution a few years ago are now passe in many circles, especially as young groups find other outlets in their search for life styles.

People are turning away from psychedelics, said Thomas Stachnik, director of the Governor's Office on Drug Abuse in Pennsylvania. "There's a fairly strong movement among young people in terms of getting back to the earth, keeping your body pure, growing organic food."

One police official in Farmington, N.M., credited the "Jesus freaks" movement—which now has groups all over the country—with helping his community's drug problem. "It consists of a bunch of ex-drug addicts, hippies, carrying the Bible and going around preaching the word that the only real answer is The Lord," he said. "We've had some of our local weed-heads joining their movement."

Black groups in many cities have formed self-help collectives which stress political commitment and action as the means to "kick drugs."

One of the most important and as yet unanswered questions is whether the youngest among the drug takers will follow the example of older youth and seek other harmless outlets for pleasure and status.

But even were this to happen, there would undoubtedly still be thousands of youths turning on to drugs because their lives have become so desperate or void.

This suggests that the only legitimate way to deal with the drug problem is not to see it as a special "problem" or "crisis" but to understand what social, political and economic conditions prompt millions of young persons to turn to drugs.

"Drugs are related to social conditions and there have always been fluctuations in its use," said Richard Hawlzins, who works at The Creative Learning Group, a drug education organization in Cambridge, Mass. "But drug use in some form will be with us as long as people can grow plants and synthesize chemicals."

Appeal On Contempt Of Court Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An appeal by three labor leaders and San Francisco Typographical Union 21 — found in contempt of court in January for the riotous demonstration at the Independent-Journal last Valentine's day — was denied yesterday by the California District Court of Appeal.

According to attorney Nathan R. Berke, the petition for writ of review was turned down without comment by presiding justice John B. Molinari.

The petition was filed last month by the union; its president, Leon Olson; its vice president, Donald H. Abrams, and Jack Goldberger, president of Periodical Drivers and Helpers Local 921.

All were found in contempt Jan. 26 by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court for violating his injunction limiting picketing at the I-J, preventing violence or threats of violence to the paper, its employees or customers and preventing damage or destruction of I-J property or property of I-J employees.

Keating found that the union and the three officials urged thousands of labor supporters to come to San Rafael last February for the massive demonstration. He ruled the union and men had "engaged in combination and in concerted activity with each other and with others to violate the preliminary injunction."

The officials were fined and sentenced to 15 days in county jail each. The union and Olson and Goldberger were fined $1,500 apiece and Abrams $750.

Had their appeal been heard and upheld it would have only affected the fines, said Berke, who represents the I-J.

He said the men nad waved their right to appeal the jail sentences when they asked to be allowed to serve them before appeal.

Yesterday's decision by Judge Molinari means the union and officials must either pay the fines or pursue the appeal procedure to the California Supreme Court.

The union has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 of last year.

News Is Good On Phosphate Detergents

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A student who heads the UCLA Associated Students Office of Environmental Studies says most Americans can use phospate detergents without harming the environment.

Paul Silver, a junior, said current studies indicated that phospates dumped directly into the Pacific Ocean "are so thoroughly diluted and the ocean is so rich in phosphorous that they are harmless to marine life."

He said the pollution danger from phosphate detergents "is not as great as it might appear to be" since 60 per cent of the people in the United States live along the seacoasts and another 25 per cent have their waste discharged directly into the ground.

Silver said phosphates are dangerous only when dumped "into certain confined rivers or lakes.

Soprano Awarded Contest Grant

Soprano Sharon de Fremery of San Anselmo has been awarded a grant from the International Institute of Education to compete in international vocal competitions in Geneva and Munich this fall.

Mrs. de Fremery, whose husband, Phillip, is a classical guitarist, has sung operatic leads at Dominican College of San Rafael and at Sigmund Stern Grove with the San Francisco Opera's Merola program.

Both musicians are graduates of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and were artists in residence at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo last fall.

Two Reports Of Missing Checks

Two persons living in apartments at 129 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, told police that they have missed checks from the mail over the past two or three months, police reported today.

Terry L. Gibson of Apt. 5, reported the loss of one personal check of $455 and his income tax refund, no amount given.

Michael M. Toomey of Apt. 7 reported the loss of six unemployment checks, totaling $342, from the State of Rhode Island, according to police.

Injuries Minor In Cycle-Auto Crash

Cox's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Frances F. Morton, 58, of 2066 Feliz Drive, Novato, at 5:49 p.m., officers said. He refused medical treatment.

Electrical Rate Hike Is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Wednesday asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a 1.6 per cent increase in its electricity rates, or $12 million annually, to cover increased prices in gas used for generating electricity.

John S. Cooper, PG&E attorney, said if the hike was not granted, the company's return on investment in the electric division "will drop from 7.5 per cent to 6.28 per cent—well below the figure of 7.5 per cent found fair and reasonable by the commission just a few months ago."

Juvenile Court Due Theft Case

The case of Barbara Lynn Stephens, 18, of San Francisco, who is charged with burglary, has been transferred to Marin Juvenile Court.

A codefendant, Randy Turner, 19, also of San Francisco, is to appear in Municipal Court June 15 for a preliminary hearing.

The pair was arrested May 11 when Sausalito police allegedly found them at the home of Philip J. Bailey at 61 Crecienta Drive. A quantity of stereo equipment was found piled by the door of the house, police said.

REED

specified that $16,500 was to be so spent. Wells said Reed paid at least $50,000 in program-related salaries out of its own funds, at least part of which could have come from the $13,255 spent for travel and operation.

What bothers Wells most, he said, is that he is the only trustee anxious to investigate the grant thoroughly. A motion to conduct a thorough audit died for lack of a second at Tuesday's board meeting.

He said he is concerned that the other trustees and the district administrators may attempt to "sweep the whole thing under the rug." Indeed, discussion of the foundation grant was not listed on Tuesday's preliminary agenda which was sent to the Independent-Journal, and Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello did not mention Wells's motion when reporting the meeting to the I-J yesterday.

Wells said he is concerned with numerous expenses charged to the program, which he called the "Granada experiment," but never explained. Some examples: $107 for car rental in Houston, Tex., although "nobody from the district ever went to Houston as part of the program;" undocumented credit card expenditures totalling $1,559, and hundreds of dollars in cash advances with no explanation of where the money went.

"I'm not saying all these expenses are phoney," Wells said, "but they ought to be investigated. This is no way to run a district."

Wells also questioned some 27 trips to all parts of the country by district officials, principals, teachers and a trustee.

While the county schools office was overseeing the fund, Wells said, officials there disallowed several expenses made by district personnel. The sums later were covered by the district from tax money. The total is unknown.

Other examples of wrongdoing also exist, according to Wells who said he hopes to have proof in a week that an employee billed both the foundation grant and another organization for one trip and collected from each.

Wells also is bothered by the fact that the district, as part of the Granada experiment, hired a director of research, Charles L. Jenks, and paid him $15,000 per year in 1967-68 and 1968-69. Although Jenks, under the terms of the contract, was to work solely on the Granada program, only $6,500 of his salary was paid by the grant, leaving district taxpayers to pick up the remaining $23,500.

Wells said several teachers were hired in 1968-69 as part of the program, but their salaries, totalling $25,000, were paid by district funds, not the grant.

"In sum," said Wells, "the Granada experiment has proved very costly to the district."

Although Wells's motion Tuesday was for an audit, he said today the district could investigate the grant itself without spending any money. "All of these people (recipients of questionable expenditures) are still around," he said. "Why can't we just ask them why they did all this travel?"

Without investigation, Wells said, nagging questions will remain forever unanswered.

Stanford Will Shut Off Heart Patient Publicity

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University hospital will no longer routinely give out names of patients undergoing heart transplant operations.

Dr. Eugene Dong, a member of the Stanford heart transplant team, said in making the announcement Wednesday that "we no longer feel that our patients' names can be considered public information. They are entitled to as much privacy as other patients."

84.3 Feet Of Snow This Season

PARADISE LODGE, Wash. (UPI)—Snowfall at Mt. Rainier National Park has bettered its own world mark with 84.3 feet recorded so far this season.

The weather station here recorded a three-inch snowfall earlier this week, bringing the season total to 1,014.5 inches.

The old world record at an official weather station was 1,00.3 inches, set at Paradisa in 1955-56.

Cycle Stolen

Someone took his 1970 model motorcycle valued at $950 between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday, from his carport at 575 Canal Street, Apt. 5, Robert D. Torrey reported to police.

The development in the secret negotiations which have been going on since Nov. 17, 1969, appeared to represent a significant concession by Moscow, which previously had insisted that the initial talks be limited to defensive weapons, such as the ABM system.

Nixon's position has been that both offensive and defensive systems should be negotiated simultaneously.

The SALT talks have been marking time in Vienna since Gerard C. Smith, the chief U.S. negotiator, flew to Washington following the last full U.S.Soviet discussions May 7. Smith conferred with Nixon for half an hour Wednesday.

The current round of the SALT talks had been scheduled to end in Vienna the last week of May, followed by a summer recess.

Nixon cautioned that "intensive negotiation" would be necessary to translate the new Moscow-Washington understanding into a concrete agreement.

U.S. officials expressed limited optimism that some form of agreement in the immensely complicated process of curbing nuclear weapons might now be within reach.

The Presient's remark that the understanding resulted from negotiations involving the highest levels of both governments appeared to indicate he had been in contact with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, but White House officials refused to discuss this aspect.

The White House said Smith would fly back to Vienna Friday to resume talks with the Russians.

The President discussed the understanding in an hour long Cabinet meeting this morning and then met with Congressional leaders of both parties.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the news was "very encouraging."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who like Mansfield was among 20 congressmen who attended the White House briefing, called the agreement "a most significant foreign policy understanding" but cautioned: "There is still a long road ahead."

Shopping Center Gains In Novato

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night tentatively approved plans for completion of the Novak Shopping Center, southwest of Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue.

Developer H. L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct a series of buildings to house large and small businesses and a movie theater at the 6.94 acre site.

The committee also continued indefinitely review of plans for 50 townhouse units and two single-family units at the south end of Libra Drive, south of Pleasant Valley Unit 4.

Man Indicted On Murder In Novatan's Death

OAKLAND (UPI) —Grand jurors returned a murder indictment Wednesday against Christopher Cowsar, 21, in the stabbing of an Air Force recruiting sergeant.

Cowsar is charged with killing S. Sgt. Rogers D. Mobley Sr., 32, of Novato in a recruiting office at nearby Berkeley.

Witnesses quoted the Berkeley man as shouting that Mobley must die because he sent men to Vietnam.

Innocent Plea In Checks Case

Ruth Eleanore Trombley, 29, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of fraudulently possessing checks.

A pretrial conference was set for next Wednesday.

Astronaut Lovell Will Head Project

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., who has spent more time in space than any other man, today was named deputy director of the Science and Applications Directorate at the Manned Spacecraft Center (MSC).

Lovell has flown numerous Gemini and Apollo missions and commanded the Apollo 13 flight which aborted when an oxygen tank exploded on the way to the moon.

Funeral arrangements for Eva Dohring, formerly of 38 Harcourt Streetn San Rafael were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary. She died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Miss Dohring, 81, was born in San Francisco. She lived there most of her life except for a period of several years when she operated a ski lodge at Emigrant Gap.

She moved to San Rafael at the home of a friend, Mrs. Leslie Grant a year and a half ago.

She has no known survivor.

JAMES KREMER

Private funeral has been held in San Rafael for James G. Kremer, 56, of San Anselmo who died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital following a lengthy illness.

A native of Great Falls, Mont., he came to California 20 years ago and lived with his wife Harriet at 45 Rutherford Avenue in San Anselmo the past four years.

He taught mentally retarded children at Francisco Junior High School in San Francisco until two years ago when cancer forced his early retirement. He had taught at the school for 12 years, and held a master's degree in education from Stanford University. He was a member of the Classroom Teachers Union and the Marin Orchid Society.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a stepson, Michael D. Walker, who resides at the family home; two sisters, Mary Jane Lakey and Shirley Gilliespie of Great Falls, Mont., and two brothers, Robb of Detroit and John of Lewiston, Mont.

The ashes will be taken to Great Falls where they will be scattered.

Court Rules In Abortion Question

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has ruled that unmarried women under 21 may obtain therapeutic abortions without parental consent.

The court's 4-3 decision, in the case of a 20-year-old Los Angeles woman, said legal abortions fell under a 1953 law allowing an unmarried minor to consent to "medical surgical care related to her pregnancy."

A dissenting opinion said the therapeutic abortion law was passed 14 years later, and the Legislature did not intend "to confer on girls under the age of 21 the awesome power to extinguish human life."

The ruling meant minor girls can obtain abortions by meeting the same standards applied to other women.

Accident Leads To Felony Count

William Carl Smith, 21, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of felony drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Smith is to plead to the charges June 3.

He was arrested at the home of a friend Saturday after police said he left the scene of an accident at Second and G streets, San Rafael, in which a 17-year-old boy suffered an injured leg.

Club Sponsoring Fishing Session

The Novato Kiwanis Club will sponsor a fishing session for youngsters Saturday at Pioneer Memorial Park starting at 9 a.m. with a stock of 1,000 small trout in the pond.

Youngsters nine and under will fish from 9 to 11 a.m. and those from the ages of 10 through 12, will fish after 11.

Appeal On Contempt Of Court Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An appeal by three labor leaders and San Francisco Typographical Union 21 — found in contempt of court in January for the riotous demonstration at the Independent-Journal last Valentine's day — was denied yesterday by the California District Court of Appeal.

According to attorney Nathan R. Berke, the petition for writ of review was turned down without comment by presiding justice John B. Molinari.

The petition was filed last month by the union; its president, Leon Olson; its vice president, Donald H. Abrams, and Jack Goldberger, president of Periodical Drivers and Helpers Local 921.

All were found in contempt Jan. 26 by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court for violating his injunction limiting picketing at the I-J, preventing violence or threats of violence to the paper, its employees or customers and preventing damage or destruction of I-J property or property of I-J employees.

Keating found that the union and the three officials urged thousands of labor supporters to come to San Rafael last February for the massive demonstration. He ruled the union and men had "engaged in combination and in concerted activity with each other and with others to violate the preliminary injunction."

The officials were fined and sentenced to 15 days in county jail each. The union and Olson and Goldberger were fined $1,500 apiece and Abrams $750.

Had their appeal been heard and upheld it would have only affected the fines, said Berke, who represents the I-J.

He said the men nad waved their right to appeal the jail sentences when they asked to be allowed to serve them before appeal.

Yesterday's decision by Judge Molinari means the union and officials must either pay the fines or pursue the appeal procedure to the California Supreme Court.

The union has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 of last year.

News Is Good On Phosphate Detergents

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A student who heads the UCLA Associated Students Office of Environmental Studies says most Americans can use phospate detergents without harming the environment.

Paul Silver, a junior, said current studies indicated that phospates dumped directly into the Pacific Ocean "are so thoroughly diluted and the ocean is so rich in phosphorous that they are harmless to marine life."

He said the pollution danger from phosphate detergents "is not as great as it might appear to be" since 60 per cent of the people in the United States live along the seacoasts and another 25 per cent have their waste discharged directly into the ground.

Silver said phosphates are dangerous only when dumped "into certain confined rivers or lakes.

Soprano Awarded Contest Grant

Soprano Sharon de Fremery of San Anselmo has been awarded a grant from the International Institute of Education to compete in international vocal competitions in Geneva and Munich this fall.

Mrs. de Fremery, whose husband, Phillip, is a classical guitarist, has sung operatic leads at Dominican College of San Rafael and at Sigmund Stern Grove with the San Francisco Opera's Merola program.

Both musicians are graduates of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and were artists in residence at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo last fall.

Two Reports Of Missing Checks

Two persons living in apartments at 129 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, told police that they have missed checks from the mail over the past two or three months, police reported today.

Michael M. Toomey of Apt. 7 reported the loss of six unemployment checks, totaling $342, from the State of Rhode Island, according to police.

Injuries Minor In Cycle-Auto Crash

Cox's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Frances F. Morton, 58, of 2066 Feliz Drive, Novato, at 5:49 p.m., officers said. He refused medical treatment.

Electrical Rate Hike Is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Wednesday asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a 1.6 per cent increase in its electricity rates, or $12 million annually, to cover increased prices in gas used for generating electricity.

John S. Cooper, PG&E attorney, said if the hike was not granted, the company's return on investment in the electric division "will drop from 7.5 per cent to 6.28 per cent—well below the figure of 7.5 per cent found fair and reasonable by the commission just a few months ago."

Juvenile Court Due Theft Case

The case of Barbara Lynn Stephens, 18, of San Francisco, who is charged with burglary, has been transferred to Marin Juvenile Court.

A codefendant, Randy Turner, 19, also of San Francisco, is to appear in Municipal Court June 15 for a preliminary hearing.

The pair was arrested May 11 when Sausalito police allegedly found them at the home of Philip J. Bailey at 61 Crecienta Drive. A quantity of stereo equipment was found piled by the door of the house, police said.

specified that $16,500 was to be so spent. Wells said Reed paid at least $50,000 in program-related salaries out of its own funds, at least part of which could have come from the $13,255 spent for travel and operation.

What bothers Wells most, he said, is that he is the only trustee anxious to investigate the grant thoroughly. A motion to conduct a thorough audit died for lack of a second at Tuesday's board meeting.

He said he is concerned that the other trustees and the district administrators may attempt to "'sweep the whole thing under the rug." Indeed, discussion of the foundation grant was not listed on Tuesday's preliminary agenda which was sent to the Independent-Journal, and Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello did not mention Wells's motion when reporting the meeting to the I-J yesterday.

Wells said he is concerned with numerous expenses charged to the program, which he called the "Granada experiment," but never explained. Some examples: $107 for car rental in Houston, Tex., although "nobody from the district ever went to Houston as part of the program;" undocumented credit card expenditures totalling $1,559, and hundreds of dollars in cash advances with no explanation of where the money went.

"I'm not saying all these expenses are phoney," Wells said, "but they ought to be investigated. This is no way to run a district."

Wells also questioned some 27 trips to all parts of the country by district officials, principals, teachers and a trustee.

While the county schools office was overseeing the fund, Wells said, officials there disallowed several expenses made by district personnel. The sums later were covered by the district from tax money. The total is unknown.

Other examples of wrongdoing also exist, according to Wells who said he hopes to have proof in a week that an employee billed both the foundation grant and another organization for one trip and collected from each.

Wells also is bothered by the fact that the district, as part of the Granada experiment, hired a director of research, Charles L. Jenks, and paid him $15,000 per year in 1967-68 and 1968-69. Although Jenks, under the terms of the contract, was to work solely on the Granada program, only $6,500 of his salary was paid by the grant, leaving district taxpayers to pick up the remaining $23,500.

Wells said several teachers were hired in 1968-69 as part of the program, but their salaries, totalling $25,000, were paid by district funds, not the grant.

"In sum," said Wells, "the Granada experiment has proved very costly to the district."

Although Wells's motion Tuesday was for an audit, he said today the district could investigate the grant itself without spending any money. "All of these people (recipients of questionable expenditures) are still around," he said. "Why can't we just ask them why they did all this travel?"

Without investigation, Wells said, nagging questions will remain forever unanswered.

Stanford Will Shut Off Heart Patient Publicity

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University hospital will no longer routinely give out names of patients undergoing heart transplant operations.

Dr. Eugene Dong, a member of the Stanford heart transplant team, said in making the announcement Wednesday that "we no longer feel that our patients' names can be considered public information. They are entitled to as much privacy as other patients."

84.3 Feet Of Snow This Season

PARADISE LODGE, Wash. (UPI)—Snowfall at Mt. Rainier National Park has bettered its own world mark with 84.3 feet recorded so far this season.

The weather station here recorded a three-inch snowfall earlier this week, bringing the season total to 1,014.5 inches.

The old world record at an official weather station was 1,00.3 inches, set at Paradisa in 1955-56.

Cycle Stolen

Someone took his 1970 model motorcycle valued at $950 between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday, from his carport at 575 Canal Street, Apt. 5, Robert D. Torrey reported to police.

The development in the secret negotiations which have been going on since Nov. 17, 1969, appeared to represent a significant concession by Moscow, which previously had insisted that the initial talks be limited to defensive weapons, such as the ABM system.

Nixon's position has been that both offensive and defensive systems should be negotiated simultaneously.

The SALT talks have been marking time in Vienna since Gerard C. Smith, the chief U.S. negotiator, flew to Washington following the last full U.S.Soviet discussions May 7. Smith conferred with Nixon for half an hour Wednesday.

The current round of the SALT talks had been scheduled to end in Vienna the last week of May, followed by a summer recess.

Nixon cautioned that "intensive negotiation" would be necessary to translate the new Moscow- Washington understanding into a concrete agreement.

U.S. officials expressed limited optimism that some form of agreement in the immensely complicated process of curbing nuclear weapons might now be within reach.

The Presient's remark that the understanding resulted from negotiations involving the highest levels of both governments appeared to indicate he had been in contact with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, but White House officials refused to discuss this aspect.

The White House said Smith would fly back to Vienna Friday to resume talks with the Russians.

The President discussed the understanding in an hour long Cabinet meeting this morning and then met with Congressional leaders of both parties.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the news was "very encouraging."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who like Mansfield was among 20 congressmen who attended the White House briefing, called the agreement "a most significant foreign policy understanding" but cautioned: "There is still a long road ahead."

Shopping Center Gains In Novato

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night tentatively approved plans for completion of the Novak Shopping Center, southwest of Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue.

Developer H. L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct a series of buildings to house large and small businesses and a movie theater at the 6.94 acre site.

The committee also continued indefinitely review of plans for 50 townhouse units and two single-family units at the south end of Libra Drive, south of Pleasant Valley Unit 4.

Man Indicted On Murder In Novatan's Death

OAKLAND (UPI) —Grand jurors returned a murder indictment Wednesday against Christopher Cowsar, 21, in the stabbing of an Air Force recruiting sergeant.

Witnesses quoted the Berkeley man as shouting that Mobley must die because he sent men to Vietnam.

Innocent Plea In Checks Case

Ruth Eleanore Trombley, 29, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of fraudulently possessing checks.

A pretrial conference was set for next Wednesday.

Astronaut Lovell Will Head Project

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., who has spent more time in space than any other man, today was named deputy director of the Science and Applications Directorate at the Manned Spacecraft Center (MSC).

Lovell has flown numerous Gemini and Apollo missions and commanded the Apollo 13 flight which aborted when an oxygen tank exploded on the way to the moon.

She moved to San Rafael at the home of a friend, Mrs. Leslie Grant a year and a half ago.

She has no known survivor.

JAMES KREMER

Private funeral has been held in San Rafael for James G. Kremer, 56, of San Anselmo who died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital following a lengthy illness.

A native of Great Falls, Mont., he came to California 20 years ago and lived with his wife Harriet at 45 Rutherford Avenue in San Anselmo the past four years.

He taught mentally retarded children at Francisco Junior High School in San Francisco until two years ago when cancer forced his early retirement. He had taught at the school for 12 years, and held a master's degree in education from Stanford University. He was a member of the Classroom Teachers Union and the Marin Orchid Society.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a stepson, Michael D. Walker, who resides at the family home; two sisters, Mary Jane Lakey and Shirley Gilliespie of Great Falls, Mont., and two brothers, Robb of Detroit and John of Lewiston, Mont.

The ashes will be taken to Great Falls where they will be scattered.

Court Rules In Abortion Question

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has ruled that unmarried women under 21 may obtain therapeutic abortions without parental consent.

The court's 4-3 decision, in the case of a 20-year-old Los Angeles woman, said legal abortions fell under a 1953 law allowing an unmarried minor to consent to "medical surgical care related to her pregnancy."

A dissenting opinion said the therapeutic abortion law was passed 14 years later, and the Legislature did not intend "to confer on girls under the age of 21 the awesome power to extinguish human life."

The ruling meant minor girls can obtain abortions by meeting the same standards applied to other women.

Accident Leads To Felony Count

William Carl Smith, 21, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of felony drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Smith is to plead to the charges June 3.

He was arrested at the home of a friend Saturday after police said he left the scene of an accident at Second and G streets, San Rafael, in which a 17-year-old boy suffered an injured leg.

County Reports Worst Invasion Of Plant-Tree Rust Disease

Central Marin is suffering its worst invasion of the Hawthorn-Juniper Rust since the disease was first discovered in Marin in 1966.

Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard today reminded homeowners, nurseries and landscapers that Tam (Tamariscifolia) Junipers may not be sold, planted or replanted within regulated areas.

The regulated areas extend from Mill Valley and Homestead Valley in the south to Ignacio in the north, and from Fairfax to the Bay.

As of May 10 this year, the season not yet over, 1,139 Tam Junipers have been removed from 88 properties in Mill Valley. More plants will be uprooted in Mill Valley and Corte Madera next week. The worst previous year was in 1968 when 943 junipers were removed from 72 properties. This year's total could double the 1968 figure.

Late spring rains have apparently created ideal weather conditions for the spread of the rust disease, said Assistant Agricultural Commissioner Philip Economon. Heavily infected Tam Junipers and Paul Scarlett Hawthorn trees have been found in Mill Valley and Corte Madera within the past week.

County officials and state pathologists are working together to eradicate the disease, which occurs nowhere else in the Western Hemisphere. Eradication methods include removal of all infected Tam Junipers as well as Tam Juniper plants within a 300-foot radius of such infection sources since these are in the category of being "exposed" to the disease. Hawthorn trees, on the other hand, may be sprayed with a fungicide as a means of breaking the reproductive cycle since they can transmit the disease only while in foliage.

"Apparently, the seriousness of this problem has not reached all interested parties," said Ballard. He has notified nurseries, landscape architects, garden clubs, and city parks and recreation departments departments in writing, describing the disease.

One landscape firm recently planted 100 Tam Juniper Plants in a new housing project in Marinwood by mistake," said Economon. "Since state law prohibits the sale, planting or replanting will be removed and destroyed."

A research pathologist is now working with the Marin Agricultural Commissioner to test several new fungicides which might control the rust disease on Hawthorn trees.

Hospital Directors To Meet Tomorrow

Petaluma Hospital District directors meeting originally scheduled for May 27 will be held instead tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Hillcrest Hospital, according to administrator Joseph Horner.

Junior Theater Sets Signups On Saturday

Signups for both the elementary school and the high school summer workshop programs of the Junior Theater of Marin will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The Teen Theater Unit will produce a dramatic version of Robert Louis Stevenson's classic horror story, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," according to Gregory Norgaard, director.

He said that a large cast will be needed as well as a technical crew, dancers, musicians and students wishing to specialize in costume design, set construction and makeup. The play will be presented at San Rafael High School Aug. 6 and 7.

Youngsters from the first through eighth grade may sign up for the workshop which will produce a three-act play about Pochahontas written and to be directed by Shirley Bonbright of Ross.

The play will feature touches from the Indian culture, including Indian sign language.

Los Angeles Exhibit

An exhibit of oil paintings by Naomi Hardy of Mill Valley will be held at the Julie Dohan Gallery in Los Angeles from Monday to June 25.

Three Youths Selected As Boys State Delegates

Three Marin County youths have been selected for Boys State June 19 through 26 at Cal-Expo in Sacramento, by Wilkins Post, the American Legion of San Rafael.

They will be among the 860 boys from high schools throughout the state to spend the week for a course in practical politics. Two representatives from the state will go on to Boys Nation in Washington D.C.

Those selected from Marin County were: John V. Schalich of Marin Catholic High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schalich of 135 Los Ranchitos Road; David G. Urquhart of San Rafael High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Urquhart of 144 Rollingwood Drive and William Dobbs of Terra Linda High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dobbs of 20 Oak Mountain Court, all San Rafael.

Indian Tribal Dances Scheduled Saturday

Indian tribal dances and rituals will be featured at a daylong Pow-Wow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Redwood High School which has been scheduled for six classes studying Indian history.

Funds raised will be given to a northern California Indian reservation, students said, and in addition to the Indian dances, there will be booths where craftwork will be displayed and sold and organic food, Navajo fry bread and squaw will be sold.

County Reports Worst Invasion Of Plant-Tree Rust Disease

Central Marin is suffering its worst invasion of the Hawthorn-Juniper Rust since the disease was first discovered in Marin in 1966.

Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard today reminded homeowners, nurseries and landscapers that Tam (Tamariscifolia) Junipers may not be sold, planted or replanted within regulated areas.

The regulated areas extend from Mill Valley and Homestead Valley in the south to Ignacio in the north, and from Fairfax to the Bay.

As of May 10 this year, the season not yet over, 1,139 Tam Junipers have been removed from 88 properties in Mill Valley. More plants will be uprooted in Mill Valley and Corte Madera next week. Late spring rains have apparently created ideal weather conditions for the spread of the rust disease, said Assistant Agricultural Commissioner Philip Economon. Heavily infected Tam Junipers and Paul Scarlett Hawthorn trees have been found in Mill Valley and Corte Madera within the past week.

County officials and state pathologists are working together to eradicate the disease, which occurs nowhere else in the Western Hemisphere. Eradication methods include removal of all infected Tam Junipers as well as Tam Juniper plants within a 300-foot radius of such infection sources since these are in the category of being "exposed" to the disease. Hawthorn trees, on the other hand, may be sprayed with a fungicide as a means of breaking the reproductive cycle since they can transmit the disease only while in foliage.

"Apparently, the seriousness of this problem has not reached all interested parties," said Ballard. He has notified nurseries, landscape architects, garden clubs, and city parks and recreation departments departments in writing, describing the disease.

One landscape firm recently planted 100 Tam Juniper Plants in a new housing project in Marinwood by mistake," said Economon. "Since state law prohibits the sale, planting or replanting will be removed and destroyed."

A research pathologist is now working with the Marin Agricultural Commissioner to test several new fungicides which might control the rust disease on Hawthorn trees.

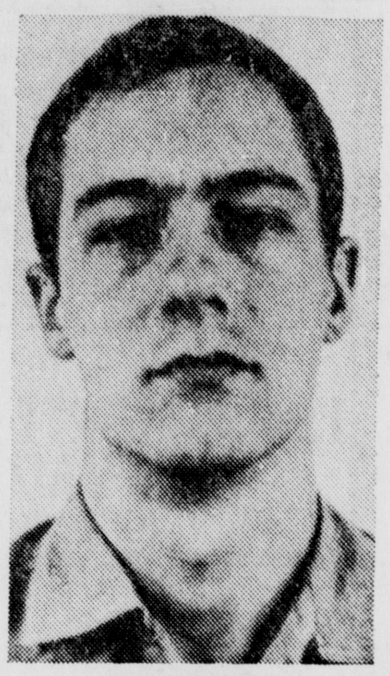
KENNETH CONANT
Soledad official dies



ERIC HILTON
Inmates held . . .

JERRY LUND

Prison Official Killed: 9th Death In 18 Months

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI)—A veteran Soledad State Prison official was stabbed to death Wednesday—the ninth person killed at California's troubled penitentiary in the past 18 months.

Kenneth E. Conant, 49, a program administrator, was stabbed in the back of the head with a prison-made knife and two other officials suffered minor wounds while subduing his inmate attackers.

Four prison employes and five inmates have died in the racially tense prison 115 miles south of San Francisco since January 1970, when a guard killed three black prisoners fighting in the yard A young white guard was killed a few days later.

The slaying of Conant apparently had no connection with the earlier racial incidents as the victim and the two inmates seized after his death were white. Jerry W. Lund, 28, and Eric Hilton, 29, both convicted robbers from Southern California, were held for investigation of murder.

The slaying occurred as a special federal commission was meeting in another part of the prison investigating charges that California Rural Legal Assistance, a federally-financed legal aid group, had fomented violence among inmates. The hearings were indefinitely postponed after Conant's death.

Three out-of-state judges are investigating charges by the Reagan administration against CRLA, including the accusation that its attorneys were involved in the "motivation" of earlier violence at Soledad. The hearings had no apparent link to Wednesday's killing.

Two groups of black convicts — the "Soledad Brothers" and "Soledad Seven" — have been charged with the slayings of two white prison guards in the months following the deaths of the three Negro prisoners.

One of the so-called "brothers," George Jackson, was the brother of a teen-ager who smuggled four guns into Marin County Courthouse last Aug. 7 in an abortive escape and kidnapping attempt which ended with his death and those of two convicts and a judge.

Angela Davis, 27, an avowed Communist and former UCLA professor, was charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy for allegedly supplying young Jonathan Jackson with the weapons.

Conant, of Salinas, Calif., was a non-uniformed employe who directed activities, custody requirement and rehabilitation programs for inmates.

Jury Trial Is Set For Marin Pair

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury trial has been set for July 12 before Judge Walter Calcagno of San Francisco Superior Court for a Marin couple accused of performing sexual acts for an undercover officer.

Michael Marsolais, 29, and his wife, Frenchie, 27, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of conspiracy, oral copulation, soliciting for prostitution and possession of marijuana.

The couple, who live in San Quentin Village, was arrested in a San Francisco motel room March 4 after a policeman took about 300 feet of film and still photographs of the pair allegedly performing sexual acts.

The officer said he was offered sexual relations with Mrs. Marsolais.

The couple, who operate the Karmic Operat at 9 Vivian Way in San Rafael, said, according to police, that they had appeared in virtually every erotic film then running in San Francisco movie theaters.

Scout-O-Rama To Draw 3,000 Boys

Three-thousand Boy Scouts, Cubs and Explorers will demonstrate their skills in the annual Scout-O-Rama which will open at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus, according to Theodore A. Murray, chairman.

The program, which will run until 6:30 p.m., will start with music by the Troop 24 Bagpipe band from Corte Madera under the direction of John Sutherland.

The Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco, 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station, St. Vincent's guitar group and bell ringers from St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in San Rafael will also provide music.

Among the 86 exhibits will be a frog jumping contest put on by Pack 2 of Corte Madera and a narcotics display by Police Science Explorer Post 392 of Novato.

Novato Post 334 will have an exhibition of dune buggies, stock cars modified and maintained by post members. They will also display their motor bikes.

The "Pinewood Derby" will feature racing cars made by 8-and-9-year-old Cub Scouts from Pack 75 of Novato, and visitors may participate in a compass course manned by San Rafael Troop 31.

The San Rafael fire department will set up a fire prevention booth on the tennis courts and will have a large truck available for exploration.

San Anselmo's Post 15, which has been involved in mountain rescue work for the past six years, will demonstrate its members' skills with a 60-foot tower they have erected.

Food and soft drink booths will be manned by the Marin Council commissioners' staff.

Nursery Theft

Seven trees of undetermined value were stolen last Wednesday or Thursday from the Rustic Nursery, 50 Rancho Drive, near Tiburon, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Influx Of Townhouses Brings Ire

The Lynwood Park Improvement Association, perturbed by the number of townhouses being authorized in adjacent areas, will renew its opposition to any further multiple or townhouse units nearby.

Association members agreed Tuesday night to seek more equitable distribution of townhouses and apartments in Novato, according to Secretary Sharon Colosi.

There are more than 1,500 townhouses planned for the south Novato area, Mrs. Colosi said. "We want some single-family homes."

Western Hosts Inc. is constructing townhouses adjacent to Lynwood Park, and to the South, McKeon Construction Co. plans to build more than 500 townhouses and condiminiums.

The association also took under consideration formation of a garden club, which could perhaps undertake street planting, Mrs. Colosi said.

Health Program Talk Is Tonight

The San Anselmo School District's proposed health education program will be explained to parents tonight at 8 o'clock at Isabel Cook School.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday by running a day early the announcement, written for today's paper, thus incorrectly stating the meeting would be held last night.

The new program also is slated for presentation Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Sleepy Hollow School and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Wade Thomas School.

Etna's Lava River Destroys Farmhouse

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI)—Molten lava from Mount Etna destroyed a farmhouse and swept over a vineyard today while black gases spumed skyward from a huge fissure near the erupting mountain's main crater.

Five villages were threatened by the lava flow and most residents were prepared to leave their modest homes if necessary.

NO OPEN BURNING IN BOLINAS

Bolinas Fire Chief Jose A. Silva today stated that yesterday's Independent-Journal report of stringent fire regulations in the Bolinas area contained an erroneous implication that open burning would be permitted until June 1.

The story said open burning would be prohibited during the fire season and the chief noted that such burning is prohibited the year around and that no open burning is allowed at any time.

The chief also reminded Bolinas residents they will need permits from the fire department to operate outdoor barbecues after June 1.

Demolition Of Safeway Wins Informal Nod

Plans for demolition of Mill Valley's Safeway Market and an adjacent medical building and service station and their replacement with a small shopping center have received informal approval from the city's architectural advisory committee.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the work is being held up, however, until the City of Mill Valley and the Army Corps of Engineers decide whether a flood control project will be built in Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio, which bisects the property.

Safeway representatives gave no estimate Tuesday of when the new food market, drugstore and service station that will replace the present buildings will be started.

Watches Taken From Firm

Watches valued at about $250 were stolen yesterday from a showcase at Rossi Pharmacy in San Anselmo, police said today.

Officers said the theft of 10 watches took place as employees were busy in other parts of the store.

A witness told police she observed a sandy-haired youth about 17 years of age run from the store clutching small boxes at about 5:40 p.m.

11th Business Firm Hit By Vandalism

The number of businesses vandalized recently in an outbreak of window smashing, apparently related to a printers' strike against the Independent-Journal, reached a total of 11 with the release yesterday of a belated report by San Rafael police.

A plate glass window, 64 square feet in size, was smashed at Rossi Motors Inc. at 595 Francisco Boulevard. A bullet fired through the window sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning traveled across the showroom and broke a glass Mercedes emblem. Owner Roland Bacci said he felt it was connected with the 16-month-old strike of San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J.

Rossi Motors was one of four I-J advertisers hit Monday night or early Tuesday morning in what appeared to be the latest reoccurrence of a wave of vandalism characterizing the strike from its inception. Seven other advertisers were hit last Thursday.

Leon Olson, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, several of whose members are in jail on confession of window breaking, said he had not even heard of the latest incidents.

"I have no reason to think that it would start now because there has not been anything like that for several months now," Olson said.

Poll Backs Resignation Of Hoover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Poll reported today that by a small majority, the state's residents feel that the time has come for J. Edgar Hoover to retire as chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said the margin was 51-45 in support of the 76-year-old Hoover's resigning with 4 per cent having no opinion.

The poll also checked into what Californians felt limits should be on the powers of the FBI and other investigative agencies.

The public approved by the overwhelming margin of 78 to 19 per cent the FBI's right to keep files of information about political radicals and dissenters. But Californians disapproved by a margin of 59-39 per cent the FBI's having access to confidential records of citizens from income tax files, Social Security files, and bank records.

Innocent Pleas To Grand Theft

Scott Alan Laurie, 22, of Mill Valley, and August Cadwell Belden, 21, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of grand theft.

The pair was arrested May 9 by Sausalito police who said they discovered the men stealing hatch covers from a storage yard behind Zack's Restaurant on Bridgeway.

Ex-Convict Bound Over On Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — William F. Hardke, 31-year-old San Anselmo ex-convict has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court on four felony charges stemming from a shoot-out following a bar hold-up.

He is to be arraigned June 7 before Judge Walter Calcagno.

Hardke was arrested April 15 after he allegedly attempted to shoot at two pursuing policeman and his pistol jammed.

The officers said they had heard gunfire outside a bar about 1 a.m. The bartender and patrons told the officers they had been held up and $200 taken by a bandit who fired two shots as he left.

Hardke was cornered shortly afterward in a dead-end street where he was wounded in the arm by the officers who said they fired three shots at him when he allegedly tried to shoot them.

He is charged with armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, assault on officers and being an ex-convict who possessed a firearm.

Junior Theater Sets Signups On Saturday

Signups for both the elementary school and the high school summer workshop programs of the Junior Theater of Marin will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The Teen Theater Unit will produce a dramatic version of Robert Louis Stevenson's classic horror story, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," according to Gregory Norgaard, director.

He said that a large cast will be needed as well as a technical crew, dancers, musicians and students wishing to specialize in costume design, set construction and makeup. The play will be presented at San Rafael High School Aug. 6 and 7.

Youngsters from the first through eighth grade may sign up for the workshop which will produce a three-act play about Pochahontas written and to be directed by Shirley Bonbright of Ross.

The play will feature touches from the Indian culture, including Indian sign language.

Los Angeles Exhibit

An exhibit of oil paintings by Naomi Hardy of Mill Valley will be held at the Julie Dohan Gallery in Los Angeles from Monday to June 25.

Three Youths Selected As Boys State Delegates

Three Marin County youths have been selected for Boys State June 19 through 26 at Cal-Expo in Sacramento, by Wilkins Post, the American Legion of San Rafael.

They will be among the 860 boys from high schools throughout the state to spend the week for a course in practical politics. Two representatives from the state will go on to Boys Nation in Washington D.C.

Those selected from Marin County were: John V. Schalich of Marin Catholic High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schalich of 135 Los Ranchitos Road; David G. Urquhart of San Rafael High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Urquhart of 144 Rollingwood Drive and William Dobbs of Terra Linda High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dobbs of 20 Oak Mountain Court, all San Rafael.

Indian Tribal Dances Scheduled Saturday

Indian tribal dances and rituals will be featured at a day-long Pow-Wow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Redwood High School which has been scheduled for six classes studying Indian history.

Funds raised will be given to a northern California Indian reservation, students said, and in addition to the Indian dances, there will be booths where craftwork will be displayed and sold and organic food, Navajo fry bread and squaw will be sold.

PILOTS OWN PLANE

Though Jim Dwyer of Cincinnati can't walk, he can fly an airplane. Crippled by polio since he was 4 years old, Dwyer, now 24, overcame many difficulties to earn his solo license yesterday. He demonstrates how he slides from the wing of the plane into his waiting wheelchair which he must use to get around. The plane has a special rudder-pedal attachment that permits him to use his hands entirely when flying.

Car Jumps Curb, Rolls 133 Feet

A runaway car, carrying with it a passenger honking on the horn to warn others, rolled 133 feet down a steep grade yesterday on Clark Street in San Rafael, according to police.

The passenger, wife of Allan D. Brodnax of 18 Blossom Drive, San Rafael, owner of the Peugot sedan, was alone in the car when it jumped the curb and broke a mailbox post in front of the Carla Merla residence at 14 Clark Street.

The car crossed the street and jumped the curb on the opposite side, crossing the lawn of Lincoln Borba at 25 Clark Street, coming to rest against a fire hydrant at Clark and Greenwood Streets, police reported.

Mrs. Brodnax was not injured. No other details of the accident were available.

Hearing Set In Drug Sale Case

A 23-year-old Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a warrant charging him with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent.

Dennis Phillip Tsigelatos, of 721 Alice Street, was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest by Marin drug agents, and he posted $3,175 bail to return to court June 3 to enter a plea.

He is accused of selling $325 worth of pot to an agent March 26 and $20 worth of the drug to an agent March 29.

No eetails of his arrest were available today.

Two Are Bound Over In Marijuana Case

Daniel J. Miller, 25, and Thomas W. Villas, 24, both of Sausalito, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

They are to be arraigned in superior court Monday.

The pair was arrested May 2 when Sausalito police visited their apartment after a complaint from neighbors of loud music.

Police said they found 15 marijuana plants growing in the apartment.

A third roommate, Michael G. Edmond, 23, turned himself in to authorities later on a warrant, but charges against him were dismissed Tuesday when the district attorney's office reported investigation had determined he was innocent of the charges.

Fairfax To Reply To Oak Manor's Emergency Calls

Fairfax Fire Chief Charles M. Thornton said yesterday his department will continue to answer resuscitator calls in Oak Manor, despite a decision Monday by the Fairfax City Council to stop giving emergency service to Oak Manor.

Police Chief James R. Orr said police will respond "in life or death matters."

The city council voted 3-2 Monday to instruct police and fire departments to cease answering Oak Manor calls.

The council also voted 4-1 against proceeding with moves toward annexing the area.

Officers of the Oak Manor Homes Association have said they have no desire to annex to Fairfax.

Psychiatric Exam Ordered By Judge

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. asked the report on William R. Baxman, 20, be presented on June 2. Baxman, accused of possession of stolen property and dangerous drugs, was arrested April 25 while hiding in bushes on Keokuk Street, Petaluma, with items taken from an auto that was parked nearby.

Food Conspiracy Outlets Revealed

The Marin Food Conspiracy, described as a cooperative buying effort to get food at lowest possible prices through bulk purchase, is now in operation.

Announcement of the food project was made yesterday by Donna Huckins, a supervisor in the department of public social services and consultant to the family and children's services advisory committee.

Mrs. Huckins said that a young woman, speaking for the food conspiracy, appeared before the advisory committee Tuesday night and asked for volunteers to work for the project. The spokesman, according to Mrs. Huckins, said she did not want her name revealed to the press.

Mrs. Huckins said the food conspiracy now has the following seven neighborhood centers where orders are taken and food distributed:

Those who want to participate in bulk purchase should go to these neighborhood centers on Wednesdays between 3 and 7 p.m. to put in their orders. The orders may be picked up the following Wednesday between 3 and 7 p.m.

Mrs. Huckins gave these examples of low prices available through bulk purchase: honey wheat berry bread 39 cents a loaf, tomatoes 19 cents a pound, large AA eggs 40 cents a dozen, raw and homogenized milk 49 cents a half gallon.

Mrs. Huckins said this is how the system works:

Tuesdays are buying days. Members of the food conspiracy leave early in the morning for farms, dairies and wholesale food outlets. They return about noon with fresh fruits, vegetables, eggs, meats, cheeses, and grains which are put in a central warehouse at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. Individual orders are boxed at the central warehouse and distributed to the neighborhood centers on Wednesday afternoon.

Those who order food will not always get every item ordered because all food must be purchased in bulk. If there are not enough orders for a particular item, that item cannot be bought, said Mrs. Huckins.

She announced that many more volunteers are need to operate the food conspiracy. Jobs include separating food, compiling food lists, making food runs, building shelves, truck driving and telephoning. Equipment such as camping coolers, food scales, cartons boxes and bags are needed.

Mrs. Huckins said meat and milk cannot be carried in centers where proper refrigeration is not available. She did not know which centers are equipped with refrigeration.

"To the best of my knowledge, all facilities meet all health standards and have whatever permits are needed by the county or the cities involved," she declared.

A flyer circulated by the food conspiracy gives this information about its aims:

"The food conspiracy provides us with an opportunity to support, through our spending, farmers and farmworkers — the people who really produce. So often the cheapest prices are offered by corporation-owned markets determined not to handle produce picked by union farm workers.

"Now we can escape the vicious proposition of either buying from these corporations' antiunion policies or watching the price of our food climb still higher. The Marin Food Conspiracy supports through its buying power, the progressive struggles of all workers involved in the food industry and will donate perishable surplus to families whose providers are on strike."

Street Artists Win A 'Corner' From Alioto

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A corner of Civic Center Plaza across from City Hall was ordered set aside Wednesday for an "artist's corner" by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The mayor took the action in hopes of placating a group of "street artists" who have been arrested in recent weeks while trying to sell their wares without a permit.

Alioto said all of the city's street artists would have free access to a corner of the open, tree-studded plaza on weekends to exhibit and sell their art work.

"The artists of the great cities of the world have long enjoyed places where they regularly exhibit their work before the public," said the mayor. "There is no reason why San Francisco with is own rich cultural tradition should not provide its own artists with a comparable setting."

21-Year-Old Arraigned On Drugs

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, who was arrested after he allegedly phoned a bomb threat to the San Anselmo police station, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

No charge was filed in connection with the bomb threat pending further investigation, the district attorney's office reported.

Woods pleaded innocent to the two misdemeanors and a pretrial conference was set for June 16.

He was arrested May 3 after a male caller told the San Anselmo police dispatcher: "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Woods's residence, and when police entered they found a suspected marijuana cigarette fitted in a hose attached to a World War II gas mask, police said.

Police said after Woods's arrest that he said he did not make the phone call, but that it was made by another man whom he did not know.

Some archeologists hold to the theory that Nazareth was a town at least 1,000 years before Christ's time.

Last 2 Arraigned In Draft Protest Case

The last two of 33 persons arrested in a San Rafael draft protest May 5, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, and jury trials were set for five others.

Arraigned on charges of failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place were Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, of Mill Valley and Robert Alan Le Blanc, 23, of San Rafael.

Miss Kallins, Le Blanc and 24 other demonstrators facing the same charges are to return to court next Thursday to enter pleas.

Two more of the group — Richard Alan Raznikov, 24, of San Rafael, and Thomas Louis Oleari, 22, of Fairfax — are to plead to the charges today.

The five who have pleaded innocent and who are to stand trial June 10 are: Bryan Thomas Geddy, 23, of Fairfax; William Gaston Begelow, 19, of Tiburon; Lillian Lee Cunningham, 19, and Gary Mathew Bjork, 18, both of San Rafael, and Mary Blair Willard, 22, of Kentfield.

The 33, as well as four others who were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, were arrested at a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U. S. Selective Service.

Comedienne To Appear At Benefit

Comedienne Totie Fields will appear June 4 in San Francisco in a benefit for the building fund of the Greek Orthodox Church of Marin County.

The benefit will be at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant on Columbus Avenue. A no-host cocktail party will begin at 6 p.m.

Donations for the evening, including dinner, will be $25. Tickets may be purchased through the Downtown Center Box Office in San Francisco.

Prison Official Killed: 9th Death In 18 Months

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI)—A veteran Soledad State Prison official was stabbed to death Wednesday—the ninth person killed at California's troubled penitentiary in the past 18 months.

Kenneth E. Conant, 49, a program administrator, was stabbed in the back of the head with a prison-made knife and two other officials suffered minor wounds while subduing his inmate attackers.

Four prison employes and five inmates have died in the racially tense prison 115 miles south of San Francisco since January 1970, when a guard killed three black prisoners fighting in the yard A young white guard was killed a few days later.

The slaying of Conant apparently had no connection with the earlier racial incidents as the victim and the two inmates seized after his death were white. Jerry W. Lund, 28, and Eric Hilton, 29, both convicted robbers from Southern California, were held for investigation of murder.

The slaying occurred as a special federal commission was meeting in another part of the prison investigating charges that California Rural Legal Assistance, a federally-financed legal aid group, had fomented violence among inmates. The hearings were indefinitely postponed after Conant's death.

Three out-of-state judges are investigating charges by the Reagan administration against CRLA, including the accusation that its attorneys were involved in the "motivation" of earlier violence at Soledad. The hearings had no apparent link to Wednesday's killing.

Two groups of black convicts — the "Soledad Brothers" and "Soledad Seven" — have been charged with the slayings of two white prison guards in the months following the deaths of the three Negro prisoners.

One of the so-called "brothers," George Jackson, was the brother of a teen-ager who smuggled four guns into Marin County Courthouse last Aug. 7 in an abortive escape and kidnapping attempt which ended with his death and those of two convicts and a judge.

Angela Davis, 27, an avowed Communist and former UCLA professor, was charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy for allegedly supplying young Jonathan Jackson with the weapons.

Conant, of Salinas, Calif., was a non-uniformed employe who directed activities, custody requirement and rehabilitation programs for inmates.

Jury Trial Is Set For Marin Pair

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury trial has been set for July 12 before Judge Walter Calcagno of San Francisco Superior Court for a Marin couple accused of performing sexual acts for an undercover officer.

Michael Marsolais, 29, and his wife, Frenchie, 27, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of conspiracy, oral copulation, soliciting for prostitution and possession of marijuana.

The couple, who live in San Quentin Village, was arrested in a San Francisco motel room March 4 after a policeman took about 300 feet of film and still photographs of the pair allegedly performing sexual acts.

The officer said he was offered sexual relations with Mrs. Marsolais.

The couple, who operate the Karmic Operat at 9 Vivian Way in San Rafael, said, according to police, that they had appeared in virtually every erotic film then running in San Francisco movie theaters.

Scout-O-Rama To Draw 3,000 Boys

Three-thousand Boy Scouts, Cubs and Explorers will demonstrate their skills in the annual Scout-O-Rama which will open at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus, according to Theodore A. Murray, chairman.

The program, which will run until 6:30 p.m., will start with music by the Troop 24 Bagpipe band from Corte Madera under the direction of John Sutherland.

The Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco, 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station, St. Vincent's guitar group and bell ringers from St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in San Rafael will also provide music.

Among the 86 exhibits will be a frog jumping contest put on by Pack 2 of Corte Madera and a narcotics display by Police Science Explorer Post 392 of Novato.

Novato Post 334 will have an exhibition of dune buggies, stock cars modified and maintained by post members. They will also display their motor bikes.

The "Pinewood Derby" will feature racing cars made by 8-and-9-year-old Cub Scouts from Pack 75 of Novato, and visitors may participate in a compass course manned by San Rafael Troop 31.

The San Rafael fire department will set up a fire prevention booth on the tennis courts and will have a large truck available for exploration.

San Anselmo's Post 15, which has been involved in mountain rescue work for the past six years, will demonstrate its members' skills with a 60-foot tower they have erected.

Food and soft drink booths will be manned by the Marin Council commissioners' staff.

Nursery Theft

Seven trees of undetermined value were stolen last Wednesday or Thursday from the Rustic Nursery, 50 Rancho Drive, near Tiburon, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Influx Of Townhouses Brings Ire

The Lynwood Park Improvement Association, perturbed by the number of townhouses being authorized in adjacent areas, will renew its opposition to any further multiple or townhouse units nearby.

Association members agreed Tuesday night to seek more equitable distribution of townhouses and apartments in Novato, according to Secretary Sharon Colosi.

There are more than 1,500 townhouses planned for the south Novato area, Mrs. Colosi said. "We want some single-family homes."

Western Hosts Inc. is constructing townhouses adjacent to Lynwood Park, and to the South, McKeon Construction Co. plans to build more than 500 townhouses and condiminiums.

The association also took under consideration formation of a garden club, which could perhaps undertake street planting, Mrs. Colosi said.

Health Program Talk Is Tonight

The San Anselmo School District's proposed health education program will be explained to parents tonight at 8 o'clock at Isabel Cook School.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday by running a day early the announcement, written for today's paper, thus incorrectly stating the meeting would be held last night.

The new program also is slated for presentation Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Sleepy Hollow School and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Wade Thomas School.

Etna's Lava River Destroys Farmhouse

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI)—Molten lava from Mount Etna destroyed a farmhouse and swept over a vineyard today while black gases spumed skyward from a huge fissure near the erupting mountain's main crater.

Five villages were threatened by the lava flow and most residents were prepared to leave their modest homes if necessary.

NO OPEN BURNING IN BOLINAS

Bolinas Fire Chief Jose A. Silva today stated that yesterday's Independent-Journal report of stringent fire regulations in the Bolinas area contained an erroneous implication that open burning would be permitted until June 1.

The story said open burning would be prohibited during the fire season and the chief noted that such burning is prohibited the year around and that no open burning is allowed at any time.

The chief also reminded Bolinas residents they will need permits from the fire department to operate outdoor barbecues after June 1.

Demolition Of Safeway Wins Informal Nod

Plans for demolition of Mill Valley's Safeway Market and an adjacent medical building and service station and their replacement with a small shopping center have received informal approval from the city's architectural advisory committee.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the work is being held up, however, until the City of Mill Valley and the Army Corps of Engineers decide whether a flood control project will be built in Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio, which bisects the property.

Safeway representatives gave no estimate Tuesday of when the new food market, drugstore and service station that will replace the present buildings will be started.

Watches Taken From Firm

Watches valued at about $250 were stolen yesterday from a showcase at Rossi Pharmacy in San Anselmo, police said today.

Officers said the theft of 10 watches took place as employees were busy in other parts of the store.

A witness told police she observed a sandy-haired youth about 17 years of age run from the store clutching small boxes at about 5:40 p.m.

11th Business Firm Hit By Vandalism

The number of businesses vandalized recently in an outbreak of window smashing, apparently related to a printers' strike against the Independent-Journal, reached a total of 11 with the release yesterday of a belated report by San Rafael police.

A plate glass window, 64 square feet in size, was smashed at Rossi Motors Inc. at 595 Francisco Boulevard. A bullet fired through the window sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning traveled across the showroom and broke a glass Mercedes emblem. Owner Roland Bacci said he felt it was connected with the 16-month-old strike of San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J.

Rossi Motors was one of four I-J advertisers hit Monday night or early Tuesday morning in what appeared to be the latest reoccurrence of a wave of vandalism characterizing the strike from its inception. Seven other advertisers were hit last Thursday.

Leon Olson, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, several of whose members are in jail on confession of window breaking, said he had not even heard of the latest incidents.

"I have no reason to think that it would start now because there has not been anything like that for several months now," Olson said.

Poll Backs Resignation Of Hoover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Poll reported today that by a small majority, the state's residents feel that the time has come for J. Edgar Hoover to retire as chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said the margin was 51-45 in support of the 76-year-old Hoover's resigning with 4 per cent having no opinion.

The poll also checked into what Californians felt limits should be on the powers of the FBI and other investigative agencies.

The public approved by the overwhelming margin of 78 to 19 per cent the FBI's right to keep files of information about political radicals and dissenters. But Californians disapproved by a margin of 59-39 per cent the FBI's having access to confidential records of citizens from income tax files, Social Security files, and bank records.

Innocent Pleas To Grand Theft

Scott Alan Laurie, 22, of Mill Valley, and August Cadwell Belden, 21, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of grand theft.

The pair was arrested May 9 by Sausalito police who said they discovered the men stealing hatch covers from a storage yard behind Zack's Restaurant on Bridgeway.

Ex-Convict Bound Over On Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — William F. Hardke, 31-year-old San Anselmo ex-convict has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court on four felony charges stemming from a shoot-out following a bar hold-up.

He is to be arraigned June 7 before Judge Walter Calcagno.

Hardke was arrested April 15 after he allegedly attempted to shoot at two pursuing policeman and his pistol jammed.

The officers said they had heard gunfire outside a bar about 1 a.m. The bartender and patrons told the officers they had been held up and $200 taken by a bandit who fired two shots as he left.

Hardke was cornered shortly afterward in a dead-end street where he was wounded in the arm by the officers who said they fired three shots at him when he allegedly tried to shoot them.

He is charged with armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, assault on officers and being an ex-convict who possessed a firearm.

Outstanding Senior Citizen Award To Be Given

The Outstanding Senior Citizen Award will be given next Wednesday to a senior citizen who has done the most for his organization or community.

Eighteen persons have been nominated for the title of Marin's Outstanding Senior Citizen of the Year and the winning candidate will be announced at an awards luncheon next Wednesday at Holiday Inn.

Those nominated were: William Schofield of San Rafael, Raymond J. Palmer of Greenbrae, Julia Walsh of Kentfield, Dr. Charles C. B. Musante of San Rafael, Ruth Murray Jones of San Rafael, Edith I. Foran of San Anselmo. Stephania Jasinski of Fairfax, Katharine Meysembourg of Fairfax, Pearl M. Dutra of Mill Valley, Aaron Garnet Miller of San Rafael, Florence Benedict of San Rafael, Mabel Kegg of San Rafael, Alberta Dodds of San Rafael, Lillie J. Givens of Marin City, Betty Cannon of San Rafael, Marguerite Johnson of Novato, Adelbert Von Rotz of San Anselmo and Arthur E. Ojeda of San Rafael.

The candidates were selected from various groups throughout the county, said Edward T. Ryken, executive director of Marin Senior Coordinating Council. Candidates are chosen by formal election or by the executive boards, Ryken said.

The winner will receive a gold plaque and have his name placed on a perpetual plaque at the library in the Civic Center.

All of the nominees will receive a framed scroll giving a summary of their service to the community.

For the past two years the judges have not been able to select one winner, but have split the award between two persons.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, mayors of the Marin's cities and other dignitaries have been invited to the luncheon, Ryken said.

RUTH MURRAY JONES
Poet wins nomination

RUTH MURRAY JONES

The shores of Bodega Bay where she was born 75 years ago, the desert of Nevada and the beauty of Marin County inspired Ruth Murray Jones to become a poet. She has had poetry published throughout the world and won several prizes for it.

In the four high schools she attended in California and Nevada she learned the love of literature. She graduated from the University of Nevada with a bachelor's degree in English.

She was one of the founding group of the Marin Branch, of the American Association of University Women and has served terms as all of its officers including president. Last year she was awarded a life membership in the organization, which nominated her for the senior citizen award.

Within the framework of the university women, she started the Creative Writing Workshop.

She has lived in San Rafael since 1924. She and her late husband, Victor, lost their son, Deane, during World War II. Writing became her emotional outlet for the loss of her son.

Her writing led her into many fields, such as history, nature study, conservation and art. She belongs to numerous organization in those fields.

Mrs. Jones of 1340 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, has two children, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE
San Rafael's nominee

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE

The nominee of the Goldenaires for the Senior Citizen award refuses to quit work or give up any of his hobbies, even at the age of 85.

Dr. Charles C. B. Mustante of 219 Center Street, San Rafael, still practices dentistry several days a week at his office in the Albert Building.

He works in his vegetable and flower garden, does woodworking and takes time out to fish. He is an accomplished pianist. He played in the Marin Symphony until 1966. He plays for the Neighbors of Woodcraft and the Goldenaires, a senior citizens club sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department. He also played in the Bohemian Club orchestra for many years.

Dr. Musante was born in San Francisco and graduated from St. Ignatius High school and the University of California School of Dentistry where he taught for 13 years.

It was his woodworking skill that brought him the nomination. He has made many pieces of furniture and other "safety aids" for the recreation center.

JULIA WALSH

In spite of her 71 years, Julia Walsh is always willing to help other senior citizens. She takes them to doctors, hospitals and shopping.

Her good nature always comes through as she cheerfully does things to help others.

She was born in Ireland and came to San Francisco as a girl. She lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County 10 years ago.

Mrs. Walsh of 920 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, is a member of St. Sebastian Church in Kentfield, Women's Auxiliary of Barracks 550. World War I, Terra Linda Seniors, Marin Senior Association and the American Association of Retired People.

She was nominated by Fairfax Senior Association.

MABEL KEGG
Choice of hospital

MABEL KEGG

Her interest in everyone in the hospital and attempts to help other patients won the nomination for outstanding senior citizen for Mable Kegg from the Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

She is active in the craft program group discussions and community singing at the hospital.

She comes by the latter quite naturally. For three years she was one of a pair of ''Polk Bonnet Sisters'' singing program on radio station KPO.

Mrs. Kegg 92, was born in Oakland and later married George Kegg, an artist with the San Francisco Examiner. They spent much of their time in Carmel where they were active in theater groups and light opera. Mrs. Kegg lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County four years ago.

KATHERINE MEYSEMBOURG
St. Rita's selection

KATHARINE MEYSEMBOURG

After a life of hard work, Katharine Meysembourg, cannot stop, so continues doing things for others.

She makes lap robes for convalescents and sews for all the festivals and Christmas boutiques of St. Rita's Senior Club which nominated her for the outstanding senior citizen.

Mrs. Meysembourg was born 82 years ago in Illinois. She married Nicholas Meysenberg and the couple farmed for many years. He went into the livestock trucking business. Then 30 years ago they moved to California where he was a carpenter until he retired. They have been married 55 years and have seven children.

Mrs. Meysembourg of 66 Willow Avenue, Fairfax, is modest about her work, but never refuses to do her part.

ALBERTA DODDS
Retired employees choice

ALBERTA DODDS

More than 30 years of service to the community has won the nomination for outstanding citizen for Alberta Dodds from the National Association of Retired Federal Employees. She is a charter member of its Chapter 400 here.

She was born near Colorado Springs, Colo., and came to California as a young girl with her family. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Dodds, 67, worked for the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau until she was married. When her husband James was transfered from superintendent of the Air Corps Shops at Crissy Field to Hamilton Air Force Base, the couple moved to Marin County. That was 35 years ago during World War II.

She also uses her talents in Chapter 215 Eastern Star, Tamalpais Temple No. 129 of Pythian Sisters, San Rafael Goldenaires. She is chairman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church blood donor drive and a director of the San Rafael Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

For all of her activity, Mrs. Dodds says that she receives much more from these organizations than she gives.

AARON G. MILLER
Gay 70s nominee

AARON GARNET MILLER

Rev. Aaron Garnet Miller was born in Nazareth, Pa.

He graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo 41 years ago. He also attended the University of California in Berkeley.

His first pastorate was in Lakeview, Ore. From there he went to Garberville and then back to Sausalito where he was minister of the Presbyterian Church there for 10 years. He was minister of the Santa Veneita Presbyterian Church for nine years before retiring in 1969.

One cannot say that he has retired because he still works for the community and has a smile for all those he meets on the street.

He started the Gay 70s Club, sponsored by the Gallinas Village Community Serivces District, which nominated him for the award.

Reverend Miller, 66, of 849 Descanson Way, San Rafael, organized the Protestant Chaplains Association and the Marin County Council of Churches. He joined the Rotary Club in Garberville and carried his membership with him to Sausalito. He is stated clerk of the Presbytry of the Redwoods which goes from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border.

ARTHUR E. OJEDA

Ojeda collected the films during more than 40 years of travel in 46 countries for Standard Oil of California. He was a member of the oil company's executive staff and his travels have taken him all around the world.

He has lived and traveled in the British Isles, Scandinavia, the Soviet Union, New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania and Indonesia.

He was born 66 years ago, Bisbee, Ariz. He graduated from the University of Arizona. While working for Standard Oil during world War II, he was loaned to the State Department and served two years in the United States embassies in Spain and Portugal as a petroleum attache.

BETTY CANNON
Venetia Oaks choice

BETTY CANNON

Retirement after working as a dental nurse for 20 years at Hamilton Air Force Base, did not mean retirement for Betty Cannon.

She has kept herself busy doing volunteer work for the Red Cross, Cancer Society and her church. She had been in the Women Air Corps for three years prior to going to work at Hamilton.

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD
Funsters nominee

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD

The fortitude and determination with which William Schofield overcame a stroke he had a year ago and his cheerfulness during it, brought him the Marinwood "Funsters" nomination for the senior citizen award.

The stroke paralyzed his right side, but he worked to overcome it. He now is able to walk again in the park in Marinwood and can drive his car.

Schofield, 79, of 27 Millstone Terrace, San Rafael, was born in Rutherford, N.J., but lived most of his life in Orange, N.J.

He was a member of the New York Stock Exchange for 28 years and a member of the Buttonwood Club, a club of members of the New York Stock Exchange who have been on it for 25 years or more.

He served in the Cavalry during World War I and was in the New Jersey National Guard for more than 10 years. He and his wife, Natalie, moved to Marin County two years ago.

ADELBERT VON ROTZ
San Anselmo civic leader

ADELBERT VON ROTZ

Adelbert Von Rotz was founder and past president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce. So that organization nominated him for the Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Born and reared in Switzerland, he learned the art of cabinet making there. He decided if he wanted to make any money he would have to come to the United States.

He came here in 1920 and since that time used his skill in constructing more than 1,000 homes in San Anselmo, Fairfax, San Rafael and Santa Venetia. He has also constructed shopping centers.

He became interested in politics and was elected to the San Anselmo City council in 1942. He served two years as mayor. He served as member and for five years as chairman of the Marin County Palnning Commission.

He has been president of the San Anselmo Lions Club, a director of the Marin County Development Association and Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association. He was one of the founders of the latter association.

Von Rotz, 73, of 1 Alpine Terrace, San Anselmo, was a founder and past president of the Marin County Contractors Association. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Marin County Property Owners Association and a director and former vice president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council in Marin County.

FLORENCE BENEDICT
Goldenaires nominee

FLORENCE BENEDICT

Florence Benedict's leadership in many senior citizens organizations and her philanthropic work in Marin County won her nomination for outstanding senior citizen from the San Rafael Goldenaires.

Mrs. Benedict, 74, was born in New York City and lived most of her life in Floral Park, Long Island, N.Y. She was active there in the Parent-Teacher Association, the Methodist Church and Eastern Star.

She came to Marin County in 1964. Since then she has been recording secretary, vice president and president of the Marin Senior Citizen Association; recording secretary for the Goldennaires and a member of Marin Federated Republican Women. She has been active in all sewing projects for the Goldennaires' Needlework Guild of America.

EDITH I. FORAN

When a senior citizen center was first opened in Marin County 17 years ago, Edith I. Foran was appointed to be its first hostess.

She later served as chairman of hostesses until the center at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, closed.

She was the first woman president of the Marin Senior Association Inc. serving two terms. She had been secretary to the organization prior to that.

Mrs. Foran, 83, is still active in the Marin Senior Association which nominated her for the Outstanding Senior Citizen Award this year.

She was born in Manistee, Mich. She married Bryce I. Foran, an attorney of Louisville, Ky. After his death in 1942, she became a librarian for Washington State University at Pullman, Wash.

Mrs. Foran is also a member of the Goldenaires, American Association of University Women and San Rafael Improvement Club.

LILLIE J. GIVENS
Marin City nominee

LILLIE J. GIVENS

More than a quarter century of service to the people of Marin City brought Lillie J. Givens her nomination to the outstanding senior citizen award from the Marin City Seniors.

In her 27 years in Marin City, Mrs. Givens, 69, a native of Louisiana, has worked for the betterment of that community. At the present time, she is president of the Marin City Seniors.

She did all this work in addition to rearing six children; and helping with eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

MARGUERITE JOHNSON
Club picks worker

MARGUERITE JOHNSON

Marguerite Johnson took charge of the kitchen for the luncheons and dinners held by the Novato Senior Citizens in the Novato Community House. After two years of this work, the club elected her treasurer to handle the finances of the organization which now has more than 300 members.

The club calls on her for many other jobs, which she performs uncomplainingly.

Mrs. Johnson, 65, of 823 Las Palmas Avenue, Novato, was born in Kansas, but spent most of her life in Grand Junction, Colo.

On her husband's retirement, they moved to Florida but five years ago, they moved to Novato to be near their only daughter and family. They joined the Novato Senior Citizens Inc. the same year.

RAYMOND J. PALMER
Former teacher chosen

RAYMOND J. PALMER

Palmer Hall, the science building at Tamalpais High School, was named for Raymond J. Palmer who retired in 1959 after 32 years of teaching science at the school.

Palmer, 77, was born in Ohio and graduated from Whitter College in Whittier, Calif. When he started teaching at Tamalpais High School in 1927, he was also assigned to be varsity football coach. He took pride in his athletes who made good in college or professional ball.

However, his greatest contributions were in teaching chemistry and bacteriology. He was one of the pioneers in teaching bacteriology in high school.

He was always interested in conservation and is still active in this field. He is a member of the Audubon Society and Conservation League.

Palmer is also a member of the board of directors of American Field Service and Sons in Retirement. He is vice president of the Retired Marin County Teachers Association.

PEARL M. DUTRA
Mill Valley's choice

PEARL M. DUTRA

Her friendly smile and willingness to be helpful and to work for organizations has won the nomination for Outstanding Senior Citizens Award for Pearl M. Dutra.

Mrs. Dutra lives with her daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Gilmore at 60 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley.

She was born in San Jose and is a third generation Santa Claran. Her father and grandfather had been ranchers in Gilroy. Her parents moved to San Francisco just before the 1906 earthquake. After that they moved to Millbrae. She lived there with her husband John W. Dutra who died in 1963. She moved to Mill Valley three years ago.

She is active in The American Association of Retired People, Naive Daughters of the Golden West, Goldenaires and Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church Women's Club. She was instrumental in starting the senior citizens program in Mill Valley.

STEPHANIE JASINSKI
Chosen By two

STEPHANIE JASINSKI

In spite of a stroke last December, Stephanie Jasinski has regained the use of her hands so that she can continue her work knitting an Afghan and bandages for the lepers.

This is only part of the work which she has done for the less fortunate and senior citizens for many years. It won for her the nomination by the American Association of Retired Persons, of which she is a charter member. She was also nominated by the City of Fairfax.

She was born 82 years ago in Pennsylvania and was a registered nurse, working for more 40 years in Pittsburgh, Pa. and Detroit, Mich. She was secretary to the senior citizens in Detroit.

She is also a member of the Fairfax Senior Association, St. Rita's Seniors and a charter member of the American Association of Retired People.

PILOTS OWN PLANE

Though Jim Dwyer of Cincinnati can't walk, he can fly an airplane. Crippled by polio since he was 4 years old, Dwyer, now 24, overcame many difficulties to earn his solo license yesterday. He demonstrates how he slides from the wing of the plane into his waiting wheelchair which he must use to get around. The plane has a special rudder-pedal attachment that permits him to use his hands entirely when flying.

Food Conspiracy Outlets Revealed

The Marin Food Conspiracy, described as a cooperative buying effort to get food at lowest possible prices through bulk purchase, is now in operation.

Announcement of the food project was made yesterday by Donna Huckins, a supervisor in the department of public social services and consultant to the family and children's services advisory committee.

Mrs. Huckins said that a young woman, speaking for the food conspiracy, appeared before the advisory committee Tuesday night and asked for volunteers to work for the project. The spokesman, according to Mrs. Huckins, said she did not want her name revealed to the press.

Mrs. Huckins said the food conspiracy now has the following seven neighborhood centers where orders are taken and food distributed:

Those who want to participate in bulk purchase should go to these neighborhood centers on Wednesdays between 3 and 7 p.m. to put in their orders. The orders may be picked up the following Wednesday between 3 and 7 p.m.

Mrs. Huckins gave these examples of low prices available through bulk purchase: honey wheat berry bread 39 cents a loaf, tomatoes 19 cents a pound, large AA eggs 40 cents a dozen, raw and homogenized milk 49 cents a half gallon.

Mrs. Huckins said this is how the system works:

Tuesdays are buying days. Members of the food conspiracy leave early in the morning for farms, dairies and wholesale food outlets. They return about noon with fresh fruits, vegetables, eggs, meats, cheeses, and grains which are put in a central warehouse at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. Individual orders are boxed at the central warehouse and distributed to the neighborhood centers on Wednesday afternoon.

Those who order food will not always get every item ordered because all food must be purchased in bulk. If there are not enough orders for a particular item, that item cannot be bought, said Mrs. Huckins.

She announced that many more volunteers are need to operate the food conspiracy. Jobs include separating food, compiling food lists, making food runs, building shelves, truck driving and telephoning. Equipment such as camping coolers, food scales, cartons boxes and bags are needed.

Mrs. Huckins said meat and milk cannot be carried in centers where proper refrigeration is not available. She did not know which centers are equipped with refrigeration.

"To the best of my knowledge, all facilities meet all health standards and have whatever permits are needed by the county or the cities involved," she declared.

A flyer circulated by the food conspiracy gives this information about its aims:

"The food conspiracy provides us with an opportunity to support, through our spending, farmers and farmworkers — the people who really produce. So often the cheapest prices are offered by corporation-owned markets determined not to handle produce picked by union farm workers.

"Now we can escape the vicious proposition of either buying from these corporations' antiunion policies or watching the price of our food climb still higher. The Marin Food Conspiracy supports through its buying power, the progressive struggles of all workers involved in the food industry and will donate perishable surplus to families whose providers are on strike."

21-Year-Old Arraigned On Drugs

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, who was arrested after he allegedly phoned a bomb threat to the San Anselmo police station, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

No charge was filed in connection with the bomb threat pending further investigation, the district attorney's office reported.

Woods pleaded innocent to the two misdemeanors and a pretrial conference was set for June 16.

He was arrested May 3 after a male caller told the San Anselmo police dispatcher: "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Woods's residence, and when police entered they found a suspected marijuana cigarette fitted in a hose attached to a World War II gas mask, police said.

Police said after Woods's arrest that he said he did not make the phone call, but that it was made by another man whom he did not know.

Some archeologists hold to the theory that Nazareth was a town at least 1,000 years before Christ's time.

Last 2 Arraigned In Draft Protest Case

The last two of 33 persons arrested in a San Rafael draft protest May 5, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, and jury trials were set for five others.

Arraigned on charges of failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place were Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, of Mill Valley and Robert Alan Le Blanc, 23, of San Rafael.

Miss Kallins, Le Blanc and 24 other demonstrators facing the same charges are to return to court next Thursday to enter pleas.

Two more of the group — Richard Alan Raznikov, 24, of San Rafael, and Thomas Louis Oleari, 22, of Fairfax — are to plead to the charges today.

The five who have pleaded innocent and who are to stand trial June 10 are: Bryan Thomas Geddy, 23, of Fairfax; William Gaston Begelow, 19, of Tiburon; Lillian Lee Cunningham, 19, and Gary Mathew Bjork, 18, both of San Rafael, and Mary Blair Willard, 22, of Kentfield.

The 33, as well as four others who were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, were arrested at a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U. S. Selective Service.

Comedienne To Appear At Benefit

Comedienne Totie Fields will appear June 4 in San Francisco in a benefit for the building fund of the Greek Orthodox Church of Marin County.

The benefit will be at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant on Columbus Avenue. A no-host cocktail party will begin at 6 p.m.

Donations for the evening, including dinner, will be $25. Tickets may be purchased through the Downtown Center Box Office in San Francisco.

Car Jumps Curb, Rolls 133 Feet

A runaway car, carrying with it a passenger honking on the horn to warn others, rolled 133 feet down a steep grade yesterday on Clark Street in San Rafael, according to police.

The passenger, wife of Allan D. Brodnax of 18 Blossom Drive, San Rafael, owner of the Peugot sedan, was alone in the car when it jumped the curb and broke a mailbox post in front of the Carla Merla residence at 14 Clark Street.

The car crossed the street and jumped the curb on the opposite side, crossing the lawn of Lincoln Borba at 25 Clark Street, coming to rest against a fire hydrant at Clark and Greenwood Streets, police reported.

Mrs. Brodnax was not injured. No other details of the accident were available.

Hearing Set In Drug Sale Case

A 23-year-old Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a warrant charging him with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent.

Dennis Phillip Tsigelatos, of 721 Alice Street, was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest by Marin drug agents, and he posted $3,175 bail to return to court June 3 to enter a plea.

He is accused of selling $325 worth of pot to an agent March 26 and $20 worth of the drug to an agent March 29.

No eetails of his arrest were available today.

Two Are Bound Over In Marijuana Case

Daniel J. Miller, 25, and Thomas W. Villas, 24, both of Sausalito, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

They are to be arraigned in superior court Monday.

Police said they found 15 marijuana plants growing in the apartment.

A third roommate, Michael G. Edmond, 23, turned himself in to authorities later on a warrant, but charges against him were dismissed Tuesday when the district attorney's office reported investigation had determined he was innocent of the charges.

Fairfax To Reply To Oak Manor's Emergency Calls

Fairfax Fire Chief Charles M. Thornton said yesterday his department will continue to answer resuscitator calls in Oak Manor, despite a decision Monday by the Fairfax City Council to stop giving emergency service to Oak Manor.

Police Chief James R. Orr said police will respond "in life or death matters."

The city council voted 3-2 Monday to instruct police and fire departments to cease answering Oak Manor calls.

The council also voted 4-1 against proceeding with moves toward annexing the area.

Officers of the Oak Manor Homes Association have said they have no desire to annex to Fairfax.

Psychiatric Exam Ordered By Judge

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. asked the report on William R. Baxman, 20, be presented on June 2. Baxman, accused of possession of stolen property and dangerous drugs, was arrested April 25 while hiding in bushes on Keokuk Street, Petaluma, with items taken from an auto that was parked nearby.

Street Artists Win A 'Corner' From Alioto

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A corner of Civic Center Plaza across from City Hall was ordered set aside Wednesday for an "artist's corner" by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The mayor took the action in hopes of placating a group of "street artists" who have been arrested in recent weeks while trying to sell their wares without a permit.

Alioto said all of the city's street artists would have free access to a corner of the open, tree-studded plaza on weekends to exhibit and sell their art work.

"The artists of the great cities of the world have long enjoyed places where they regularly exhibit their work before the public," said the mayor. "There is no reason why San Francisco with is own rich cultural tradition should not provide its own artists with a comparable setting."

Death Penalty Stirs Debate

By MARY LEYDECKER

Four Marin attorneys split sharply today in a discussion of capital punishment, with the county's district attorney and a former district attorney favoring retention of the death sentence and two defense attorneys arguing for abolition.

Speaking on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program were Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, former Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, Theodore C. Lachelt, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, and Herbert G. Hawkins, co-chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

All agreed that the May 3 decisions on two death sentence cases handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court still left undecided the central issue of capital punishment.

Bales explained that the recent decisions only dealt with the role of juries in handing out the death sentence and that the high court is now being asked to rule on whether death constitutes a "cruel and unusual punishment."

He and the others said they did not expect a "rash of executions" before the Supreme Court either decides this issue or refuses to consider the matter.

Even the two attorneys who opposed the death sentence did not expect the Supreme Court to abolish the death sentence and all four preferred the matter to be decided either by the Legislature or a vote of the people.

Bales said he strongly felt the death penalty should be retained, saying his reason was not an endorsement of "an eye for an eye" type punishment but rather based on the protection of society.

He said that "many robbers, kidnappers and burglars purposely do not arm themselves so they won't be facing the gas chamber," and added that doing away with capital punishment in California would be "an incentive for these people to kill their victims."

Garety said that there "is no clear cut answer" as to whether the death sentence is a deterrent but he argued for it as an "expression of the community of abhorrence and revulsion" to such crimes as the Tate murder.

"If it means saving the life of one innocent child, one gas station attendant or store clerk," capital punishment should be retained, Garety said.

He also cited prison slayings, saying, "what deterrent is a life sentence to a life termer."

He and Bales agreed, however, that the matter should be put to a popular vote in California.

Lachelt, who felt that such a vote, particularly if the voting age is lowered, would end in abolition of the death sentence, said he and others who work for abolition would be happy with either a court decision or a vote to end it.

"People do not spring full blown from Hell," Lachelt quoted from a book written by Caryl Chessman, executed kidnapper and "red light bandit." He called for an examination of the lives of people who "commit heinous crimes," saying that they have "crippled minds" and should not be executed.

Hawkins called "many, many murders spur of the moment affairs," where the murderer never thinks of the penalty. He asked why, if the death sentence is a deterrent, do felons, such as those held in yesterday's Soledad Prison slaying, commit murder when they know they face capital punishment.

He said that persons who are "rich, white and male" seldom are executed because they can afford better legal services and that "poor, black and female" people are much more likely to be sentenced to death.

(Garety responded by saying that "it is a fact of life that more violent crimes are committed by poor persons.")

Hawkins called the death penalty "clearly a form of revenge," saying that "because we have feelings of abhorrence and revulsion, we don't have to add the revolting and abhorrent act of killing someone."

He also said that if the community really believes in revenge "we could stone a murderer to death or tear him limb from limb in a public square" instead of sitting home watching television while 20 witnesses watch an execution.

In answer to a question phoned in by a listener, Hawkins said that "no one here is suggesting turning such persons (murderers) loose." He said that if capital punishment is abolished, laws should be changed so that "some people Can be locked up permanently."

The Sounding Board program will be repeated at 10:05 Sunday.

Call For Bids On Outfall Line

Norris W. Rawles, district administrator, said the board approved the plans and specifications for the joject, estimated to cost between $70,000 and $80,000, and asked for bids prior to June 16.

The project has been approved by the State Regional Water Quality Control Board, Rawles said.

Draft Option: Fight Fires In Voluntary Corps

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A national firefighters corps, which would qualify as an alternative to military service, is being proposed by the International Association of Fire Chiefs' president.

Matthew Jimenez, who also is chief at nearby Hayward, prepared his plan for an association meeting today and suggested volunteers undergo four months of training in fire fighting and disaster control.

The remainder of the volunteers' two years of service should be in high fire danger areas or in small towns with understaffed fire departments, he suggested.

Jimenez suggested financing the program with federal funds and said it had been drawn from a similar operation he had seen while visiting Italy.

Bike Ride Set For Goastline

A bicycle ride to demonstrate support for creation of a California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will start at 11 a.m. Sunday at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito.

The riders will go across the Golden Gate Bridge and end up at Baker's Beach in the Presidio of San Francisco, where a rally and picnic will be held at 1 p.m., according to the California Coastal Alliance, which is sponsoring the event.

Speakers at the rally will include Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, who is expected to speak in favor of the Coast Bill, AB1471, aimed at preventing destruction of the California coastline.

Marin City Bid For More Funds

An application for additional federal funds and more time to complete development of Marin City won approval from the Marin County Redevelopment Agency board last night, Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd reported.

Shepherd said the amendment to the agency's current federal loan and grant contract for development asks a two-year time extension and $918,105 and will be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in the next week.

One-third of the funds being sought must come from local sources, according to Shepherd.

YMCA Cash Stolen

Cash totaling $56 was stolen from a safe at a Young Men's Christian Association office at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, last Thursday, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

NOMINATED FOR GENERAL STARS

With the signal of new duties the Army has announced the nomination of Cols. Mildred C. Bailey, 52 (left), a native of Fort Branwell, N.C., who will head the Women's Army Corps, and Lillian Dunlap, 49, of Mission, Tex., who will head the Army Nurses Corps, to the status of generals. Lovejoy Elected To Housing Association

Jean Lovejoy of San Rafael, a member of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, has been elected president of the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin.

She was unanimously elected last night to succeed the late Elmo Cerruti, who died unexpectedly on April 11.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association, announced that the association has received $20,000 from the San Francisco Foundation for the 1971-72 fiscal year. "This is the third year of support from the foundation," said Mackey. "It will provide two-thirds of the association's operating budget."

The Association For Housing Also:

SEED MONEY — Heard from Douglas P. Ferguson, association counsel, that a drive is under way to raise $35,000 in seed money to pay for pre-construction cost of low and moderate income housing.

PILGRIM PARK — Announced that opening ceremonies for the new moderate income housing at Pilgrim Park, Merrydale Road and North San Pedro Road in San Rafael, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 5. William Davis of the First Congregational Church of San Rafael made the announcement.

SPEAKER — Heard David McDonald, development coordinator of the Foundation for Cooperative Housing Services in San Francisco, described the advantages of cooperative housing developments.

TRAINING — Authorized executive director Mackey to attend an eight-week training session in Washington, D.C., for housing specialists, beginning June 21.

NEW MEMBER — Welcomed Peace Lutheran Church of Mill Valley as the 42nd member of the association; introduced Gordon D. Williams, a new delegate from the Presbyterian Church of Novato; and welcomed a guest, Silma Simmons of United Methodist Church of Novato.

FINANCE — Heard from Jackie Parnell of the Co-op of Marin that a financial advisory committee is exploring ways to get low interest money to finance housing, outside of federal government programs.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 8 p.m. June 16 in Room 400 of the Civic Center.

Hearing Set In Bad Check Case

A 20-year-old San Rafael man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a bad check charge after he went to the San Rafael Police Station to inquire about a traffic ticket.

Vithaya Chaloeicheep of 424 Mission Avenue was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest and is to plead to the check charge today.

He was held at the jail in lieu of $1,875 bail.

San Rafael police said that when Chaloeicheep went to the station to inquire about the traffic matter, police discovered there was a warrant for his arrest, charging that he signed the name of Propat Soparkthpong to a check given to a San Rafael used car dealer April 2.

Joint Work On Seashore Bus Urged

Recreational bus service to Point Reyes National Seashore should be worked out jointly by public agencies and the Marin Transit Systems Inc., a private bus company based in Marin City.

That was the consensus of the transportation committee of Marin's City-County Planning Council. The transportation committee, headed by John DeBecker, met at the Civic Center to hear from Paul R. Kahn, vice president of the transit firm.

The transportation committee passed the following resolution on a motion by Anne West:

Golden Gate Bridge District, Marin County Transit District, and Marin Transit Systems should get together and work out a recreation transit service to seashore by this summer if possible.

Kahn told the committee that his private bus firm intends to work with public agencies on a bus service from the Sausalito and Tiburon ferry terminals to the seashore.

He acknowledged that his company had asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a permit to extend the present Mill Valley to Tiburon bus service to Stinson Beach and Bolinas. But this is completely separate from the concept of a bus service to the seashore and within the seashore, said Kahn. He said the private bus firm is not trying to go it alone on the bus service to the seashore.

TOO MUCH SOMETIMES NOT ENOUGH

A Mill Valley customer of the W. J. Sloan store in Northgate, San Rafael, mailed a letter this week to the store and — apparently because she did not have a new 8-cent stamp — put an old 10-cent air mail stamp on the letter.

Although the Post Office did not fly the letter from Mill Valley to San Rafael, today it demanded an additional one cent from the firm because the new air mail rate is 11 cents.

Two Brothers Plead Innocent

Two San Anselmo brothers have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary stemming from two separate burglaries. Preliminary hearings were set for next Tuesday for both Mark S. Botai, 19, and Kenneth Paul Botai, 22.

Mark Botai was arrested Saturday when San Anselmo police saw him walk out of a Red Hill Avenue record store at 5 a.m.

Kenneth Botai, who is also charged with attempted grand theft, was arrested last Friday on a warrant charging he attempted to steal a bicycle, May 12 from the garage of Michael Murphy, 15 Pastori Avenue, San Anselmo.

Fill Donated To Lucchesi Park

Half the 20,000 cubic yards of fill dirt needed for development of Petaluma's Lucchesi Park has been donated, according to Park Director Richard W. Schollenberger.

He said that Mel Hein, manager of Hein Brothers Basalt Rock Co. of Petaluma, will provide 10,000 cubic feet of dirt. In addition to the free fill, Schollenberger said transportation will also be provided at no cost by the 649th Engineering Co. of the California Army National Guard, Petaluma.

Shollenberger said it is hoped that another 10,000 cubic yards of dirt can be received, perhaps from the state Division of Highways, so that development can begin in July.

Cyclist Injured In Fairfax Accident

James Broderick, 39, of 14 Canyon Road, Fairfax, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital following a motorcycle accident yesterday near his home.

Officials said Broderick was admitted at 6:15 p.m. with torn cartilage in the right knee.

Also involved in the accident was Mark Oates, 13, of 458 Cascade Drive, Fairfax. He was treated for a cut right arm and a broken finger on the right hand, hospital officials reported.

Outstanding Senior Citizen Award To Be Given

The Outstanding Senior Citizen Award will be given next Wednesday to a senior citizen who has done the most for his organization or community.

Eighteen persons have been nominated for the title of Marin's Outstanding Senior Citizen of the Year and the winning candidate will be announced at an awards luncheon next Wednesday at Holiday Inn.

Those nominated were: William Schofield of San Rafael, Raymond J. Palmer of Greenbrae, Julia Walsh of Kentfield, Dr. Charles C. B. Musante of San Rafael, Ruth Murray Jones of San Rafael, Edith I. Foran of San Anselmo. Stephania Jasinski of Fairfax, Katharine Meysembourg of Fairfax, Pearl M. Dutra of Mill Valley, Aaron Garnet Miller of San Rafael, Florence Benedict of San Rafael, Mabel Kegg of San Rafael, Alberta Dodds of San Rafael, Lillie J. Givens of Marin City, Betty Cannon of San Rafael, Marguerite Johnson of Novato, Adelbert Von Rotz of San Anselmo and Arthur E. Ojeda of San Rafael.

The candidates were selected from various groups throughout the county, said Edward T. Ryken, executive director of Marin Senior Coordinating Council. Candidates are chosen by formal election or by the executive boards, Ryken said.

The winner will receive a gold plaque and have his name placed on a perpetual plaque at the library in the Civic Center.

All of the nominees will receive a framed scroll giving a summary of their service to the community.

For the past two years the judges have not been able to select one winner, but have split the award between two persons.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, mayors of the Marin's cities and other dignitaries have been invited to the luncheon, Ryken said.

Angela Nicoletti, Kentfield soprano, will furnish the entertainment.

RUTH MURRAY JONES
Poet wins nomination

RUTH MURRAY JONES

The shores of Bodega Bay where she was born 75 years ago, the desert of Nevada and the beauty of Marin County inspired Ruth Murray Jones to become a poet. She has had poetry published throughout the world and won several prizes for it.

In the four high schools she attended in California and Nevada she learned the love of literature. She graduated from the University of Nevada with a bachelor's degree in English.

She was one of the founding group of the Marin Branch, of the American Association of University Women and has served terms as all of its officers including president. Last year she was awarded a life membership in the organization, which nominated her for the senior citizen award.

Within the framework of the university women, she started the Creative Writing Workshop.

She has lived in San Rafael since 1924. She and her late husband, Victor, lost their son, Deane, during World War II. Writing became her emotional outlet for the loss of her son.

Her writing led her into many fields, such as history, nature study, conservation and art. She belongs to numerous organization in those fields.

Mrs. Jones of 1340 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, has two children, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE
San Rafael's nominee

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE

The nominee of the Goldenaires for the Senior Citizen award refuses to quit work or give up any of his hobbies, even at the age of 85.

Dr. Charles C. B. Mustante of 219 Center Street, San Rafael, still practices dentistry several days a week at his office in the Albert Building.

He works in his vegetable and flower garden, does woodworking and takes time out to fish. He is an accomplished pianist. He played in the Marin Symphony until 1966. He plays for the Neighbors of Woodcraft and the Goldenaires, a senior citizens club sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department. He also played in the Bohemian Club orchestra for many years.

Dr. Musante was born in San Francisco and graduated from St. Ignatius High school and the University of California School of Dentistry where he taught for 13 years.

It was his woodworking skill that brought him the nomination. He has made many pieces of furniture and other "safety aids" for the recreation center.

JULIA WALSH

In spite of her 71 years, Julia Walsh is always willing to help other senior citizens. She takes them to doctors, hospitals and shopping.

Her good nature always comes through as she cheerfully does things to help others.

She was born in Ireland and came to San Francisco as a girl. She lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County 10 years ago.

Mrs. Walsh of 920 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, is a member of St. Sebastian Church in Kentfield, Women's Auxiliary of Barracks 550. World War I, Terra Linda Seniors, Marin Senior Association and the American Association of Retired People.

She was nominated by Fairfax Senior Association.

MABEL KEGG
Choice of hospital

MABEL KEGG

Her interest in everyone in the hospital and attempts to help other patients won the nomination for outstanding senior citizen for Mable Kegg from the Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

She is active in the craft program group discussions and community singing at the hospital.

She comes by the latter quite naturally. For three years she was one of a pair of "Polk Bonnet Sisters" singing program on radio station KPO.

Mrs. Kegg 92, was born in Oakland and later married George Kegg, an artist with the San Francisco Examiner. They spent much of their time in Carmel where they were active in theater groups and light opera. Mrs. Kegg lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County four years ago.

KATHERINE MEYSEMBOURG
St. Rita's selection

KATHARINE MEYSEMBOURG

After a life of hard work, Katharine Meysembourg, cannot stop, so continues doing things for others.

She makes lap robes for convalescents and sews for all the festivals and Christmas boutiques of St. Rita's Senior Club which nominated her for the outstanding senior citizen.

Mrs. Meysembourg was born 82 years ago in Illinois. She married Nicholas Meysenberg and the couple farmed for many years. He went into the livestock trucking business. Then 30 years ago they moved to California where he was a carpenter until he retired. They have been married 55 years and have seven children.

Mrs. Meysembourg of 66 Willow Avenue, Fairfax, is modest about her work, but never refuses to do her part.

ALBERTA DODDS
Retired employees choice

ALBERTA DODDS

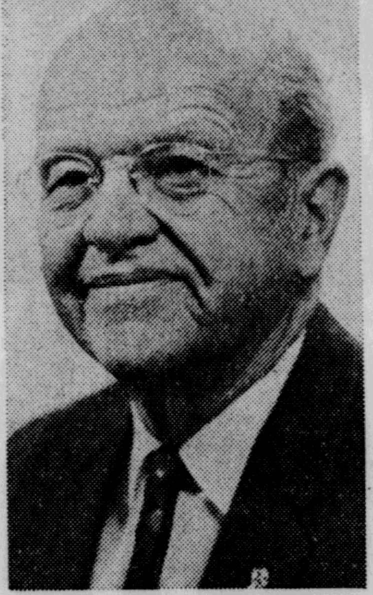
More than 30 years of service to the community has won the nomination for outstanding citizen for Alberta Dodds from the National Association of Retired Federal Employees. She is a charter member of its Chapter 400 here.

She was born near Colorado Springs, Colo., and came to California as a young girl with her family. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Dodds, 67, worked for the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau until she was married. When her husband James was transfered from superintendent of the Air Corps Shops at Crissy Field to Hamilton Air Force Base, the couple moved to Marin County. That was 35 years ago during World War II.

She also uses her talents in Chapter 215 Eastern Star, Tamalpais Temple No. 129 of Pythian Sisters, San Rafael Goldenaires. She is chairman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church blood donor drive and a director of the San Rafael Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

For all of her activity, Mrs. Dodds says that she receives much more from these organizations than she gives.



AARON G. MILLER
Gay 70s nominee

AARON GARNET MILLER

Rev. Aaron Garnet Miller was born in Nazareth, Pa.

He graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo 41 years ago. He also attended the University of California in Berkeley.

His first pastorate was in Lakeview, Ore. From there he went to Garberville and then back to Sausalito where he was minister of the Presbyterian Church there for 10 years. He was minister of the Santa Veneita Presbyterian Church for nine years before retiring in 1969.

One cannot say that he has retired because he still works for the community and has a smile for all those he meets on the street.

He started the Gay 70s Club, sponsored by the Gallinas Village Community Serivces District, which nominated him for the award.

Reverend Miller, 66, of 849 Descanson Way, San Rafael, organized the Protestant Chaplains Association and the Marin County Council of Churches. He joined the Rotary Club in Garberville and carried his membership with him to Sausalito. He is stated clerk of the Presbytry of the Redwoods which goes from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border.

ARTHUR E. OJEDA

Ojeda collected the films during more than 40 years of travel in 46 countries for Standard Oil of California. He was a member of the oil company's executive staff and his travels have taken him all around the world.

He has lived and traveled in the British Isles, Scandinavia, the Soviet Union, New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania and Indonesia.

He was born 66 years ago, Bisbee, Ariz. He graduated from the University of Arizona. While working for Standard Oil during world War II, he was loaned to the State Department and served two years in the United States embassies in Spain and Portugal as a petroleum attache.

BETTY CANNON
Venetia Oaks choice

BETTY CANNON

Retirement after working as a dental nurse for 20 years at Hamilton Air Force Base, did not mean retirement for Betty Cannon.

She has kept herself busy doing volunteer work for the Red Cross, Cancer Society and her church. She had been in the Women Air Corps for three years prior to going to work at Hamilton.

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD
Funsters nominee

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD

The fortitude and determination with which William Schofield overcame a stroke he had a year ago and his cheerfulness during it, brought him the Marinwood "Funsters" nomination for the senior citizen award.

The stroke paralyzed his right side, but he worked to overcome it. He now is able to walk again in the park in Marinwood and can drive his car.

Schofield, 79, of 27 Millstone Terrace, San Rafael, was born in Rutherford, N.J., but lived most of his life in Orange, N.J.

He was a member of the New York Stock Exchange for 28 years and a member of the Buttonwood Club, a club of members of the New York Stock Exchange who have been on it for 25 years or more.

He served in the Cavalry during World War I and was in the New Jersey National Guard for more than 10 years. He and his wife, Natalie, moved to Marin County two years ago.

ADELBERT VON ROTZ

ADELBERT VON ROTZ

Adelbert Von Rotz was founder and past president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce. So that organization nominated him for the Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Born and reared in Switzerland, he learned the art of cabinet making there. He decided if he wanted to make any money he would have to come to the United States.

He came here in 1920 and since that time used his skill in constructing more than 1,000 homes in San Anselmo, Fairfax, San Rafael and Santa Venetia. He has also constructed shopping centers.

He became interested in politics and was elected to the San Anselmo City council in 1942. He served two years as mayor. He served as member and for five years as chairman of the Marin County Palnning Commission.

He has been president of the San Anselmo Lions Club, a director of the Marin County Development Association and Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association. He was one of the founders of the latter association.

Von Rotz, 73, of 1 Alpine Terrace, San Anselmo, was a founder and past president of the Marin County Contractors Association. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Marin County Property Owners Association and a director and former vice president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council in Marin County.

FLORENCE BENEDICT
Goldenaires nominee

FLORENCE BENEDICT

Florence Benedict's leadership in many senior citizens organizations and her philanthropic work in Marin County won her nomination for outstanding senior citizen from the San Rafael Goldenaires.

Mrs. Benedict, 74, was born in New York City and lived most of her life in Floral Park, Long Island, N.Y. She was active there in the Parent-Teacher Association, the Methodist Church and Eastern Star.

She came to Marin County in 1964. Since then she has been recording secretary, vice president and president of the Marin Senior Citizen Association; recording secretary for the Goldennaires and a member of Marin Federated Republican Women. She has been active in all sewing projects for the Goldennaires' Needlework Guild of America.

EDITH I. FORAN

When a senior citizen center was first opened in Marin County 17 years ago, Edith I. Foran was appointed to be its first hostess.

She later served as chairman of hostesses until the center at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, closed.

She was the first woman president of the Marin Senior Association Inc. serving two terms. She had been secretary to the organization prior to that.

Mrs. Foran, 83, is still active in the Marin Senior Association which nominated her for the Outstanding Senior Citizen Award this year.

She was born in Manistee, Mich. She married Bryce I. Foran, an attorney of Louisville, Ky. After his death in 1942, she became a librarian for Washington State University at Pullman, Wash.

Mrs. Foran is also a member of the Goldenaires, American Association of University Women and San Rafael Improvement Club.

LILLIE J. GIVENS
Marin City nominee

LILLIE J. GIVENS

More than a quarter century of service to the people of Marin City brought Lillie J. Givens her nomination to the outstanding senior citizen award from the Marin City Seniors.

In her 27 years in Marin City, Mrs. Givens, 69, a native of Louisiana, has worked for the betterment of that community. At the present time, she is president of the Marin City Seniors.

She did all this work in addition to rearing six children; and helping with eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

MARGUERITE JOHNSON
Club picks worker

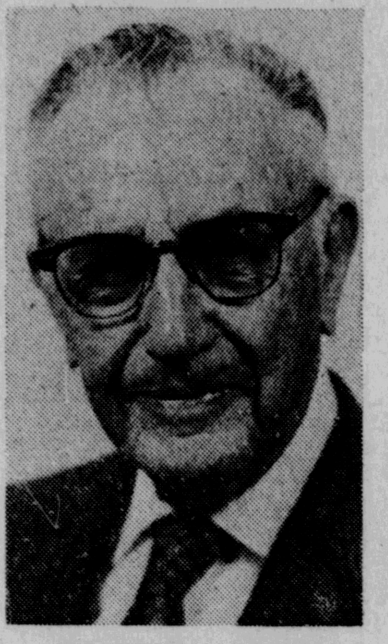
MARGUERITE JOHNSON

Marguerite Johnson took charge of the kitchen for the luncheons and dinners held by the Novato Senior Citizens in the Novato Community House. After two years of this work, the club elected her treasurer to handle the finances of the organization which now has more than 300 members.

The club calls on her for many other jobs, which she performs uncomplainingly.

Mrs. Johnson, 65, of 823 Las Palmas Avenue, Novato, was born in Kansas, but spent most of her life in Grand Junction, Colo.

On her husband's retirement, they moved to Florida but five years ago, they moved to Novato to be near their only daughter and family. They joined the Novato Senior Citizens Inc. the same year.



RAYMOND J. PALMER
Former teacher chosen

RAYMOND J. PALMER

Palmer Hall, the science building at Tamalpais High School, was named for Raymond J. Palmer who retired in 1959 after 32 years of teaching science at the school.

Palmer, 77, was born in Ohio and graduated from Whitter College in Whittier, Calif. When he started teaching at Tamalpais High School in 1927, he was also assigned to be varsity football coach. He took pride in his athletes who made good in college or professional ball.

However, his greatest contributions were in teaching chemistry and bacteriology. He was one of the pioneers in teaching bacteriology in high school.

He was always interested in conservation and is still active in this field. He is a member of the Audubon Society and Conservation League.

Palmer is also a member of the board of directors of American Field Service and Sons in Retirement. He is vice president of the Retired Marin County Teachers Association.

PEARL M. DUTRA
Mill Valley's choice

PEARL M. DUTRA

Her friendly smile and willingness to be helpful and to work for organizations has won the nomination for Outstanding Senior Citizens Award for Pearl M. Dutra.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department nominated this year.

Mrs. Dutra lives with her daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Gilmore at 60 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley.

She was born in San Jose and is a third generation Santa Claran. Her father and grandfather had been ranchers in Gilroy. Her parents moved to San Francisco just before the 1906 earthquake. After that they moved to Millbrae. She lived there with her husband John W. Dutra who died in 1963. She moved to Mill Valley three years ago.

She is active in The American Association of Retired People, Naive Daughters of the Golden West, Goldenaires and Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church Women's Club. She was instrumental in starting the senior citizens program in Mill Valley.

Air Board Accused In Napa-Solano Fuss

EUREKA (UPI)—The State Air Resources Board was told yesterday it is responsible for "a blow to the whole concept of regionalism" by deciding to cut parts of two counties from the Bay Area Pollution Control District.

Victor Calvo, chairman of the BAPCD board of directors, addressed the state board at a hearing into plans to cut parts of Sonoma and Solano counties from the nine-county organization.

The state group, on April 21, ruled in principle that about half of the two counties could be excluded. The hearing yesterday was to work out details of the plan.

Calvo said the fragmentation of territory under his district's jurisdiction would "undercut our enforcement program and impede the efforts of the District to attain recently enacted strict California and federal air quality standards."

In Napa County, he said, the state board's action is being regarded "as an escape hatch through which effective air pollution control regulations may be avoided".

Napa County has not yet petitioned for action similar to that requested by Solano and Sonoma Counties.

Calvo quoted a newspaper story that said a Napa supervisor felt the reason his county hadn't asked to be let out of the district was because he didn't think Solano and Sonoma would be successful.

"We regard the action that you took at your April meeting as overly hasty, inconsistent with your earlier findings and at variance with principles set forth in law," Calvo, a Contra Costa County supervisor, said.

He said a section of the Health and Safety Code requires the Air Resources Board to divide the state into air basins "based upon similar meterological and geographic conditions."

Political boundaries are also to be taken into consideration under the code, Calvo said.

"No meterological evidence was submitted to the ARB to show that the climates of the excluded areas differ in any way from the climates of other areas, for example Marin County and the Santa Clara Valley," he said.

He said Solano County claimed its northeastern portion is a transitional zone between maritime and valley influences.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has never denied this, Calvo said, and has submitted a report on air currents that drew "much the same conclusions."

"But we pointed out that there are many such zones in the Bay Area," he said.

"This fact does not warrant splitting these zones into adjacent basins without reference to political boundaries."

More Pay Asked From N. Marin Water District

The North Marin County Water District board has been asked for a 4.8 per cent pay raise and merit pay for employees.

Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill also proposed Tuesday night that outside construction and maintenance personnel be granted a four-and-a-half-day work week.

Directors will consider the proposals at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Churchill said the proposed cost-of-living pay hike and the merit pay would cost about $32,700 a year.

The merit pay, up to 8 per cent, could be granted to employees at the top of their salary scale who have four years with the district, he said.

Churchill said he proposed the 36-hour week for outside construction and maintenance personnel, numbering 11, because trade unions covering similar work have cut back their work week.

Churchill also proposed that employees, who now have nine holidays, be granted an additional holiday, and preferably two more, Admission Day and Lincoln's Birthday.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

STAFFORD LAKE — Approved an agreement with Marin County on county use of Stafford Lake for recreation, an agreement to guarantee water quality control and clearly define district and county lands.

COMPUTERS — Authorized Churchill to negotiate for use of Marin County computers to handle district accounting.

USAGE — Received a report that water consumption last month was down 22.7 per cent from April, 1970, because it was cooler and damper last month than in April, 1970.

Screwwork Cases

Abatement Panel Pay Committee To Meet June 8

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board's salary committee will meet at 8 p.m. June 8 at the district office at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, to discuss proposed salary increases for district employees.

Allan D. Telford, district manager, has recommended a 6 per cent cost-of-living raise for the district's nine employees as well as additional fringe benefits. He said that if all the requests were granted by the board, it would cost the district $13,232 more than this year.

The full board will hear recommendations from the salary committee on June 9 at 8 p.m. at which time Telford said the board expects to adopt a budget for 1971-72.

Death Penalty Stirs Debate

By MARY LEYDECKER

Four Marin attorneys split sharply today in a discussion of capital punishment, with the county's district attorney and a former district attorney favoring retention of the death sentence and two defense attorneys arguing for abolition.

Speaking on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program were Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, former Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, Theodore C. Lachelt, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, and Herbert G. Hawkins, co-chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

All agreed that the May 3 decisions on two death sentence cases handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court still left undecided the central issue of capital punishment.

Bales explained that the recent decisions only dealt with the role of juries in handing out the death sentence and that the high court is now being asked to rule on whether death constitutes a "cruel and unusual punishment."

He and the others said they did not expect a "rash of executions'' before the Supreme Court either decides this issue or refuses to consider the matter.

Even the two attorneys who opposed the death sentence did not expect the Supreme Court to abolish the death sentence and all four preferred the matter to be decided either by the Legislature or a vote of the people.

Bales said he strongly felt the death penalty should be retained, saying his reason was not an endorsement of "an eye for an eye" type punishment but rather based on the protection of society.

He said that "many robbers, kidnappers and burglars purposely do not arm themselves so they won't be facing the gas chamber," and added that doing away with capital punishment in California would be "an incentive for these people to kill their victims."

Garety said that there "is no clear cut answer" as to whether the death sentence is a deterrent but he argued for it as an "expression of the community of abhorrence and revulsion" to such crimes as the Tate murder.

"If it means saving the life of one innocent child, one gas station attendant or store clerk," capital punishment should be retained, Garety said.

He also cited prison slayings, saying, "what deterrent is a life sentence to a life termer."

He and Bales agreed, however, that the matter should be put to a popular vote in California.

Lachelt, who felt that such a vote, particularly if the voting age is lowered, would end in abolition of the death sentence, said he and others who work for abolition would be happy with either a court decision or a vote to end it.

"People do not spring full blown from Hell," Lachelt quoted from a book written by Caryl Chessman, executed kidnapper and "red light bandit." He called for an examination of the lives of people who "commit heinous crimes," saying that they have "crippled minds" and should not be executed.

Hawkins called "many, many murders spur of the moment affairs," where the murderer never thinks of the penalty. He asked why, if the death sentence is a deterrent, do felons, such as those held in yesterday's Soledad Prison slaying, commit murder when they know they face capital punishment.

He said that persons who are "rich, white and male" seldom are executed because they can afford better legal services and that "poor, black and female" people are much more likely to be sentenced to death.

(Garety responded by saying that "it is a fact of life that more violent crimes are committed by poor persons.")

Hawkins called the death penalty "clearly a form of revenge," saying that "because we have feelings of abhorrence and revulsion, we don't have to add the revolting and abhorrent act of killing someone."

He also said that if the community really believes in revenge "we could stone a murderer to death or tear him limb from limb in a public square" instead of sitting home watching television while 20 witnesses watch an execution.

In answer to a question phoned in by a listener, Hawkins said that "no one here is suggesting turning such persons (murderers) loose." He said that if capital punishment is abolished, laws should be changed so that "some people Can be locked up permanently."

The Sounding Board program will be repeated at 10:05 Sunday.

Call For Bids On Outfall Line

Norris W. Rawles, district administrator, said the board approved the plans and specifications for the joject, estimated to cost between $70,000 and $80,000, and asked for bids prior to June 16.

The project has been approved by the State Regional Water Quality Control Board, Rawles said.

Draft Option: Fight Fires In Voluntary Corps

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A national firefighters corps, which would qualify as an alternative to military service, is being proposed by the International Association of Fire Chiefs' president.

Matthew Jimenez, who also is chief at nearby Hayward, prepared his plan for an association meeting today and suggested volunteers undergo four months of training in fire fighting and disaster control.

The remainder of the volunteers' two years of service should be in high fire danger areas or in small towns with understaffed fire departments, he suggested.

Jimenez suggested financing the program with federal funds and said it had been drawn from a similar operation he had seen while visiting Italy.

Bike Ride Set For Goastline

A bicycle ride to demonstrate support for creation of a California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will start at 11 a.m. Sunday at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito.

The riders will go across the Golden Gate Bridge and end up at Baker's Beach in the Presidio of San Francisco, where a rally and picnic will be held at 1 p.m., according to the California Coastal Alliance, which is sponsoring the event.

Speakers at the rally will include Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, who is expected to speak in favor of the Coast Bill, AB1471, aimed at preventing destruction of the California coastline.

Marin City Bid For More Funds

An application for additional federal funds and more time to complete development of Marin City won approval from the Marin County Redevelopment Agency board last night, Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd reported.

Shepherd said the amendment to the agency's current federal loan and grant contract for development asks a two-year time extension and $918,105 and will be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in the next week.

One-third of the funds being sought must come from local sources, according to Shepherd.

YMCA Cash Stolen

Cash totaling $56 was stolen from a safe at a Young Men's Christian Association office at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, last Thursday, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Lovejoy Elected To Housing Association

Jean Lovejoy of San Rafael, a member of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, has been elected president of the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin.

She was unanimously elected last night to succeed the late Elmo Cerruti, who died unexpectedly on April 11.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association, announced that the association has received $20,000 from the San Francisco Foundation for the 1971-72 fiscal year. "This is the third year of support from the foundation," said Mackey. "It will provide two-thirds of the association's operating budget."

The Association For Housing Also:

SEED MONEY — Heard from Douglas P. Ferguson, association counsel, that a drive is under way to raise $35,000 in seed money to pay for pre-construction cost of low and moderate income housing.

PILGRIM PARK — Announced that opening ceremonies for the new moderate income housing at Pilgrim Park, Merrydale Road and North San Pedro Road in San Rafael, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 5. William Davis of the First Congregational Church of San Rafael made the announcement.

SPEAKER — Heard David McDonald, development coordinator of the Foundation for Cooperative Housing Services in San Francisco, described the advantages of cooperative housing developments.

TRAINING — Authorized executive director Mackey to attend an eight-week training session in Washington, D.C., for housing specialists, beginning June 21.

NEW MEMBER — Welcomed Peace Lutheran Church of Mill Valley as the 42nd member of the association; introduced Gordon D. Williams, a new delegate from the Presbyterian Church of Novato; and welcomed a guest, Silma Simmons of United Methodist Church of Novato.

FINANCE — Heard from Jackie Parnell of the Co-op of Marin that a financial advisory committee is exploring ways to get low interest money to finance housing, outside of federal government programs.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 8 p.m. June 16 in Room 400 of the Civic Center.

Hearing Set In Bad Check Case

A 20-year-old San Rafael man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a bad check charge after he went to the San Rafael Police Station to inquire about a traffic ticket.

Vithaya Chaloeicheep of 424 Mission Avenue was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest and is to plead to the check charge today.

He was held at the jail in lieu of $1,875 bail.

San Rafael police said that when Chaloeicheep went to the station to inquire about the traffic matter, police discovered there was a warrant for his arrest, charging that he signed the name of Propat Soparkthpong to a check given to a San Rafael used car dealer April 2.

Joint Work On Seashore Bus Urged

Recreational bus service to Point Reyes National Seashore should be worked out jointly by public agencies and the Marin Transit Systems Inc., a private bus company based in Marin City.

That was the consensus of the transportation committee of Marin's City-County Planning Council. The transportation committee, headed by John DeBecker, met at the Civic Center to hear from Paul R. Kahn, vice president of the transit firm.

The transportation committee passed the following resolution on a motion by Anne West:

Golden Gate Bridge District, Marin County Transit District, and Marin Transit Systems should get together and work out a recreation transit service to seashore by this summer if possible.

Kahn told the committee that his private bus firm intends to work with public agencies on a bus service from the Sausalito and Tiburon ferry terminals to the seashore.

He acknowledged that his company had asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a permit to extend the present Mill Valley to Tiburon bus service to Stinson Beach and Bolinas. But this is completely separate from the concept of a bus service to the seashore and within the seashore, said Kahn. He said the private bus firm is not trying to go it alone on the bus service to the seashore.

TOO MUCH SOMETIMES NOT ENOUGH

A Mill Valley customer of the W. J. Sloan store in Northgate, San Rafael, mailed a letter this week to the store and — apparently because she did not have a new 8-cent stamp — put an old 10-cent air mail stamp on the letter.

Although the Post Office did not fly the letter from Mill Valley to San Rafael, today it demanded an additional one cent from the firm because the new air mail rate is 11 cents.

Two Brothers Plead Innocent

Two San Anselmo brothers have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary stemming from two separate burglaries. Preliminary hearings were set for next Tuesday for both Mark S. Botai, 19, and Kenneth Paul Botai, 22.

Mark Botai was arrested Saturday when San Anselmo police saw him walk out of a Red Hill Avenue record store at 5 a.m.

Kenneth Botai, who is also charged with attempted grand theft, was arrested last Friday on a warrant charging he attempted to steal a bicycle, May 12 from the garage of Michael Murphy, 15 Pastori Avenue, San Anselmo.

Fill Donated To Lucchesi Park

Half the 20,000 cubic yards of fill dirt needed for development of Petaluma's Lucchesi Park has been donated, according to Park Director Richard W. Schollenberger.

He said that Mel Hein, manager of Hein Brothers Basalt Rock Co. of Petaluma, will provide 10,000 cubic feet of dirt. In addition to the free fill, Schollenberger said transportation will also be provided at no cost by the 649th Engineering Co. of the California Army National Guard, Petaluma.

Shollenberger said it is hoped that another 10,000 cubic yards of dirt can be received, perhaps from the state Division of Highways, so that development can begin in July.

Cyclist Injured In Fairfax Accident

James Broderick, 39, of 14 Canyon Road, Fairfax, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital following a motorcycle accident yesterday near his home.

Officials said Broderick was admitted at 6:15 p.m. with torn cartilage in the right knee.

Also involved in the accident was Mark Oates, 13, of 458 Cascade Drive, Fairfax. He was treated for a cut right arm and a broken finger on the right hand, hospital officials reported.

Marin Women

Thursday, May 20, 1971 SECOND SECTION 13

ATTORNEY'S VIEW

Women Told To Police The Laws

By BARBARA HOSMER

It's up to women themselves to work to get rid of laws that are keeping them down, attorney Jettie Pierce Selvig said yesterday.

"Give us our rights and we'll protect ourselves," is the message she urged women to give their state and federal legislators.

Speaking to the Soroptimist Clubof Marin in San Anselmo, she said that women no longer need "protective" laws and she urged passage by Congress of the Equal Rights Amendment to insure women equality under the laws of this country.

THE MILL VALLEY lawyer, who is associated with the San Francisco law firm of Belli, Ashe, Ellison, Choulos and Lieff, said that old laws which purport to "protect" women only serve to keep them down in low-level jobs and should be done away with via the Equal Rights Amendment.

It's up to women, and the place to educate them about such matters is in clubs and chapters "such as this", she told the club.

Mrs. Selvig said that labor unions have conscientiously worked to better the lot of men workers, often at the expense of women members, adding that for example it was not unusual to find them bargaining for a "cough for the women in the rest room and a pay raise for men." Management, she said, liked this because of the great numbers of women many businesses employ.

THE COURTS, and especially the U.S. Supreme Court, have been no friends to women, either, she said. Neither the Fifth nor Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution, which guarantee "due process of law" and "equal rights" for citizens, have not abrogated laws that limit women's right to work, give them longer prison terms than men for similar offenses, deny occupational opportunity or right to property.

Despite these constitutional amendments every state has laws that discriminate against women, the former president of the National Association of Women Lawyers said.

"The doctrine of placing all females in a class for protection still stands," she said.

THE SUPREME COURT has had no case in which it upheld women's rights to employment,, Mrs. Selvig added, even though, she said, last January the court instructed a lower court to take closer look at the test case of Ida Phillips versus Martin Marietta Corp. of Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Phillips claimed her civil rights were violated when she was refused employment because she was the mother of pre-school age children.

She explained that Mrs. Phillips' attorney argued that Martin Marietta employed men with pre-school age children, and the court opinion said that such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an occupational qualification necessary to the operation of business.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, she added, disagreed in a separate opinion, saying that he feared "the court has fallen into a trap of assuming that the act (Civil Rights Act of 1964) permits ancient canards about proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination."

SO, MRS. SELVIG said, the court in effect has not upheld the right of women to equal job opportunity.

"With victories like these, who needs defeats?" she said.

All such laws and opinions upholding sex discrimination would be unconstitutional with the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, she said, adding that married women are discriminated against particularly in state laws about property ownership and its management. Community property of the marriage, she said, is by right in California managed by the husband.

The law looks upon a married couple as one, and the one is the husband, she said.

While she praised the Family Rights Act of California as being forward-looking in placing no blame on either partner in dissolution of marriage, she said that it is presenting new problems for women.

It assumes, she said, that women are able to earn a reasonable living, and currently many wives of long years who are suddenly finding their marriages dissolved have no training nor job experience to equip them to earn a living.

"It will be a just law only after we advance the limit for women to include equal job opportunities, control over thier own bodies including free legal abortion, paid maternity leaves and child care centers," Mrs. Selvig stated.

ONE MAJOR "breakthrough" was the issuance by the secretary of labor of guidelines regulating employment by firms that are federal contractors, she pointed out. The guidelines not only call for end of discrimination on the basis of sex or race but also require affirmative action programs instructing businesses to actively recruit and hire women and minorities, she said.

New Horizon Opens — Veterinary Medicine

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Veterinary medicine is a fast growing field for women, many of whom are becoming full-fledged doctors with DVM degrees, and for others who are animal technicians, or veterinary assistants.

Currently in Marin three young women are exercising their skills as doctors in pet hospitals, and a fourth veterinarian is planning to work part-time as soon as she can make arrangements for the care of her two young children.

A graduate of Washington State University veterinary school in 1962, Dr. Carrie A. Corvin now owns and operates her own veterinary hospital in Ignacio, after gaining experience in pet hospitals in Sausalito and Mill Valley.

ALSO A WASHINGTON State graduate, in 1968, Dr. Susan Reinke is employed at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley. She has two years previous experience in a New York pet hospital. Her husband, Dr. Jerome Reinke, is a veterinarian at Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley.

Another husband-wife veterinary team consists of Dr. Sharon Sharpnack of the Terra Linda Veterinary Hospital and Dr. Eric Sharpnack, who is employed at the Marin Veterinary Clinic at Point Reyes, where they live. Sharon was graduated from the veterinary school of the University of California at Davis in 1967.

Dr. Nancy Newton, wife of Mill Valley's new planning commissioner, was graduated in 1966 from the veterinary school at Michigan State University and practiced as a doctor at several hospitals before coming to Mill Valley.

ALL OF the women said they had liked animals since childhood, made the decision to become veterinarians at a very young age and had never wanted to be anything else.

Sharon said, "I think girls naturally feel protective. In vet school they seemed to take more care in nursing sick animals, and they were better at first in surgery because they were used to doing finer things with their hands and fingers."

The women experienced no great difficulty, as compared with many women physicians, in gaining admission to their professional schools, although Susan said, "I do believe that women have to have higher grades on the average than men," and Sharon admitted, "I had to apply a second time because my grades weren't high enough the first time. There were 11 girls in my class," she said, "and those that graduated are very successful as vets."

Carrie Corvin, who was in the first 10 students admitted in her group, commented, "If you take your pre-vet work at a college having a veterinary school, you have a better chance of being admitted because you become known."

Nancy Newton credited her ready acceptance to the fact that "the Michigan State University school of veterinary medicine is noted for its liberal policy in this respect."

THE FOUR women agreed that though there were a few faculty members and men colleagues who showed prejudice against women in the field, on the whole there was very little of it in school. How a woman is treated, they say, depends on her personality and attitude.

There was general agreement on qualifications a woman needs who wants to become a veterinarian.

First is a liking for and desire to care for animals. Then since the educational requirements include a college degree and four additional years at a veterinary school, a student should have generally good intelligence and high grades in college with interest and good achievement in the scientific pre-med courses.

All emphasized the need for great physical stamina because women have to handle the large animals as well as the small ones in school, and they can be as good at it as a man, they believe, though most prefer to work with small animals.

SHARON COMMENTED, "There are always men around to handle the large animals. If I had a hospital I would hire a man to do that."

Susan pointed out that ability to deal with people is also very important, noting that "some students make the great mistake of thinking that being a vet is just a matter of handling animals."

With their degree in hand, young women veterinarians have problems of employment to consider.

Some encountered reluctance to hire a woman, and two experienced a pay differential, with a lower salary for women than for men doing the same work. But the scarcity of veterinarians has a tendency to keep that to a minimum, they say.

THEY SAY there was some hesitancy on the part of a few

Air Board Accused In Napa-Solano Fuss

EUREKA (UPI)—The State Air Resources Board was told yesterday it is responsible for "a blow to the whole concept of regionalism" by deciding to cut parts of two counties from the Bay Area Pollution Control District.

Victor Calvo, chairman of the BAPCD board of directors, addressed the state board at a hearing into plans to cut parts of Sonoma and Solano counties from the nine-county organization.

The state group, on April 21, ruled in principle that about half of the two counties could be excluded. The hearing yesterday was to work out details of the plan.

Calvo said the fragmentation of territory under his district's jurisdiction would "undercut our enforcement program and impede the efforts of the District to attain recently enacted strict California and federal air quality standards."

In Napa County, he said, the state board's action is being regarded "as an escape hatch through which effective air pollution control regulations may be avoided".

Napa County has not yet petitioned for action similar to that requested by Solano and Sonoma Counties.

Calvo quoted a newspaper story that said a Napa supervisor felt the reason his county hadn't asked to be let out of the district was because he didn't think Solano and Sonoma would be successful.

"We regard the action that you took at your April meeting as overly hasty, inconsistent with your earlier findings and at variance with principles set forth in law," Calvo, a Contra Costa County supervisor, said.

He said a section of the Health and Safety Code requires the Air Resources Board to divide the state into air basins "based upon similar meterological and geographic conditions."

Political boundaries are also to be taken into consideration under the code, Calvo said.

"No meterological evidence was submitted to the ARB to show that the climates of the excluded areas differ in any way from the climates of other areas, for example Marin County and the Santa Clara Valley," he said.

He said Solano County claimed its northeastern portion is a transitional zone between maritime and valley influences.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has never denied this, Calvo said, and has submitted a report on air currents that drew "much the same conclusions."

"But we pointed out that there are many such zones in the Bay Area," he said.

"This fact does not warrant splitting these zones into adjacent basins without reference to political boundaries."

More Pay Asked From N. Marin Water District

The North Marin County Water District board has been asked for a 4.8 per cent pay raise and merit pay for employees.

Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill also proposed Tuesday night that outside construction and maintenance personnel be granted a four-and-a-half-day work week.

Directors will consider the proposals at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Churchill said the proposed cost-of-living pay hike and the merit pay would cost about $32,700 a year.

The merit pay, up to 8 per cent, could be granted to employees at the top of their salary scale who have four years with the district, he said.

Churchill said he proposed the 36-hour week for outside construction and maintenance personnel, numbering 11, because trade unions covering similar work have cut back their work week.

Churchill also proposed that employees, who now have nine holidays, be granted an additional holiday, and preferably two more, Admission Day and Lincoln's Birthday.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

STAFFORD LAKE — Approved an agreement with Marin County on county use of Stafford Lake for recreation, an agreement to guarantee water quality control and clearly define district and county lands.

COMPUTERS — Authorized Churchill to negotiate for use of Marin County computers to handle district accounting.

USAGE — Received a report that water consumption last month was down 22.7 per cent from April, 1970, because it was cooler and damper last month than in April, 1970.

Screwwork Cases

Abatement Panel Pay Committee To Meet June 8

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board's salary committee will meet at 8 p.m. June 8 at the district office at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, to discuss proposed salary increases for district employees.

Allan D. Telford, district manager, has recommended a 6 per cent cost-of-living raise for the district's nine employees as well as additional fringe benefits. He said that if all the requests were granted by the board, it would cost the district $13,232 more than this year.

The full board will hear recommendations from the salary committee on June 9 at 8 p.m. at which time Telford said the board expects to adopt a budget for 1971-72.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

16-Year-Old Girl Declares She Is For Strictly Single Life

DEAR HELEN:

I'm another "Remaining Single."

I agree with the girl and Steve who say marriage is not for them. Most of the marriages I've seen are failures. The man gets drunk with the boys (or the girls), and the woman stays home with the kids.

No matter how much they seem to love each other at first, they end up nagging and fighting, and it's mainly the man's fault.

Not all of us girls want to become men's play-toys or baby machines. They have their fun, then they leave, either before marriage or afterwards. They basically don't like women except "in their place."

It makes me mad to think that I'll be considered a "failure" if I don't get married, no matter how successful I am, or that there'll be whispers about me being strange.

I'm not saying Iwill never marry, but I DO resent feeling that it's expected of me. From what I've observed, in my own family and elsewhere, a woman is a fool to scrap a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a man who isn't as smart as she is.

Up with women's liberation! — TIRED OF MALE WEAKLINGS AND BULLIES, AGE 16.

DEAR 16;

By the time you change your mind (if you do) a great many more men will be considering women as equals, not "play-toys." Any girl who thinks she must "give up a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a basic woman hater" has studied a species of married life that won't be around much longer. Why don't you interview young, happily married career girls and get a different slant? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 19-year-old stable young man. I've been going with this girl for two years and intended to marry her, but she has been playing me for a fool.

I keep finding her with other guys, and I know she wants to break up with me but, like a dummy, I keep begging her to come back. She does, probably out of pity.

CAN'T HACK IT

DEAR C.H.I.:

Make a date with a cute girl who has just been dumped by a two-timing boy friend. Spend no more than 10 minutes each downgrading your "ex" and then get on with the new. It won't happen like that, but you'd be surprised how fast you can fall out of love when there's a place to land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother is pretty far out, a lot better than most parents, except when it comes to this 17-year-old boy I want to date. He wants me to go to his prom with him, which is up on the mountains. His mom will even come down to get me and bring me home, but 'No!'

Mom says she trusts me but doesn't trust him, mainly because she thinks he does dope. He really doesn't, but even great parents get paranoid if you mention grass, and she read one of his letters that asked me what I'd think if he started. I told him I'd break up with him, but she won't believe he isn't like "the rest of those wild boys in his town."

IS IT HATE?

DEAR I.I.H.:

You make a scary boy and a suspicious parent compatible the same way you "condition" children to overcome their fear of animals: a little at a time.

Casually mention his achievements in school and elsewhere or have an older friend do it.

of the older clients to think they were not as well qualified as men, but they felt some of this attitude was due to their own inexperience in handling people, because it was overcome later.

"Some even prefer a woman," Sharon declared. "Cat people seem to want a woman to handle their cats, but some owners of large animals seem to be embarrassed to talk to a woman."

Susan explained that there will probably be more opportunities for girls in the fast growing field of animal technicians, noting that the five animal handlers during the day at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital where she works are all girls.

The California Veterinary Medical Association in Oakland said that two-year courses for animal technicians are now offered in the animal science department of the Los Angeles Pierce College in Woodland Hills and San Diego State College, and a four-year course is being proposed at California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

NUPTIAL VOWS SAID

Susan Ann Schnapp and James Francis Jula exchanged marriage vows in a ceremony Saturday at St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda and greeted guests at a reception afterward at the Oakview Club at the Meadows in Terra Linda. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Schnapp of San Rafael, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jula of Santa Clara. The couple will live in San Jose. New Demo Women's Director Hopes To Erase An Old Image

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic women work as hard if not harder than men in nuts-and-bolts chores for their party, but they receive little recognition and, more often than not, no pay.

Mrs. Harriet Cipriani, newly appointed director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee, said women themselves are partly to blame for their small representation in the party's councils.

'They should have been working at it," she said.

SHE HOPES to change the picture in next year's selection of delegates to the national convention and of candidates for state and national public office. But she emphasized that a successful election is pretty much the result of a do-it-yourself campaign. She cited Ohio as an example.

The Federation of Women's Clubs in Ohio decided to sponsor one of their own for state treasurer, and selected Mrs. Gertrude Donahey. They helped arrange speaking dates for her and exposed her to wide publicity, then supported her against male candidates in the primary and general elections.

The result: Ohio now has its first female treasurer —and the pleasant distinction of license plate No. 1 on her automobile.

"You always hear that women won't back a woman candidate, that they're jealous," Mrs. Cipriani said. "That just isn't true.

"Mrs. Donahey told women, 'This isn't my campaign, it's our campaign,' and they felt they had a stake in the race."

SHE SAID Democrats are proud that a commission headed by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., adopted guidelines that would forbid sex discrimination in selecting Democratic convention delegates.

Mrs. Cipriani urged women to "make sure they're in on this" and end up with better proportionate convention representation.

A study she made earlier this year showed a fluctuating ratio of women to men among delegates to the last three national Democratic conventions. In 1960, 303 women were included among the 2,717 delegates. In 1964, the count was 416 of 2,934, and in 1968, 405 of 3,049.

HARRIET CIPRIANI
Brings new ideas

Each of the 50 states sent at least one woman to the 1968 convention. Alaska was represented by one in the 22-member delegation, and for Hawaii it was one of 26. Three states chose two women to serve in their delegations —Alabama, Delaware, and West Virginia — but none accorded the women anything close to their actual voting muscle.

Women's total strength in state offices grew from 166 in 1969 to 191 in 1970, rising from 150 to 166 in legislatures, from five to nine as treasurer, and from one to three as auditor.

TWELVE WOMEN now serve in the House of Representatives, compared to nine last year, but the U.S. Senate counts only one woman among its 100 members — Maine's Republican Margaret Chase Smith.

Mrs. Cipriani wants to see the Democratic numbers increase appreciably.

She is planning to schedule a women's conference this fall, to which the top party leaders in each state will be invited. That would add up to a total of about 200, compared to the 3,000 who attended the last such meeting here in 1966, and Mrs. Cipriani said the smaller number is just about right.

A meeting of several thousand women is quite expensive and unwieldy. Panel discussions are too big, she said, and the conference becomes a social gathering.

"WITH 200 we can cover the role of women in the 1972 campaign and talk about how to get more of them to run for public office," she said.

Consumers Told To Always Fight Back

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Ways for consumers to fight back on their own were discussed yesterday by attorney Michael Silberstein of San Rafael, who has witnessed the poorer elements of society battle for their rights.

His remarks were made during the second lecture in a series, "You the Consumer" in Novato, sponsored by the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women and the Association of California Consumers.

During his talk he cited home rentals, autos and repair services among the growing problems in the consumer field.

He said his interest in consumer laws and self-defense tactics stemmed from his work with Legal Aid in San Mateo where he represented poor people, who suffered the brunt of inferior products.

Switching to the field of charge accounts, Silbertsein said that while normal interest rates are 18 per cent annually on carryovers, some stores hike the rate to as much as 37 per cent on accumulated monthly interest. He said it was wiser to borrow — say an amount of $100 from a bank to pay a bill at 18 per cent — than pay the higher rate.

A frustrating area is wily sales people, especially auto salesmen, he said, who sell cars all day to the consumer who may only buy a car every one to five years. When buying, have the salesman write it all down, he said.

There is legislation on the books to protect the consumer, but the consumer must have the willingness to see that an offense is corrected, he said.

TWO ACTS in effect to protect the consumer, Silberstein said, are the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act and the Rees-Levering Auto Sales Finance Act. The bills are not all protecting, he said, but in some cases the consumer can recover legal fees, and in some situations, triple damages. There is also the Truth-in-Lending, he said.

Silberstein said irregularities in purchases or in services should be reported to the consumer fraud division of the California Attorney General's office. Writing letters to the president of companies is another way he suggested to let the company know of any irregularities.

"Be informed, shop carefully and don't buy impetuously," he said.

A BENEFIT open to the homeowner is the Homestead Act, which Silberstein explained. For a minimal fee, a form, purchased at a local dime store or variety store may be filed with the county recorder listing the owner's address and in the event there is a foreclosure, the property would be protected up to $15,000 or $20,000, depending on the amount paid on the mortgage, he said.

The small claims court was suggested as another area where the consumer can find protection.

"The courts are very crowded, he said, "but the consumer can rant and scream."

He suggested two books to help the consumer — "How to Fight Your Case in Small Claims Court" and "What to do About Your Bad Car."

How Much Paint?

In a recent survey conducted by a paint manufacturer, do-it-yourself painters most often asked: How much paint do I need to paint my house? The answer: Read instructions on paint can label or ask the paint dealer.

New Horizon Opens — Veterinary Medicine

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Veterinary medicine is a fast growing field for women, many of whom are becoming full-fledged doctors with DVM degrees, and for others who are animal technicians, or veterinary assistants.

Currently in Marin three young women are exercising their skills as doctors in pet hospitals, and a fourth veterinarian is planning to work part-time as soon as she can make arrangements for the care of her two young children.

A graduate of Washington State University veterinary school in 1962, Dr. Carrie A. Corvin now owns and operates her own veterinary hospital in Ignacio, after gaining experience in pet hospitals in Sausalito and Mill Valley.

ALSO A WASHINGTON State graduate, in 1968, Dr. Susan Reinke is employed at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley. She has two years previous experience in a New York pet hospital. Her husband, Dr. Jerome Reinke, is a veterinarian at Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley.

Another husband-wife veterinary team consists of Dr. Sharon Sharpnack of the Terra Linda Veterinary Hospital and Dr. Eric Sharpnack, who is employed at the Marin Veterinary Clinic at Point Reyes, where they live. Sharon was graduated from the veterinary school of the University of California at Davis in 1967.

Dr. Nancy Newton, wife of Mill Valley's new planning commissioner, was graduated in 1966 from the veterinary school at Michigan State University and practiced as a doctor at several hospitals before coming to Mill Valley.

ALL OF the women said they had liked animals since childhood, made the decision to become veterinarians at a very young age and had never wanted to be anything else.

Sharon said, "I think girls naturally feel protective. In vet school they seemed to take more care in nursing sick animals, and they were better at first in surgery because they were used to doing finer things with their hands and fingers."

The women experienced no great difficulty, as compared with many women physicians, in gaining admission to their professional schools, although Susan said, "I do believe that women have to have higher grades on the average than men," and Sharon admitted, "I had to apply a second time because my grades weren't high enough the first time. There were 11 girls in my class," she said, "and those that graduated are very successful as vets."

Carrie Corvin, who was in the first 10 students admitted in her group, commented, "If you take your pre-vet work at a college having a veterinary school, you have a better chance of being admitted because you become known."

Nancy Newton credited her ready acceptance to the fact that "the Michigan State University school of veterinary medicine is noted for its liberal policy in this respect."

THE FOUR women agreed that though there were a few faculty members and men colleagues who showed prejudice against women in the field, on the whole there was very little of it in school. How a woman is treated, they say, depends on her personality and attitude.

There was general agreement on qualifications a woman needs who wants to become a veterinarian.

First is a liking for and desire to care for animals. Then since the educational requirements include a college degree and four additional years at a veterinary school, a student should have generally good intelligence and high grades in college with interest and good achievement in the scientific pre-med courses.

All emphasized the need for great physical stamina because women have to handle the large animals as well as the small ones in school, and they can be as good at it as a man, they believe, though most prefer to work with small animals.

SHARON COMMENTED, "There are always men around to handle the large animals. If I had a hospital I would hire a man to do that."

Susan pointed out that ability to deal with people is also very important, noting that "some students make the great mistake of thinking that being a vet is just a matter of handling animals."

With their degree in hand, young women veterinarians have problems of employment to consider.

Some encountered reluctance to hire a woman, and two experienced a pay differential, with a lower salary for women than for men doing the same work. But the scarcity of veterinarians has a tendency to keep that to a minimum, they say.

THEY SAY there was some hesitancy on the part of a few

ATTORNEY'S VIEW

Women Told To Police The Laws

By BARBARA HOSMER

It's up to women themselves to work to get rid of laws that are keeping them down, attorney Jettie Pierce Selvig said yesterday.

"Give us our rights and we'll protect ourselves," is the message she urged women to give their state and federal legislators.

Speaking to the Soroptimist Clubof Marin in San Anselmo, she said that women no longer need "protective" laws and she urged passage by Congress of the Equal Rights Amendment to insure women equality under the laws of this country.

THE MILL VALLEY lawyer, who is associated with the San Francisco law firm of Belli, Ashe, Ellison, Choulos and Lieff, said that old laws which purport to "protect" women only serve to keep them down in low-level jobs and should be done away with via the Equal Rights Amendment.

It's up to women, and the place to educate them about such matters is in clubs and chapters "such as this", she told the club.

Mrs. Selvig said that labor unions have conscientiously worked to better the lot of men workers, often at the expense of women members, adding that for example it was not unusual to find them bargaining for a "cough for the women in the rest room and a pay raise for men." Management, she said, liked this because of the great numbers of women many businesses employ.

THE COURTS, and especially the U.S. Supreme Court, have been no friends to women, either, she said. Neither the Fifth nor Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution, which guarantee "due process of law" and "equal rights" for citizens, have not abrogated laws that limit women's right to work, give them longer prison terms than men for similar offenses, deny occupational opportunity or right to property.

Despite these constitutional amendments every state has laws that discriminate against women, the former president of the National Association of Women Lawyers said.

"The doctrine of placing all females in a class for protection still stands," she said.

THE SUPREME COURT has had no case in which it upheld women's rights to employment,, Mrs. Selvig added, even though, she said, last January the court instructed a lower court to take closer look at the test case of Ida Phillips versus Martin Marietta Corp. of Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Phillips claimed her civil rights were violated when she was refused employment because she was the mother of pre-school age children.

She explained that Mrs. Phillips' attorney argued that Martin Marietta employed men with pre-school age children, and the court opinion said that such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an occupational qualification necessary to the operation of business.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, she added, disagreed in a separate opinion, saying that he feared "the court has fallen into a trap of assuming that the act (Civil Rights Act of 1964) permits ancient canards about proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination."

SO, MRS. SELVIG said, the court in effect has not upheld the right of women to equal job opportunity.

"With victories like these, who needs defeats?" she said.

All such laws and opinions upholding sex discrimination would be unconstitutional with the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, she said, adding that married women are discriminated against particularly in state laws about property ownership and its management. Community property of the marriage, she said, is by right in California managed by the husband.

The law looks upon a married couple as one, and the one is the husband, she said.

While she praised the Family Rights Act of California as being forward-looking in placing no blame on either partner in dissolution of marriage, she said that it is presenting new problems for women.

It assumes, she said, that women are able to earn a reasonable living, and currently many wives of long years who are suddenly finding their marriages dissolved have no training nor job experience to equip them to earn a living.

"It will be a just law only after we advance the limit for women to include equal job opportunities, control over thier own bodies including free legal abortion, paid maternity leaves and child care centers," Mrs. Selvig stated.

ONE MAJOR "breakthrough" was the issuance by the secretary of labor of guidelines regulating employment by firms that are federal contractors, she pointed out. The guidelines not only call for end of discrimination on the basis of sex or race but also require affirmative action programs instructing businesses to actively recruit and hire women and minorities, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulman are counselor directors for the tour, which will leave Marin County July 4 for a six-week's trip to Rome, Germany, Switzerland, England, the Netherlands and France.

MRS. HENRY EDINGTON
Christian women's speaker

The meeting covered foreign currency and exchange, clothes, luggage and packing and the academic philosophy of the program.

The entire group of 145 students and teachers from the Bay Area that will be traveling in Europe will meet on Saturday in San Jose.

Students making the tour from Marin and Southern Sonoma are Ned Parker and Ladd Schulman of Novato; Lori Collins of Greenbrae; Janet Russel of Ross; Glenda and Joan Corstorphine, Karen Amandoli, Hal Shenson, Brant and Mark Ward of San Rafael; Nancy Koch of Sleepy Hollow; Michele and Claudia Heath of Tiburon, and Janet Gunthorp and Ronnie Redding of Petaluma.

REEDLAND WOODS School's public Renaissance Faire will be held on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at its grove in Tiburon.

Students have purchased booths to sell their handicrafts: macrame, paper flowers, beads, candles and leather goods. Breads, cakes, ciders, tarts and sandwiches will be sold. Games for all ages have been planned.

"LA FIESTA" is the theme of the Mexican dinner-dance to be given by the Sausalito Yacht Club Saturday at the clubhouse. Members will wear informal, preferably Mexican clothes.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 6 to 8 p.m., and Don Pedro Salas will entertain with his guitar and songs. from 8 to 9 p.m. a Mexican dinner will be served, and dancing will complete the evening.

THE NOVATO Newcomers Club gourmet group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Patrick in Novato at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. John McGuire and Mrs. Patrick have planned the menu and will demonstrate the preparation of a Korean dinner. Mrs. Jerry Carstens is reservation chairman.

"MEET THE Cast" party will be held Saturday night at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, following the Pelican Players performance. The audience is invited to stay after the performance for dancing and refreshments.

Designers Skirting Issue In Hemlines For The Fall

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designers fraught with what to do about hemlines finally have skirted the issue with a flattering compromise. Down with the extremes of the mini, up with the awkward (for most) look of the midi, and onward with a happy compromise of lengths covering the knees.

Matter of fact, the New York firms currently showing their advance fall and winter collections to the nation's buyers are so adamant about the knees being covered next season that the firm of Teal Traina apologized when a model appeared in a late day black chiffon dress above her knees. The knees would be covered by the time that design got into production and shipping, Teal Traina, the president, assured his audience.

TO GO with the more conservative hemlines coming into fashion, there also is the fail-safe revival of the classics of the 1930s and 1940s.

Consider these revivals among others:—The blazers, not only blazing the fashion trail into the whole range of daytime wear but into more formal apparel. The designer at Malcolm Charles said blazers cover all of a woman's problem areas."

— The "chubbies," those waist-length fur jackets usually done in bulky-looking furs like silver fox and once standard in the wardrobes of Hollywood's glamour girls.

—Casual, wraparound coats, belted bathrobe fashion, their wide collars worn turned up around the neck. Teal Traina did one in natural cashmere, others in furs such as a black calfskin collared and cuffed in black-and-white skunk.

—SHIRT DRESSES, in daytime wools or in deluxe evening versions from designers like Mollie Parnis. Miss Parnis liked them for day as step-in versions done in challis prints, with slight flare to skirts.

—A big season ahead for black for both day and evening with the "little black dress," a basic a woman can depend on when in doubt what to wear.

—Casual sweater top looks to some of the most glamorous of evening clothes, some of them jewel-studded all over their high necklines and long skinny sleeves.

—Return to the fitted look with waists belted, clothes hugging the bosom—"I've never seen anything wrong with showing the figure," said Traina.

Vows Are Exchanged In Home Of Bride's Mother

Mrs. Jane Ray Valceschini and Richard A. Merriam, both of Marin, were married Saturday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Herbert James Ray of Nevada City. It was a second marriage for both.

The bride's son Mark gave his mother in marriage, and her niece, Rebecca Ray of Nevada City, was maid of honor. The bridegroom's best man was his son, Putnam.

Also attending were the bride's family and a few close friends of the couple, the bride's sons, Scott, Clark and Matthew and Mr. Merriam's son Pendleton.

Mr. Merriam is the son of Mrs. Louis T. Merriam of Greenfield, Mass., and the late Mr. Merriam, and the bride is the daughter of the late Admiral Ray.

Roberta Williams Wins Alumni Award

Roberta A. Williams of 208 A Bulkley Street, Sausalito has been named a recipient of an Education Alumni award presented by the University of San Francisco.

A 1971 graduate in secondary education and library science she was one of five recipients chosen for their academic work, student teaching, and promise as future educators.

Couple Says Vows In San Francisco

St. Francis Lutheran Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding of Susan Eleanore Albrecht and Gerald Raymond Skeels of Larkspur on May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Albrecht of San Francisco are the bride's parents. Mrs. Dennis McNamara of Mill Valley was matron of honor, and Delores Thompson, Sturgis, Mich., was bridesmaid.

Best man for the bridegroom was John McFadden of Tiburon, and ushers were Dennis McNamara and Phillip Walters of Mill Valley.

Following a reception at the church, the couple went on a wedding trip to Carmel and Monterey. They are living in Larkspur. The bridegroom is a parish worker and organist for the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

Susan was graduated from Fort Van Couver High School in Vancouver, Wash., and Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore. She is employed with the Health Department for the City and County of San Francisco.

Gerald, the son of Mrs. Max Skeels of Oregon City was graduated from Oregon City High School and Lewis and Clark College. He also attended the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus, Ohio.

Richard Trice Is Engaged To Mary Ann Sherman

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sherman of San Quentin are announcing the engagement of their daughter Mary Ann To Richard John Trice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Trice of Concord.

Mary is the sister of Mona Jean Sherman of San Quentin and Stephen Ford of Corte Madera and the granddaughter of Mrs. Bessie Taylor of Redwood City. She attended San Rafael High School.

Richard is the brother of Thomas Trice of Concord, William Trice of Pittsburgh, Robert Trice of Eureka and Mrs. Paul Harrison of El Sobrante. Mrs. Agnes Stoffel of Walnut Creek is his grandmother. He was graduated from Mount Diablo High School and attended Mount Diablo Valley College, both in Concord. The future bridegroom is employed by Cable Television in Concord.

The couple plans to be married Aug. 28.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

16-Year-Old Girl Declares She Is For Strictly Single Life

DEAR HELEN:

I'm another "Remaining Single."

I agree with the girl and Steve who say marriage is not for them. Most of the marriages I've seen are failures. The man gets drunk with the boys (or the girls), and the woman stays home with the kids.

No matter how much they seem to love each other at first, they end up nagging and fighting, and it's mainly the man's fault.

Not all of us girls want to become men's play-toys or baby machines. They have their fun, then they leave, either before marriage or afterwards. They basically don't like women except "in their place."

It makes me mad to think that I'll be considered a "failure" if I don't get married, no matter how successful I am, or that there'll be whispers about me being strange.

I'm not saying Iwill never marry, but I DO resent feeling that it's expected of me. From what I've observed, in my own family and elsewhere, a woman is a fool to scrap a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a man who isn't as smart as she is.

Up with women's liberation! — TIRED OF MALE WEAKLINGS AND BULLIES, AGE 16.

DEAR 16;

By the time you change your mind (if you do) a great many more men will be considering women as equals, not "play-toys." Any girl who thinks she must "give up a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a basic woman hater" has studied a species of married life that won't be around much longer. Why don't you interview young, happily married career girls and get a different slant? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 19-year-old stable young man. I've been going with this girl for two years and intended to marry her, but she has been playing me for a fool.

I keep finding her with other guys, and I know she wants to break up with me but, like a dummy, I keep begging her to come back. She does, probably out of pity.

Maybe you can tell me, Helen, how to fall out of love. — CAN'T HACK IT

DEAR C.H.I.:

Make a date with a cute girl who has just been dumped by a two-timing boy friend. Spend no more than 10 minutes each downgrading your "ex" and then get on with the new. It won't happen like that, but you'd be surprised how fast you can fall out of love when there's a place to land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother is pretty far out, a lot better than most parents, except when it comes to this 17-year-old boy I want to date. He wants me to go to his prom with him, which is up on the mountains. His mom will even come down to get me and bring me home, but 'No!'

Mom says she trusts me but doesn't trust him, mainly because she thinks he does dope. He really doesn't, but even great parents get paranoid if you mention grass, and she read one of his letters that asked me what I'd think if he started. I told him I'd break up with him, but she won't believe he isn't like "the rest of those wild boys in his town."

IS IT HATE?

DEAR I.I.H.:

You make a scary boy and a suspicious parent compatible the same way you "condition" children to overcome their fear of animals: a little at a time.

Casually mention his achievements in school and elsewhere or have an older friend do it. — H.

of the older clients to think they were not as well qualified as men, but they felt some of this attitude was due to their own inexperience in handling people, because it was overcome later.

"Some even prefer a woman," Sharon declared. "Cat people seem to want a woman to handle their cats, but some owners of large animals seem to be embarrassed to talk to a woman."

Susan explained that there will probably be more opportunities for girls in the fast growing field of animal technicians, noting that the five animal handlers during the day at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital where she works are all girls.

The California Veterinary Medical Association in Oakland said that two-year courses for animal technicians are now offered in the animal science department of the Los Angeles Pierce College in Woodland Hills and San Diego State College, and a four-year course is being proposed at California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

New Demo Women's Director Hopes To Erase An Old Image

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic women work as hard if not harder than men in nuts-and-bolts chores for their party, but they receive little recognition and, more often than not, no pay.

Mrs. Harriet Cipriani, newly appointed director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee, said women themselves are partly to blame for their small representation in the party's councils.

'They should have been working at it," she said.

SHE HOPES to change the picture in next year's selection of delegates to the national convention and of candidates for state and national public office. But she emphasized that a successful election is pretty much the result of a do-it-yourself campaign. She cited Ohio as an example.

The Federation of Women's Clubs in Ohio decided to sponsor one of their own for state treasurer, and selected Mrs. Gertrude Donahey. They helped arrange speaking dates for her and exposed her to wide publicity, then supported her against male candidates in the primary and general elections.

The result: Ohio now has its first female treasurer —and the pleasant distinction of license plate No. 1 on her automobile.

"You always hear that women won't back a woman candidate, that they're jealous," Mrs. Cipriani said. "That just isn't true.

"Mrs. Donahey told women, 'This isn't my campaign, it's our campaign,' and they felt they had a stake in the race."

SHE SAID Democrats are proud that a commission headed by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., adopted guidelines that would forbid sex discrimination in selecting Democratic convention delegates.

Mrs. Cipriani urged women to "make sure they're in on this" and end up with better proportionate convention representation.

A study she made earlier this year showed a fluctuating ratio of women to men among delegates to the last three national Democratic conventions. In 1960, 303 women were included among the 2,717 delegates. In 1964, the count was 416 of 2,934, and in 1968, 405 of 3,049.

HARRIET CIPRIANI
Brings new ideas

Each of the 50 states sent at least one woman to the 1968 convention. Alaska was represented by one in the 22-member delegation, and for Hawaii it was one of 26. Three states chose two women to serve in their delegations —Alabama, Delaware, and West Virginia — but none accorded the women anything close to their actual voting muscle.

Women's total strength in state offices grew from 166 in 1969 to 191 in 1970, rising from 150 to 166 in legislatures, from five to nine as treasurer, and from one to three as auditor.

TWELVE WOMEN now serve in the House of Representatives, compared to nine last year, but the U.S. Senate counts only one woman among its 100 members — Maine's Republican Margaret Chase Smith.

Mrs. Cipriani wants to see the Democratic numbers increase appreciably.

She is planning to schedule a women's conference this fall, to which the top party leaders in each state will be invited. That would add up to a total of about 200, compared to the 3,000 who attended the last such meeting here in 1966, and Mrs. Cipriani said the smaller number is just about right.

A meeting of several thousand women is quite expensive and unwieldy. Panel discussions are too big, she said, and the conference becomes a social gathering.

"WITH 200 we can cover the role of women in the 1972 campaign and talk about how to get more of them to run for public office," she said.

Consumers Told To Always Fight Back

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Ways for consumers to fight back on their own were discussed yesterday by attorney Michael Silberstein of San Rafael, who has witnessed the poorer elements of society battle for their rights.

His remarks were made during the second lecture in a series, "You the Consumer" in Novato, sponsored by the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women and the Association of California Consumers.

During his talk he cited home rentals, autos and repair services among the growing problems in the consumer field.

He said his interest in consumer laws and self-defense tactics stemmed from his work with Legal Aid in San Mateo where he represented poor people, who suffered the brunt of inferior products.

Switching to the field of charge accounts, Silbertsein said that while normal interest rates are 18 per cent annually on carryovers, some stores hike the rate to as much as 37 per cent on accumulated monthly interest. He said it was wiser to borrow — say an amount of $100 from a bank to pay a bill at 18 per cent — than pay the higher rate.

A frustrating area is wily sales people, especially auto salesmen, he said, who sell cars all day to the consumer who may only buy a car every one to five years. When buying, have the salesman write it all down, he said.

There is legislation on the books to protect the consumer, but the consumer must have the willingness to see that an offense is corrected, he said.

TWO ACTS in effect to protect the consumer, Silberstein said, are the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act and the Rees-Levering Auto Sales Finance Act. The bills are not all protecting, he said, but in some cases the consumer can recover legal fees, and in some situations, triple damages. There is also the Truth-in-Lending, he said.

Silberstein said irregularities in purchases or in services should be reported to the consumer fraud division of the California Attorney General's office. Writing letters to the president of companies is another way he suggested to let the company know of any irregularities.

"Be informed, shop carefully and don't buy impetuously," he said.

A BENEFIT open to the homeowner is the Homestead Act, which Silberstein explained. For a minimal fee, a form, purchased at a local dime store or variety store may be filed with the county recorder listing the owner's address and in the event there is a foreclosure, the property would be protected up to $15,000 or $20,000, depending on the amount paid on the mortgage, he said.

The small claims court was suggested as another area where the consumer can find protection.

"The courts are very crowded, he said, "but the consumer can rant and scream."

He suggested two books to help the consumer — "How to Fight Your Case in Small Claims Court" and "What to do About Your Bad Car."

How Much Paint?

In a recent survey conducted by a paint manufacturer, do-it-yourself painters most often asked: How much paint do I need to paint my house? The answer: Read instructions on paint can label or ask the paint dealer.

ON THE AGENDA

'San Marin Art Faire' Set Saturday At San Marin High

"San Marin Art Faire" will be presented by the San Marin High School Parent-Faculty Club at the school in Novato from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Mrs. James Studley is chairman.

Lee Hilton, curriculum specialist with the Novato Unified School District, has gathered 200 items from Novato and San Marin High School; Hill, Sinaloa and San Jose Junior High Schools including flatwork, sculpture, jewelry and assemblages. Als on display will be 300 pieces of flatwork from the 12 elementary schools.

Art in action will be featured. Ronald Jolliffe's ceramics class will demonstrate Japanese techniques of raku firing, and Mrs. Brenda Lorraine's students will demonstrate tie-dyeing techniques. San Marin students will have ceramics, weaving, original prints, lithographs, etchings, woodcuts and jewelry for sale. The Parent-Faculty Club will have a booth with paper flowers, beads and baked goods donated by a church group for sale. Food will be on sale at the gymnasium patio with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Irwin and William Stiveson as chairmen.

Performing during the day will be Mrs. Joan Smith's modern dance club and John Yardas's band, vocal group and rock group. Mrs. Mona Arthur will demonstrate macrame, Mrs. Diane Miklos, weaving, and Mrs. Studley will demonstrate stitchery.

Displays will also be featured in the industrial arts building under the direction of teachers Duane Bengs and Donald Mavestiti.

THE EDUCATION for Childbirth Association of Marin is sponsoring its semi-annual free film festival tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater of Redwood High School.

Films to be shown are "A Shared Beginning" and "Journey With a Friend," both showing new trends in childbirth, and two films on home delivery, "Child Birth at Home" and Kirsa Nicolina," made in Muir Beach and shown throughout Europe, where it has won several awards.

THE ANNUAL breakfast of the Tamalpais Centre Woman's Club will be tomorrow at noon at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. Mrs. A. M. Komora is chairman.

MRS. PAUL Brand of San Anselmo and Mary Henry of Corte Madera are hostesses for the 93rd annual meeting of the San Francisco YWCA and the Marin and San Mateo County units being held tomorrow evening in the San Francisco State College cafeteria.

Beginning at 6:30 a social hour and dinner will precede a talk by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles at 8 p.m. on "Toward Educational Excellence; the Role of the Citizen."

FAIR DAY, sponsored by the Davidson Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, will be held tomorrow, beginning at 11:45 a.m. at the school in San Rafael.

A luncheon of salad and spaghetti will be on sale to the public.

THE ANTIQUES study group of the Novato Newcomers Club are planning a trip to Sonoma tomorrow. Members will leave the Novato Fair Shopping Center at 9:30 a.m.

They will visit the home and shop of Lucille Bjorkman and several other shops. Mmes. Richard Long and Edgar Garland are reservations chairmen.

MEMBERS OF the Christian Women's Club will serve a public breakfast from 9:45 a.m. to noon tomorrow at the Rafters restaurant at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

Speaker will be Mrs. Henry L. Edington of El Cerrito, chairman of the Council of Women, Northern California Billy Graham Crusade. Pianist Maxine Jenison of Mill Valley will present a musical program.

Mrs. Harold Mickens of San Rafael is reservations chairman.

AN OPEN house and tea is being hosted tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m. by members of the Stinson Beach Allied Arts at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Support of the community center is the group's major purpose. Funds raised through rummage sales and bazaars have also been donated to the Audubon Canyon Ranch, the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, Indian schools for scholarship grants and local parent-teacher clubs.

COURT ST. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, received a first place award for membership at the 25th Biennial Conference of the Catholic Daughters held last weekend in Los Angeles. The award was accepted by delegates Mmes. William Webb and Andrew Medvic, both of San Rafael.

SOCIALITES OF Marin and Sonoma Counties will have a dance for single adults tomorrow at 9 p.m. at the Heidelberg Inn in Santa Rosa.

Chairman is M. E. Van Hoosen of Novato.

MR. AND MRS. Edward Schulman of Novato had an orientation program for the Foreign Study League, a teen-age travel and study program at their home last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulman are counselor directors for the tour, which will leave Marin County July 4 for a six-week's trip to Rome, Germany, Switzerland, England, the Netherlands and France.

MRS. HENRY EDINGTON
Christian women's speaker

The meeting covered foreign currency and exchange, clothes, luggage and packing and the academic philosophy of the program.

The entire group of 145 students and teachers from the Bay Area that will be traveling in Europe will meet on Saturday in San Jose.

Students making the tour from Marin and Southern Sonoma are Ned Parker and Ladd Schulman of Novato; Lori Collins of Greenbrae; Janet Russel of Ross; Glenda and Joan Corstorphine, Karen Amandoli, Hal Shenson, Brant and Mark Ward of San Rafael; Nancy Koch of Sleepy Hollow; Michele and Claudia Heath of Tiburon, and Janet Gunthorp and Ronnie Redding of Petaluma.

REEDLAND WOODS School's public Renaissance Faire will be held on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at its grove in Tiburon.

Students have purchased booths to sell their handicrafts: macrame, paper flowers, beads, candles and leather goods. Breads, cakes, ciders, tarts and sandwiches will be sold. Games for all ages have been planned.

"LA FIESTA" is the theme of the Mexican dinner-dance to be given by the Sausalito Yacht Club Saturday at the clubhouse. Members will wear informal, preferably Mexican clothes.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 6 to 8 p.m., and Don Pedro Salas will entertain with his guitar and songs. from 8 to 9 p.m. a Mexican dinner will be served, and dancing will complete the evening.

THE NOVATO Newcomers Club gourmet group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Patrick in Novato at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. John McGuire and Mrs. Patrick have planned the menu and will demonstrate the preparation of a Korean dinner. Mrs. Jerry Carstens is reservation chairman.

"MEET THE Cast" party will be held Saturday night at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, following the Pelican Players performance. The audience is invited to stay after the performance for dancing and refreshments.

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designers fraught with what to do about hemlines finally have skirted the issue with a flattering compromise. Down with the extremes of the mini, up with the awkward (for most) look of the midi, and onward with a happy compromise of lengths covering the knees.

Matter of fact, the New York firms currently showing their advance fall and winter collections to the nation's buyers are so adamant about the knees being covered next season that the firm of Teal Traina apologized when a model appeared in a late day black chiffon dress above her knees. The knees would be covered by the time that design got into production and shipping, Teal Traina, the president, assured his audience.

TO GO with the more conservative hemlines coming into fashion, there also is the fail-safe revival of the classics of the 1930s and 1940s.

Consider these revivals among others:—The blazers, not only blazing the fashion trail into the whole range of daytime wear but into more formal apparel. The designer at Malcolm Charles said blazers cover all of a woman's problem areas."

— The "chubbies," those waist-length fur jackets usually done in bulky-looking furs like silver fox and once standard in the wardrobes of Hollywood's glamour girls.

—Casual, wraparound coats, belted bathrobe fashion, their wide collars worn turned up around the neck. Teal Traina did one in natural cashmere, others in furs such as a black calfskin collared and cuffed in black-and-white skunk.

—SHIRT DRESSES, in daytime wools or in deluxe evening versions from designers like Mollie Parnis. Miss Parnis liked them for day as step-in versions done in challis prints, with slight flare to skirts.

—A big season ahead for black for both day and evening with the "little black dress," a basic a woman can depend on when in doubt what to wear.

—Casual sweater top looks to some of the most glamorous of evening clothes, some of them jewel-studded all over their high necklines and long skinny sleeves.

—Return to the fitted look with waists belted, clothes hugging the bosom—"I've never seen anything wrong with showing the figure," said Traina.

Vows Are Exchanged In Home Of Bride's Mother

Mrs. Jane Ray Valceschini and Richard A. Merriam, both of Marin, were married Saturday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Herbert James Ray of Nevada City. It was a second marriage for both.

The bride's son Mark gave his mother in marriage, and her niece, Rebecca Ray of Nevada City, was maid of honor. The bridegroom's best man was his son, Putnam.

Also attending were the bride's family and a few close friends of the couple, the bride's sons, Scott, Clark and Matthew and Mr. Merriam's son Pendleton.

Mr. Merriam is the son of Mrs. Louis T. Merriam of Greenfield, Mass., and the late Mr. Merriam, and the bride is the daughter of the late Admiral Ray.

Roberta Williams Wins Alumni Award

Roberta A. Williams of 208 A Bulkley Street, Sausalito has been named a recipient of an Education Alumni award presented by the University of San Francisco.

A 1971 graduate in secondary education and library science she was one of five recipients chosen for their academic work, student teaching, and promise as future educators.

Couple Says Vows In San Francisco

St. Francis Lutheran Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding of Susan Eleanore Albrecht and Gerald Raymond Skeels of Larkspur on May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Albrecht of San Francisco are the bride's parents. Mrs. Dennis McNamara of Mill Valley was matron of honor, and Delores Thompson, Sturgis, Mich., was bridesmaid.

Best man for the bridegroom was John McFadden of Tiburon, and ushers were Dennis McNamara and Phillip Walters of Mill Valley.

Following a reception at the church, the couple went on a wedding trip to Carmel and Monterey. They are living in Larkspur. The bridegroom is a parish worker and organist for the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

Susan was graduated from Fort Van Couver High School in Vancouver, Wash., and Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore. She is employed with the Health Department for the City and County of San Francisco.

Gerald, the son of Mrs. Max Skeels of Oregon City was graduated from Oregon City High School and Lewis and Clark College. He also attended the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus, Ohio.

Richard Trice Is Engaged To Mary Ann Sherman

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sherman of San Quentin are announcing the engagement of their daughter Mary Ann To Richard John Trice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Trice of Concord.

Mary is the sister of Mona Jean Sherman of San Quentin and Stephen Ford of Corte Madera and the granddaughter of Mrs. Bessie Taylor of Redwood City. She attended San Rafael High School.

Richard is the brother of Thomas Trice of Concord, William Trice of Pittsburgh, Robert Trice of Eureka and Mrs. Paul Harrison of El Sobrante. Mrs. Agnes Stoffel of Walnut Creek is his grandmother. He was graduated from Mount Diablo High School and attended Mount Diablo Valley College, both in Concord. The future bridegroom is employed by Cable Television in Concord.

The couple plans to be married Aug. 28.

The sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by, and pursuant to, the power of sale conferred in that certain Deed of Trust, dated November 12, 1968, executed by GEORGE E. WALKER, a single man, ROBERT L. MATTHEWS and LYDA MATTHEWS, his wife, and JERALD R. HUMBERT and KATHLEEN HUMBERT, his wife, as trustors, in which ETHEL RIGHETTI is named as Beneficiary, and WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY as trustee, and recorded on November 18, 1968, in Book 2255, page 588 Official Records, Marin County, California.

Notice of Default and Election To Sell the above-described property under said Deed of Trust was recorded on January 5, 1971, in Book 2427, page 551, Official Records, Marin County, California.

The undersigned was appointed and substituted as trustee under said Deed of Trust by substitution dated April 12, 1971, and recorded on April 16, 1971, in Book 2453, page 527 Official Records of Marin County, California.

JOANNE BARBOSA
Little queen

Portuguese Festival On Sunday

The annual Portuguese Holy Ghost Festival will be celebrated in Novato Sunday with a parade, a special mass, dining and dancing.

Mary Antoinette Nunes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Nunes of Novato, will be queen of the festival sponsored by the IDESI (Independent Society of the Divine Holy Spirit).

Joanne Barbosa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barbosa of Novato, will be the little queen.

The celebration will start at 9:30 a.m. with a parade from Olive Avenue and First Street to Our Lady of Loretto Church, where a requiem mass will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m.

After mass the queens will be crowned and the celebrants will march to the IDESI Hall, Sweetser and Machin avenues, where the traditional lunch of bread, meat and gravy will be served.

There will be dancing in the afternoon, dinner and dancing in the evening.

Attendants to the queen will be Maria S. Belo and Delores Flores of San Rafael and cape bearers will be Joseph and Mary Grace Silveira of Santa Venetia, Richard Avella of Novato, Lucia Santos of Dixon, Solano County, and Alvaro Anacleto of Novato.

Maids to the little queen will be Diane Eyler and Sherry Wilkinson, both of Novato and cape holders will be Nancy Lee Razentes and Dorene Schmidt, both of Novato, and Suzie Borges of Sonoma.

Holy Ghost festival queens from Sausalito, Vallejo, Petaluma, Sebastopol and Benicia are expected to parade, the sponsors said.

Larkspur City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst, in a preliminary budget totaling $1,028,439 for fiscal 1971-72, has called for salary increases and other new expenditures totaling $72,000.

Next year's budget, as proposed in a 30-page document, would require a tax rate of $1.995 per $100 assessed valuation. This year's rate is $1.895.

Assessed valuation in the city is expected to reach $36,437,644, the document says, for a 13 per cent increase over this year's $32,245,703.

Bathurst explained the higher assessed valuation figure as 8 per cent dictated by law and 5 per cent for new growth in the community.

While the proposed tax rate represents a 10-cent hike, the actual budget figure is $11,518 less than this year's due to a drop in state gas tax revenues.

This year the city received about $158,000 from the state tax but next year will receive only $65,000 for capital outlay projects.

In requesting a 5 per cent salary increase for most employees, Bathurst turned down suggestions the city begin an incentive pay program for firemen and police officers.

"I believe an incentive program is a desirable fringe benefit," Bathurst says, "however, it is my feeling that the city cannot afford same this year."

Besides the 5 per cent increase, Bathurst has recommended his three top assistants receive pay hikes "commensurate with respective responsibilities and duties."

Under the proposal, Harlan Barry, administrative assistant, would receive the title assistant city manager with an increase in pay from $1,100 per month to $1,213.

John W. Appleton, planning and building superintendent, would become the director of planning and building with a pay hike from $1,155 to $1,243.

The foreman of public works, Warren Mistron, would become the superintendent of public works at $950 per month. He now makes $862.

Other new expenditures included in the budget are a total of $9,000 as salaries to city councilman, who currently are not paid, $15,570 for an additional policeman and two cadets to the 11-man department, $12,500 for master plan upgrading and $10,000 torward a new police station.

A breakdown of recommended department budgets (with this year's in parentheses) shows: Administration, $49,320 ($41,306); finance, $10,206 ($8,736); legal, $10,900 ($12,200); planning, $21,458 ($13,343); engineering, $5,650 ($4,400); general government building, $10,260 ($15,531); insurance, $110,000 ($84,300); police, $185,360 ($155,212); fire, $217,151 ($208,748); inspection, $24,687 ($23,824); public works — street operation, $51,238 ($59,898); public works — street maintenance, $8,850 ($8,600); public works — street construction, $65,000 ($158,000); public works lighting, $41,362 ($35,006); public works drainage, $14,831 ($25,409); parks, $26,079 ($25,700); recreation, $19,900 ($15,500); library, $51,488 ($43,944) and public works — sanitary, $104,647 ($99,300).

The budget will be considered by the city council June 1 and 2 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Erosion Linked To Seeping Sewage From Bolinas Mesa

Sewage seeping from Bolinas Mesa was said last night to be a possible cause of the falling away of the mesa's seaward cliffs, perhaps more to blame than tidal and wave erosion at the base of the cliffs.

The point was made at a sparsely attended public hearing at the Bolinas Community Center. About 30 persons turned out for the hearing, first step in a study of erosion and its effect on Bolinas Beach, Bolinas Lagoon and the Stinson Beach area.

Lars Weseth of 166 Ocean Parkway, Bolinas, said that 30 to 40 feet of the cliff in front of his house had eroded and fallen away in the past two years.

"If you will look at the bottom of the cliff, it is always dripping water and it smells like sewage from septic tanks," Weseth said.

Roberts told those attending the brief meeting that it would take approximately three years for the corps to complete the study which has just received $5,000 in funds. The study was authorized by Congress in 1967. "Then, if we have a feasible project, the federal government would pay half the cost, the state one quarter and the fourth quarter would have to come from local sources," he said.

Archie Goldsberry, manager of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District offered the corps of engineers all the records his district has on the erosion.

Joel Gustafson of the University of San Francisco, said that three studies have been made showing that the cliff has eroded about 120 feet in the past 100 years. He estimated that if one-third of it was washed into Bolinas Lagoon, it would raise the bottom by 3.5 feet.

Capt. Nils Millen of the State Department of Fish and Game asked that a special study be made to save the little neck clam area around Duxbury Point.

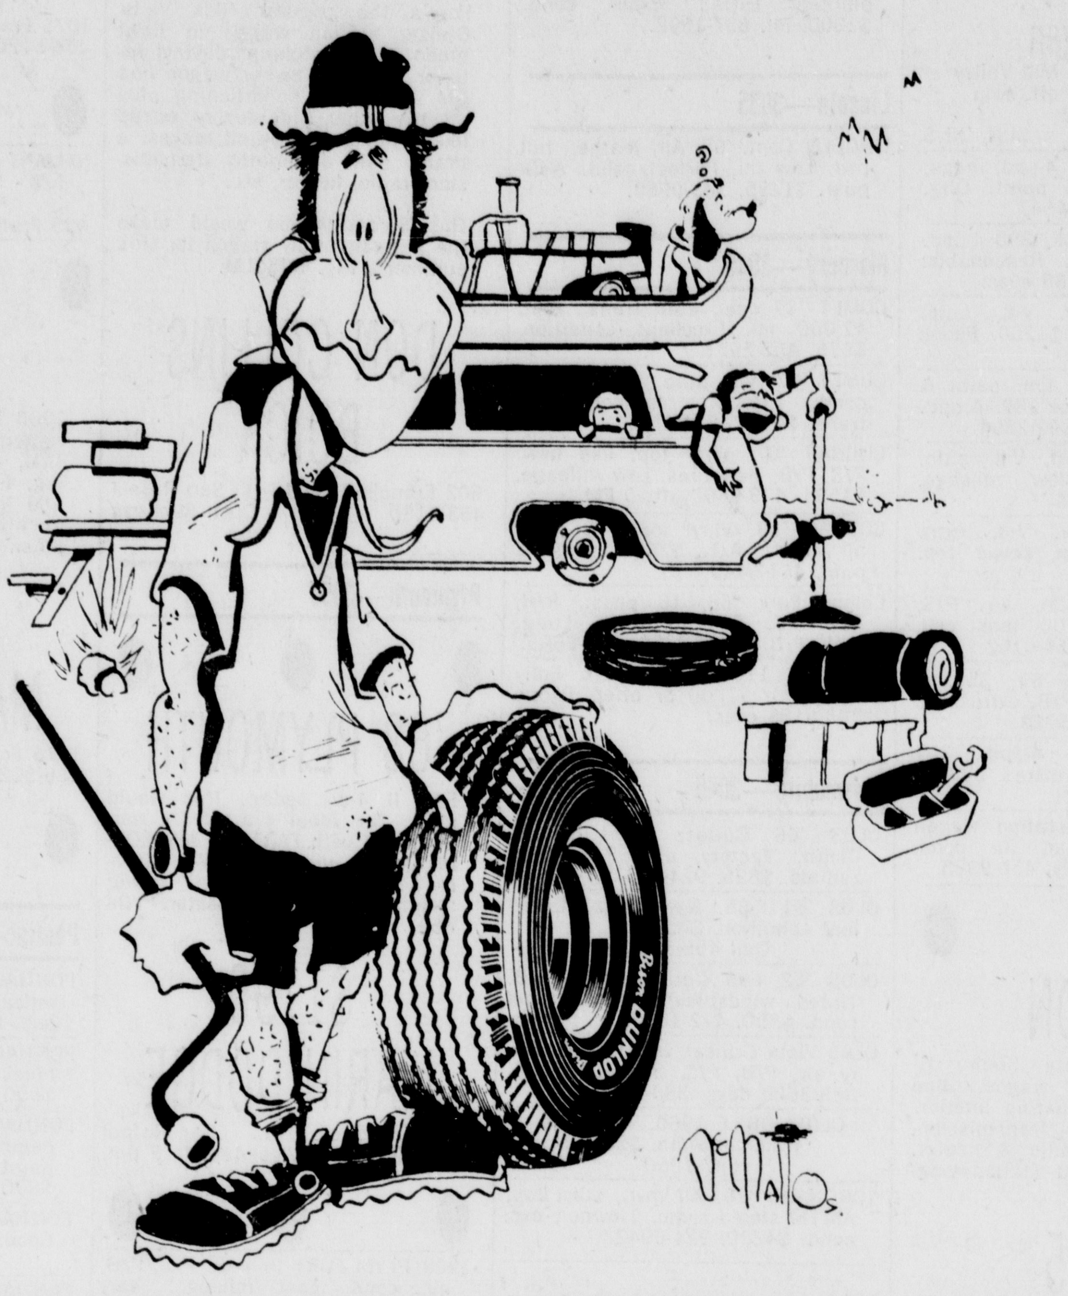
It's YOUR vacation...



Don't BLOW it!

Vacations are for fun. Enjoyment. Relaxation. Going places. NOT a time for problems. Like tire trouble.

Why not take a few minutes NOW and maybe save many frustrating hours later, by driving into a TRIPLE 'S' store and letting us check your tires, brakes and shocks. FREE! No gimmick. We're not going to try and sell you the store. If you do need tires or brakes, we'll tell you and you'll save a lot of money, time and grief by letting us do the job BEFORE YOU GO. You'll know it's been done RIGHT. By experts.

We buy all our tires in rail car lots. Our overhead is low. Our prices are low. But our quality is high. Our name means SAFETY, SERVICE and SAVINGS.

We think all three are very important. But the MOST important is safety.

YOUR SAFETY.

An Exotic Mission For Two Coaches

Richard Hart of Ross and Ray Dal Poggetto of Greenbrae once again are packing their globe-girdling luggage for another exotic sports mission on behalf of the United States Navy.

On June 9, Hart, the popular and extremely successful basketball coach at Redwood High School, and Dal Poggetto, commissioner of officials for the Far Western Conference, will depart for the Pacific and Far East to conduct several basketball clinics for Navy personnel.

Following an itinerary similar to one they conducted last year, the pair will hit Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong, Taipei and Tokyo.

They expect to return early in July. The poor guys. Besides having to be away from home for about a month, they have to get paid for this drudgery. Aw gee. But quite an honor.

CONGRATULATIONS to Al Scott and Jerry Colletto of Novato High School and Al Endriss and Jesse Payan of Redwood for their selections as coaches in the annual North-South Marin All-Star High School football game this summer.

The Novatans will coach the North while the Redwoods will head up the South. The game, sponsored by the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club, will match the outstanding senior players from the 1970 season. Players, date and site will be announced shortly, says co-chairman John W. McGlynn of Mill Valley.

ALSO, BOUQUETS and a "sorry about that" to Art Morrill of Novato.

Last weekend he tied with Santa Clara's Tommy Angelo for high point trophy in the 13-14 age group in the Marin Ivitational "AA" Swimming Championships at Novato but didn't get a mention in Monday's account of the meet.

When I wrote the story, which involved nearly 400 youngsters from 37 clubs, I missed this local star because he was entered as unattached, although he has been swimming for the Dolphins of Marin Club for the past four months.

With so many youths involved we can only concentrate on the local stars and I'm still kicking myself in my rotund posterior for missing this all-star. Keep up the great work, Art. Your two first places, two seconds and two thirds over the weekend were truly outstanding.

DARYLE LAMONICA, the great quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, will be a Marin visitor tomorrow and Saturday competing in the Marin Country Club's 36-hole invitational golf tournament at Novato, a best ball twosome event pairing members and guests.

He'll be the guest of committeeman Dick Hunter, according to ex-New York Yankee pitcher Art Schallock, who'll also compete.

ALAN LEE, the ex-Tamalpais High School sprint champion, pulled a hamstring in the Santa Barbara Relays and couldn't compete in the sprints for University of California at Santa Barbara. However, he did run the 880 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championships and placed fifth.

According to Tam Coach Bruce Grant, Lee has run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds this year, and not 9.8 as I recently mentioned. So he isn't really slowing down with old age.

Colonial Invitation Or Mexican Open?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)— The way Homero Blancas and Lee Trevino have been playing lately, the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opening today might again live up to the "Mexican Open" nickname tagged to it by Trevin last year.

The two Latin Americans waged a final day duel with Gene Littler for the $25,000 first prize a year ago with Blancas taking the title by a stroke with a three-under-par tour of the 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 Colonial Country Club layout.

Trevino and Littler shot 69 and 67, respectively, and tied for second at 274.

Blancas, on the surface, isn't moving in that same class since he ranks 36th with $26,103 pocketed.

But, the past two weeks Blancas has been right in contention going into the final rounds at the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas and the Houston Champions.

His putter, which had been the key club in his winning drive here a year ago and which had put him in contention at Dallas and Houston, seemed to desert him on the final 18 each of the last two Sundays.

"I took three 6's in Dallas, including a bogey on a par-5 hole that I had birdied, and that killed me," Blancas said.

He shot a closing 73, his only over-par round, and wound up seven shots off the pace and picked up but $2,482.

Then, at Houston, he was knocking up among the leaders going into the final round.

"I three-putted three times on the first nine holes," he said. "If I could have two-putted those holes, I would have been four-under instead of one-under for the 72 holes."

He didn't say so, but a fourunder would have tied him with Houston winner Hubert Green and Don January, whom Green beat in a sudden death playoff. He wound up tied for seventh and won $3,800.

Trevino, incidentally, who had finished five shots off the pace at Dallas to win $4,542, was just one shot back at Houston and won more than $7,200.

The two Latins, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Littler—who has won more money here than anyone else by finishing in the money all 17 times he's played—rule as the top contenders since Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer chose to bypass the Colonial in favor of a vacation.

Andros Considers Oklahoma Job

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros admits he has "been invited back for a visit" to talk about the athletic director's job at Oklahoma, his alma mater.

"I think that's a great honor," he said Wednesday.

Andros, 47, took over as head coach at Oregon State in 1965 after three years at Idaho. He was a one-time football star at Oklahoma. "I'd hate to leave Oregon State and coaching," he said, "but there comes a time in any guy's life when he has to consider the future.

Teams Trade Lances

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —In a blockbuster trade involving three teams and seven players, the Los Angeles Rams landed Lance Rentzel from Dallas Wednesday and the San Diego Chargers gave up Lance Alworth to the Cowboys.

To get Rentzel, the Rams sent tight end Bill Truax and wide receiver Wendell Tucker to the Cowboys.

For Alworth, Dallas shipped three players to the Chargers—defensive tackle Ron East, tight end Pettis Norman and offensie tackle Tony Liscio.

Rentzel, 28, was charged with indescent exposure before a 10year-old girl last season and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Alworth, a nine-year pro veteran who has had financial problems, sued the Chargers last December for $5.6 million, alleging breach of contract, and followed that up with an antitrust suit against the NFL and all of its 26 teams.

Later Alworth and the Chargers settled their difficulties and the former Arkansas star was given a contract through 1974 for dropping his legal actions. for all parties.

"Certainly, I'm sorry to be leaving the team and the organization which stood behind me. When you get loyalty life that, you want to repay it.

"It was a great thing for me when Dallas gave me a chance. But right now I'm glad to be back in the NFL. And I hope to have a great year with my new team."

Rentzel was given a probated sentence. His probationary status included the understanding he would receive regular medical and psychiatric care.

"We're not worried about his future conduct," Ram executive Jack Teele said.

"We know we're giving up one of the top flankers in the league in Rentzel," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "But I hought he would be better off in another city where he had the same opportunity to play regularly."

Landry said he met previously with Rentzel and Cowboy president-general manager Tex Schramm to discuss the possibility of a trade.

Los Angeles was one of the teams Rentzel mentioned if he had to be traded, Landry said.

Married to inger-dancer Joey Heatherton, Rentzel is a six-year veteran who spent his last four seasons in Texas after being traded from Minnesota to the Cowboys in 1967.

The 6-foot-2, 202-pounder from Oklahoma caught 28 passes for 556 yards in 11 games before quitting the team after his troubles last season. In his four-year career at Dallas, he caught 186 passes for 3,491 yards and 31 touchdowns.

At 31, Alworth is at the twilight of a career that saw him

Things Can Get Worse For Wells

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders' Warren Wells could lose his probation status over a weekend stabbing incident and face a possible prison term.

Superior Court Judge Leonard Dieden says he has asked for a detailed report in the "alleged incident" in Beaumont, Tex., Sunday in which Wells was stabbed near the heart at a bar by a 26-year-old woman.

Dieden said Wednesday he asked the Alameda County Probation Department and the district attorney's office to investigate jointly the incident.

"The purpose, of course, in calling for the report is to determine if there are sufficient grounds to revoke Mr. Wells' probation," Dieden said.

Meanwhile, in Beaumont, hospital officials described Wells condition as good.

Wells was put on a three-year probationary status by Dieden in 1969 following his conviction of attempted rape. Deiden revoked the probation in February, and reinstated it after Wells spent 60 days in the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center for "diagnostic study."

Dieden allowed Wells to return to his home in Beaumont following his release from Santa Rita. He was put under the observation of a psychiatrist at Texas Southern University in Houston, where Wells attended college.

JUGGLING ACT — Chicago Cubs' catcher J. C. Martin rolled on his back after colliding with third baseman Ron Santo (10) while the two were chasing a pop-up by San Francisco's Ken Henderson yesterday. Martin juggled the ball but still made the catch with his bare hand.

Washington Baseball Coach Retires

SEATTLE (UPI) —Former major league pitcher Ken Lehman has retired as baseball coach at the University of Washington, a post he held for eight years.

"I just felt it was time for a change," Lehman said Wednesday.

Wrigley Field Is No Pitcher's Paradise

CHICAGO (UPI) —Juan Marichal went after his seventh win of the year today as the San Francisco Giants met the Chicago Cubs in the finale of a three-game series.

Marichal, who has lost two games, will be trying to put the Giants back on the winning track after they were outslugged by the Cubs Wednesday, 9-5. San Francisco leads Atlanta by 7 1-2 games in the National League Western DivIsion.

The Giants rapped three homers off the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins Wednesday, but that wasn't enough as Billy Williams drove in six runs for Chicago with two homers and a triple.

Williams cracked a three-run homer in the first inning, then led off the third frame with his 11th homer of the year. In the sixth, he tripled in two more runs.

The Cubs' J.C. Martin also hit a homer in the second, his second in two games, after Brock Davis had singled.

Hal Lanier and Bobby Bonds each had solo jobs for the Giants, and Dick Deitz hit a two-run homer in the third, his sixth of the year.

The hitters were helped by a 23 mile an hour wind blowing out of Wrigley Field.

Ferguson Jenkins survived a shaky first four innings, then blanked the Giants the rest of the way to chalk up his eighth win in his last nine decisions against San Francisco.

Young Steve Stone started for the Giants, but was tagged for four hits and five runs in the first two innings. He was followed in the second by John Cumberland. It was the second loss against three wins for Stone.

Baseball Championship Goes On Line Tomorrow

The Novato High School Hornets, leading the Marin County Athletic League baseball race by one-half game going into the final day of the season, can wrap up the pennant either directly or by default.

A victory by Novato over San Rafael tomorrow afternoon, or a loss by Marin Catholic to Terra Linda tomorrow night would clinch the pennant for the second time in three years for the Hornets.

Marin Catholic is the only team left with a chance to catch the Hornets, and can do that only if San Rafael pulls an upset in the 4 p.m. game at Albert Park. Then the Wildcats could take the crown by beating Terra Linda at Albert at 8 p.m.

Probable pitchers for tomorrow's games are John Klingler (2-2) for San Rafael, Mike Lamb (5-1) for Novato, Tom Olson (6-1) for Marin Catholic, and Mike Sabel (4-0) for Terra Linda.

Two Bouts Added To Fight Card

FRESNO (UPI) —Two four-round bouts have been added to tonight's benefit show at which former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is to make a ringside appearance.

Boxing promoter Pete Rokas said heavyweights Dave Sherman of Fresno and Willie Henderson of San Diego will square off in one of the bouts and middleweights Jim Dempsey of Fresno and Agapeto Villegas of Mexicali, Mexico, in the other.

Proceeds from the benefit will go to the United Cerebral Palsy fund and the families of two late fighters, Eddie Pace and George Kennedy.

Pop Warner Signups

San Rafael Junior Bulldogs will hold Pop Warner football signups for boys 9 through 14 Saturday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Davidson Junior High School's gymnasium.

Athletics' Amazing Hurler Tosses His Fifth Shutout

If that's true then there is no telling how good he can become, although right now he's the best in the majors with five shutouts and a 9-1 record.

Wednesday night the 21-year-old flamethrower pitched a three-hitter as the A's rolled over the Milwaukee Brewers, 30.

Only this time he didn't stick to his fastball as much as he had in previous games. In fact Blue threw as many curveballs as he did fastballs, something new for him.

"I think I'm improving with very game," he said. "I'm learning as I go along. One thing I've learned is that you don't have to overpower people for nine innings. If you do you 'll only hurt your arm."

Against the Brewers Blue started off slowly as he battled his control, but once he got his curveball working, it was no contest. He struck out only five batters but he said he wasn't looking for strikeouts as much as he was trying to make good pitches.

"All I was trying to do was get the ball over the plate in spots," he said. "It took me a few innings to get loose, but that's all right because in the end I had a good fastball and that's what I needed.

Three hits off Blue, who has given up only 45 in 86 2-3 innings, were singles. One was by Roberto Pena in the third, the second was by Danny Walton in the seventh and the third was by Ron Theobold in the eighth.

Blue leads American League pitchers in victories, innings pitched, shutouts (5), complete games (9), strikeouts (86) and earned run average (1.14).

Home runs by Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson accounted for all the runs. Monday hit his sixth in the sixth for what proved to be all the help Blue needed. Then, Jackson, who celebrated his 25th birthday on Tuesday by striking out four times, lined his sixth with Joe Rudi aboard in the seventh for insurance.

A's manager Dick Williams says he has run out of words to describe Blue.

"TheRe isn't much I can say about him that I haven't said before," said Williams, who previously called Blue another Sandy Koufax.

Blue is on a 30-victory course but that's something he doesn't care to talk about.

"They give me the ball and tell me to go out there and I try my best," he said. "I'm not thinking about any goals or records."

Lew Krausse, the Milwaukee pitcher, said don't be surprised if that turns out to be the Case.

"He's really something, isn't he," Krausse said.

"EVEn when he's off a little he is better than most pitchers," Bristol said.

Bristol was alluding to the three walks Blue gave up in the first three innings. Blue has issued only 31 thus far but he said he wasn't too upset at his work Wednesday night.

"As things turned out they didn't hurt me, so I'm not worried about them. I wasn't all that wild."

Bill Parsons was the loser for the Brewers. The A's reached him for nine of their 10 hits in seven innings. Parsons, who struck out eight batters including Blue four times, now is 4-4.

Chuck Dobson (2-0) pitches tonight for the A;s in the final game of the current series with the Brewers. Krausse (1-4) pitches for Milwaukee.

7 Spots To Fill At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —The seven remaining spots in the starting lineup for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race probably will be filled Saturday, with Sunday, the last day of qualifications, devoted to the traditional "bumping" process.

Observers figure there are eight or nine unqualified cars with a "good" chance of making the lineup, and a half dozen other machines with a fair chance.

And if this weekend follows last year's final round of time trials, most of the activity will come Saturday. the extended weather forecast includes a chance of rain by Sunday, which is all the more incentive to be ready for qualifying runs Saturday.

However, the forecast was favorable for today and Friday, the last two full days of practice at the famed speedway as the unqualified cars and drivers sought enough speed to make the 33-car lineup, and those already qualified worked on perfecting race day performances.

Only 20 cars made practice runs Wednesday at the Indianapolis motor speedway, and it was the drivers in cars already qualified for the May 29 race who set the speed pace.

Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., the 1968 Indianapolis champ, had the day's quickest lap at 172.977 miles per hour in the car he put on the outside of the front row.

A.J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., a three-time Winner here, had a fast lap of 172.018 and Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo, also in a qualified car, had the only other speed of the day over 170 m.p.h., turning a lap at 170.293.

Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., had the fastest lap in a car which hasn't been qualified, 168.445 m.p.h. That speed is quicker than average speeds turned in by four of the 26 machines which were qualified last weekend.

However, the next fastest speed Wednesday was only 165.168 m.p.h., by rookie John Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa. That speed is well under the slowest qualifying spped yet posted for this year's holiday weekend grind — 167.817 by Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex.

Rain interfered with practice Wednesday at the 2 1-2-mile oval, halting track workouts nearly three hours.

Portuguese Festival On Sunday

The annual Portuguese Holy Ghost Festival will be celebrated in Novato Sunday with a parade, a special mass, dining and dancing.

Mary Antoinette Nunes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Nunes of Novato, will be queen of the festival sponsored by the IDESI (Independent Society of the Divine Holy Spirit).

Joanne Barbosa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barbosa of Novato, will be the little queen.

The celebration will start at 9:30 a.m. with a parade from Olive Avenue and First Street to Our Lady of Loretto Church, where a requiem mass will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m.

After mass the queens will be crowned and the celebrants will march to the IDESI Hall, Sweetser and Machin avenues, where the traditional lunch of bread, meat and gravy will be served.

There will be dancing in the afternoon, dinner and dancing in the evening.

Attendants to the queen will be Maria S. Belo and Delores Flores of San Rafael and cape bearers will be Joseph and Mary Grace Silveira of Santa Venetia, Richard Avella of Novato, Lucia Santos of Dixon, Solano County,and Alvaro Anacleto of Novato.

Maids to the little queen will be Diane Eyler and Sherry Wilkinson, both of Novato and cape holders will be Nancy Lee Razentes and Dorene Schmidt, both of Novato, and Suzie Borges of Sonoma.

Holy Ghost festival queens from Sausalito, Vallejo, Petaluma,Sebastopol and Benicia are expected to parade, the sponsors said.

Larkspur City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst, in a preliminary budget totaling $1,028,439 for fiscal 1971-72, has called for salary increases and other new expenditures totaling $72,000.

Next year's budget, as proposed in a 30-page document, would require a tax rate of $1.995 per $100 assessed valuation. This year's rate is $1.895.

Assessed valuation in the city is expected to reach $36,437,644, the document says, for a 13 per cent increase over this year's $32,245,703.

Bathurst explained the higher assessed valuation figure as 8 per cent dictated by law and 5 per cent for new growth in the community.

While the proposed tax rate represents a 10-cent hike, the actual budget figure is $11,518 less than this year's due to a drop in state gas tax revenues.

This year the city received about $158,000 from the state tax but next year will receive only $65,000 for capital outlay projects.

In requesting a 5 per cent salary increase for most employees, Bathurst turned down suggestions the city begin an incentive pay program for firemen and police officers.

"I believe an incentive program is a desirable fringe benefit," Bathurst says, "however, it is my feeling that the city cannot afford same this year."

Besides the 5 per cent increase, Bathurst has recommended his three top assistants receive pay hikes "commensurate with respective responsibilities and duties."

Under the proposal, Harlan Barry, administrative assistant, would receive the title assistant city manager with an increase in pay from $1,100 per month to $1,213.

John W. Appleton, planning and building superintendent, would become the director of planning and building with a pay hike from $1,155 to $1,243.

The foreman of public works, Warren Mistron, would become the superintendent of public works at $950 per month. He now makes $862.

Other new expenditures included in the budget are a total of $9,000 as salaries to city councilman, who currently are not paid, $15,570 for an additional policeman and two cadets to the 11-man department, $12,500 for master plan upgrading and $10,000 torward a new police station.

A breakdown of recommended department budgets (with this year's in parentheses) shows: Administration, $49,320 ($41,306); finance, $10,206 ($8,736); legal, $10,900 ($12,200); planning, $21,458 ($13,343); engineering, $5,650 ($4,400); general government building, $10,260 ($15,531); insurance, $110,000 ($84,300); police, $185,360 ($155,212); fire, $217,151 ($208,748); inspection, $24,687 ($23,824); public works — street operation, $51,238 ($59,898); public works — street maintenance, $8,850 ($8,600); public works — street construction, $65,000 ($158,000); public works lighting, $41,362 ($35,006); public works drainage, $14,831 ($25,409); parks, $26,079 ($25,700); recreation, $19,900 ($15,500); library, $51,488 ($43,944) and public works — sanitary, $104,647 ($99,300).

The budget will be considered by the city council June 1 and 2 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Erosion Linked To Seeping Sewage From Bolinas Mesa

Sewage seeping from Bolinas Mesa was said last night to be a possible cause of the falling away of the mesa's seaward cliffs, perhaps more to blame than tidal and wave erosion at the base of the cliffs.

The point was made at a sparsely attended public hearing at the Bolinas Community Center. About 30 persons turned out for the hearing, first step in a study of erosion and its effect on Bolinas Beach, Bolinas Lagoon and the Stinson Beach area.

Lars Weseth of 166 Ocean Parkway, Bolinas, said that 30 to 40 feet of the cliff in front of his house had eroded and fallen away in the past two years.

"If you will look at the bottom of the cliff, it is always dripping water and it smells like sewage from septic tanks," Weseth said.

Roberts told those attending the brief meeting that it would take approximately three years for the corps to complete the study which has just received $5,000 in funds. The study was authorized by Congress in 1967.

"Then, if we have a feasible project, the federal government would pay half the cost, the state one quarter and the fourth quarter would have to come from local sources," he said.

Archie Goldsberry, manager of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District offered the corps of engineers all the records his district has on the erosion.

Joel Gustafson of the University of San Francisco, said that three studies have been made showing that the cliff has eroded about 120 feet in the past 100 years. He estimated that if one-third of it was washed into Bolinas Lagoon, it would raise the bottom by 3.5 feet.

Capt. Nils Millen of the State Department of Fish and Game asked that a special study be made to save the little neck clam area around Duxbury Point.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Atlanta Stadium Making Sluggers Out Of 'Em All

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Atlanta Stadium seems to make a slugger out of everybody.

With its pleasing background, moderate distances and light air density, the stadium that houses the Atlanta Braves is fast becoming a modern day Ebbets Field and a torture chamber for pitchers.

For the third successive game Wednesday night there were six home runs hit at Atlanta Stadium, bringing the total for the year to 58 in 20 games. That's a better ratio than last year when 211 homers were hit there in 81 games, a major leading total.

Clete Boyer and Mike Lum each hit two for the Braves Wednesday night as they led their team to a 10-4 victory over the Montreal Expos. Boyer and Lum certainly do not fall into the category as home run hitters, yet Boyer has hit four at Atlanta in the last three games and other non-power hitters, such as Ralph Garr of the Braves and Bob Aspromonte of the Mets each hit two in one game this week.

The Expos got homers from Rusty Staub and pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore Wednesday night but couldn't offset the heroics of Boyer and Lum. Boyer, although batting only .222, has hit five home runs and driven in 10 runs in the last five games.

"I've always been a streak hitter," said Boyer, in trying to give a reason for his current spurt. "I hit five in three games in Washington back in the early '60s when I was with the Yankees. I can't explain it, I just get lucky at times."

In other NL games, Chicago walloped San Francisco, 9-5; Pittsburgh took over first place in the East Division by defeating Cincinnati, 6-1; Philadelphia beat the New York Mets, 4-1; Los Angeles edged St. Louis, 6-5; and San Diego downed Houston, 6-5, in 10 innings.

In the American League it was Baltimore 4 Washington 1, Boston 7 New York 2, Detroit 12 Cleveland 1, Kansas City 2 Chicago 0, Oakland 3 Milwaukee 0 and Minnesota 12 California 6.

Roberto Clemente collected four hits, including a triple and an inside-the-park homer, to drive in three runs in the Pirates' victory. The triumph moved the Pirates one full game ahead of the Mets, who suffered their fourth straight loss.

Chris Short scattered seven hits in going the distance to defeat the Mets. Terry Harmon's bases-loaded double in the seventh drove in three runs and tagged Jerry Koosman with his second loss against three victories. Mike Ryan had a homer for Philadelphia.

Rookie Bobby Valentine's run-scoring single in the eighth inning earned the Dodgers a come-from-behind victory. The Dodgers tied the game at 5-5 with two runs in the seventh with Willie Davis driving in the tying run with a single.

Ollie Brown's two-out single off second baseman Denis Menke's glove scored Nate Colbert with the winning run in the Padres' triumph. Colbert doubled with two out and scored when Brown's smash skipped off Menke's glove into short rightfield.

make 493 receptions for 9,584 yards and 81 TDs in nine years with the Chargers. He ranks No. 7 on the list of alltime pro receivers.

Last season he caught 35 passes for 608 yards.

The 6-foot-2 180-pounder from Arkansas holds two all-time pro records. He caught at least one pass in 96 consecutive games and gained more than 1,000 yards on receptions in seven straight seasons.

The Chargers obtained three players with a total of 18 years pro experience. Norman, 31, was with the Cowboys nine years while the 31-year-old Liscio was at Dallas seven years and East, 27, was with the Cowboys two seasons.

Truax, 28, was the key to the trade for Rentzel. The exLouisiana State player was a starter for the Rams for the past four seasons. He has a career total of 180 receptions for 2,177 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Truax underwent knee and elbow surgery in the offseason.

The other Ram going to Dallas, Tucker, 27, is a four-year veteran.

Yugoslav Defeats Mark Cox

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — Favored Yugoslav Zeljko Franulovic beat defending champion Mark Cox of Britain in straight sets, 6-0, 9-8, 6-2 today to enter the men's singles final of the $36,000 British had court tennis championships.

Jaime Fillol of Chile will meet the winner of the delayed match between veteran Aussie, Frank Sedgman, and Britain's Gerald Batrick in the other semifinal.

Franulovic, the second seed who is favored to win the top prize of $4,080 following the withdrawal of Australia's Tony Roche with a stomach muscle injury, beat Cox for the first time as he raced through the first set in 15 minutes for the loss of only 10 points.

He appeared headed for a repeat performance in the second set when he led 3-1 and 41-love before the sixth-seeded Cox pulled himself together.

Cox saved set point in the 12th game and then blew a couple of his own in the 14th. He lost another in the 16th and this set up the tie-breaker, in which Franulovic led 4-1 and then trailed 4-6 before he finally wrapped it up at 9-7 for a 9-8 set that lasted 65 minutes.

A fourth game break in the third set put the Yugoslav on hs way into the final.

Donna Caponi Heads Field

BUENA PARK, Calif. (UPI) —Two-time U.S. Women's Open champion Donna Caponi of Hollywood, Calif., heads the LPGA field in the $41,000 Suzuki Golf Internationale that gets under way Friday at the Los Coyotes Country Club.

An 18-hole pro-am with a $3,000 purse is set today.

Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., winner of last weekend's $50,000 Sealy Classic, and Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the ladies' pro tour this year, also will be favorites in the 54-hole tournament.

Los Coyotes is a 6,041-yard, par 75 layout.

Two of the world's top women amateurs, Martha Wilkinson of Anaheim, Calif., and Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., also are entered.

SPORTS SHORTS

Dryden Voted The Best

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Dryden, the sensational rookie goaltender for the champion Montreal Canadiens, was an overwhelming winner in the balloting for the Conn Smythe Trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding player in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Dryden, a 6-4 law student at McGill University, received 47 of a maximum 55 points in voting conducted among members of the National Hockey League Writers Association. Frank Mahovlich of Montreal and Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks were second and third, respectively, in the voting.

Dryden, who appeared in only six regular season games after being called up from the minors, set a record by taking part in all 20 of Montreal's playoff games.

Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) —Chris Cannizzaro, veteran catcher, was acquired Wednesday by the Chicago Cubs from the San Diego Padres in return for minor league infielder Garry Jestadt and cash.

Golf

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —The United States Walker Cup golf team arrived here today full of confidence for the forthcoming cup clash against Britain and the amateur championships in Scotland.

The 10-man U.S. team has only three players who have played in Britain before—Bill Hyndman, Bill Campbell and Steve Melnyk.

Despite their long flight the Americans immediately boarded a motor coach and set off for St. Andrews where they intend to play their first practice round later today.

The Walker Cup will be played over the old course at St. Andrews, May 6-27, and the week-long amateur starts at nearby Carnoustie, May 31.

Basketball

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Richard Hood, fifth-round draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers, Wednesday signed a contract with the National Basketball Association club.

An Exotic Mission For Two Coaches

Richard Hart of Ross and Ray Dal Poggetto of Greenbrae once again are packing their globe-girdling luggage for another exotic sports mission on behalf of the United States Navy.

On June 9, Hart, the popular and extremely successful basketball coach at Redwood High School, and Dal Poggetto, commissioner of officials for the Far Western Conference, will depart for the Pacific and Far East to conduct several basketball clinics for Navy personnel.

Following an itinerary similar to one they conducted last year, the pair will hit Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong, Taipei and Tokyo.

They expect to return early in July. The poor guys. Besides having to be away from home for about a month, they have to get paid for this drudgery. Aw gee. But quite an honor.

CONGRATULATIONS to Al Scott and Jerry Colletto of Novato High School and Al Endriss and Jesse Payan of Redwood for their selections as coaches in the annual North-South Marin All-Star High School football game this summer.

The Novatans will coach the North while the Redwoods will head up the South. The game, sponsored by the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club, will match the outstanding senior players from the 1970 season. Players, date and site will be announced shortly, says co-chairman John W. McGlynn of Mill Valley.

ALSO, BOUQUETS and a "sorry about that" to Art Morrill of Novato.

Last weekend he tied with Santa Clara's Tommy Angelo for high point trophy in the 13-14 age group in the Marin Ivitational "AA" Swimming Championships at Novato but didn't get a mention in Monday's account of the meet.

When I wrote the story, which involved nearly 400 youngsters from 37 clubs, I missed this local star because he was entered as unattached, although he has been swimming for the Dolphins of Marin Club for the past four months.

With so many youths involved we can only concentrate on the local stars and I'm still kicking myself in my rotund posterior for missing this all-star. Keep up the great work, Art. Your two first places, two seconds and two thirds over the weekend were truly outstanding.

DARYLE LAMONICA, the great quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, will be a Marin visitor tomorrow and Saturday competing in the Marin Country Club's 36-hole invitational golf tournament at Novato, a best ball twosome event pairing members and guests.

He'll be the guest of committeeman Dick Hunter, according to ex-New York Yankee pitcher Art Schallock, who'll also compete.

ALAN LEE, the ex-Tamalpais High School sprint champion, pulled a hamstring in the Santa Barbara Relays and couldn't compete in the sprints for University of California at Santa Barbara. However, he did run the 880 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championships and placed fifth.

According to Tam Coach Bruce Grant, Lee has run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds this year, and not 9.8 as I recently mentioned. So he isn't really slowing down with old age.

Colonial Invitation Or Mexican Open?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The way Homero Blancas and Lee Trevino have been playing lately, the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opening today might again live up to the "Mexican Open" nickname tagged to it by Trevin last year.

The two Latin Americans waged a final day duel with Gene Littler for the $25,000 first prize a year ago with Blancas taking the title by a stroke with a three-under-par tour of the 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 Colonial Country Club layout.

Trevino and Littler shot 69 and 67, respectively, and tied for second at 274.

Blancas, on the surface, isn't moving in that same class since he ranks 36th with $26,103 pocketed.

But, the past two weeks Blancas has been right in contention going into the final rounds at the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas and the Houston Champions.

His putter, which had been the key club in his winning drive here a year ago and which had put him in contention at Dallas and Houston, seemed to desert him on the final 18 each of the last two Sundays.

"I took three 6's in Dallas, including a bogey on a par-5 hole that I had birdied, and that killed me," Blancas said.

He shot a closing 73, his only over-par round, and wound up seven shots off the pace and picked up but $2,482.

Then, at Houston, he was knocking up among the leaders going into the final round.

"I three-putted three times on the first nine holes," he said. "If I could have two-putted those holes, I would have been four-under instead of one-under for the 72 holes."

He didn't say so, but a four-under would have tied him with Houston winner Hubert Green and Don January, whom Green beat in a sudden death playoff. He wound up tied for seventh and won $3,800.

Trevino, incidentally, who had finished five shots off the pace at Dallas to win $4,542, was just one shot back at Houston and won more than $7,200.

The two Latins, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Littler—who has won more money here than anyone else by finishing in the money all 17 times he's played—rule as the top contenders since Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer chose to bypass the Colonial in favor of a vacation.

Andros Considers Oklahoma Job

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros admits he has "been invited back for a visit" to talk about the athletic director's job at Oklahoma, his alma mater.

"I think that's a great honor," he said Wednesday.

Andros, 47, took over as head coach at Oregon State in 1965 after three years at Idaho. He was a one-time football star at Oklahoma. "I'd hate to leave Oregon State and coaching," he said, "but there comes a time in any guy's life when he has to consider the future.

Teams Trade Lances

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —In a blockbuster trade involving three teams and seven players, the Los Angeles Rams landed Lance Rentzel from Dallas Wednesday and the San Diego Chargers gave up Lance Alworth to the Cowboys.

To get Rentzel, the Rams sent tight end Bill Truax and wide receiver Wendell Tucker to the Cowboys.

For Alworth, Dallas shipped three players to the Chargers—defensive tackle Ron East, tight end Pettis Norman and offensie tackle Tony Liscio.

Rentzel, 28, was charged with indescent exposure before a 10year-old girl last season and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Alworth, a nine-year pro veteran who has had financial problems, sued the Chargers last December for $5.6 million, alleging breach of contract, and followed that up with an anti-trust suit against the NFL and all of its 26 teams.

Later Alworth and the Chargers settled their difficulties and the former Arkansas star was given a contract through 1974 for dropping his legal actions. for all parties.

"Certainly, I'm sorry to be leaving the team and the organization which stood behind me. When you get loyalty life that, you want to repay it.

"It was a great thing for me when Dallas gave me a chance. But right now I'm glad to be back in the NFL. And I hope to have a great year with my new team."

Rentzel was given a probated sentence. His probationary status included the understanding he would receive regular medical and psychiatric care.

"We're not worried about his future conduct," Ram executive Jack Teele said.

"We know we're giving up one of the top flankers in the league in Rentzel," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "But I hought he would be better off in another city where he had the same opportunity to play regularly."

Landry said he met previously with Rentzel and Cowboy president-general manager Tex Schramm to discuss the possibility of a trade.

Los Angeles was one of the teams Rentzel mentioned if he had to be traded, Landry said.

Married to inger-dancer Joey Heatherton, Rentzel is a six-year veteran who spent his last four seasons in Texas after being traded from Minnesota to the Cowboys in 1967.

The 6-foot-2, 202-pounder from Oklahoma caught 28 passes for 556 yards in 11 games before quitting the team after his troubles last season. In his four-year career at Dallas, he caught 186 passes for 3,491 yards and 31 touchdowns.

At 31, Alworth is at the twilight of a career that saw him

Things Can Get Worse For Wells

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders' Warren Wells could lose his probation status over a weekend stabbing incident and face a possible prison term.

Superior Court Judge Leonard Dieden says he has asked for a detailed report in the "alleged incident" in Beaumont, Tex., Sunday in which Wells was stabbed near the heart at a bar by a 26-year-old woman.

Dieden said Wednesday he asked the Alameda County Probation Department and the district attorney's office to investigate jointly the incident.

"The purpose, of course, in calling for the report is to determine if there are sufficient grounds to revoke Mr. Wells' probation," Dieden said.

Meanwhile, in Beaumont, hospital officials described Wells condition as good.

Wells was put on a three-year probationary status by Dieden in 1969 following his conviction of attempted rape. Deiden revoked the probation in February, and reinstated it after Wells spent 60 days in the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center for "diagnostic study."

Dieden allowed Wells to return to his home in Beaumont following his release from Santa Rita. He was put under the observation of a psychiatrist at Texas Southern University in Houston, where Wells attended college.

JUGGLING ACT — Chicago Cubs' catcher J. C. Martin rolled on his back after colliding with third baseman Ron Santo (10) while the two were chasing a pop-up by San Francisco's Ken Henderson yesterday. Martin juggled the ball but still made the catch with his bare hand.

Washington Baseball Coach Retires

SEATTLE (UPI) —Former major league pitcher Ken Lehman has retired as baseball coach at the University of Washington, a post he held for eight years.

"I just felt it was time for a change," Lehman said Wednesday.

Wrigley Field Is No Pitcher's Paradise

CHICAGO (UPI) —Juan Marichal went after his seventh win of the year today as the San Francisco Giants met the Chicago Cubs in the finale of a three-game series.

Marichal, who has lost two games, will be trying to put the Giants back on the winning track after they were outslugged by the Cubs Wednesday, 9-5. San Francisco leads Atlanta by 7 1-2 games in the National League Western DivIsion.

The Giants rapped three homers off the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins Wednesday, but that wasn't enough as Billy Williams drove in six runs for Chicago with two homers and a triple.

Williams cracked a three-run homer in the first inning, then led off the third frame with his 11th homer of the year. In the sixth, he tripled in two more runs.

The Cubs' J.C. Martin also hit a homer in the second, his second in two games, after Brock Davis had singled.

Hal Lanier and Bobby Bonds each had solo jobs for the Giants, and Dick Deitz hit a two-run homer in the third, his sixth of the year.

The hitters were helped by a 23 mile an hour wind blowing out of Wrigley Field.

Ferguson Jenkins survived a shaky first four innings, then blanked the Giants the rest of the way to chalk up his eighth win in his last nine decisions against San Francisco.

Young Steve Stone started for the Giants, but was tagged for four hits and five runs in the first two innings. He was followed in the second by John Cumberland. It was the second loss against three wins for Stone.

Baseball Championship Goes On Line Tomorrow

The Novato High School Hornets, leading the Marin County Athletic League baseball race by one-half game going into the final day of the season, can wrap up the pennant either directly or by default.

A victory by Novato over San Rafael tomorrow afternoon, or a loss by Marin Catholic to Terra Linda tomorrow night would clinch the pennant for the second time in three years for the Hornets.

Marin Catholic is the only team left with a chance to catch the Hornets, and can do that only if San Rafael pulls an upset in the 4 p.m. game at Albert Park. Then the Wildcats could take the crown by beating Terra Linda at Albert at 8 p.m.

Probable pitchers for tomorrow's games are John Klingler (2-2) for San Rafael, Mike Lamb (5-1) for Novato, Tom Olson (6-1) for Marin Catholic, and Mike Sabel (4-0) for Terra Linda.

Two Bouts Added To Fight Card

FRESNO (UPI) —Two four-round bouts have been added to tonight's benefit show at which former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is to make a ringside appearance.

Boxing promoter Pete Rokas said heavyweights Dave Sherman of Fresno and Willie Henderson of San Diego will square off in one of the bouts and middleweights Jim Dempsey of Fresno and Agapeto Villegas of Mexicali, Mexico, in the other.

Proceeds from the benefit will go to the United Cerebral Palsy fund and the families of two late fighters, Eddie Pace and George Kennedy.

Pop Warner Signups

San Rafael Junior Bulldogs will hold Pop Warner football signups for boys 9 through 14 Saturday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Davidson Junior High School's gymnasium.

Athletics' Amazing Hurler Tosses His Fifth Shutout

If that's true then there is no telling how good he can become, although right now he's the best in the majors with five shutouts and a 9-1 record.

Wednesday night the 21-year-old flamethrower pitched a three-hitter as the A's rolled over the Milwaukee Brewers, 30.

Only this time he didn't stick to his fastball as much as he had in previous games. In fact Blue threw as many curveballs as he did fastballs, something new for him.

"I think I'm improving with very game," he said. "I'm learning as I go along. One thing I've learned is that you don't have to overpower people for nine innings. If you do you 'll only hurt your arm."

Against the Brewers Blue started off slowly as he battled his control, but once he got his curveball working, it was no contest. He struck out only five batters but he said he wasn't looking for strikeouts as much as he was trying to make good pitches.

"All I was trying to do was get the ball over the plate in spots," he said. "It took me a few innings to get loose, but that's all right because in the end I had a good fastball and that's what I needed.

Three hits off Blue, who has given up only 45 in 86 2-3 innings, were singles. One was by Roberto Pena in the third, the second was by Danny Walton in the seventh and the third was by Ron Theobold in the eighth.

Blue leads American League pitchers in victories, innings pitched, shutouts (5), complete games (9), strikeouts (86) and earned run average (1.14).

Home runs by Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson accounted for all the runs. Monday hit his sixth in the sixth for what proved to be all the help Blue needed. Then, Jackson, who celebrated his 25th birthday on Tuesday by striking out four times, lined his sixth with Joe Rudi aboard in the seventh for insurance.

A's manager Dick Williams says he has run out of words to describe Blue.

"TheRe isn't much I can say about him that I haven't said before," said Williams, who previously called Blue another Sandy Koufax.

Blue is on a 30-victory course but that's something he doesn't care to talk about.

"They give me the ball and tell me to go out there and I try my best," he said. "I'm not thinking about any goals or records."

Lew Krausse, the Milwaukee pitcher, said don't be surprised if that turns out to be the Case.

"He's really something, isn't he," Krausse said.

"EVEn when he's off a little he is better than most pitchers," Bristol said.

Bristol was alluding to the three walks Blue gave up in the first three innings. Blue has issued only 31 thus far but he said he wasn't too upset at his work Wednesday night.

"As things turned out they didn't hurt me, so I'm not worried about them. I wasn't all that wild."

Bill Parsons was the loser for the Brewers. The A's reached him for nine of their 10 hits in seven innings. Parsons, who struck out eight batters including Blue four times, now is 4-4.

Chuck Dobson (2-0) pitches tonight for the A;s in the final game of the current series with the Brewers. Krausse (1-4) pitches for Milwaukee.

7 Spots To Fill At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —The seven remaining spots in the starting lineup for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race probably will be filled Saturday, with Sunday, the last day of qualifications, devoted to the traditional "bumping" process.

Observers figure there are eight or nine unqualified cars with a "good" chance of making the lineup, and a half dozen other machines with a fair chance.

And if this weekend follows last year's final round of time trials, most of the activity will come Saturday. the extended weather forecast includes a chance of rain by Sunday, which is all the more incentive to be ready for qualifying runs Saturday.

However, the forecast was favorable for today and Friday, the last two full days of practice at the famed speedway as the unqualified cars and drivers sought enough speed to make the 33-car lineup, and those already qualified worked on perfecting race day performances.

Only 20 cars made practice runs Wednesday at the Indianapolis motor speedway, and it was the drivers in cars already qualified for the May 29 race who set the speed pace.

Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., the 1968 Indianapolis champ, had the day's quickest lap at 172.977 miles per hour in the car he put on the outside of the front row.

A.J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., a three-time Winner here, had a fast lap of 172.018 and Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo, also in a qualified car, had the only other speed of the day over 170 m.p.h., turning a lap at 170.293.

Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., had the fastest lap in a car which hasn't been qualified, 168.445 m.p.h. That speed is quicker than average speeds turned in by four of the 26 machines which were qualified last weekend.

However, the next fastest speed Wednesday was only 165.168 m.p.h., by rookie John Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa. That speed is well under the slowest qualifying spped yet posted for this year's holiday weekend grind — 167.817 by Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex.

Rain interfered with practice Wednesday at the 2 1-2-mile oval, halting track workouts nearly three hours.

ENROUTE TO A MILESTONE VICTORY

Stoneham, Brass Talk Real Estate

CHICAGO — There was nothing unusual about Horace Stoneham making a road trip with his Giants. The president of the ball club does it all the time. Stoneham loves watching his team at home or on the road.

But what was the rest of Candlestick's front office brass doing on this trip? There was Pete Stoneham, the club's vice president and son of the president; Chuck Rupert, controller and Stoneham's son-in-law; Jerry Donovan, assistant to the president, and a stranger with a brief case who sat beside Stoneham on the flight from San Francisco to Chicago.

WHEN THE team check in at the Executive House, the Giants' Chicago hotel headquarters, there was more brass of National Exhibition Company, the legal name of the Giants. All of NEC's directors were in the hotel already.

Surely, Stoneham hadn't summoned all of his executives and directors to Chicago to watch the Giants and Cubs in a three-game series at Wrigley Field. After all, somebody had to be left at home to watch the shop notwithstanding the fact that the Giants are worth watching this year.

What was going on? And who was the stranger with the brief case?

THE STRANGER stripped the mystery from the unusual gathering when asked by an inquiring reporter what it was all about. He identified himself as Angelo Valenti, special representative of Marubeni-Iida Co., Ltd., with head offices in Tokyo and other offices throughout the world, including one in Los Angeles that does $45 million business a month.

Valenti, an expert on land developments, disclosed that he already had inspected the Casa Grande properties of National Exhibition Company and also some very valuable property NEC owns between the twin cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

NOW, HE was ready to make his report to NEC directors on the feasibility of development of those properties. He already had made his report to Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., a subsidiary of the $5 billion dollar Japanese company.

Obviously, the big Japanese firm was interested in developing the properties with NEC. Valenti certainly wouldn't have made the trip to Chicago if Marubeni-Iida wasn't interested in putting some of its vast surplus treasury to work.

YOSHIRO SHIMAO, executive vice president and general manager of Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., with headquarters in Los Angeles, has been conducting negotiations with Stoneham. They have been going on for some time.

Last winter at a NEC stockholders meeting, Stoneham reported a whopping operating loss of the Giants for the third straight year due to declining attendance in Candlestick Park. At that time he said "real estate has to be our salvation" if the situation in Candlestick continued.

THE WINNING ways of the Giants this season have taken care of the Candlestick attendance problem.

Stoneham's skill as a real estate operator may take care of that dividend NEC stockholders missed last year. Stoneham did more than watch baseball games when his Giants visited Japan for two weeks in the spring of 1970, a trip that cost them the loss of their pitching ace Juan Marichal for most of last season but may now reap rich real estate rewards.

Decker Tops Pitching Statistics

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Decker of San Rafael, righthander for Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, leads latest PCL pitching statistics and it isn't even close.

Decker, former star at Petaluma High School, has a 4-0 record and 1.80 earned run average for the Chicago Cubs' farm club. Decker's 55 strikeouts also top the league and so do 31 walks.

Broncs Vs. San Jose In Playoff Opener

SANTA CLARA (UPI) —The first round of the NCAA District 8 baseball playoffs will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday with Santa Clara meeting San Jose State.

The Broncos are the West Coast Athletic Conference champions while San Jose State won the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

The winner of the three-game series will meet the Pacific-8 Conference champion.

A HERO'S WELCOME

Celebration In Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) —The National Hockey League champion Montreal Canadiens returned home Wednesday to a heroes' welcome unparalleled in Montreal's sport history.

A quarter of the city's population, a crowd estimated by police at between 500,000 and 600,000, mobbed Montreal's streets during a victory parade for the newly-crowned Stanley Cup champions.

The Habs clinched the top award in professional hocky Tuesday night when they edged the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 in the final contest of the best-of seven series.

"How nice it is," said team captain Jean Beliveau as he sat in a convertible inching its way down the street from the Montreal Forum to the City Hall. "We are very fortunate to win."

The parade route was a mere two miles long, but it took almost three hours to cover as cheering Montrealers forced their way through police lines into the middle of downtown St. Catherine Street.

Golden Gate Fields Exacta Pays $5,792

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The one-two finish Wednesday at Sherry's Question and Eager in the fifth race at Golden Gate Fields produced a $5,792.50 Exacta payoff, second largest of the track's spring season.

The $217.00 straight payoff on Sherry's Question, who was making his first start of the year after winning one of six tries in 1970, was the highest of the year. The only higher Exacta return this season was the $8,066.50 paid by Miss Vagel and Dunkette on March 31 for a California record.

Sherry's Question, ridden by Senon Trevino, finished a half length in front of Eager, a four to one shot ridden by Dale Long.

The big Exacta payoff overshadowed Ratty Rulla's narrow victory over favored Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise in the $15,000 added Sir Francis Drake Stakes.

With Charlie Tohill aboard, Ratty Rulla moved to the outside in the stretch, took aim at Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise and then outfinished them.

Ratty Rulla paid $6.00, $2.80 and $2.40 while Pharos Man returned $2.60 and $2.40 and Aegean's Promise paid $3.00. In his initial stakes triumph, Ratty Rulla posted a 1.04 clocking for the five and a half furlongs.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Atlanta Stadium Making Sluggers Out Of 'Em All

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Atlanta Stadium seems to make a slugger out of everybody.

With its pleasing background, moderate distances and light air density, the stadium that houses the Atlanta Braves is fast becoming a modern day Ebbets Field and a torture chamber for pitchers.

For the third successive game Wednesday night there were six home runs hit at Atlanta Stadium, bringing the total for the year to 58 in 20 games. That's a better ratio than last year when 211 homers were hit there in 81 games, a major leading total.

Clete Boyer and Mike Lum each hit two for the Braves Wednesday night as they led their team to a 10-4 victory over the Montreal Expos. Boyer and Lum certainly do not fall into the category as home run hitters, yet Boyer has hit four at Atlanta in the last three games and other non-power hitters, such as Ralph Garr of the Braves and Bob Aspromonte of the Mets each hit two in one game this week.

The Expos got homers from Rusty Staub and pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore Wednesday night but couldn't offset the heroics of Boyer and Lum. Boyer, although batting only .222, has hit five home runs and driven in 10 runs in the last five games.

"I've always been a streak hitter," said Boyer, in trying to give a reason for his current spurt. "I hit five in three games in Washington back in the early '60s when I was with the Yankees. I can't explain it, I just get lucky at times."

In other NL games, Chicago walloped San Francisco, 9-5; Pittsburgh took over first place in the East Division by defeating Cincinnati, 6-1; Philadelphia beat the New York Mets, 4-1; Los Angeles edged St. Louis, 6-5; and San Diego downed Houston, 6-5, in 10 innings.

In the American League it was Baltimore 4 Washington 1, Boston 7 New York 2, Detroit 12 Cleveland 1, Kansas City 2 Chicago 0, Oakland 3 Milwaukee 0 and Minnesota 12 California 6.

Roberto Clemente collected four hits, including a triple and an inside-the-park homer, to drive in three runs in the Pirates' victory. The triumph moved the Pirates one full game ahead of the Mets, who suffered their fourth straight loss.

Chris Short scattered seven hits in going the distance to defeat the Mets. Terry Harmon's bases-loaded double in the seventh drove in three runs and tagged Jerry Koosman with his second loss against three victories. Mike Ryan had a homer for Philadelphia.

Rookie Bobby Valentine's run-scoring single in the eighth inning earned the Dodgers a come-from-behind victory. The Dodgers tied the game at 5-5 with two runs in the seventh with Willie Davis driving in the tying run with a single.

Ollie Brown's two-out single off second baseman Denis Menke's glove scored Nate Colbert with the winning run in the Padres' triumph. Colbert doubled with two out and scored when Brown's smash skipped off Menke's glove into short rightfield.

make 493 receptions for 9,584 yards and 81 TDs in nine years with the Chargers. He ranks No. 7 on the list of alltime pro receivers.

Last season he caught 35 passes for 608 yards.

The 6-foot-2 180-pounder from Arkansas holds two all-time pro records. He caught at least one pass in 96 consecutive games and gained more than 1,000 yards on receptions in seven straight seasons.

The Chargers obtained three players with a total of 18 years pro experience. Norman, 31, was with the Cowboys nine years while the 31-year-old Liscio was at Dallas seven years and East, 27, was with the Cowboys two seasons.

Truax, 28, was the key to the trade for Rentzel. The exLouisiana State player was a starter for the Rams for the past four seasons. He has a career total of 180 receiptions for 2,177 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Truax underwent knee and elbow surgery in the offseason.

The other Ram going to Dallas, Tucker, 27, is a four-year veteran.

Yugoslav Defeats Mark Cox

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — Favored Yugoslav Zeljko Franulovic beat defending champion Mark Cox of Britain in straight sets, 6-0, 9-8, 6-2 today to enter the men's singles final of the $36,000 British had court tennis championships.

Jaime Fillol of Chile will meet the winner of the delayed match between veteran Aussie, Frank Sedgman, and Britain's Gerald Batrick in the other semifinal.

Franulovic, the second seed who is favored to win the top prize of $4,080 following the withdrawal of Australia's Tony Roche with a stomach muscle injury, beat Cox for the first time as he raced through the first set in 15 minutes for the loss of only 10 points.

He appeared headed for a repeat performance in the second set when he led 3-1 and 41-love before the sixth-seeded Cox pulled himself together.

Cox saved set point in the 12th game and then blew a couple of his own in the 14th. He lost another in the 16th and this set up the tie-breaker, in which Franulovic led 4-1 and then trailed 4-6 before he finally wrapped it up at 9-7 for a 9-8 set that lasted 65 minutes.

A fourth game break in the third set put the Yugoslav on hs way into the final.

Donna Caponi Heads Field

BUENA PARK, Calif. (UPI) —Two-time U.S. Women's Open champion Donna Caponi of Hollywood, Calif., heads the LPGA field in the $41,000 Suzuki Golf Internationale that gets under way Friday at the Los Coyotes Country Club.

An 18-hole pro-am with a $3,000 purse is set today.

Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., winner of last weekend's $50,000 Sealy Classic, and Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the ladies' pro tour this year, also will be favorites in the 54-hole tournament.

Los Coyotes is a 6,041-yard, par 75 layout.

Two of the world's top women amateurs, Martha Wilkinson of Anaheim, Calif., and Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., also are entered.

SPORTS SHORTS

Dryden Voted The Best

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Dryden, the sensational rookie goaltender for the champion Montreal Canadiens, was an overwhelming winner in the balloting for the Conn Smythe Trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding player in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Dryden, a 6-4 law student at McGill University, received 47 of a maximum 55 points in voting conducted among members of the National Hockey League Writers Association. Frank Mahovlich of Montreal and Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks were second and third, respectively, in the voting.

Dryden, who appeared in only six regular season games after being called up from the minors, set a record by taking part in all 20 of Montreal's playoff games.

Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) —Chris Cannizzaro, veteran catcher, was acquired Wednesday by the Chicago Cubs from the San Diego Padres in return for minor league infielder Garry Jestadt and cash.

Golf

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —The United States Walker Cup golf team arrived here today full of confidence for the forthcoming cup clash against Britain and the amateur championships in Scotland.

The 10-man U.S. team has only three players who have played in Britain before—Bill Hyndman, Bill Campbell and Steve Melnyk.

Despite their long flight the Americans immediately boarded a motor coach and set off for St. Andrews where they intend to play their first practice round later today.

The Walker Cup will be played over the old course at St. Andrews, May 6-27, and the week-long amateur starts at nearby Carnoustie, May 31.

Basketball

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Richard Hood, fifth-round draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers, Wednesday signed a contract with the National Basketball Association club.

Ali Making Plans For Another Bout

OAKLAND (UPI) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammed Ali said Wednesday he is preparing to sign for a bout to be held within the next six to seven weeks.

Ali named George Foreman, Wilt Chamberlain and English heavyweight champion Joe Bugner as possible opponents. He said he wants to have two fights before a rematch with heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ali said the bout with Los Angeles Star Chamberlain, an on-again-off-again affair, is still alive. He said his manager, Herbert Muhammad, had received a call from Chamberlain's lawyer Wednesday and he was awaiting the outcome of their talks.

Of Foreman's chances against Frazier, Ali said, "I don't think that Foreman could hit him as quick and as hard as I did."

Ali was in Oakland for a series of speaking engagements.

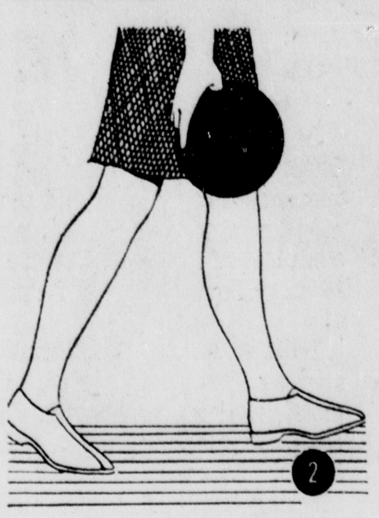
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



A well-timed swing means the ball should reach the bottom of its arc at the finish of the second step. If the ball is past this position, your footwork is slow. And if it hasn't dropped that far, you're moving your feet too quickly. Have someone check you on this.

Duane Thomas' Demands On The Questionable Side

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duane Thomas lost me somewhere.

He's the fine running back for the Dallas Cowboys or maybe you'd better make that he was their fine running back.

Duane Thomas says he's quitting the Dallas Cowboys and those people who claim to know him best say whenever he says anything he means it.

A three-year contract seems to be at the seat of all the trouble. The three-year contract has Duane Thomas' name on it and calls for approximately $22,500 a year plus a few fringe benefits. Thomas thought it was a pretty good contract when he signed it a year ago, but he doesn't think, it's so good anymore. He wants a new one. For more money. Naturally.

Multiple-year contracts are much more common in pro football and basketball than they are in baseball because the football and basketball whiz kids coming out of college generally are in greater demand by the pros than their baseball brethren.

Maybe you've heard of the Yiddish word "chutzpah." Technically it means nerve but that's losing a lot in the translation. Actually it comes closer to meaning gall, brass and pure affrontery all put together.

Until now the classic definition of the word was best illustrated by the famous story of the young man who murdered both his parents and then asked the court for mercy on the grounds he now was an orphan.

But these athletes who insist on signing multiple-year contracts are showing some "chutzpah" too.

What frequently happens in football and basketball with those who sign these three-year contracts is that they have a good first year, like Thomas did, and then demand to renegotiate their contracts. If that first year happens to be a poor one, they simply keep playing for the original amount.

Isn't that nice of them?

Duane Thomas isn't really that much to blame. He is only trying to do what he has seen so many others do. One of the things that bothered Thomas had to do with a provision in his contract calling for him to receive an added sum should he be voted Rookie of the Year.

Dennis Shaw of Buffalo and Bruce Taylor of San Francisco were voted to two Rookies of the Year by the UPI which selects from both conferences, while the AP had Shaw alone.

Thomas still felt he was entitled to the money set forth in his contract because he was named Rookie of the Year by a magazine. That prompted one wag to say "then let the magazine pay him the money," but the Cowboys paid it to Thomas nonetheless.

He says he's quitting anyway. I don't get it.

Duane Thomas didn't do so badly for a 23-year-old rookie. Along with his salary he got an additional 1-14th of that amount for the division playoff; an added $8,500 for the NFC championship; an extra $7,500 for the Super Bowl, plus the sum the Cowboys gave him for his being named by the magazine.

That comes to somewhere around $40,000 and how many people do you know who made that in their first year?

Players today generally determine how they want their money, then when the ball club gives it to them the way they asked for it, they say they want the money another way.

"There is no possible way to give a player a sizeable bonus on a one-year contract," says one NFL general manager. "This is simple economics. Let's say the player asks for $100,000 for signing with you and you agree to give it to him. Fine. Now he doesn't want it all at once because he has to give most of it away to taxes. So he takes $50,000 immediately, as front money or whatever else you care to call it, and spreads the remainder over the next two, three or four years. Then he invests that first $50,000 in a hamburger chain or something like that, and when that goes bad naturally he's looking for more money."

Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

Golden Gate Fields Exacta Pays $5,792

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The one-two finish Wednesday at Sherry's Question and Eager in the fifth race at Golden Gate Fields produced a $5,792.50 Exacta payoff, second largest of the track's spring season.

The $217.00 straight payoff on Sherry's Question, who was making his first start of the year after winning one of six tries in 1970, was the highest of the year. The only higher Exacta return this season was the $8,066.50 paid by Miss Vagel and Dunkette on March 31 for a California record.

Sherry's Question, ridden by Senon Trevino, finished a half length in front of Eager, a four to one shot ridden by Dale Long.

The big Exacta payoff overshadowed Ratty Rulla's narrow victory over favored Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise in the $15,000 added Sir Francis Drake Stakes.

With Charlie Tohill aboard, Ratty Rulla moved to the outside in the stretch, took aim at Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise and then outfinished them.

Ratty Rulla paid $6.00, $2.80 and $2.40 while Pharos Man returned $2.60 and $2.40 and Aegean's Promise paid $3.00. In his initial stakes triumph, Ratty Rulla posted a 1.04 clocking for the five and a half furlongs.

Stoneham, Brass Talk Real Estate

CHICAGO — There was nothing unusual about Horace Stoneham making a road trip with his Giants. The president of the ball club does it all the time. Stoneham loves watching his team at home or on the road.

But what was the rest of Candlestick's front office brass doing on this trip? There was Pete Stoneham, the club's vice president and son of the president; Chuck Rupert, controller and Stoneham's son-in-law; Jerry Donovan, assistant to the president, and a stranger with a brief case who sat beside Stoneham on the flight from San Francisco to Chicago.

WHEN THE team check in at the Executive House, the Giants' Chicago hotel headquarters, there was more brass of National Exhibition Company, the legal name of the Giants. All of NEC's directors were in the hotel already.

Surely, Stoneham hadn't summoned all of his executives and directors to Chicago to watch the Giants and Cubs in a three-game series at Wrigley Field. After all, somebody had to be left at home to watch the shop notwithstanding the fact that the Giants are worth watching this year.

What was going on? And who was the stranger with the brief case?

THE STRANGER stripped the mystery from the unusual gathering when asked by an inquiring reporter what it was all about. He identified himself as Angelo Valenti, special representative of Marubeni-Iida Co., Ltd., with head offices in Tokyo and other offices throughout the world, including one in Los Angeles that does $45 million business a month.

Valenti, an expert on land developments, disclosed that he already had inspected the Casa Grande properties of National Exhibition Company and also some very valuable property NEC owns between the twin cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

NOW, HE was ready to make his report to NEC directors on the feasibility of development of those properties. He already had made his report to Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., a subsidiary of the $5 billion dollar Japanese company.

Obviously, the big Japanese firm was interested in developing the properties with NEC. Valenti certainly wouldn't have made the trip to Chicago if Marubeni-Iida wasn't interested in putting some of its vast surplus treasury to work.

YOSHIRO SHIMAO, executive vice president and general manager of Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., with headquarters in Los Angeles, has been conducting negotiations with Stoneham. They have been going on for some time.

Last winter at a NEC stockholders meeting, Stoneham reported a whopping operating loss of the Giants for the third straight year due to declining attendance in Candlestick Park. At that time he said "real estate has to be our salvation" if the situation in Candlestick continued.

THE WINNING ways of the Giants this season have taken care of the Candlestick attendance problem.

Stoneham's skill as a real estate operator may take care of that dividend NEC stockholders missed last year. Stoneham did more than watch baseball games when his Giants visited Japan for two weeks in the spring of 1970, a trip that cost them the loss of their pitching ace Juan Marichal for most of last season but may now reap rich real estate rewards.

Decker Tops Pitching Statistics

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Decker of San Rafael, right-hander for Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, leads latest PCL pitching statistics and it isn't even close.

Decker, former star at Petaluma High School, has a 4-0 record and 1.80 earned run average for the Chicago Cubs' farm club. Decker's 55 strikeouts also top the league and so do 31 walks.

Broncs Vs. San Jose In Playoff Opener

SANTA CLARA (UPI) —The first round of the NCAA District 8 baseball playoffs will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday with Santa Clara meeting San Jose State.

The Broncos are the West Coast Athletic Conference champions while San Jose State won the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

The winner of the three-game series will meet the Pacific-8 Conference champion.

A HERO'S WELCOME

Celebration In Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) —The National Hockey League champion Montreal Canadiens returned home Wednesday to a heroes' welcome unparalleled in Montreal's sport history.

A quarter of the city's population, a crowd estimated by police at between 500,000 and 600,000, mobbed Montreal's streets during a victory parade for the newly-crowned Stanley Cup champions.

The Habs clinched the top award in professional hocky Tuesday night when they edged the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 in the final contest of the best-of seven series.

"How nice it is," said team captain Jean Beliveau as he sat in a convertible inching its way down the street from the Montreal Forum to the City Hall. "We are very fortunate to win."

The parade route was a mere two miles long, but it took almost three hours to cover as cheering Montrealers forced their way through police lines into the middle of downtown St. Catherine Street.

In both English and French, Montrealers shoted themselves hoarse as they cheered their favorite players — Beliveau, Conn Smythe Torphy winner Ken Dryden and Henri Richard, who led the Habs to their victory over Chicago with two goals.

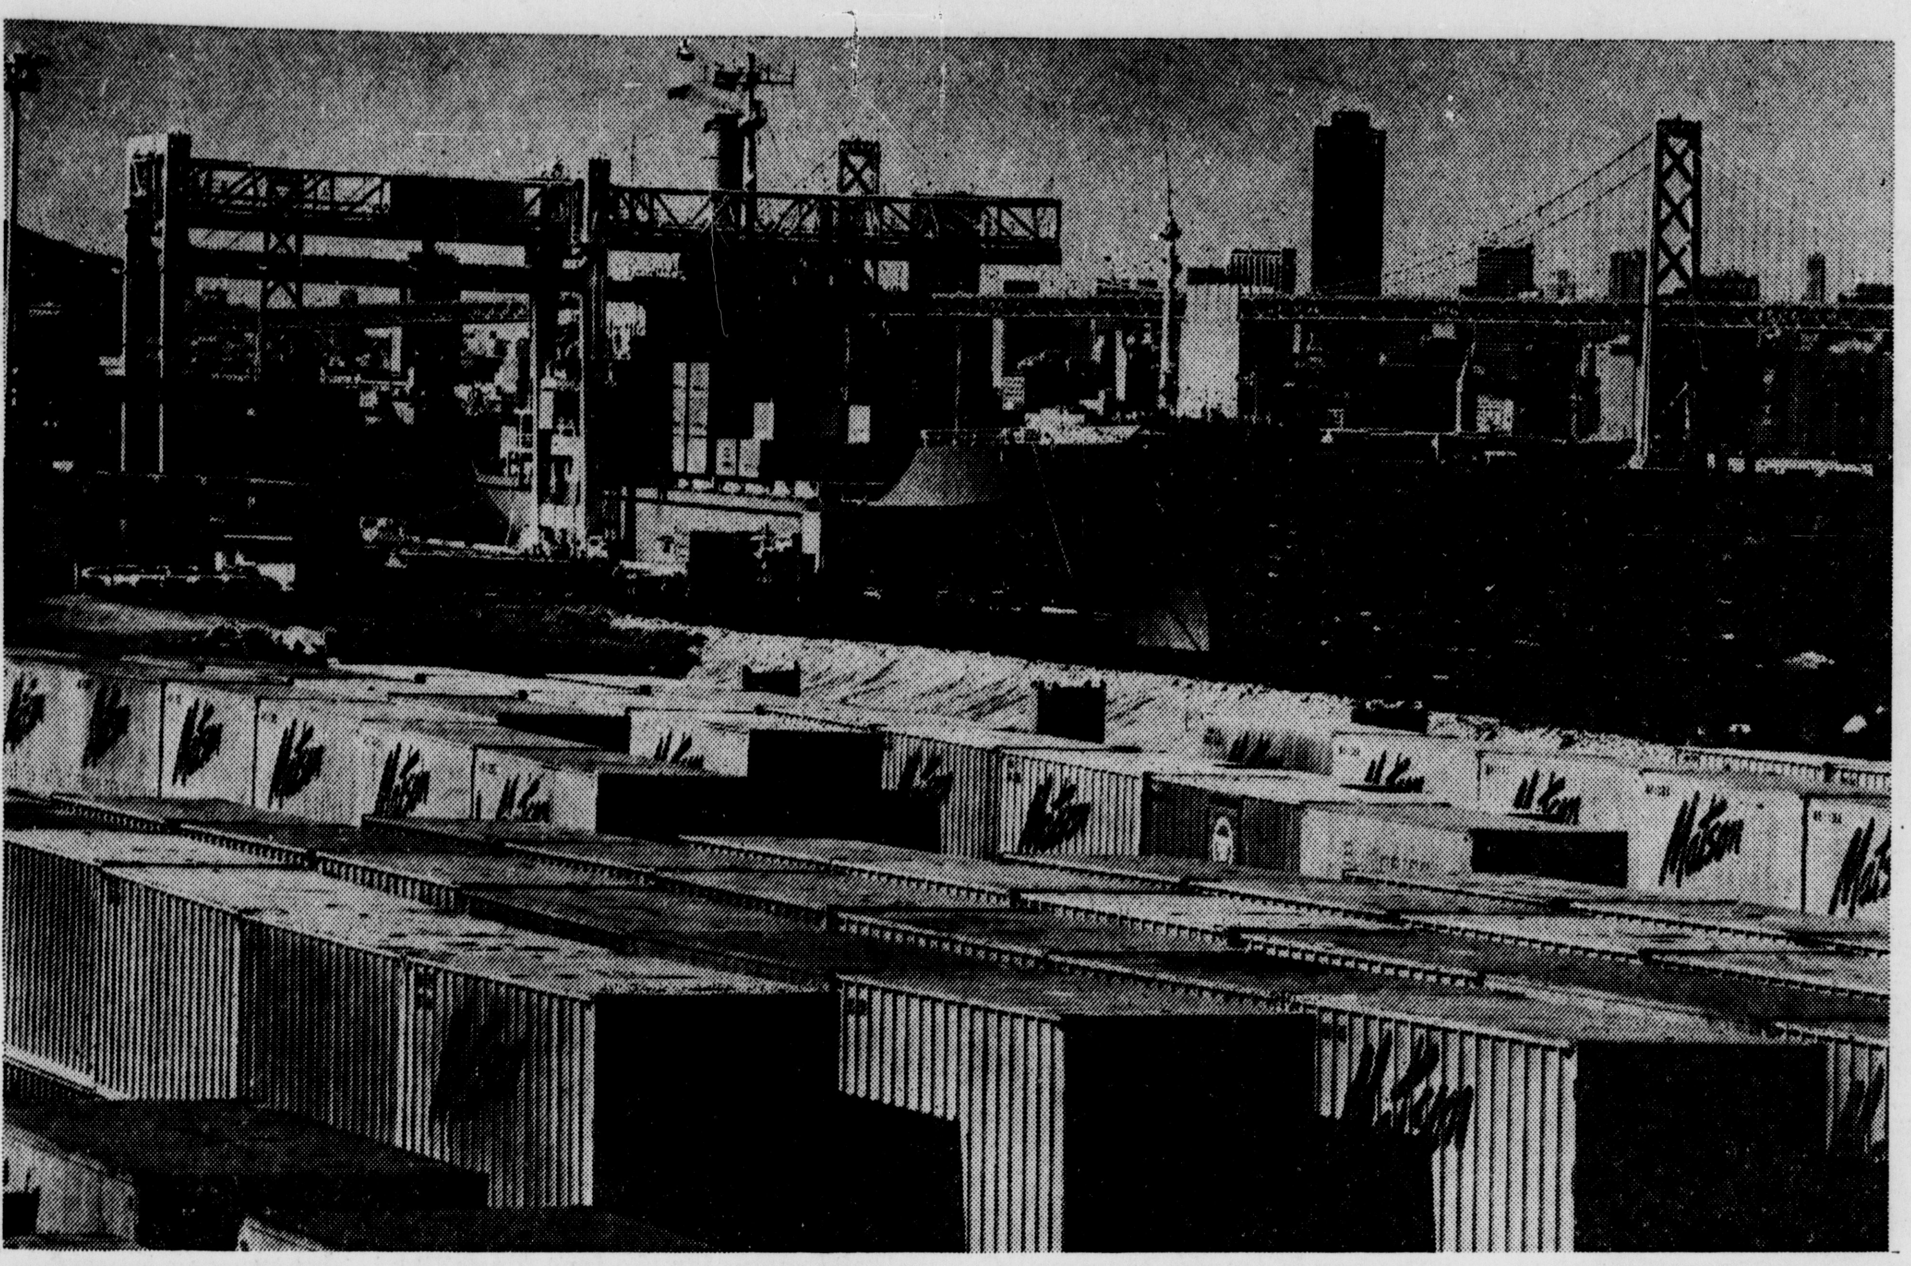
Port Of Oakland Leading Container Shipping Boom



PORT OF OAKLAND — This view of the Port of Oakland pictures the revolution overtaking the shipping business — the boom in use of containerized cargo. In the foreground is the Matson Co. container yard. Containers are used to facilitate the loading of cargo on and off ships. Last month, Pacific Australia Direct Line established Oakland as Northern California's only roll-on/roll-off port by basing its revolutionary shipping service at the new installation, which is open to the public this weekend.

OAKLAND — The Port of Oakland has completed development of the largest and most modern containerized shipping complex on the West Coast, the 140-acre Seventh Street Terminal.

Built at a cost of $32 million over a five-year period, the giant maritime complex has been the major element in the Port's recent leadership in meeting the boom in containerized shipping.

Its development has also sparked Oakland's emergence as Northern California's largest port and as the second largest container port in the world, behind New York.

The terminal differs significantly from traditional shipping facilities that consist of piers and cargo sheds, the type that were once the mainstays of ocean shipping.

Now freight is moved to a great extent in van-like containers that can be interchangeably handled in rapid order by all modes of transportation. In addition to speed, containers provide for their contents security from damage and pilferage.

Weighing up to 35 tons, the large metal boxes are moved to shipside by straddle carriers, "transtainers" or trucks. The vans are loaded and discharged from vessels by giant cranes that have a two-minute loading cycle.

Ships that once were in port from three to seven days now take on and discharge cargo at Oakland in 36 hours or less.

In all, Seventh Street terminal features seven berths, with an eighth planned for the future. Five of the berths have been specifically constructed to handle containers while two are designed to accommodate a combination of containerzied and break-bulk cargoes.

Nine container lines and one roll-on/roll-off service have based their Northern California operations at Seventh Street since initial portions of the complex were opened in 1968.

Seventh Street is divided into three main terminal areas — Matson Navigation Company Terminal, Oakland Container Terminal and the Public Container Facility operated by Marine Terminals Corp.

Matson maintains the base for its Hawaii container service at a 42-acre installation that includes two berths, 31 acres of container storage space, an 11-acre container freight station and two container cranes. Two Japanese flag carriers, N.Y.K. Line and Showa Line, also operate from the facility.

Oakland Container Terminal's one-berth, 20-acre installation is Northern California headquarters for four Japanese container lines: Japan Line, "K" Line, Mitsui-O.S.K. Line and Yamashita-Shinnihon Line. The facility includes a 26,000 square foot container freight station, storage area for 1,200 containers and has the use of 40-ton capacity container cranes.

The four-berth Public Container Terminal is available to all lines for containers, combination container-break bulk or general cargo operations. It includes a 50,000 square foot covered container freight station, a 61,440 square foot covered combination container freight station-transit shed and offers 785,000 square feet of open storage area. The facility has the use of three 40-ton container cranes.

The public terminal is Bay Area headquarters for United States Lines, Johnson Line and Pacific Australia Direct Line. By mid-year it will be Northern California base for ScanStar's new combined container service.

The Seventh Street development is not all shipping facilities. Also included is a 2.4-acre recreational area complete with picnic facilities, a fishing pier and 40-foot-tall Bay observation tower. The area is known as Port View Park.

Having the tremendous advantage of a location on the mainland side of San Francisco Bay, the city of Oakland has historically been the transportation hub of the West Coast's second largest market area.

The western Terminal for transcontinental railroads - Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Sante Fe - are in or near Oakland. More than 1,000 trucking companies serve the city, 40 with terminals within three miles of the Oakland docks. The East Bay city is the center of a major network of freeways and is the site of Oakland International Airport, operated by the Port and one of the nation's fastest growing aviation facilities.

But it took a modern shipping complex like Seventh Street to make the city's intermodal mix complete. Now freight in metal boxes flows into the Port from all over the world. In Oakland the vans are transferred for shipment by any of the other three major modes of transportation - all within the confines of the Port.

In developing Seventh Street, several things were required - research into the future of the shipping industry, a belief in the advent of containerization and extensive funding.

The terminal was financed by Port-generated revenue, Port revenue bonds, tenant capital and $10.1 million in grants and loans from the Economic Development Administration.

The EDA provided those funds recognizing that Oakland was a city with a long-time, high unemployment rate and that containerized shipping could have a strongly beneficial effect on the local economy. That result hasmaterialized. Oakland Mayor John Reading now says that one in five Oakland jobs result from activities of the Port. Seventh Street Terminal itself has meant more than 3,000 new jobs for the community, more than 1,000 of them filled by members of minority groups.

A port prospers on the goods that flow across its wharves, and that's where Seventh Street has had a tremendous impact on Oakland.

In 1967, only months before the first portions of the terminal were opened for Matson and the six Japanese lines, Oakland's container tonnage was 950,047 tons. Last year, with five of the seven berths complete, Port tonnage in vans had soared to 3,650,699 tons, a gain of almost 400 percent. The primary difference was Seventh Street.

Also important is the fact that over that period break-bulk cargo remained relatively constant, the net result being that Oakland surpassed neighboring San Francisco in shipping activity by about 1.8 million tons annually.

A string of flat cars powered by a diesel switch engine and carrying a host of American and Japanese freight containers had smashed through a ceremonial barrier on Sept. 12, 1968, to first open Seventh Street.

Since that day more than seven million tons of containerized freight have moved through the Port, while additional portions of the terminal have been developed.

Looking to the future, Port Executive Director Ben E. Nutter believes that as much as 6.5 million tons of cargo will be shipped through Oakland during 1971, of which about 4.2 million will be containerized.

He cites several reasons for that confidence.

"Seventh Street Terminal is complete. Pacific Australia Direct Line roll-on/roll-off service located at the facility last month and ScanStar will establish its new container operation at the terminal in the next few weeks," he says.

"Those factors, combined with a complete year of United States Lines service and expanded Seatrain and Sea-Land Far East operations make the 1971 outlook at the Port look extremely encouraging."

Nutter announced that the public would be able to see the new ocean terminal during Port open house activities this Saturday and Sunday.

Free boat tours will be conducted around the facility from 9:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. both days. In addition, bus tours of other Oakland marine terminal facilities, Oakland International Airport, Port of Oakland Industrial Park and Jack London Square will be offered during those same hours. Both tours will depart from Seventh Street Terminal Berth O.

Recovery Seen For Philips Lamp

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your view on Philips Lamp, purchased at 18? — J.N.

A. This international electronics giant had a discouraging year in 1970, with earnings off 7 per cent to $1.11 a share, despite a 16 per cent gain in sales to an all-time high of $4.2 billion. The poor performance reflected sluggish economic conditions in the U.S., which absorbs 13 per cent of sales, and sharply higher labor and material costs. A cost-cutting program, expansion of oversea markets and an upturn in the business climate in the U.S. should turn profits around this year.

Q. I have E bonds dating from 1941 which are soon coming due. Should I replace these with other Treasury issues? — A.S.

A. Because of a recent Treasury announcement you will be able to continue holding these bonds. The Treasury has extended maturities another 10 years on E bonds purchased between May, 1941 and April, 1952. This was announced as being the third and final extension for the series, which can be exchanged for H bonds at any time prior to maturity. Interest will be paid at the rate prevailing when the bond enters the extension period; and at present this rate is 5½ per cent.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (BW) — Microform Data Systems Inc. has announced the establishment of a marketing agreement with Capitol Computer Graphic Systems Inc. of Bethesda, Md.

According to Dean Mack, president of Microform, CCGS will be marketing agent to the federal government for Microform's information retrieval systems, which utilize high reduction film technology.

Western Airlines Scores April Jump

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Western Airlines reports its April traffic — aided by Easter and Passover season travel — increased 23.4 per cent over April of last year.

Based on preliminary figures, seat miles sold totaled 421 million, compared to 341 million for April 1970. Easter travel took place in March last year.

Prices Make Strong Bid On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices were strong in moderate turnover after almost two hours on Wall Street today.

Analysts attributed the advance to a follow through of Wednesday's demand and general optimism about the economy. However, they noted it was "a selective rise," and one said it may take some encouraging news to keep the rally going.

Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index was up 0.45 at 101.52. Of the 1,433 issues crossing the tape, 730 pointed higher while 373 retreated.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Advances topped declines, 449 to 203, among the 891 issues on the tape.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list included Commercial Solvents up 2 3-8, American Telephone unchanged, Kinney Services up 34, National Cash Register 1-2 higher, General Electric up 3 3-8, Westinghouse up 7-8, and Federal National Mortgage 1 5-8 higher.

Steels and motors tacked on fractions. So did most airlines and aircrafts. Missouri Pacific lost a point in the otherwise narrowly mixed rail group.

Among the most active American Exchange issues were United Nations Investors up 1-2 on 99,900 shares, Asamera Oil up 2 on 56,200 shares, and General Battery unchanged on 39,800 shares.

Ex-Laborer Turns Dream Into Reality

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's fastest growing motel chains is headed by a man who got out of the Navy in 1945 at the age of 22 and went to work as a common laborer.

But it so happened that as a laborer Earl Gagosian—now president and board chairman of Royal Inns of America Inc.—was working on building a motel.

Laborer or not, Gagosian had a rich man's dream which he translated into reality. He believed—and is on his way to proving—that a bit of luxury "bedding down" combined with economy of building, are the touchstones to success.

He believed that the average American, growing in affluence every day, would pay for extra attention and a few sybaritic luxuries. He threw in some of these "goodies" of convenience living with each motel and came out a winner.

Royal Inns are nothing like the old concept of motels. They are ultra plush with cocktail lounge, restaurant, color television in each room, Italian motif furniture, rich carpets, sauna and therapy pools.

Gagosian runs his empire from the fifth floor of the Royal Inn located on San Diego's Point Loma, overlooking the bay. The corporate offices take up one floor.

At present there are 40 Royal Inns in operation with a total of 4,100 rooms. Construction in 1971 is expected to bring the total to 6,462 rooms by December.

Gagosian says he expects sales of at least $30 million during 1971.

Ali Making Plans For Another Bout

OAKLAND (UPI) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammed Ali said Wednesday he is preparing to sign for a bout to be held within the next six to seven weeks.

Ali named George Foreman, Wilt Chamberlain and English heavyweight champion Joe Bugner as possible opponents. He said he wants to have two fights before a rematch with heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ali said the bout with Los Angeles Star Chamberlain, an on-again-off-again affair, is still alive. He said his manager, Herbert Muhammad, had received a call from Chamberlain's lawyer Wednesday and he was awaiting the outcome of their talks.

Of Foreman's chances against Frazier, Ali said, "I don't think that Foreman could hit him as quick and as hard as I did."

Ali was in Oakland for a series of speaking engagements.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce. United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depts are always additive to the chart in depts unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

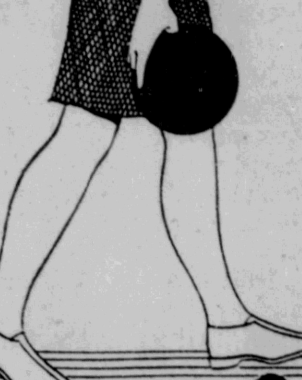
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



A well-timed swing means the ball should reach the bottom of its arc at the finish of the second step. If the ball is past this position, your footwork is slow. And if it hasn't dropped that far, you're moving your feet too quickly. Have someone check you on this.

Duane Thomas' Demands On The Questionable Side

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duane Thomas lost me somewhere.

He's the fine running back for the Dallas Cowboys or maybe you'd better make that he was their fine running back.

Duane Thomas says he's quitting the Dallas Cowboys and those people who claim to know him best say whenever he says anything he means it.

A three-year contract seems to be at the seat of all the trouble. The three-year contract has Duane Thomas' name on it and calls for approximately $22,500 a year plus a few fringe benefits. Thomas thought it was a pretty good contract when he signed it a year ago, but he doesn't think, it's so good anymore. He wants a new one. For more money. Naturally.

Multiple-year contracts are much more common in pro football and basketball than they are in baseball because the football and basketball whiz kids coming out of college generally are in greater demand by the pros than their baseball brethren.

Maybe you've heard of the Yiddish word "chutzpah." Technically it means nerve but that's losing a lot in the translation. Actually it comes closer to meaning gall, brass and pure affrontery all put together.

Until now the classic definition of the word was best illustrated by the famous story of the young man who murdered both his parents and then asked the court for mercy on the grounds he now was an orphan.

But these athletes who insist on signing multiple-year contracts are showing some "chutzpah" too.

What frequently happens in football and basketball with those who sign these three-year contracts is that they have a good first year, like Thomas did, and then demand to renegotiate their contracts. If that first year happens to be a poor one, they simply keep playing for the original amount.

Isn't that nice of them?

Duane Thomas isn't really that much to blame. He is only trying to do what he has seen so many others do. One of the things that bothered Thomas had to do with a provision in his contract calling for him to receive an added sum should he be voted Rookie of the Year.

Dennis Shaw of Buffalo and Bruce Taylor of San Francisco were voted to two Rookies of the Year by the UPI which selects from both conferences, while the AP had Shaw alone.

Thomas still felt he was entitled to the money set forth in his contract because he was named Rookie of the Year by a magazine. That prompted one wag to say "then let the magazine pay him the money," but the Cowboys paid it to Thomas nonetheless.

He says he's quitting anyway. I don't get it.

Duane Thomas didn't do so badly for a 23-year-old rookie. Along with his salary he got an additional 1-14th of that amount for the division playoff; an added $8,500 for the NFC championship; an extra $7,500 for the Super Bowl, plus the sum the Cowboys gave him for his being named by the magazine.

That comes to somewhere around $40,000 and how many people do you know who made that in their first year?

Players today generally determine how they want their money, then when the ball club gives it to them the way they asked for it, they say they want the money another way.

"There is no possible way to give a player a sizeable bonus on a one-year contract," says one NFL general manager. "This is simple economics. Let's say the player asks for $100,000 for signing with you and you agree to give it to him. Fine. Now he doesn't want it all at once because he has to give most of it away to taxes. So he takes $50,000 immediately, as front money or whatever else you care to call it, and spreads the remainder over the next two, three or four years. Then he invests that first $50,000 in a hamburger chain or something like that, and when that goes bad naturally he's looking for more money."

The Book Sometimes No Help On Penalty Doubles

You can't rely on books or newspaper articles to tell you everything you ever wanted to know about penalty doubles. After you have learned the "book" requirements for a double, you still have to know something about judging your opponents. Given the very same cards, you might double a flighty opponent but pass cautiously against a conservative opponent.

Opening lead — ♡ Q

AN OVERCALL

When today's hand was played, South made a flighty overcall of two diamonds. There is little to gain in bidding a five-card suit against a strong notrump since game for your side is very unlikely. There is much to lose if your opponents take the trouble to apply the ax.

In this case, West conservatively (perhaps timidly) passed the overcall of two diamonds. West has 6 points in high cards and knows that his partner has at least 16 points. East should also have two or three trumps, perhaps more, for his opening bid. The defenders therefore have far more points and almost as many trumps as South. If South happens to make two diamonds doubled, he will score only 80 points (a mere part score) below the line.

PROPER BID

A conservative South would bid two diamonds if he had an extra diamond instead of a low heart or a low spade. That's why doubling a conservative player will not make anybody rich.

In the actual hand, West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy's king went to the ace. East returned a spade to the king, and West cashed the jack of hearts and then got out with a spade. South led a trump, and East took the top trumps and led a third trump. South had to lead clubs, giving up two tricks in that suit.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A 9
♥ - 4 2
♦ - Q J 10 9 7
♣ - K J 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds or pass.

This is a borderline bid and it is correct to go either way.

Senate Panel Sets Challenge To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, acting in direct opposition to Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed new budget, has ordered salary hikes for college and university faculty members and state workers.

The committee Tuesday ordered a 10 per cent pay hike for state college and university faculty members and a five per ient increase for all other state workers.

Welfare Position On Strikers Told

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The State Social Welfare Board has recommended that welfare benefits be denied to persons on strike since they are "voluntarily participating in a trade dispute.'

The board took the position Tuesday in a 12-page statement resulting from two public hearings it conducted on the subject.

Mercury Miner Predicts Doom

ALMADEN (UPI)—The manager of an idle mercury mine says "environmental alarmism" is going to drive the industry out of business.

Robert K. Linn, manager of the New Mercury Mine, said Tuesday only one major mercury mine in the state 'is now operating.

The firm also owns the New Idria Mine 60 miles south of Hollister which is the only operating mercury mine in the state. California produces 75 per cent of the nation's mercury.

PORT OF OAKLAND — This view of the Port of Oakland pictures the revolution overtaking the shipping business — the boom in use of containerized cargo. In the foreground is the Matson Co. container yard. Containers are used to facilitate the loading of cargo on and off ships. Last month, Pacific Australia Direct Line established Oakland as Northern California's only roll-on/roll-off port by basing its revolutionary shipping service at the new installation, which is open to the public this weekend.

Port Of Oakland Leading Container Shipping Boom

OAKLAND — The Port of Oakland has completed development of the largest and most modern containerized shipping complex on the West Coast, the 140-acre Seventh Street Terminal.

Built at a cost of $32 million over a five-year period, the giant maritime complex has been the major element in the Port's recent leadership in meeting the boom in containerized shipping.

Its development has also sparked Oakland's emergence as Northern California's largest port and as the second largest container port in the world, behind New York.

The terminal differs significantly from traditional shipping facilities that consist of piers and cargo sheds, the type that were once the mainstays of ocean shipping.

Now freight is moved to a great extent in van-like containers that can be interchangeably handled in rapid order by all modes of transportation. In addition to speed, containers provide for their contents security from damage and pilferage.

Weighing up to 35 tons, the large metal boxes are moved to shipside by straddle carriers, "transtainers" or trucks. The vans are loaded and discharged from vessels by giant cranes that have a two-minute loading cycle.

Ships that once were in port from three to seven days now take on and discharge cargo at Oakland in 36 hours or less.

In all, Seventh Street terminal features seven berths, with an eighth planned for the future. Five of the berths have been specifically constructed to handle containers while two are designed to accommodate a combination of containerzied and break-bulk cargoes.

Nine container lines and one roll-on/roll-off service have based their Northern California operations at Seventh Street since initial portions of the complex were opened in 1968.

Seventh Street is divided into three main terminal areas — Matson Navigation Company Terminal, Oakland Container Terminal and the Public Container Facility operated by Marine Terminals Corp.

Matson maintains the base for its Hawaii container service at a 42-acre installation that includes two berths, 31 acres of container storage space, an 11-acre container freight station and two container cranes. Two Japanese flag carriers, N.Y.K. Line and Showa Line, also operate from the facility.

Oakland Container Terminal's one-berth, 20-acre installation is Northern California headquarters for four Japanese container lines: Japan Line, "K" Line, Mitsui-O.S.K. Line and Yamashita-Shinnihon Line. The facility includes a 26,000 square foot container freight station, storage area for 1,200 containers and has the use of 40-ton capacity container cranes.

The four-berth Public Container Terminal is available to all lines for containers, combination container-break bulk or general cargo operations. It includes a 50,000 square foot covered container freight station, a 61,440 square foot covered combination container freight station-transit shed and offers 785,000 square feet of open storage area. The facility has the use of three 40-ton container cranes.

The public terminal is Bay Area headquarters for United States Lines, Johnson Line and Pacific Australia Direct Line. By mid-year it will be Northern California base for ScanStar's new combined container service.

The Seventh Street development is not all shipping facilities. Also included is a 2.4-acre recreational area complete with picnic facilities, a fishing pier and 40-foot-tall Bay observation tower. The area is known as Port View Park.

Having the tremendous advantage of a location on the mainland side of San Francisco Bay, the city of Oakland has historically been the transportation hub of the West Coast's second largest market area.

The western Terminal for transcontinental railroads - Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Sante Fe - are in or near Oakland. More than 1,000 trucking companies serve the city, 40 with terminals within three miles of the Oakland docks. The East Bay city is the center of a major network of freeways and is the site of Oakland International Airport, operated by the Port and one of the nation's fastest growing aviation facilities.

But it took a modern shipping complex like Seventh Street to make the city's intermodal mix complete. Now freight in metal boxes flows into the Port from all over the world. In Oakland the vans are transferred for shipment by any of the other three major modes of transportation - all within the confines of the Port.

In developing Seventh Street, several things were required - research into the future of the shipping industry, a belief in the advent of containerization and extensive funding.

The terminal was financed by Port-generated revenue, Port revenue bonds, tenant capital and $10.1 million in grants and loans from the Economic Development Administration.

The EDA provided those funds recognizing that Oakland was a city with a long-time, high unemployment rate and that containerized shipping could have a strongly beneficial effect on the local economy. That result hasmaterialized. Oakland Mayor John Reading now says that one in five Oakland jobs result from activities of the Port. Seventh Street Terminal itself has meant more than 3,000 new jobs for the community, more than 1,000 of them filled by members of minority groups.

A port prospers on the goods that flow across its wharves, and that's where Seventh Street has had a tremendous impact on Oakland.

In 1967, only months before the first portions of the terminal were opened for Matson and the six Japanese lines, Oakland's container tonnage was 950,047 tons. Last year, with five of the seven berths complete, Port tonnage in vans had soared to 3,650,699 tons, a gain of almost 400 percent. The primary difference was Seventh Street.

Also important is the fact that over that period break-bulk cargo remained relatively constant, the net result being that Oakland surpassed neighboring San Francisco in shipping activity by about 1.8 million tons annually.

A string of flat cars powered by a diesel switch engine and carrying a host of American and Japanese freight containers had smashed through a ceremonial barrier on Sept. 12, 1968, to first open Seventh Street.

Since that day more than seven million tons of containerized freight have moved through the Port, while additional portions of the terminal have been developed.

Looking to the future, Port Executive Director Ben E. Nutter believes that as much as 6.5 million tons of cargo will be shipped through Oakland during 1971, of which about 4.2 million will be containerized.

He cites several reasons for that confidence.

"Seventh Street Terminal is complete. Pacific Australia Direct Line roll-on/roll-off service located at the facility last month and ScanStar will establish its new container operation at the terminal in the next few weeks," he says.

"Those factors, combined with a complete year of United States Lines service and expanded Seatrain and Sea-Land Far East operations make the 1971 outlook at the Port look extremely encouraging."

Nutter announced that the public would be able to see the new ocean terminal during Port open house activities this Saturday and Sunday.

Free boat tours will be conducted around the facility from 9:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. both days. In addition, bus tours of other Oakland marine terminal facilities, Oakland International Airport, Port of Oakland Industrial Park and Jack London Square will be offered during those same hours. Both tours will depart from Seventh Street Terminal Berth O.

Recovery Seen For Philips Lamp

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your view on Phillips Lamp, purchased at 18? — J.N.

A. This international electronics giant had a discouraging year in 1970, with earnings off 7 per cent to $1.11 a share, despite a 16 per cent gain in sales to an all-time high of $4.2 billion. The poor performance reflected sluggish economic conditions in the U.S., which absorbs 13 per cent of sales, and sharply higher labor and material costs. A cost-cutting program, expansion of oversea markets and an upturn in the business climate in the U.S. should turn profits around this year.

Q. I have E bonds dating from 1941 which are soon coming due. Should I replace these with other Treasury issues? — A.S.

A. Because of a recent Treasury announcement you will be able to continue holding these bonds. The Treasury has extended maturities another 10 years on E bonds purchased between May, 1941 and April, 1952. This was announced as being the third and final extension for the series, which can be exchanged for H bonds at any time prior to maturity. Interest will be paid at the rate prevailing when the bond enters the extension period; and at present this rate is 5½ per cent.

Marketing Pact For Microform Data Inc.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (BW) — Microform Data Systems Inc. has announced the establishment of a marketing agreement with Capitol Computer Graphic Systems Inc. of Bethesda, Md.

According to Dean Mack, president of Microform, CCGS will be marketing agent to the federal government for Microform's information retrieval systems, which utilize high reduction film technology.

Western Airlines Scores April Jump

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Western Airlines reports its April traffic — aided by Easter and Passover season travel — increased 23.4 per cent over April of last year.

Based on preliminary figures, seat miles sold totaled 421 million, compared to 341 million for April 1970. Easter travel took place in March last year.

Prices Make Strong Bid On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices were strong in moderate turnover after almost two hours on Wall Street today.

Analysts attributed the advance to a follow through of Wednesday's demand and general optimism about the economy. However, they noted it was "a selective rise," and one said it may take some encouraging news to keep the rally going.

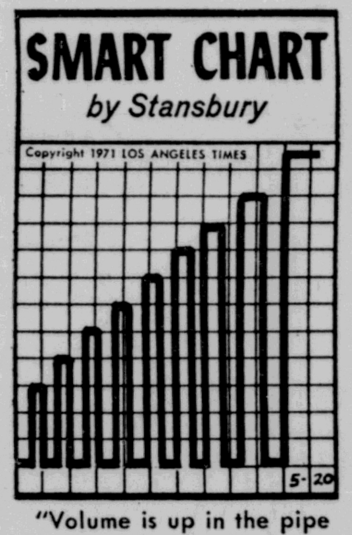
Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index was up 0.45 at 101.52. Of the 1,433 issues crossing the tape, 730 pointed higher while 373 retreated.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Advances topped declines, 449 to 203, among the 891 issues on the tape.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list included Commercial Solvents up 2 3-8, American Telephone unchanged, Kinney Services up 34, National Cash Register 1-2 higher, General Electric up 3 3-8, Westinghouse up 7-8, and Federal National Mortgage 1 5-8 higher.

Steels and motors tacked on fractions. So did most airlines and aircrafts. Missouri Pacific lost a point in the otherwise narrowly mixed rail group.

Among the most active American Exchange issues were United Nations Investors up 1-2 on 99,900 shares, Asamera Oil up 2 on 56,200 shares, and General Battery unchanged on 39,800 shares.



"Volume is up in the pipe organ division."

Ex-Laborer Turns Dream Into Reality

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's fastest growing motel chains is headed by a man who got out of the Navy in 1945 at the age of 22 and went to work as a common laborer.

But it so happened that as a laborer Earl Gagosian—now president and board chairman of Royal Inns of America Inc.—was working on building a motel.

Laborer or not, Gagosian had a rich man's dream which he translated into reality. He believed—and is on his way to proving—that a bit of luxury "bedding down" combined with economy of building, are the touchstones to success.

He believed that the average American, growing in affluence every day, would pay for extra attention and a few sybaritic luxuries. He threw in some of these "goodies" of convenience living with each motel and came out a winner.

Royal Inns are nothing like the old concept of motels. They are ultra plush with cocktail lounge, restaurant, color television in each room, Italian motif furniture, rich carpets, sauna and therapy pools.

Gagosian runs his empire from the fifth floor of the Royal Inn located on San Diego's Point Loma, overlooking the bay. The corporate offices take up one floor.

At present there are 40 Royal Inns in operation with a total of 4,100 rooms. Construction in 1971 is expected to bring the total to 6,462 rooms by December.

Gagosian says he expects sales of at least $30 million during 1971.

Fund Asked For Youth Job Bureau

Marin youth commissioners have recommended that $1,000 in county "seed" money go to a youth employment service which the YMCA of Marin wants to start next month.

The recommendation for the $1,000 aid will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for final decision.

James Looney, executive director of the YMCA, told commissioners Tuesday night the aim of the employment service is to serve as a contact between youths seeking jobs and county employers, and to help train and counsel youth for employment.

The Marin Youth Commission also:

VD — Set June 30 as the deadline for youths to submit articles on venereal disease and vie for $50 in prize money offered by the Marin Pharmaceutical Association. Entries must be submitted to the youth commission office in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice.

VACANCIES — Announced that three vacancies will occur on the commission in June because Laurie Packard, Carol McClure and Peter Sorensen are leaving for college.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Announced that youths who want to solicit funds for Pakistan relief should contact the youth commission office at the Hall of Justice.

BUDGET COMMITTEE — Appointed Albert J. Boro, Peter Sorensen and Paul M. Cohen to the budget committee to fight for more funds in the new budget. Youth commissioners want a full-time youth coordinator and $10,000 in new "seed" money to help youth projects, whereas the county administrator recommended a half-time coordinator and $4,000 in "seed" money.

Marinite Wins Speaking Contest

Ondina Hardy, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School has won champion speaker title in a Lions Club sponsored contest held at Hoberg's Resort in Lake County.

Miss Hardy, daughter of Mrs. Arnella Hardy of 525 Heather Way, San Rafael, will compete in the semi finals at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Oakland Center for the Blind.

All speakers in this year's contest sponsored by Lions clubs in California and Nevada were given the subject, "Should Youth Become Involved — How and When?" Miss Hardy was sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions Club.

Art Show Set At St. Vincent's

A show and sale of original art by students at St. Vincent's School for Boys will be held in the gardens of the school from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, according to school officials.

Refreshments will be available and live music will be played during the show.

Visitors may also take tours of the oldest home for boys in the west.

Sausalitan Says Report Of His Threat Untrue

A 26-year-old Sausalito man yesterday called untrue the report said to have led to his bail being set as high as $62,500.

Ian Strider — booked Monday on suspicion of a variety of offenses, including burglary — was released the next day on $500 bail after being charged with only a misdemeanor count of possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court on setting the $62,500 bail said he was doing so because he had been advised by sheriff's deputies that Strider had threatened to shoot the persons responsible for his arrest as soon as he got out of jail.

Strider, who is also known as Barry Ford, told the I-J yesterday, "That's not true. I didn't threaten anyone. I don't want to hurt anyone. I don't even own a gun."

He is to appear June 2 in municipal court on the misdemeanor charge.

3R Schools Will Show Student Art

Students of the 3R Schools of San Rafael will hold their first art show from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday in the school gallery at 3833 Redwood Highway.

Pen and ink sketches, water colors, collages and textures by youngsters from the third grade through the tenth will be shown, according to Rita Berg, the school's art director. She said this year was the first time art was added to the curriculum of the school.

77 Strep Cases During Last Week

Seventy-seven cases of streptococcus infection were reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Second most common communicable disease reported was gonorrhea, with 22 cases. There were also 11 cases of rubella and one each of syphillis and infectious hepatitis.

Student Bid For More Event Funds

According to Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent, student body officers asked that the district pay an additional $16,000 toward such activities as drama and music.

Currently, drama and music productions are financed by both district and student funds.

The request came Tuesday night during informal budget study by district staff and two trustees — Theodore C. Wellman and Donald K. Felt.

Grasham said the trustees also were told departmental requests exceed by $500,000 what the district's business manager will recommend for a fiscal 1971-72 budget.

On May 6, the board was given a preliminary budget totaling about $6.5 million including departmental requests.

Speaker Set For U.N. Dinner

Dr. Urban Whitaker, dean of undergraduate studies at San Francisco State College, will speak on "Education Against Violence" at the annual dinner May 28 of the Marin Chapter of the United Nations Association.

The dinner and election of officers will be held at 7 p.m. at Alexander Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Reservations to the dinner may be made with Thelma Dickson, president of the chapter.

Los Angeles Grand Jury Bill Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee has given its approval to legislation that would require Los Angeles County to set up two grand juries every year

One would deal with criminal matters and the other with civil. On a voice vote, the committee approved the bill by Assemblyman Peter Schabarum, R-Covina, and sent it to the full Assembly.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, May 20, the 140th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. There is no evening star.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Taurus.

On this day in history:

In 1506 Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1927 Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" monoplane. He landed in the French capitol 33½ hours later.

In 1963 the supreme court legalized sit-in demonstrations.

In 1970 House Speaker John McCormack retired at the age of 78.

A thought for today: Writer Charles Dudley Warner said, "What small potatoes we all are, compared with what we might be."

Mercury Miner Predicts Doom

ALMADEN (UPI)—The manager of an idle mercury mine says "environmental alarmism" is going to drive the industry out of business.

Robert K. Linn, manager of the New Mercury Mine, said Tuesday only one major mercury mine in the state 'is now operating.

The firm also owns the New Idria Mine 60 miles south of Hollister which is the only operating mercury mine in the state. California produces 75 per cent of the nation's mercury.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Book Sometimes No Help On Penalty Doubles

You can't rely on books or newspaper articles to tell you everything you ever wanted to know about penalty doubles. After you have learned the "book" requirements for a double, you still have to know something about judging your opponents. Given the very same cards, you might double a flighty opponent but pass cautiously against a conservative opponent.

AN OVERCALL

When today's hand was played, South made a flighty overcall of two diamonds. There is little to gain in bidding a five-card suit against a strong notrump since game for your side is very unlikely. There is much to lose if your opponents take the trouble to apply the ax.

In this case, West conservatively (perhaps timidly) passed the overcall of two diamonds. West has 6 points in high cards and knows that his partner has at least 16 points. East should also have two or three trumps, perhaps more, for his opening bid. The defenders therefore have far more points and almost as many trumps as South. If South happens to make two diamonds doubled, he will score only 80 points (a mere part score) below the line.

PROPER BID

A conservative South would bid two diamonds if he had an extra diamond instead of a low heart or a low spade. That's why doubling a conservative player will not make anybody rich.

In the actual hand, West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy's king went to the ace. East returned a spade to the king, and West cashed the jack of hearts and then got out with a spade. South led a trump, and East took the top trumps and led a third trump. South had to lead clubs, giving up two tricks in that suit.

♣ - K J 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds or pass.

This is a borderline bid and it is correct to go either way.

Senate Panel Sets Challenge To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, acting in direct opposition to Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed new budget, has ordered salary hikes for college and university faculty members and state workers.

The committee Tuesday ordered a 10 per cent pay hike for state college and university faculty members and a five per ient increase for all other state workers.

Welfare Position On Strikers Told

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The State Social Welfare Board has recommended that welfare benefits be denied to persons on strike since they are "voluntarily participating in a trade dispute.'

The board took the position Tuesday in a 12-page statement resulting from two public hearings it conducted on the subject.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some Common Sense Rules To Follow For Bike Riding

Bicycle riding is an excellent way to improve the health, enhance stamina, get fresh air and lose pounds. This form of exercise may delay the hardening process and improves the flow of blood to the brain. By strengthening the back muscles, cycling lessens the chance of suffering a slipped disk. Lung function is better, too, since deep breathing has a beneficial effect on the respiratory muscles. Regular cycling has been said to retard physical deterioration and to prolong life. An early morning ride is a great eye-opener.

CYCLE SAFETY can be accomplished by following a few common sense rules. Basically, this means using the same judgment you use when behind the wheel of the family car. The cyclist should ride with the traffic, never into it. He should obey all stop signs and stoplights and stay off streets where parking is not allowed. When pedalling along on a busy thoroughfare keep an eye peeled for opening car doors by checking the rear windows of parked vehicles.

LEARN TO ride in a straight line, weaving about is distracting to oncoming cars and a nasty spill may be your 'reward' for losing control. Be sure the brakes are in working order. If you plan to ride at dusk or evenings, equip the bike with a light and a reflector. Parks —ideal for cycling — cannot be recommended since the muggers took over.

DOGS SEEM to be drawn to bicycles therefore it is best to treat all animals as potential biters. When cycling in a residential area, watch for cars backing out of driveways.

GOOD BICYCLES are not cheap and it might be wise to use a rental service for a week or two before purchasing one. Department stores and specialty shops offer their customers a wide variety of models and prices. Select a frame that is sturdy, yet light, and one that is welded properly. The wheels must be perfectly true from side to side and the spokes tight. Brakes should grab properly if you are to stop smoothly.

YELLOW TEETH

Mrs. H. T.writes: My daughter hates to smile because she has yellow teeth. The toothpastes and powders she has tried have not done any good. How can these stains be removed?

REPLY

A dentist may be able to clean the teeth and advise her on how to keep them white with an electric toothbrush and abrasive toothpaste. On the other hand, nature prearranges tooth color as well as the color of the eyes. I assume she does not smoke or chew betel nuts.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

L. D. writes: I am 41 years old and in terrible pain all the time.My doctor is sure I have rheumatoid arthritis. How can he be so positive without blood tests and X-rays?

REPLY

Perhaps he wants to save you money because there are many tests that can be done. Rheumatoid arthritis offers many telltale signs that distinguish it from other types of arthritis, except gout. Tests substantiate a diagnosis and help determine the extent of damage.

BRAIN ABSCESS

B. T. writes: What causes brain abscess?

REPLY

An abscess is a localization or collection of pus. Brain abscess usually comes from infection elsewhere in the body, or from rupture of an infected sinus or ear through the inner lining of the skull into the brain. These lesions need immediate attention — surgery, as well as antibiotics and other drugs.

Tallest Woman In World Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — The body of the world's tallest woman was transferred Wednesday from the hospital where she died to a funeral home near her Louisiana home.

Delores Pullard Johnson, 8-feet-2, died Tuesday without recovering from the March 11 surgery to remove a brain tumor that caused her abnormal growth. She was 24.

Doctors at Methodist Hospital spent 10 hours March 11 removing a tumor on the pituitary gland. The tumor had caused the gland to secrete abnormally, which caused her to grow so tall. She weighted 431 pounds at death.

Peace Talks Off For Ascension Day

PARIS (UPI) — The 114th session of the Vietnam peace talks was put off today until next week to allow the French government employees at the conference center to take a holiday along with most of their countrymen.

Ascension Day, a Roman Catholic observance, is a holiday in most businesses in France. Banks and markets also are closed.

STARS ABOVE

Uranus: Strange Motion, History

By SHERMAN WALKER

Uranus is a planet of both strange motion and history. It is so far from the sun it is hard to observe, even with a pretty good telescope.

Sir William Herschel, English astronomer, chemist and physicist, discovered Uranus in 1781. He was observing different objects in the constellation of Gemini, one of which was larger and somewhat different from a star. Closer examination and a few nights of watching showed that it was indeed a planet.

A search of the records proved that it had been seen a score of times, but it was thought to be a star. Uranus is now in the constellation of Virgo, which was described in a subsequent column.

One characteristic that makes Uranus different is that its axis almost seems to lie flat; that is, the axis is almost in the plane of the planet's orbit.

Another of Uranus' unusual characteristics is that each pole and the equator all receive the same amount of sunshine during the course of a complete revolution, although at that distance it doesn't make much difference.

Uranus is about one billion miles from the sun. Its diameter is 32,000 miles and its mass 14.7 that of earth's.

Jury Verdict Bill Dies In Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A two-bill package to allow juries to return a less than unanimous verdict in all cases with the exception of the penalty phase of capital cases has been rejected by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The bills by Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, died in the committee Tuesday for lack of a motion to move them out to the full Assembly.

Peripheral Canal Discussion Slated

Jack Port, executive secretary of the Contra Costa County Water Agency, will discuss the Peripheral Canal in a talk to the Loch Lomond Yacht Club tomorrow night.

His address at the club will begin at 8:30 p.m. Port will discuss the canal's effect on water flow in the Carquinez Straits and in San Francisco Bay and its effect on fishing in the Delta.

Hike Asked In Rohnert Rec Budget

A budget increase of $60,000 for the 1971-72 year was recommended last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said he had recommended the current budget of $101,591 be increased to $148,259, but that the commission at its special meeting agreed that additions must be made to the capital outlay funds and increased the total to $161,000.

Pekkain said the commission increased the request of $632 for the community and recreation center to $5,000 to include expanded parking facilities and replanting of ivy. Also requested was $2,000 for Alicia Park for parking improvements and protection for lights from vandalism.

The recommended $720 expenditure for Benecia Park was increased to $1,500 to add fencing around the ball diamond and light protection.

Pekkain said the commission also budgeted an additional $8,000 for the employment of a full-time maintenance man. He said the department now shares an employee with the public works department.

He said funding for all current recreation programs was increased to accommodate greater participation and said the only cut by the commission was in reducing funds for park land acquisition from the recommended $52,000 to $48,750.

Quakes Registered Off Oregon Coast

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California seismograph registered two strong earthquakes today, centered about 500 miles to the northest.

This would put the epicenter some 150 miles off the Oregon coast.

CONTEST ☆ $800.00 in cash prizes

For the best letters on how "you" think Youth and the Over-Thirties may reach a better understanding of one another.

This I-J contest is your opportunity to give your candid opinion about the relationship between youth and older people today . . . the conflicts, the life styles, the differences in values, the areas of agreement. And most essentially, to present your ideas on how a better rapport between youth and the over-thirties may best be reached.

Actually it is 4 contests for 4 separate age groups. Letters will be judged not for literary merit but for content . . . for ideas which offer constructive solutions. Put your creative thinking cap on, read the rules, and write a letter. Ideas are now in session.

4 SEPARATE CONTESTS FOR 4 SEPARATE AGE GROUPS

Select your age group, at right, Prizes are the same for each group. Final judging will be by an independent jury.

AGE GROUPS	1st PRIZE	2nd PRIZE
1. 14-17	$125	$75
2. 18-21	$125	$75
3. 22-30	$125	$75
4. OVER 30	$125	$75

ENTER NOW. FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES

- Contest open to all age groups shown at right; I-J employees and members of their families not eligible
- To enter, write letter of 300 words or less stating how you think youth and the over-thirties may reach a better understanding of one another. Letters must be typed or handprinted for legibility. Judging based on content rather than literary skill.
- Important: put your name, address, at top left. Put your "age group" at top right. Select the group that applies to you: 14-17 years; 18-21, 22-30; over 30. Head your letter "Youth & the Over-Thirties" Contest. Deadline postmarked by midnight, May 22.
- Prizes, judging: 1st Prize $125 cash, 2nd Prize $75 awarded to winners of each of the 4 age groups. Judging by independent committee; all decisions final. Entries become property of Independent-Journal. Don't wait, enter early. Your letter may be published with the feature interviews prior to contest ending.

Fund Asked For Youth Job Bureau

Marin youth commissioners have recommended that $1,000 in county "seed" money go to a youth employment service which the YMCA of Marin wants to start next month.

The recommendation for the $1,000 aid will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for final decision.

James Looney, executive director of the YMCA, told commissioners Tuesday night the aim of the employment service is to serve as a contact between youths seeking jobs and county employers, and to help train and counsel youth for employment.

The Marin Youth Commission also:

VD — Set June 30 as the deadline for youths to submit articles on venereal disease and vie for $50 in prize money offered by the Marin Pharmaceutical Association. Entries must be submitted to the youth commission office in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice.

VACANCIES — Announced that three vacancies will occur on the commission in June because Laurie Packard, Carol McClure and Peter Sorensen are leaving for college.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Announced that youths who want to solicit funds for Pakistan relief should contact the youth commission office at the Hall of Justice.

BUDGET COMMITTEE — Appointed Albert J. Boro, Peter Sorensen and Paul M. Cohen to the budget committee to fight for more funds in the new budget. Youth commissioners want a full-time youth coordinator and $10,000 in new "seed" money to help youth projects, whereas the county administrator recommended a half-time coordinator and $4,000 in "seed" money.

Sausalitan Says Report Of His Threat Untrue

A 26-year-old Sausalito man yesterday called untrue the report said to have led to his bail being set as high as $62,500.

Ian Strider — booked Monday on suspicion of a variety of offenses, including burglary — was released the next day on $500 bail after being charged with only a misdemeanor count of possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court on setting the $62,500 bail said he was doing so because he had been advised by sheriff's deputies that Strider had threatened to shoot the persons responsible for his arrest as soon as he got out of jail.

Strider, who is also known as Barry Ford, told the I-J yesterday, "That's not true. I didn't threaten anyone. I don't want to hurt anyone. I don't even own a gun."

He is to appear June 2 in municipal court on the misdemeanor charge.

Marinite Wins Speaking Contest

Ondina Hardy, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School has won champion speaker title in a Lions Club sponsored contest held at Hoberg's Resort in Lake County.

Miss Hardy, daughter of Mrs. Arnella Hardy of 525 Heather Way, San Rafael, will compete in the semi finals at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Oakland Center for the Blind.

All speakers in this year's contest sponsored by Lions clubs in California and Nevada were given the subject, "Should Youth Become Involved — How and When?" Miss Hardy was sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions Club.

Art Show Set At St. Vincent's

A show and sale of original art by students at St. Vincent's School for Boys will be held in the gardens of the school from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, according to school officials.

Refreshments will be available and live music will be played during the show.

Visitors may also take tours of the oldest home for boys in the west.

3R Schools Will Show Student Art

Students of the 3R Schools of San Rafael will hold their first art show from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday in the school gallery at 3833 Redwood Highway.

Pen and ink sketches, water colors, collages and textures by youngsters from the third grade through the tenth will be shown, according to Rita Berg, the school's art director. She said this year was the first time art was added to the curriculum of the school.

77 Strep Cases During Last Week

Seventy-seven cases of streptococcus infection were reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Second most common communicable disease reported was gonorrhea, with 22 cases. There were also 11 cases of rubella and one each of syphillis and infectious hepatitis.

Student Bid For More Event Funds

According to Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent, student body officers asked that the district pay an additional $16,000 toward such activities as drama and music.

Currently, drama and music productions are financed by both district and student funds.

The request came Tuesday night during informal budget study by district staff and two trustees — Theodore C. Wellman and Donald K. Felt.

Grasham said the trustees also were told departmental requests exceed by $500,000 what the district's business manager will recommend for a fiscal 1971-72 budget.

On May 6, the board was given a preliminary budget totaling about $6.5 million including departmental requests.

Speaker Set For U.N. Dinner

Dr. Urban Whitaker, dean of undergraduate studies at San Francisco State College, will speak on "Education Against Violence" at the annual dinner May 28 of the Marin Chapter of the United Nations Association.

The dinner and election of officers will be held at 7 p.m. at Alexander Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Reservations to the dinner may be made with Thelma Dickson, president of the chapter.

Los Angeles Grand Jury Bill Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee has given its approval to legislation that would require Los Angeles County to set up two grand juries every year

One would deal with criminal matters and the other with civil. On a voice vote, the committee approved the bill by Assemblyman Peter Schabarum, R-Covina, and sent it to the full Assembly.

SURE SIGN OF SPRING

A mother robin feeds her three wide-mouthed 8-day-old babies high in the nest she made in an American elm tree in Chicago. According to observers she built the nest in two weeks, doing most of it after a rainy day when small twigs could be mixed with mud. The eggs hatched in 13 days.

Poet-Commentator Ogden Nash Dies At 68 — Of Kidney Failure

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Ogden Nash, who commented on the foibles and frustrations of 20th Century life in hundreds of improbably rhymed verses, died Wednesday. He was 68.

Nash died in Johns Hopkins Hospital after complications arising from surgery to combat kidney failure. He had been hospitalized March 13 and was kept alive more than a month by an aritificial kidney machine. Cause of death was listed as kidney failure.

His wife and two daughters were at his bedside when he died.

His best known lines were his 1931 advice to an anxious suitor: "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker."

The phrase passed into the American idiom, with many who use it not knowing Nash was the author. Nash later said, "They are the only lines I ever wrote that will survive me. In fact, they're just the right size, shape and length for a tombstone."

When his sister was married, he wrote:

"Beautiful spring at last is here

"And has taken my sister away, I fear."

Many of his verses celebrated his marriage of more than four decades to the former Frances R. Leonard. Once he advised:

"To keep your marriage brimming

"With love in the living cup:

OGDEN NASH
20th Century comment

"Whenever you're wrong, admit it;

"Whenever you're right, shut up."

In "The Perfect Husband, Nash noted:

"He tells you when you've got on too much lipstick,

"And helps you with your girdle when your hips stick."

"Speaking of wisdom and wealth and grace, as recently I have dared to —

"There are a lot of people compared to whom, I'd rather not be compared to.

"There are people I ought to wish I was: but under the circumstances.

"I prefer to continue my life as me —for nobody else has Frances."

A native of Rye, N.Y., Nash attended Harvard for one year (later calling himself a "quarter-bred alumnus") and then became an advertising writer. His experiments with humorous verses led to a job with the New Yorker. He turned to fulltime writing and published more than 20 books.

To be near his daughters and grandchildren, he moved to Baltimore.

Long before state and federal laws were passed to control billboards along scenic highways, Nash wrote:

"I think that I shall never see

"A billboard lovely as a tree.

"Indeed, unless the billboards fall

"I'll never see a tree at all."

Nash was at his best when his verses commented on the frustrations of everyday life — situations familiar to his readers.

"A door is what a dog is perpetually on the wrong side of," he wrote.

On gardening:

"My garden will never make me famous,

"I'm a horticultural ignoramus ..."

Suburban Americans might wryly agree with the observation: "A commuter is one who never knows how a show comes out because he has to leave early to catch a train to get him back to the country in time to catch a train to bring him back to the city."

Later in life he wrote: "Middle age is when you've met so many people that every new person you meet reminds you of someone else."

Sometimes his ryhmes were nostalgic. In "The middle," he commented:

"When I remember bygone days

"I think how evening follows morn;

"So many I love were not yet dead,

"So many I love were not yet born."

166th Birthday Celebrated By A Russian Man

MOSCOW (UPI)—Becoming the oldest man in the world is largely a matter of hard work and lemonade, according to the man who claims that record.

Shirali Mislimov celebrated his 166th birthday in Bazavu, Azerbaijan, Wednesday by doing a day's work and toasting his health in lemonade, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"He has never used alcohol and has never smoked," Tass said of Mislimov, who the Soviets claim to be the world's oldest man.

On his birthday, the report said, he rose at dawn to do his daily chores in the garden and orchard near his house. Later, regional officials and some of Mislimov's 209 relatives called to drink his health.

Wyoming Begins Its Own Study Of Eagle Deaths

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming today began its own investigation of what killed golden and bald eagles which federal officials said apparently were slaughtered by a poison they outlawed four years ago.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said Wednesday 22 of the eagles apparently were killed by a poison called Thallium, a toxic which has not been sold publically in Wyoming since 1965 and which has been banned for federal use since 1967.

Following the announcement in Washington, Wyoming Gov. Stanley Hathaway ordered five golden eagles found near Casper last week confiscated from federal authorities.

Jim Bradley, fish and game warden for the area, removed the birds from the federal agency and said he would take them to Laramie for an independent study of the cause of death.

Cast Of 100 For Tam Play

A Cast of nearly 100 will gather this Sunday and next atop Mount Tamalpais for the 54th annual ountain Play, J. M. Synge's "Playboy of the Western World."

The play, at 2 p.m. in the mountain's outdoor theater, is directed by Robin Jackson of Mill Valley.

The cast will include Mary Ellen McCurdy and Jean McKimmey of Mill Valley, Joseph Vandenberg and Bobbie Bluhm of San Rafael, Stuart Rudin and Joseph Rily of San Francisco, James Haran of Daly City, Pat Vaughan and James Treanor of Tiburon, Ann Madden of Corte Madera, Anna Heins of Novato and Sussane Berry and Allen Seaman of Mill Valley.

The play, which follows the wanderings of an Irish boy, will feature Irish music and dancing, as well as a horse race. Two San Rafael sisters, Kathleen and Mary Claire Hannon, both champions of Irish dancing, will appear with the award-winning McTeggert Irish Dancers.

Special music for the play—being performed on the 100th anniversary of Synge's birth — has been prepared by Mrs. Neil Kelly of Mill Valley, long associated with the Whirlaway Marin folk dance group.

William Carson of San Francisco is set designer.

Parking will be available near the theater, although buses will pick up patrons in Marin City. Play tickets are $2 for persons 21 and over and $1 for those between 6 and 20 years old.

'Comedy Of Errors' For Weekend

Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" will be presented by the Terra Linda High School drama department tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in room 802 of the Performing Arts Building.

The play, one of Shakespeare's first is based on a Roman comedy by Plautus and centers around problems that arise when two sets of identical twins are mistaken for one another during the course of an afternoon in the small town of Ephesus.

The twin Antipholus's will be played by Tom Elkjer and the twin Dromios by John Isham. Abby Goldman will take the role of Adriana and Andree Krier will portray her sister, Luciana.

Mill Valley Creeks Cleaning Scheduled

Mill Valley's creeks, dumping grounds for rusting appliances, old tires, discarded clippings and other assorted junk, will be scoured clean Saturday.

Volunteer workers will gather at 11 locations at 10 a.m. and begin a foot-by-foot cleanup of Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio and its tributaries.

The cleanup, which will last until noon, is sponsored by the Marin Alternative in cooperation with the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce and junior chamber of commerce, the Outdoor Art Club, Oddfellows, De Molay, the city youth commission and the Marin Ecology Center.

Debris will be taken to a lot near Tamalpais High School where it will be sorted into refuse to be discarded, recyclables to be taken to a recycling depot run by Whole Systems Inc. at the Richardson Bay Heliport, and organic garbage, to be used by the ecology center.

Volunteers are asked to wear old or washable shoes, gloves and short pants and to carry a rake. Sacks will be provided by Whole Systems.

Gathering places for volunteers are: Throckmorton Avenue at Cascade waterfall, the south end of Old Mill Park, West Blithedale Avenue and Lee Street, Miller Grove Park, the city hall parking lot, Miller Avenue near Montgomery Ward, Miller Avenue and Millwood Street, La Goma Street near Egger and Son Nursery, Buena Vista Avenue and Manor Drive and Alto School.

Property owners who do not wish to have their creeks cleaned should call Mrs. Dartmond Cherk and these areas will be avoided.

Memorial Day Services Planned In San Rafael

Veterans, government officials and citizens will gather at the Doughboy statue outside the old Marin courthouse in San Rafael May 30 for Memorial Day services.

Alfred T. Little of San Rafael, publicity chairman for the observance, said the 1 p.m. event probably will be the last held at the old courthouse, since it is hoped the statue will be moved soon to its new site at the Marin Civic Center.

Lawrence T. O'Brien, general chairman of the observance, willpreside. Members of the county board of supervisors and all Marin mayors have been invited.

Veterans' units and color guards are to form by 12:30 p.m. on Fifth Avenue behind the courthouse. Organizations wishing to present floral tributes should report to flower chairman Jerry Moon at the Fourth Street entrance to the courthouse.

A Marine Corps color guard and firing squad will be present.

Camps Full For Next Holiday

The state Department of Parks and Recreation has advised that most state parks, including Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin, are taking no more camping reservations for the Memorial Day weekend.

Except for several redwood parks in the extreme northern part of the state and a few parks in the central part of California, every state park that offers reserved camping is booked, said William Penn Mott Jr., department director.

An official at Taylor Park said that the facility's 73 reserved spaces have been booked for some time. In addition, he said the reserved camping areas have been filled for the last six weekends.

Autograph Party For Nature Book

Autographed copies of a nature book by a Marin team and a work by a San Anselmo man will be available at a "publication celebration" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The books are "Living Water," by photographers Ernest Braun of San Anselmo and David Cavagnaro of Bolinas, and "Edge of A Continent," by Don Greame Kelley of San Anselmo.

Photographs contained in the Braun-Cavagnaro book were featured recently in Life magazine, which also honored the men.

Acrylic Painting Demonstration Tonight

Vincent Perez, chairman of the department of drawing at the California College of Arts and Crafts, will demonstrate contemporary acrylic painting tonight at the Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The program, second in the Marin Society of Artists's current evening series, will begin at 8 p.m.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

The Philadelphia Orchestra Saturday

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The Philadelphia Orchestra, under the baton of Eugene Ormandy, will make one of its rare Bay Area performances Saturday night in the San Francisco Opera House.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some Common Sense Rules To Follow For Bike Riding

Bicycle riding is an excellent way to improve the health, enhance stamina, get fresh air and lose pounds. This form of exercise may delay the hardening process and improves the flow of blood to the brain. By strengthening the back muscles, cycling lessens the chance of suffering a slipped disk. Lung function is better, too, since deep breathing has a beneficial effect on the respiratory muscles. Regular cycling has been said to retard physical deterioration and to prolong life. An early morning ride is a great eye-opener.

CYCLE SAFETY can be accomplished by following a few common sense rules. Basically, this means using the same judgment you use when behind the wheel of the family car. The cyclist should ride with the traffic, never into it. He should obey all stop signs and stoplights and stay off streets where parking is not allowed. When pedalling along on a busy thoroughfare keep an eye peeled for opening car doors by checking the rear windows of parked vehicles.

LEARN TO ride in a straight line, weaving about is distracting to oncoming cars and a nasty spill may be your 'reward' for losing control. Be sure the brakes are in working order. If you plan to ride at dusk or evenings, equip the bike with a light and a reflector. Parks —ideal for cycling — cannot be recommended since the muggers took over.

DOGS SEEM to be drawn to bicycles therefore it is best to treat all animals as potential biters. When cycling in a residential area, watch for cars backing out of driveways.

GOOD BICYCLES are not cheap and it might be wise to use a rental service for a week or two before purchasing one. Department stores and specialty shops offer their customers a wide variety of models and prices. Select a frame that is sturdy, yet light, and one that is welded properly. The wheels must be perfectly true from side to side and the spokes tight. Brakes should grab properly if you are to stop smoothly.

YELLOW TEETH

Mrs. H. T.writes: My daughter hates to smile because she has yellow teeth. The toothpastes and powders she has tried have not done any good. How can these stains be removed?

REPLY

A dentist may be able to clean the teeth and advise her on how to keep them white with an electric toothbrush and abrasive toothpaste. On the other hand, nature prearranges tooth color as well as the color of the eyes. I assume she does not smoke or chew betel nuts.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

L. D. writes: I am 41 years old and in terrible pain all the time.My doctor is sure I have rheumatoid arthritis. How can he be so positive without blood tests and X-rays?

REPLY

Perhaps he wants to save you money because there are many tests that can be done. Rheumatoid arthritis offers many telltale signs that distinguish it from other types of arthritis, except gout. Tests substantiate a diagnosis and help determine the extent of damage.

BRAIN ABSCESS

B. T. writes: What causes brain abscess?

REPLY

An abscess is a localization or collection of pus. Brain abscess usually comes from infection elsewhere in the body, or from rupture of an infected sinus or ear through the inner lining of the skull into the brain. These lesions need immediate attention — surgery, as well as antibiotics and other drugs.

Tallest Woman In World Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — The body of the world's tallest woman was transferred Wednesday from the hospital where she died to a funeral home near her Louisiana home.

Delores Pullard Johnson, 8-feet-2, died Tuesday without recovering from the March 11 surgery to remove a brain tumor that caused her abnormal growth. She was 24.

Doctors at Methodist Hospital spent 10 hours March 11 removing a tumor on the pituitary gland. The tumor had caused the gland to secrete abnormally, which caused her to grow so tall. She weighted 431 pounds at death.

Peace Talks Off For Ascension Day

PARIS (UPI) — The 114th session of the Vietnam peace talks was put off today until next week to allow the French government employees at the conference center to take a holiday along with most of their countrymen.

Ascension Day, a Roman Catholic observance, is a holiday in most businesses in France. Banks and markets also are closed.

STARS ABOVE

Uranus: Strange Motion, History

By SHERMAN WALKER

Uranus is a planet of both strange motion and history. It is so far from the sun it is hard to observe, even with a pretty good telescope.

Sir William Herschel, English astronomer, chemist and physicist, discovered Uranus in 1781. He was observing different objects in the constellation of Gemini, one of which was larger and somewhat different from a star. Closer examination and a few nights of watching showed that it was indeed a planet.

A search of the records proved that it had been seen a score of times, but it was thought to be a star. Uranus is now in the constellation of Virgo, which was described in a subsequent column.

One characteristic that makes Uranus different is that its axis almost seems to lie flat; that is, the axis is almost in the plane of the planet's orbit.

Another of Uranus' unusual characteristics is that each pole and the equator all receive the same amount of sunshine during the course of a complete revolution, although at that distance it doesn't make much difference.

Uranus is about one billion miles from the sun. Its diameter is 32,000 miles and its mass 14.7 that of earth's.

Jury Verdict Bill Dies In Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A two-bill package to allow juries to return a less than unanimous verdict in all cases with the exception of the penalty phase of capital cases has been rejected by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The bills by Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, died in the committee Tuesday for lack of a motion to move them out to the full Assembly.

Hike Asked In Rohnert Rec Budget

A budget increase of $60,000 for the 1971-72 year was recommended last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said he had recommended the current budget of $101,591 be increased to $148,259, but that the commission at its special meeting agreed that additions must be made to the capital outlay funds and increased the total to $161,000.

Pekkain said the commission increased the request of $632 for the community and recreation center to $5,000 to include expanded parking facilities and replanting of ivy. Also requested was $2,000 for Alicia Park for parking improvements and protection for lights from vandalism.

The recommended $720 expenditure for Benecia Park was increased to $1,500 to add fencing around the ball diamond and light protection.

Pekkain said the commission also budgeted an additional $8,000 for the employment of a full-time maintenance man. He said the department now shares an employee with the public works department.

He said funding for all current recreation programs was increased to accommodate greater participation and said the only cut by the commission was in reducing funds for park land acquisition from the recommended $52,000 to $48,750.

presents
"RAP SESSION
with
Youth & the Over-Thirties"

CONTEST ☆ $800.00 in cash prizes

For the best letters on how "you" think Youth and the Over-Thirties may reach a better understanding of one another.

This I-J contest is your opportunity to give your candid opinion about the relationship between youth and older people today . . . the conflicts, the life styles, the differences in values, the areas of agreement. And most essentially, to present your ideas on how a better rapport between youth and the over-thirties may best be reached.

Actually it is 4 contests for 4 separate age groups. Letters will be judged not for literary merit but for content . . . for ideas which offer constructive solutions. Put your creative thinking cap on, read the rules, and write a letter. Ideas are now in session.

4 SEPARATE CONTESTS FOR 4 SEPARATE AGE GROUPS

Select your age group, at right, Prizes are the same for each group. Final judging will be by an independent jury.

AGE GROUPS	1st PRIZE	2nd PRIZE
1. 14-17	$125	$75
2. 18-21	$125	$75
3. 22-30	$125	$75
4. OVER 30	$125	$75

ENTER NOW. FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES

- Contest open to all age groups shown at right; I-J employees and members of their families not eligible
- To enter, write letter of 300 words or less stating how you think youth and the over-thirties may reach a better understanding of one another. Letters must be typed or handprinted for legibility. Judging based on content rather than literary skill.
- Important: put your name, address, at top left. Put your "age group" at top right. Select the group that applies to you: 14-17 years; 18-21, 22-30; over 30. Head your letter "Youth & the Over-Thirties" Contest. Deadline postmarked by midnight, May 22.
- Prizes, judging: 1st Prize $125 cash, 2nd Prize $75 awarded to winners of each of the 4 age groups. Judging by independent committee; all decisions final. Entries become property of Independent-Journal. Don't wait, enter early. Your letter may be published with the feature interviews prior to contest ending.

Greedy Handful Halt Nation's Railroads

Suppose that a handful of men had a "corner" on the diesel fuel burned by railroad locomotives, and suppose that handful decided to raise the price.

Suppose, then, that the railroad operators objected to the price increase, and these few men who had the market corner replied: All right, then, you will run no trains!

There would be a great deal of public outrage about such a greedy, unconscionable performance. Congressmen and governors would orate. Consumer groups would grind out protest petitions. Socialists would cite the performance as evidence of the breakdown of the capitalistic system. Labor unions would damn the greedy few for denying all the railroad workers their livelihood for the sake of additional profits. The President of the United States probably would declare a state of national emergency.

THIS WEEK, a handful of men in a position of similar power shut down railroad operations in the United States for a similar reason.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen called a strike against the nation's rail carriers. They recruited enough pickets to place at least one at just about every terminal. And, for the sake of "union solidarity," members of the other railroad brotherhoods refused to pass the pickets to man the trains. The railroads ground to a halt.

THE BROTHERHOOD of Railroad Signalmen represents about two per cent of railroad workers. The other 98 per cent were not involved in their dispute.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen want more money for their two per cent — and, of course, more dues to flow into the union's treasury as a consequence.

With the government involved in negotiations, the railroad unions already had been granted increases which will total 42 per cent over a 42-month period — one per cent a month, which is faster than the rate of inflation by a good deal.

That was not enough for the leaders of the two per cent who belong to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen. They demanded 54 per cent over a 36-month period — one and one-half per cent a month.

Because they did not get it, they shut down the railroads.

IT IS JUST as greedy, just as unconscionable, for this handful to disrupt the nation's economy for its private interest as it would be for a handful of men who cornered the diesel oil market to do the same thing for the same reason.

The railroads are in deep trouble. Much of it is of their own making. But much of it is due to the kind of personal greed that is shown plainly in this shutdown by the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

When any handful of men can halt the nation's rail transport because it wants more money, that handful has too much power. It should be stripped of that power, for the public benefit.

CONSUMER NOTEBOOK

That That Interest You're Paying May Be Higher Than You Think

By TREESA DRURY

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Credit used thoughtlessly or unknowingly can harm your family.

Be aware of the fact that different companies charge different interest rates. You should compare rates and shop for credit just as you do for the best retail price.

Consumers all too often are intimidated by credit. They feel beholden to the company that extends credit to them. It should be just the other way around.

The company is going to make a good deal of money from you if you buy on credit. This evidenced by the big push of various banks to promote their "charge everything" cards. It is the interest these banks are interested in obtaining.

ASSEMBLYMAN ALAN Sieroty has introduced a bill that would prohibit credit card companies from charging more than 18 per cent annual interest. Surprised? Credit cards are currently unregulated. This bill if passed would apply to all of these, which would include Bankamericard, Mastercharge, Carte Blanche, Diners Club, American Express and oil company cards.

Sieroty says bank credit cards charge at present from 20 to 40 per cent a year. The holder pays an average 3 per cent discount kickback from the retailer and a one-time service fee of 4 per cent on money borrowed in addition to 1½ per cent a month or 18 per cent a year. Under the bill, the 18 per cent ceiling would include both payment from the consumer and the retailer, so that the discount kickback would be deducted from the interest payment.

UNDER THE TRUTH in Lending Law, all companies must disclose what the annual interest charge is — but there is a loophole.

A department store can disclose 18 per cent a year and get away charging 36 per cent. It all depends on the method of payment deduction. Even if Sieroty's bill were passed this loophole would still exist.

Meanwhile the consumer should check on all of his charge accounts and find out how the interest is figured. Remember when you purchase something on credit to figure in the cost of the interest as part of the price you are paying. When this is done many so-called bargains become overpriced.

Another trick that works quite often: ask the merchant if he will give you a cash discount. In other words say you could put this on your bank charge card, but would pay cash if given a discount.

Often because the merchant wants the money now, wants to avoid the paper work and the payment to the bank, he will accept cash and knock 5 to 15 per cent off the price.

To rent money costs money. Take time to think before you borrow or before you say "charge it".

Many Give Help In Beautification

On Earth Day, April 22 and 23, our school (San Marin High School) planted around the flagpole area as a beautification project. Because of the help of a lot of generous people, our sprinklers are in and sprinkling and the grass has a very professional look.

It is not often that one finds a person who will donate his time, energy and labor simply because there is a willingness to help.

We would like to congratulate and sincerely thank the (nursery, plumber, custodians and) all the ecology club members . . . and all the students at San Marin that helped plant and for their cooperation in keeping off the grass.

Many Tried To Save Horse Hit By Auto

A brief item in your issue of May 15 noted the death of a horse as a consequence of a collision with an automobile on Los Ranchitos Road.

The article did not, in fact could not, tell of the many people who pitched in to help extricate the animal from the ditch where it fell, and on through a long night in an effort to save it's life. Regrettably, all the efforts were in vain, and a youngster was parted from a horse she loved very much.

Some of those who helped so unselfishly are unknwon to ourselves and our daughter Zoe, to whom the horse belonged. We should appreciate it, then, if you would publish this so we may make known, both to the "strangers," and our neighbors in Los Ranchitos, how deeply we appreciate their kindnesses.

Reasons For Opposing Fund Raising Drive

I feel I must reply to Helen Hodge's letter in your May 17 issue lest your readers get the impression that all San Rafael merchants are a miserly lot who contribute nothing to the needs of worthwhile charitable activities in our community. This is not so.

Because of the incessant demands on merchants for donations of merchandise and money, our committee of 18 members decided in January to initiate a program to control the situation.

As a result San Rafael merchants were advised that all soliciting organizations would be required to get written authorization from the chamber of commerce, to get San Rafael merchant cooperation.

As for the Deputy Sheriffs Assocition telephone fund-raising effort, we felt we had no right to interfere. However, as an association of merchants we had a right, for our members to evaluate the program and approve it or disapprove it.

In cooperation with the Better Business Bureau (which heartily disapproves of this type of fund raising), our subcommittee evaluated the sheriff's program and found it unacceptable for three reasons: 1. Telephone fund raising in general cannot be accepted. 2. A telephone call from the "Deputy Sheriff's Association" has implications of pressure to which we object. 3. Confirmed distribution of total receipts is 75 per cent for overhead and 25 per cent to charitable organizations.

We agree with Helen Hodge that the sheriffs have helped some very worthy causes. We object to the fact that only 25 cents of your dollar gets there. (United Crusade is more than 90 cents.)

Possible Reasons For Promiscuity

Bravo for your May 14 editorial, "Is 'Smut' for Adults Education for Child?" The last paragraph is pertinent: "Does the distribution of literature advocating birth control to permit unmarried couples to indulge in "safe" sexual intercourse serve to improve public morals or to promote promiscuity?"

Meanwhile, on page 2 of the same date appears, "Projected Teen-Age VD Rate Brings Request for Education," wherein it says nearly 10 per cent of California's teen-agers have venereal disease and incidence could rise to one out of two by 1980".

Recently I viewed a film for possible use in educating teenagers on this subject. Not a word was said to the effect that it might be well for the young to defer until adulthood the kind of behavior which may result in adult responsibilities. A lukewarm suggestion was made that it would be well to be careful of "casual encounters," illustrated by picturing an adult woman waving goodbye and boarding a bus while a boy's voice explains that it was his first "experience" and he hardly knew who she was . . . The context is a doctor's office where teen-agers are requesting help with VD and are being queried as to who the party was they had sexual relations with some eight weeks ago. One scene shows dozens of teen-agers entering and leaving a series of doors, implying a myriad of sexual adventures. . .

Possible causes of promiscuity may be:

1. Psychological theories from which people infer that anyone who doesn't hunger and thirst constantly after sexual experience is therefore not a complete "normal" man or woman or teen-ager and we have all been made fearful of such a stigma!

2. Movies and novels, written mainly by men, in which literally dozens of beautiful (non-VD) women lie in wait at every turn for sexual adventures with whatever male happens along, who usually is the super-sexed antihero (is this wishful thinking by adolescent male writers?)

3. Constant wooing of the public by advertising, brainwashing everyone into believing he must have all his desires now! . . .

4. Past teaching of sciences as if all there were to man were his animal nature . . .

5. Elevating of science, technology, and sociology to a kind of religious status since nature abhors a vacuum and "God is dead" in eyes of many moderns . . .

It is clear that the gift of the pill by science has not solved our sexuality problems. It may be that the pendulum has swung as far to the direction of sexual freedom and promiscuity as it can go and is about to swing back toward sexual restraint and responsibility. . .

American Prestige On Line As Mediator In Middle East

JERUSALEM — The line between the role of mediator and merely helpful friend in court is a thin one, indeed. For all the protestations to the contrary, the United States has crossed that line and now before the world, in the aftermath of the Rogers-Sisco tour of Arabia, is playing the part of nervous negotiator.

This may have been inevitable in light of the doubtful status of the United Nations mission of Gunnar Jarring. But American prestige is on the line, and failure could be a blow. That threat is underscored when one learns here how very small is the advance toward a settlement.

It consists, as Israeli officials see it, of President Anwar El-Sadat's expressed desire to seek an interim settlement of the conflict with the opening of the Suez Canal as its centerpiece. But in this view Sadat would make the settlement a conditional part of a full-scale peace agreement, with the Israelis committed, by opening of the canal and pulling their troops back a fixed distance from the east bank, to withdrawing to their borders prior to the Israeli conquests in the six-day war.

THAT IS UNACCEPTABLE. Therefore, when the men in power here are told that Israel must at this point do the giving, they stiffen their backs. On the contrary, Sadat must state explicitly that an interim settlement is no more than that, with all other issues to be worked out in lengthy negotiation.

To the inquiring reporter passing through this part of the world, America's predicament seems to be understood little, if at all. The belief is still strong that Uncle Sam, with his unlimited flow of dollars, can put the pieces together again.

In Egypt the starry-eyed expectation is that an interim settlement will bring loans and even grants. The line is already forming with applications for the Export-Import Bank, the World Bank, and any other window where a request can be tossed in. If the canal is to be opened, the American share of the cost of clearing the sunken ships and doing the preliminary dredging is sure to be large.

The actual clearing will be a relatively minor cost. To dredge the canal so the big super-tankers can go through is another matter. The bill for that will be hardly less than $500 million. Since the canal would presumably be in Egyptian control, there may be some reluctance to put up such a big sum.

AS FOR ISRAEL, the Rogers-Sisco mission heard a request for a grant of $200 million and a soft loan of $300 million. While this was not crudely a quid pro quo for acceptance of an interim settlement, it was in the context of the Rogers persuasion for reasonableness.

With the dollar crisis flaring in the headlines and Washington seemingly unwilling or unable to take any concerted action with Europe to cure it, together with America's continuing unfavorable balance of payments, the due bills hark back to an earlier era. Peace in the Middle East could bring large rewards to all concerned, not least to Washington. But for the U.S.A. the cost of oil to power Western Europe as it transits from the Arab states is of only incidental interest.

Two elements weigh heavily against any settlement in the foreseeable future. One is the trauma of the past as it afflicts the intense, hard-driving men who guide the destiny of this nation of 3,000,000 people wedged in between the great Arab mass. The trauma of three wars and more recently, as every conversation invariably ends, the trauma of the violations in August last year of the cease-fire: the positioning by Egypt of advanced defensive missiles along the canal. You will not be taking the risks, as one Israeli official put it, we will be taking the risks. We will be risking the future of our children.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Abrupt Turn For History As Britain Joins Europe

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If, as both Britain and the six Common Market partners of Europe seem to believe, Britain soon is to join the market as a full-fledged member, history indeed will have taken an abrupt turn.

For the immediate future, it means that when British Prime Minister Edward Heath journeys to Paris for his meeting with President Georges Pompidou it will be not as a supplicant haggling over the price of butter or eggs but as an equal member of the European community to discuss its future.

Historically, it means an end to a British policy which has endured for centuries.

BRITAIN HAS FOUGHT many wars on the continent.

Always they have been waged to prevent the rise of a power— whether it be French, Spanish or German—that might threaten British supremacy.

But the last two blood-sucking world wars and a subsequent shift in the balance of power wrought changes that forced Britain to recognize what others knew long ago, that Britain, after all, is a part of Europe.

THE WAY STILL is not totally clear.

British housewives have been warned that British entry into the market will mean higher food prices, and if the issue were put to popular vote there is no certainty it would win approval. Others oppose it on traditional grounds—that Britain should be aloof from the continent.

Said one anti-Market British leader: "We in Britain are a different people—different in attitudes and different in interests."

In France, too, there remains opposition to British entry, notably among the Gaullists who still hold to the late Charles de Gaulle's dream of a Europe dominated by France.

On both sides there also were those who opposed the Heath-Pompidou meeting on grounds it would suggest an emergency where no emergency existed.

Then suddenly the emergency was provided.

It was the new monetary crisis and the sudden French realization that the German mark dominated the common market.

It went far toward wiping out the last of the French opposition.

SAID ONE HIGH Elysee palace official:

"If we don't let the British in fast to balance out West Germany's weight, we will soon wind up in the Deutschmark monetary zone."

It was regarded as almost a guarantee of the success of the Heath-Pompidou meeting.

Through the years since World War II, it has been the United States policy to press for a united Europe even at economic risk. Should Britain join the market, to be followed quickly by Denmark, Ireland and Norway, it is a policy that may be tested by fire as protective barriers go up against sale of U.S. agricultural products.

The product of one out of every four acres of agricultural land in the United States now goes into export, bringing in better than $7 billion per year.

U.S. farmers will not react kindly to the loss of any part of that market.

SURE SIGN OF SPRING

A mother robin feeds her three wide-mouthed 8-day-old babies high in the nest she made in an American elm tree in Chicago. According to observers she built the nest in two weeks, doing most of it after a rainy day when small twigs could be mixed with mud. The eggs hatched in 13 days.

Poet-Commentator Ogden Nash Dies At 68 — Of Kidney Failure

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Ogden Nash, who commented on the foibles and frustrations of 20th Century life in hundreds of improbably rhymed verses, died Wednesday. He was 68.

Nash died in Johns Hopkins Hospital after complications arising from surgery to combat kidney failure. He had been hospitalized March 13 and was kept alive more than a month by an aritificial kidney machine. Cause of death was listed as kidney failure.

His wife and two daughters were at his bedside when he died.

His best known lines were his 1931 advice to an anxious suitor: "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker."

The phrase passed into the American idiom, with many who use it not knowing Nash was the author. Nash later said, "They are the only lines I ever wrote that will survive me. In fact, they're just the right size, shape and length for a tombstone."

When his sister was married, he wrote:

"Beautiful spring at last is here

"And has taken my sister away, I fear."

Many of his verses celebrated his marriage of more than four decades to the former Frances R. Leonard. Once he advised:

"To keep your marriage brimming

"With love in the living cup:

OGDEN NASH
20th Century comment

"Whenever you're wrong, admit it;

"Whenever you're right, shut up."

In "The Perfect Husband, Nash noted:

"He tells you when you've got on too much lipstick,

"And helps you with your girdle when your hips stick."

A verse on the occasion of his wife's birthday observed:

"Speaking of wisdom and wealth and grace, as recently I have dared to —

"There are a lot of people compared to whom, I'd rather not be compared to.

"There are people I ought to wish I was: but under the circumstances.

"I prefer to continue my life as me —for nobody else has Frances."

A native of Rye, N.Y., Nash attended Harvard for one year (later calling himself a "quarter-bred alumnus") and then became an advertising writer. His experiments with humorous verses led to a job with the New Yorker. He turned to fulltime writing and published more than 20 books.

To be near his daughters and grandchildren, he moved to Baltimore.

Long before state and federal laws were passed to control billboards along scenic highways, Nash wrote:

"I think that I shall never see

"A billboard lovely as a tree.

"Indeed, unless the billboards fall

"I'll never see a tree at all."

Nash was at his best when his verses commented on the frustrations of everyday life — situations familiar to his readers.

"A door is what a dog is perpetually on the wrong side of," he wrote.

On gardening:

"My garden will never make me famous,

"I'm a horticultural ignoramus ..."

Suburban Americans might wryly agree with the observation: "A commuter is one who never knows how a show comes out because he has to leave early to catch a train to get him back to the country in time to catch a train to bring him back to the city."

Later in life he wrote: "Middle age is when you've met so many people that every new person you meet reminds you of someone else."

Sometimes his ryhmes were nostalgic. In "The middle," he commented:

"When I remember bygone days

"I think how evening follows morn;

"So many I love were not yet dead,

"So many I love were not yet born."

166th Birthday Celebrated By A Russian Man

MOSCOW (UPI)—Becoming the oldest man in the world is largely a matter of hard work and lemonade, according to the man who claims that record.

Shirali Mislimov celebrated his 166th birthday in Bazavu, Azerbaijan, Wednesday by doing a day's work and toasting his health in lemonade, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"He has never used alcohol and has never smoked," Tass said of Mislimov, who the Soviets claim to be the world's oldest man.

On his birthday, the report said, he rose at dawn to do his daily chores in the garden and orchard near his house. Later, regional officials and some of Mislimov's 209 relatives called to drink his health.

Wyoming Begins Its Own Study Of Eagle Deaths

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming today began its own investigation of what killed golden and bald eagles which federal officials said apparently were slaughtered by a poison they outlawed four years ago.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said Wednesday 22 of the eagles apparently were killed by a poison called Thallium, a toxic which has not been sold publically in Wyoming since 1965 and which has been banned for federal use since 1967.

Following the announcement in Washington, Wyoming Gov. Stanley Hathaway ordered five golden eagles found near Casper last week confiscated from federal authorities.

Jim Bradley, fish and game warden for the area, removed the birds from the federal agency and said he would take them to Laramie for an independent study of the cause of death.

Cast Of 100 For Tam Play

A Cast of nearly 100 will gather this Sunday and next atop Mount Tamalpais for the 54th annual ountain Play, J. M. Synge's "Playboy of the Western World."

The play, at 2 p.m. in the mountain's outdoor theater, is directed by Robin Jackson of Mill Valley.

The cast will include Mary Ellen McCurdy and Jean McKimmey of Mill Valley, Joseph Vandenberg and Bobbie Bluhm of San Rafael, Stuart Rudin and Joseph Rily of San Francisco, James Haran of Daly City, Pat Vaughan and James Treanor of Tiburon, Ann Madden of Corte Madera, Anna Heins of Novato and Sussane Berry and Allen Seaman of Mill Valley.

The play, which follows the wanderings of an Irish boy, will feature Irish music and dancing, as well as a horse race. Two San Rafael sisters, Kathleen and Mary Claire Hannon, both champions of Irish dancing, will appear with the award-winning McTeggert Irish Dancers.

Special music for the play—being performed on the 100th anniversary of Synge's birth — has been prepared by Mrs. Neil Kelly of Mill Valley, long associated with the Whirlaway Marin folk dance group.

William Carson of San Francisco is set designer.

Parking will be available near the theater, although buses will pick up patrons in Marin City. Play tickets are $2 for persons 21 and over and $1 for those between 6 and 20 years old.

'Comedy Of Errors' For Weekend

Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" will be presented by the Terra Linda High School drama department tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in room 802 of the Performing Arts Building.

The play, one of Shakespeare's first is based on a Roman comedy by Plautus and centers around problems that arise when two sets of identical twins are mistaken for one another during the course of an afternoon in the small town of Ephesus.

The twin Antipholus's will be played by Tom Elkjer and the twin Dromios by John Isham. Abby Goldman will take the role of Adriana and Andree Krier will portray her sister, Luciana.

Mill Valley Creeks Cleaning Scheduled

Mill Valley's creeks, dumping grounds for rusting appliances, old tires, discarded clippings and other assorted junk, will be scoured clean Saturday.

Volunteer workers will gather at 11 locations at 10 a.m. and begin a foot-by-foot cleanup of Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio and its tributaries.

The cleanup, which will last until noon, is sponsored by the Marin Alternative in cooperation with the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce and junior chamber of commerce, the Outdoor Art Club, Oddfellows, De Molay, the city youth commission and the Marin Ecology Center.

Debris will be taken to a lot near Tamalpais High School where it will be sorted into refuse to be discarded, recyclables to be taken to a recycling depot run by Whole Systems Inc. at the Richardson Bay Heliport, and organic garbage, to be used by the ecology center.

Volunteers are asked to wear old or washable shoes, gloves and short pants and to carry a rake. Sacks will be provided by Whole Systems.

Gathering places for volunteers are: Throckmorton Avenue at Cascade waterfall, the south end of Old Mill Park, West Blithedale Avenue and Lee Street, Miller Grove Park, the city hall parking lot, Miller Avenue near Montgomery Ward, Miller Avenue and Millwood Street, La Goma Street near Egger and Son Nursery, Buena Vista Avenue and Manor Drive and Alto School.

Property owners who do not wish to have their creeks cleaned should call Mrs. Dartmond Cherk and these areas will be avoided.

Memorial Day Services Planned In San Rafael

Veterans, government officials and citizens will gather at the Doughboy statue outside the old Marin courthouse in San Rafael May 30 for Memorial Day services.

Alfred T. Little of San Rafael, publicity chairman for the observance, said the 1 p.m. event probably will be the last held at the old courthouse, since it is hoped the statue will be moved soon to its new site at the Marin Civic Center.

Lawrence T. O'Brien, general chairman of the observance, willpreside. Members of the county board of supervisors and all Marin mayors have been invited.

Veterans' units and color guards are to form by 12:30 p.m. on Fifth Avenue behind the courthouse. Organizations wishing to present floral tributes should report to flower chairman Jerry Moon at the Fourth Street entrance to the courthouse.

A Marine Corps color guard and firing squad will be present.

Camps Full For Next Holiday

The state Department of Parks and Recreation has advised that most state parks, including Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin, are taking no more camping reservations for the Memorial Day weekend.

Except for several redwood parks in the extreme northern part of the state and a few parks in the central part of California, every state park that offers reserved camping is booked, said William Penn Mott Jr., department director.

An official at Taylor Park said that the facility's 73 reserved spaces have been booked for some time. In addition, he said the reserved camping areas have been filled for the last six weekends.

Autograph Party For Nature Book

Autographed copies of a nature book by a Marin team and a work by a San Anselmo man will be available at a "publication celebration" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The books are "Living Water," by photographers Ernest Braun of San Anselmo and David Cavagnaro of Bolinas, and "Edge of A Continent," by Don Greame Kelley of San Anselmo.

Photographs contained in the Braun-Cavagnaro book were featured recently in Life magazine, which also honored the men.

Acrylic Painting Demonstration Tonight

Vincent Perez, chairman of the department of drawing at the California College of Arts and Crafts, will demonstrate contemporary acrylic painting tonight at the Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The program, second in the Marin Society of Artists's current evening series, will begin at 8 p.m.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

ERIK M. INGRAM

There's Nothing Secret About It; It's All There In The Letters

The Tamalpais High School District board has taken a bold new step in the conduct of its affairs. It's called business by mail.

Last week the Independent-Journal learned of a letter penned by board president David D. Ring to Trustee Bette Wallace chiding her for her "close supervision" of district personnel.

Copies of the letter were distributed to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins and board members.

WHEN ASKED about the letter, Mrs. Wallace said yes she had received and no the I-J couldn't read it. Trustees Robert W. Corlett and Jerrold Ladar responded similarily.

And the author of the letter, Mr. Ring, declined comment, saying he considers the letter "of a private nature" even though it does concern said Tam district business.

This is the same as a telephone call between two people, said Mr. Ring, who like Ladar and Corlett is an attorney.

Should this practice continue, one can only imagine what future board meetings will be like.

THE YEAR IS 1984 and the board — composed of the same five members — has continued to hold its bimonthly meetings at Redwood High School. However, at the suggestion of one trustee, the meeting place has been moved from the faculty lounge to the spacious office shared by the school's janitor and his assistant.

RING: (glancing at his watch): Well, I think we can start our meeting now, but first I wonder if the audience would stand up and identify himself.

AUDIENCE: Certainly, my name is Vaughn Barker of Larkspur and I'm just an interested citizen.

CORLETT: It's nice to have you here, Mr. Barker. As you know our meetings are always open to the public. Just pull up that barrel of industrial cleaner.

RING: I think we can start now. Dr. Hawkins will you read the first item of business.

HAWKINS: CERTAINLY. The first item on your agenda concerns the purchase and installation of a television camera here at Redwood. I think you all received by letter dated March 29 concerning this item.

RING: Yes we did and as noted in my letter dated April 6 I found your idea extremely intriguing.

LADAR: Dr. Hawkins, I wonder if you could clarify the point you made in paragraph six.

HAWKINS: I think the point is made clear in my second letter dated April 12 which is in reply to your letter dated April 10.

MILLER: (Trustee Frank L.): I just want to know how this is going to affect the budget. Could we possibly save money by buying more than one camera?

HAWKINS: That point is covered in my budget letter dated March 30. You should have received it on April Fool's Day.

CORLETT: I move that we accept the superintendent's recommendation as contained in his letter dated April 15.

RING: Judging by the letters I've received from the board, the superintendent's recommendation passes unanimously.

RING: The recommendation contained in the superintendent's letter dated April 15?

BARKER: What did the recommendation say?

CORLETT: Mr. Ring, I hate to interrupt, but I see no reason for this audience which we have allowed to join us to pry into our personal correspondence.

RING: I agree, Mr. Corlett. Next item, Dr. Hawkins.

ART BUCHWALD

Holes For Washington Subway? Obviously A Capitalist Lie

WASHINGTON — My colleague Russell Baker of the New York Times a couple of weeks ago wrote that the reason the Soviets were digging large new holes around Moscow is because they believed that American potholes were really dug for our new missile sites.

For the first time since I've known him, Baker was wrong. It isn't our potholes that the Russians are worried about, it's our subways.

I discovered this the other day sitting on a park bench across from the White House with a Soviet spy named Nicolai. He told me the reason the Soviets were digging their large holes is because we were doing the same thing in Washington.

"NICOLAI, HOW CAN, you sit there and say that we are installing missiles in the Washington area?"

"Ha," said Nicolai. "Why are there large holes all over Washington?"

I started to laugh. "Nicolai, you Communist fool. Those holes are being dug for our new subway."

"Lies, all lies," Nicolai said angrily. "You are not building a subway in Washington. Everyone knows that."

"Of course we are. The plans have appeared in all the newspapers."

"THEN WHAT IS THIS?" Nicolai demanded, taking a newspaper clipping out of his tobacco pouch. He read, "The House today defeated a bill to release funds of $34.2 million for the District of Columbia subway construction project now going on in Washington. Without these funds metro officials said they would not be able to continue the work."

"Nicolai, you naive Red idiot," I laughed. "The reason the House won't fund the subway is because the District of Columbia refuses to proceed with a highway program at the same time. You see, there is this guy Natcher from Kentucky, and he's mad because he wants Washington to have more highways, and he says if the district won't build them he won't release the money for the subway."

"Who is this Natcher?"

"He is a congressman from Kentucky."

"Why would a congressman from Kentucky have anything to say about a subway for Washington?"

"Because," I said, "in Washington everybody from every place in the country has something to say about Washington except the people who live here. Would you believe we have a congressman who lives in South Carolina who has more power than the mayor?"

YOU ARE A capitalist liar," Nicolai said. "No one in the Kremlin would believe that story. Your Defense people are very clever. First they have Congress announce they are going to build a subway. Then when you get your holes dug just the right size for your missiles, Congress announces it will not give any money to complete the subway."

"Nicolai," I said nervously, "I know it doesn't make sense for Congress to let people start building a subway and then refuse to give the money to complete it. But that's the way it is done in the District of Columbia, and you have to believe me."

"My report to the Kremlin still stands," Nicolai said. "If you can prove to me that Washington will have a subway in the next 10 years, I will be happy to change my intelligence."

"I can't prove it, Nocalai," I said, perspiring. "We may or may not have a subway, depending on what happens in the Senate on the subway appropriations bill."

NICOLAI DECLARED, "We will continue digging holes in Moscow until you people stop digging holes in Washington. Your subway story was a good try, but it never fooled us. We were onto it from the beginning."

I left Nicolai and ran to the nearest phone and called Congressman Natcher's office. "For God's sake," I pleaded, "release the subway funds before the Russians install a whole new generation of intercontinental nuclear missiles."

"Russian missiles?" The person on the other end of the phone said. "We're sorry. That's not our committee."

$100,000 To Winner Of April's Lottery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Trudy Moriarty, wife of New York restaurant owner P. J. Moriarty, won first prize of $100,000 Wednesday in the April drawing of the state lottery.

Joint Recreation Plan For Tiburon

With time running out, the Reed School District board has told Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello to work with a citizens committee to formulate a joint school district-city of Tiburon summer recreation program.

Giovanniello will work with the committee, headed by Polly Smith, Marin County parks and recreation commissioner and a Tiburon resident, and return with a proposal at the board's June 1 meeting.

A questionnaire distributed to 2,500 district parents earlier this month indicated overwhelming approval for the program.

The city and school district have cooperated on recreation activities in the past but not in recent years because of a lack of interest. The questionnaire indicated a reversal of that feeling.

Only a month remains before school is dismissed for the summer. The district and the committee hopes to have the crash program organized before then.

In other business Tuesday night, the board was to have considered a preliminary budget for 1971-72, but put off discussion until an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Bel Aire School library.

The Reed School District board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Jane E. Cope, Bel Aire teacher, who is moving to Australia, and of Marguerite Coffin, Reedland Woods teacher aide, who is moving to Nebraska.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year. School will begin Sept. 13 and end June 15.

Closed Session

The Novato Unified School District board will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. today at the district office to instruct its representatives in negotiations with teachers.

Year In Jail In Drug Case

Phillip Russell McFarren, 20, of Novato, has been sentenced to a year in Marin County Jail for selling amphetamine.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for two years.

McFarren was found guilty, along with Mitchell Dorn Samios, 22, also of Novato, by a superior court jury April 16.

The pair had been arrested on a warrant charging they sold 100 "bennies" to a narcotics agent last Sept. 3.

Samios is to be sentenced June 2.

Greedy Handful Halt Nation's Railroads

Suppose that a handful of men had a "corner" on the diesel fuel burned by railroad locomotives, and suppose that handful decided to raise the price.

Suppose, then, that the railroad operators objected to the price increase, and these few men who had the market corner replied: All right, then, you will run no trains!

There would be a great deal of public outrage about such a greedy, unconscionable performance. Congressmen and governors would orate. Consumer groups would grind out protest petitions. Socialists would cite the performance as evidence of the breakdown of the capitalistic system. Labor unions would damn the greedy few for denying all the railroad workers their livelihood for the sake of additional profits. The President of the United States probably would declare a state of national emergency.

THIS WEEK, a handful of men in a position of similar power shut down railroad operations in the United States for a similar reason.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen called a strike against the nation's rail carriers. They recruited enough pickets to place at least one at just about every terminal. And, for the sake of "union solidarity," members of the other railroad brotherhoods refused to pass the pickets to man the trains. The railroads ground to a halt.

THE BROTHERHOOD of Railroad Signalmen represents about two per cent of railroad workers. The other 98 per cent were not involved in their dispute.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen want more money for their two per cent — and, of course, more dues to flow into the union's treasury as a consequence.

With the government involved in negotiations, the railroad unions already had been granted increases which will total 42 per cent over a 42-month period — one per cent a month, which is faster than the rate of inflation by a good deal.

That was not enough for the leaders of the two per cent who belong to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen. They demanded 54 per cent over a 36-month period — one and one-half per cent a month.

Because they did not get it, they shut down the railroads.

IT IS JUST as greedy, just as unconscionable, for this handful to disrupt the nation's economy for its private interest as it would be for a handful of men who cornered the diesel oil market to do the same thing for the same reason.

The railroads are in deep trouble. Much of it is of their own making. But much of it is due to the kind of personal greed that is shown plainly in this shutdown by the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

When any handful of men can halt the nation's rail transport because it wants more money, that handful has too much power. It should be stripped of that power, for the public benefit.

CONSUMER NOTEBOOK

That That Interest You're Paying May Be Higher Than You Think

By TREESA DRURY

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Credit used thoughtlessly or unknowingly can harm your family.

Be aware of the fact that different companies charge different interest rates. You should compare rates and shop for credit just as you do for the best retail price.

Consumers all too often are intimidated by credit. They feel beholden to the company that extends credit to them. It should be just the other way around.

The company is going to make a good deal of money from you if you buy on credit. This evidenced by the big push of various banks to promote their "charge everything" cards. It is the interest these banks are interested in obtaining.

ASSEMBLYMAN ALAN Sieroty has introduced a bill that would prohibit credit card companies from charging more than 18 per cent annual interest. Surprised? Credit cards are currently unregulated. This bill if passed would apply to all of these, which would include Bankamericard, Mastercharge, Carte Blanche, Diners Club, American Express and oil company cards.

Sieroty says bank credit cards charge at present from 20 to 40 per cent a year. The holder pays an average 3 per cent discount kickback from the retailer and a one-time service fee of 4 per cent on money borrowed in addition to 1½ per cent a month or 18 per cent a year. Under the bill, the 18 per cent ceiling would include both payment from the consumer and the retailer, so that the discount kickback would be deducted from the interest payment.

UNDER THE TRUTH in Lending Law, all companies must disclose what the annual interest charge is — but there is a loophole.

A department store can disclose 18 per cent a year and get away charging 36 per cent. It all depends on the method of payment deduction. Even if Sieroty's bill were passed this loophole would still exist.

Meanwhile the consumer should check on all of his charge accounts and find out how the interest is figured. Remember when you purchase something on credit to figure in the cost of the interest as part of the price you are paying. When this is done many so-called bargains become overpriced.

Another trick that works quite often: ask the merchant if he will give you a cash discount. In other words say you could put this on your bank charge card, but would pay cash if given a discount.

Often because the merchant wants the money now, wants to avoid the paper work and the payment to the bank, he will accept cash and knock 5 to 15 per cent off the price.

To rent money costs money. Take time to think before you borrow or before you say "charge it".

Many Give Help In Beautification

On Earth Day, April 22 and 23, our school (San Marin High School) planted around the flagpole area as a beautification project. Because of the help of a lot of generous people, our sprinklers are in and sprinkling and the grass has a very professional look.

It is not often that one finds a person who will donate his time, energy and labor simply because there is a willingness to help.

We would like to congratulate and sincerely thank the (nursery, plumber, custodians and) all the ecology club members . . . and all the students at San Marin that helped plant and for their cooperation in keeping off the grass.

Many Tried To Save Horse Hit By Auto

A brief item in your issue of May 15 noted the death of a horse as a consequence of a collision with an automobile on Los Ranchitos Road.

The article did not, in fact could not, tell of the many people who pitched in to help extricate the animal from the ditch where it fell, and on through a long night in an effort to save it's life. Regrettably, all the efforts were in vain, and a youngster was parted from a horse she loved very much.

Some of those who helped so unselfishly are unknwon to ourselves and our daughter Zoe, to whom the horse belonged. We should appreciate it, then, if you would publish this so we may make known, both to the "strangers," and our neighbors in Los Ranchitos, how deeply we appreciate their kindnesses.

Reasons For Opposing Fund Raising Drive

I feel I must reply to Helen Hodge's letter in your May 17 issue lest your readers get the impression that all San Rafael merchants are a miserly lot who contribute nothing to the needs of worthwhile charitable activities in our community. This is not so.

Because of the incessant demands on merchants for donations of merchandise and money, our committee of 18 members decided in January to initiate a program to control the situation.

As a result San Rafael merchants were advised that all soliciting organizations would be required to get written authorization from the chamber of commerce, to get San Rafael merchant cooperation.

As for the Deputy Sheriffs Associtiion telephone fund-raising effort, we felt we had no right to interfere. However, as an association of merchants we had a right, for our members to evaluate the program and approve it or disapprove it.

In cooperation with the Better Business Bureau (which heartily disapproves of this type of fund raising), our subcommittee evaluated the sheriff's program and found it unacceptable for three reasons: 1. Telephone fund raising in general cannot be accepted. 2. A telephone call from the "Deputy Sheriff's Association" has implications of pressure to which we object. 3. Confirmed distribution of total receipts is 75 per cent for overhead and 25 per cent to charitable organizations.

We agree with Helen Hodge that the sheriffs have helped some very worthy causes. We object to the fact that only 25 cents of your dollar gets there. (United Crusade is more than 90 cents.)

Possible Reasons For Promiscuity

Bravo for your May 14 editorial, "Is 'Smut' for Adults Education for Child?" The last paragraph is pertinent: "Does the distribution of literature advocating birth control to permit unmarried couples to indulge in "safe" sexual intercourse serve to improve public morals or to promote promiscuity?"

Meanwhile, on page 2 of the same date appears, "Projected Teen-Age VD Rate Brings Request for Education," wherein it says nearly 10 per cent of California's teen-agers have venereal disease and incidence could rise to one out of two by 1980".

Recently I viewed a film for possible use in educating teenagers on this subject. Not a word was said to the effect that it might be well for the young to defer until adulthood the kind of behavior which may result in adult responsibilities. A lukewarm suggestion was made that it would be well to be careful of "casual encounters," illustrated by picturing an adult woman waving goodbye and boarding a bus while a boy's voice explains that it was his first "experience" and he hardly knew who she was . . . The context is a doctor's office where teen-agers are requesting help with VD and are being queried as to who the party was they had sexual relations with some eight weeks ago. One scene shows dozens of teen-agers entering and leaving a series of doors, implying a myriad of sexual adventures. . .

Possible causes of promiscuity may be:

1. Psychological theories from which people infer that anyone who doesn't hunger and thirst constantly after sexual experience is therefore not a complete "normal" man or woman or teen-ager and we have all been made fearful of such a stigma!

2. Movies and novels, written mainly by men, in which literally dozens of beautiful (non-VD) women lie in wait at every turn for sexual adventures with whatever male happens along, who usually is the super-sexed antihero (is this wishful thinking by adolescent male writers?)

3. Constant wooing of the public by advertising, brainwashing everyone into believing he must have all his desires now! . . .

4. Past teaching of sciences as if all there were to man were his animal nature . . .

5. Elevating of science, technology, and sociology to a kind of religious status since nature abhors a vacuum and "God is dead" in eyes of many moderns . . .

It is clear that the gift of the pill by science has not solved our sexuality problems. It may be that the pendulum has swung as far to the direction of sexual freedom and promiscuity as it can go and is about to swing back toward sexual restraint and responsibility. . .

American Prestige On Line As Mediator In Middle East

JERUSALEM — The line between the role of mediator and merely helpful friend in court is a thin one, indeed. For all the protestations to the contrary, the United States has crossed that line and now before the world, in the aftermath of the Rogers-Sisco tour of Arabia, is playing the part of nervous negotiator.

This may have been inevitable in light of the doubtful status of the United Nations mission of Gunnar Jarring. But American prestige is on the line, and failure could be a blow. That threat is underscored when one learns here how very small is the advance toward a settlement.

It consists, as Israeli officials see it, of President Anwar El-Sadat's expressed desire to seek an interim settlement of the conflict with the opening of the Suez Canal as its centerpiece. But in this view Sadat would make the settlement a conditional part of a full-scale peace agreement, with the Israelis committed, by opening of the canal and pulling their troops back a fixed distance from the east bank, to withdrawing to their borders prior to the Israeli conquests in the six-day war.

THAT IS UNACCEPTABLE. Therefore, when the men in power here are told that Israel must at this point do the giving, they stiffen their backs. On the contrary, Sadat must state explicitly that an interim settlement is no more than that, with all other issues to be worked out in lengthy negotiation.

To the inquiring reporter passing through this part of the world, America's predicament seems to be understood little, if at all. The belief is still strong that Uncle Sam, with his unlimited flow of dollars, can put the pieces together again.

In Egypt the starry-eyed expectation is that an interim settlement will bring loans and even grants. The line is already forming with applications for the Export-Import Bank, the World Bank, and any other window where a request can be tossed in. If the canal is to be opened, the American share of the cost of clearing the sunken ships and doing the preliminary dredging is sure to be large.

The actual clearing will be a relatively minor cost. To dredge the canal so the big super-tankers can go through is another matter. The bill for that will be hardly less than $500 million. Since the canal would presumably be in Egyptian control, there may be some reluctance to put up such a big sum.

AS FOR ISRAEL, the Rogers-Sisco mission heard a request for a grant of $200 million and a soft loan of $300 million. While this was not crudely a quid pro quo for acceptance of an interim settlement, it was in the context of the Rogers persuasion for reasonableness.

With the dollar crisis flaring in the headlines and Washington seemingly unwilling or unable to take any concerted action with Europe to cure it, together with America's continuing unfavorable balance of payments, the due bills hark back to an earlier era. Peace in the Middle East could bring large rewards to all concerned, not least to Washington. But for the U.S.A. the cost of oil to power Western Europe as it transits from the Arab states is of only incidental interest.

Two elements weigh heavily against any settlement in the foreseeable future. One is the trauma of the past as it afflicts the intense, hard-driving men who guide the destiny of this nation of 3,000,000 people wedged in between the great Arab mass. The trauma of three wars and more recently, as every conversation invariably ends, the trauma of the violations in August last year of the cease-fire: the positioning by Egypt of advanced defensive missiles along the canal. You will not be taking the risks, as one Israeli official put it, we will be taking the risks. We will be risking the future of our children.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Abrupt Turn For History As Britain Joins Europe

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If, as both Britain and the six Common Market partners of Europe seem to believe, Britain soon is to join the market as a full-fledged member, history indeed will have taken an abrupt turn.

For the immediate future, it means that when British Prime Minister Edward Heath journeys to Paris for his meeting with President Georges Pompidou it will be not as a supplicant haggling over the price of butter or eggs but as an equal member of the European community to discuss its future.

Historically, it means an end to a British policy which has endured for centuries.

BRITAIN HAS FOUGHT many wars on the continent.

Always they have been waged to prevent the rise of a power— whether it be French, Spanish or German—that might threaten British supremacy.

But the last two blood-sucking world wars and a subsequent shift in the balance of power wrought changes that forced Britain to recognize what others knew long ago, that Britain, after all, is a part of Europe.

THE WAY STILL is not totally clear.

British housewives have been warned that British entry into the market will mean higher food prices, and if the issue were put to popular vote there is no certainty it would win approval. Others oppose it on traditional grounds—that Britain should be aloof from the continent.

Said one anti-Market British leader: "We in Britain are a different people— different in attitudes and different in interests."

In France, too, there remains opposition to British entry, notably among the Gaullists who still hold to the late Charles de Gaulle's dream of a Europe dominated by France.

On both sides there also were those who opposed the Heath-Pompidou meeting on grounds it would suggest an emergency where no emergency existed.

Then suddenly the emergency was provided.

It was the new monetary crisis and the sudden French realization that the German mark dominated the common market.

It went far toward wiping out the last of the French opposition.

SAID ONE HIGH Elysee palace official:

"If we don't let the British in fast to balance out West Germany's weight, we will soon wind up in the Deutschmark monetary zone."

It was regarded as almost a guarantee of the success of the Heath-Pompidou meeting.

Through the years since World War II, it has been the United States policy to press for a united Europe even at economic risk. Should Britain join the market, to be followed quickly by Denmark, Ireland and Norway, it is a policy that may be tested by fire as protective barriers go up against sale of U.S. agricultural products.

The product of one out of every four acres of agricultural land in the United States now goes into export, bringing in better than $7 billion per year.

U.S. farmers will not react kindly to the loss of any part of that market.

STEVEN DREYER
Wins DeMolay Degree

Two DeMolay Men To Get High Award

Two members of the Mill Valley Chapter of Order of DeMolay will receive DeMolay degrees of Chevalier Saturday at the Mill Valley Masonic Hall.

They are Steven E. Dreyer and Kenneth C. Soderlund, who will receive this, the highest degree of the DeMolay in ceremonies at 8 p.m.

Soderlund is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Soderlund of 2140 Los Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael. He has been a DeMolay since 1964 and held many offices including Master Councilor. He was appointed scribe to the Redwood Empire Division in 1969. He is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and has attended the College of Marin and Oregon State University at Corvallis, Ore. At the present time, he is majoring in planning at California Poly-Technique Institute at San Luis Obispo.

Dreyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Dreyer of 30 Corte Comoda, Greenbrae. He graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin, majoring in journalism. He was editor of the chapter and division monthly publications and past editor of the Northern California DeMolay Association in 1970. He is now working as a reporter for the Marysville Appeal-Democrat.

Task Force Set To Study Health-Medical Merger

Marin's Comprehensive Health Planning Council set up an 11-man task force yesterday to weigh the pros and cons of consolidating all health and medical services under a new county department.

Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday assigned the health planning council to make recommendations on the health-medical merger, proposed by Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator.

The planning council, headed by Ray K. Bolinger, met at Marin General Hospital yesterday and named the task force, with San Anselmo City Councilman James F. Reed as chairman.

Reed's task force will evaulate the consolidation plan and report back to the health planning council by June 9. The full council will then make its recommendation to the county supervisors on June 11, just before the supervisors begin deliberations on the 1971-72 budget.

The task force will be aided by a group of resource people including Campanella, Bolinger, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht; Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of community mental health services and medical department; Dr. John Guerrant, program director of the mental health center; and school nurse.

The proposed merger would put Dr. Cooke as head of a new department of health care services. The health and medical departments, community mental health services, the county service office, and related services would all come under this one large department.

Mary D. Williams of Marin City was elected a director of the health planning council.

She will succeed Mrs. Daniel Collins of Mill Valley, who resigned because she is too busy with other duties including service on the Marin County Grand Jury and the mental health advisory board.

Mrs. Williams, who has been active in senior citizens programs, will join the 30-member board of directors of the comprehensive health planning council.

Smog Alert System Due Board's Ear

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Creation of Bay Area smog alert procedures, similar to a warning system used in Los Angeles, will be discussed tomorrow by officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Under the Los Angeles procedure, persons are warned not to drive cars and school children are banned from playgrounds when pollutants reach certain levels.

Such an alert is soon to be required by the new federal Environmental Protection Agency, according to a Bay Area district spokesman.

The officials — members of the district board of directors and advisory council and staff — will meet at 9:30 a.m. in district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Also on the meeting agenda is an analysis by a special board committee of a critique of the district made last year by a group of graduate students at Stanford University.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

PORTRAITS OF BEAUTY

When we talk about beautiful portraits, we generally mean portraits of a lovely woman, probably the most popular photographic subject of all. Much has been written on techniques of such portraiture, lighting, pose, and so on . . . but some practical tips are often neglected.

Take the matter of makeup, for instance. The camera, unlike a man, has a very unblinking eye when looking at female beauty. If there's a flaw, the camera lens will find it. So makeup is especially important. One famous portraitist strongly recommends pancake makeup, stressing that it can hardly be overdone.

However, aside from pancake makeup, which looks natural on film, too much makeup (such as eye detailing) will tend to attract attention to itself and away from the woman herself . . . which is fine for a fashion magazine, but not so good for a portrait — unless you're deliberately striving for drama.

Want a camera that lets you work in close or far away? That takes wide angle or long lens attachments? And that adapts to your budget, too? Take a look at the new SLR's in our big camera display, by the world's great makers.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

ERIK M. INGRAM

There's Nothing Secret About It; It's All There In The Letters

The Tamalpais High School District board has taken a bold new step in the conduct of its affairs. It's called business by mail.

Last week the Independent-Journal learned of a letter penned by board president David D. Ring to Trustee Bette Wallace chiding her for her "close supervision" of district personnel.

Copies of the letter were distributed to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins and board members.

WHEN ASKED about the letter, Mrs. Wallace said yes she had received and no the I-J couldn't read it. Trustees Robert W. Corlett and Jerrold Ladar responded similarily.

And the author of the letter, Mr. Ring, declined comment, saying he considers the letter "of a private nature" even though it does concern said Tam district business.

This is the same as a telephone call between two people, said Mr. Ring, who like Ladar and Corlett is an attorney.

Should this practice continue, one can only imagine what future board meetings will be like.

THE YEAR IS 1984 and the board — composed of the same five members — has continued to hold its bimonthly meetings at Redwood High School. However, at the suggestion of one trustee, the meeting place has been moved from the faculty lounge to the spacious office shared by the school's janitor and his assistant.

RING: (glancing at his watch): Well, I think we can start our meeting now, but first I wonder if the audience would stand up and identify himself.

AUDIENCE: Certainly, my name is Vaughn Barker of Larkspur and I'm just an interested citizen.

CORLETT: It's nice to have you here, Mr. Barker. As you know our meetings are always open to the public. Just pull up that barrel of industrial cleaner.

RING: I think we can start now. Dr. Hawkins will you read the first item of business.

HAWKINS: CERTAINLY. The first item on your agenda concerns the purchase and installation of a television camera here at Redwood. I think you all received by letter dated March 29 concerning this item.

RING: Yes we did and as noted in my letter dated April 6 I found your idea extremely intriguing.

LADAR: Dr. Hawkins, I wonder if you could clarify the point you made in paragraph six.

HAWKINS: I think the point is made clear in my second letter dated April 12 which is in reply to your letter dated April 10.

MILLER: (Trustee Frank L.): I just want to know how this is going to affect the budget. Could we possibly save money by buying more than one camera?

HAWKINS: That point is covered in my budget letter dated March 30. You should have received it on April Fool's Day.

CORLETT: I move that we accept the superintendent's recommendation as contained in his letter dated April 15.

RING: Judging by the letters I've received from the board, the superintendent's recommendation passes unanimously.

RING: The recommendation contained in the superintendent's letter dated April 15?

BARKER: What did the recommendation say?

CORLETT: Mr. Ring, I hate to interrupt, but I see no reason for this audience which we have allowed to join us to pry into our personal correspondence.

RING: I agree, Mr. Corlett. Next item, Dr. Hawkins.

Holes For Washington Subway? Obviously A Capitalist Lie

WASHINGTON — My colleague Russell Baker of the New York Times a couple of weeks ago wrote that the reason the Soviets were digging large new holes around Moscow is because they believed that American potholes were really dug for our new missile sites.

For the first time since I've known him, Baker was wrong. It isn't our potholes that the Russians are worried about, it's our subways.

I discovered this the other day sitting on a park bench across from the White House with a Soviet spy named Nicolai. He told me the reason the Soviets were digging their large holes is because we were doing the same thing in Washington.

"NICOLAI, HOW CAN, you sit there and say that we are installing missiles in the Washington area?"

"Ha," said Nicolai. "Why are there large holes all over Washington?"

I started to laugh. "Nicolai, you Communist fool. Those holes are being dug for our new subway."

"Lies, all lies," Nicolai said angrily. "You are not building a subway in Washington. Everyone knows that."

"Of course we are. The plans have appeared in all the newspapers."

"THEN WHAT IS THIS?" Nicolai demanded, taking a newspaper clipping out of his tobacco pouch. He read, "The House today defeated a bill to release funds of $34.2 million for the District of Columbia subway construction project now going on in Washington. Without these funds metro officials said they would not be able to continue the work."

"Nicolai, you naive Red idiot," I laughed. "The reason the House won't fund the subway is because the District of Columbia refuses to proceed with a highway program at the same time. You see, there is this guy Natcher from Kentucky, and he's mad because he wants Washington to have more highways, and he says if the district won't build them he won't release the money for the subway."

"Who is this Natcher?"

"He is a congressman from Kentucky."

"Why would a congressman from Kentucky have anything to say about a subway for Washington?"

"Because," I said, "in Washington everybody from every place in the country has something to say about Washington except the people who live here. Would you believe we have a congressman who lives in South Carolina who has more power than the mayor?"

YOU ARE A capitalist liar," Nicolai said. "No one in the Kremlin would believe that story. Your Defense people are very clever. First they have Congress announce they are going to build a subway. Then when you get your holes dug just the right size for your missiles, Congress announces it will not give any money to complete the subway."

"Nicolai," I said nervously, "I know it doesn't make sense for Congress to let people start building a subway and then refuse to give the money to complete it. But that's the way it is done in the District of Columbia, and you have to believe me."

"My report to the Kremlin still stands," Nicolai said. "If you can prove to me that Washington will have a subway in the next 10 years, I will be happy to change my intelligence."

"I can't prove it, Nocalai," I said, perspiring. "We may or may not have a subway, depending on what happens in the Senate on the subway appropriations bill."

NICOLAI DECLARED, "We will continue digging holes in Moscow until you people stop digging holes in Washington. Your subway story was a good try, but it never fooled us. We were onto it from the beginning."

I left Nicolai and ran to the nearest phone and called Congressman Natcher's office. "For God's sake," I pleaded, "release the subway funds before the Russians install a whole new generation of intercontinental nuclear missiles."

"Russian missiles?" The person on the other end of the phone said. "We're sorry. That's not our committee."

$100,000 To Winner Of April's Lottery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Trudy Moriarty, wife of New York restaurant owner P. J. Moriarty, won first prize of $100,000 Wednesday in the April drawing of the state lottery.

Joint Recreation Plan For Tiburon

With time running out, the Reed School District board has told Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello to work with a citizens committee to formulate a joint school district-city of Tiburon summer recreation program.

Giovanniello will work with the committee, headed by Polly Smith, Marin County parks and recreation commissioner and a Tiburon resident, and return with a proposal at the board's June 1 meeting.

A questionnaire distributed to 2,500 district parents earlier this month indicated overwhelming approval for the program.

The city and school district have cooperated on recreation activities in the past but not in recent years because of a lack of interest. The questionnaire indicated a reversal of that feeling.

Only a month remains before school is dismissed for the summer. The district and the committee hopes to have the crash program organized before then.

In other business Tuesday night, the board was to have considered a preliminary budget for 1971-72, but put off discussion until an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Bel Aire School library.

The Reed School District board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Jane E. Cope, Bel Aire teacher, who is moving to Australia, and of Marguerite Coffin, Reedland Woods teacher aide, who is moving to Nebraska.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year. School will begin Sept. 13 and end June 15.

Closed Session

The Novato Unified School District board will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. today at the district office to instruct its representatives in negotiations with teachers.

Year In Jail In Drug Case

Phillip Russell McFarren, 20, of Novato, has been sentenced to a year in Marin County Jail for selling amphetamine.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for two years.

McFarren was found guilty, along with Mitchell Dorn Samios, 22, also of Novato, by a superior court jury April 16.

The pair had been arrested on a warrant charging they sold 100 "bennies" to a narcotics agent last Sept. 3.

Samios is to be sentenced June 2.

Creative Writing Prize To Viet Vet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Brian Jones, a 24-year-old Vietnam Veteran, won the $3,000 first prize Wednesday in the Samuel Goldwyn creative writing competition at UCLA.

Jones, a political science major and holder of the Navy and Marine Corps commendation medal, was given the award for his novel, "Fox Song,"

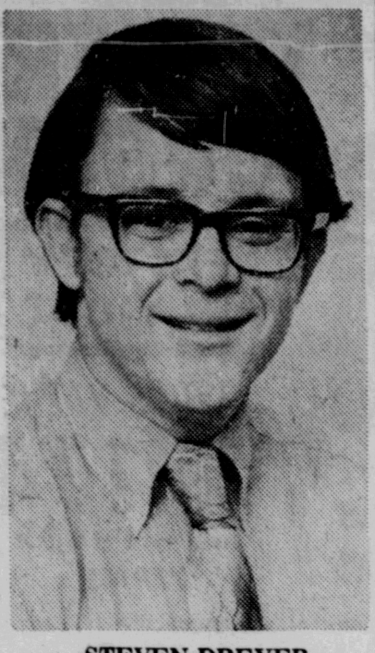
KENNETH C. SODERLUND
Honored By DeMolay



STEVEN DREYER
Wins DeMolay Degree

Two DeMolay Men To Get High Award

Two members of the Mill Valley Chapter of Order of DeMolay will receive DeMolay degrees of Chevalier Saturday at the Mill Valley Masonic Hall.

They are Steven E. Dreyer and Kenneth C. Soderlund, who will receive this, the highest degree of the DeMolay in ceremonies at 8 p.m.

Soderlund is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Soderlund of 2140 Los Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael. He has been a DeMolay since 1964 and held many offices including Master Councilor. He was appointed scribe to the Redwood Empire Division in 1969. He is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and has attended the College of Marin and Oregon State University at Corvallis, Ore. At the present time, he is majoring in planning at California Poly-Technique Institute at San Luis Obispo.

Dreyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Dreyer of 30 Corte Comoda, Greenbrae. He graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin, majoring in journalism. He was editor of the chapter and division monthly publications and past editor of the Northern California DeMolay Association in 1970. He is now working as a reporter for the Marysville Appeal-Democrat.

Task Force Set To Study Health-Medical Merger

Marin's Comprehensive Health Planning Council set up an 11-man task force yesterday to weigh the pros and cons of consolidating all health and medical services under a new county department.

Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday assigned the health planning council to make recommendations on the health-medical merger, proposed by Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator.

The planning council, headed by Ray K. Bolinger, met at Marin General Hospital yesterday and named the task force, with San Anselmo City Councilman James F. Reed as chairman.

Reed's task force will evaulate the consolidation plan and report back to the health planning council by June 9. The full council will then make its recommendation to the county supervisors on June 11, just before the supervisors begin deliberations on the 1971-72 budget.

The task force will be aided by a group of resource people including Campanella, Bolinger, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht; Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of community mental health services and medical department; Dr. John Guerrant, program director of the mental health center; and school nurse.

The proposed merger would put Dr. Cooke as head of a new department of health care services. The health and medical departments, community mental health services, the county service office, and related services would all come under this one large department.

Mary D. Williams of Marin City was elected a director of the health planning council.

She will succeed Mrs. Daniel Collins of Mill Valley, who resigned because she is too busy with other duties including service on the Marin County Grand Jury and the mental health advisory board.

Mrs. Williams, who has been active in senior citizens programs, will join the 30-member board of directors of the comprehensive health planning council.

Smog Alert System Due Board's Ear

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Creation of Bay Area smog alert procedures, similar to a warning system used in Los Angeles, will be discussed tomorrow by officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Under the Los Angeles procedure, persons are warned not to drive cars and school children are banned from playgrounds when pollutants reach certain levels.

Such an alert is soon to be required by the new federal Environmental Protection Agency, according to a Bay Area district spokesman.

The officials — members of the district board of directors and advisory council and staff — will meet at 9:30 a.m. in district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Also on the meeting agenda is an analysis by a special board committee of a critique of the district made last year by a group of graduate students at Stanford University.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

PORTRAITS OF BEAUTY

When we talk about beautiful portraits, we generally mean portraits of a lovely woman, probably the most popular photographic subject of all. Much has been written on techniques of such portraiture, lighting, pose, and so on . . . but some practical tips are often neglected.

Take the matter of makeup, for instance. The camera, unlike a man, has a very unblinking eye when looking at female beauty. If there's a flaw, the camera lens will find it. So makeup is especially important. One famous portraitist strongly recommends pancake makeup, stressing that it can hardly be overdone.

However, aside from pancake makeup, which looks natural on film, too much makeup (such as eye detailing) will tend to attract attention to itself and away from the woman herself . . . which is fine for a fashion magazine, but not so good for a portrait — unless you're deliberately striving for drama.

Want a camera that lets you work in close or far away? That takes wide angle or long lens attachments? And that adapts to your budget, too? Take a look at the new SLR's in our big camera display, by the world's great makers.

Art Festival To Open Celebration

Corte Madera Shopping Center will celebrate the Town's 55th Commemorative Anniversary with an art festival in the center arcade Saturday and Sunday.

Members of Terra Linda Art Association, including Mel Cardy, Eleanor Foster, Laureta Hastings, and Stan Painter of Corte Madera will mount the show which will include still lifes, figuratives, landscapes, and seascapes in oil, acrylic, and watercolor.

The Terra Linda Art Association was started in 1963 with seven students, and formal organization occurred in January 1964, following a highly successful Christmas show at Terra Linda Recreation Center.

The association now has its own gallery at 4170-72 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, which is open Monday through Friday, noon until 3 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Current president is Jack Wasley.

PREVIEWING ART EXHIBITS — Louis Malvino, president of the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council and Mrs. A. B. Cardy, chairman of the art show to be held Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and May 22 in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, look over some of the entries which will be displayed.

Growth Of Chamber Traced

Founded in 1964 by Richard G. Burns, Corte Madera attorney, and Donald Sutherland, former manager of Bank of America, the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce has grown to represent a majority of Corte Madera businessman and includes on its roster members of the residential community interested in its efforts to maintain a stable economy for the benefit of the Town as a whole.

JOE H. STEWART JR.
Past Chamber president

Original directors Donald Sutherland, Robert Satterthwaite, Edward Henly, Robert Dolman, Dora Solvason, Richard Burns, Richard Taricco, Harry Kramar, Arthur Brandow, Cornelius Heydenryk, and John Saunders signed the articles of incorporation on January 23, 1964, and the balance of the year was devoted to securing membership, formation of committees, and discussion of subjects as a contest for a chamber slogan and a Miss Corte Madera, a tree planiting project, and preparation of a Town brochure.

"A Guidebook to Corte Madera, California," now in its third printing, was published in 1965, as was a picture brochure and town map.

In 1966, the Town's 50th Birthday Anniversary and a Fourth of July Celebration were co-sponsored by the Chamber which also found a permanent home at 500 Tamalpais Drive, with Mrs. Naydee Beckstead acting as first manager.

Through committees, the Chamber has worked with Town officials to rewrite the Town's business license ordinance, solicitor's ordinance; has obtained a variance in the zoning ordinance on signs, and an amendment to the business license ordinance to obtain relief for the operators of laundromats; and has polled Corte Madera residents on the ferry terminal question.

The Chamber has been the voice of its members on matters relating to flood control, fire protection, a county park, widening of Tamalpais Drive, railroad abandonment, sanitary district merger, acquisition of Pt. Reyes National Sashore lands, college disturbances, the newspaper strike, commuter parking, zoning, BCDC activities, college bonds, public safety building bonds, and water district bonds.

It has supported the Corte Madera Women's Club Viet Nam book drive, the Corte Madera Drop-in Center, a fire chief's convention; has initiated a Corte Madera Citizen of the Year Award, held several candidates night programs, cited local police officers for excellence in the performance of their duties; sponsored a post office open house, and a reception following library ground breaking ceremonies; and has presented three Christmas Carol programs, three Easter egg hunts, and five Fourth of July celebrations.

Active participation by Chamber members — including time and donations beyond the dues schedule — has made the Corte Madera Chamber one of the most active in Marin County under the leadership of presidents Donald Sutherland, Richard Burns, B. A. Sill, Robert Satterthwaite, Robert Dolman, Louis Malvino, Donald Beacock, and Joe H. Stewart, Jr.

The Days Before Shopping Center

Until the advent of the Corte Madera Shopping Center in 1954, business in Corte Madera consisted of Parkside Market, Solon Realty, Pingree Realty, the old Village Corner and Hiway Fountain in Village Square, and some businesses along Highway 101, such as H. Koch and Sons and Littleman's (Cala Foods).

In 1954, the property tax rate was $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation and property tax receipts were $65,489.

In 1955/56, with Corte Madera Center beginning to get into full swing, the sales tax ordinance was passed, property tax rate decreased to $1.34, property tax receipts were $74,417, and sales tax revenue was $6,068.

Under the impetus of growing shopping center success, business in Corte Madera began to expand. Paradise Shopping Center and Sanford Terrace were complete in 1963; Park Madera Shopping Center, J & B Ford and Campbell Bishop Chevrolet opened their doors in 1964; Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth and Bianco Cadillac came to the Town in 1966, and the Cooperative Shopping Center opened for business in 1967. The last three years have seen the arrival of Cinema I, Raydine's Ice Skating Rink and Handi-Kup Co.

In 1961/62 — for the first time — income to the Town of Corte Madera from sales tax revenue was $127,908, exceeding property tax income of $117,268. Property tax rate in that fiscal year had decreased to $1.00.

By 1969/70, with a tax rate of .99, and with sales tax receipts of $356,898 still exceeding property tax income of $244,392, the Corte Madera business community was attracting income tc the town which was supporting approximately one third of the Town's million dollar budget.

This is noteworthy since the sales tax figure represents actual total sales of over $35 million, and it wasn't until 1980 that Corte Madera was to reach its maximum sales potential.

SPIRIT ABOUNDS

A 'Can-Do Town' Image

The kind of identity a town acquires is often due to the presence or lack of a spirit of co-operative inter-action among individuals, organizations, the business community, and town officials.

Since this spirit is present in abundance in the Town of Corte Madera, it can aptly be described as "a can-do town of yes-sayers."

The controlled growth of the town has been the result of an active and sensitive interest on the part of many town councils and many mayors, notably immediate past mayor, Edward W. Colthurst, and current mayor H. S. (Pete) Norville.

Improvements to the town such as new town hall, public safety building, the new corporation yard, San Clemente Drive, and the library branch under construction are the result of council actions of the past as administered by managers suchas Arthur Brandow, Ronald Usher, and Ronald Bartels.

Zoning administrators and public works directors such as William McBride and Arthur Morrison have efficiently administered policies set by councils, and by commissions and boards composed of Corte Maderans J. W. McClintock, C. W. (Bill) Thomas, William Gilbert, and Herber c. Leney.

Recreation facilities in Corte Madera, starting with the Town Park development so carefully guided by the Park and Recreation Commission, headed by Robert Riboli, have expanded tremendously in the past two years.With their ears turned to the needs of the young, this commission has advised town council in its enactment of a full time recreational program including a Drop-In-Center for high school students, activities for senior citizens and classes geared to the needs and talents of young children and adults.

Corte Madera Police Department, under the direction of David McIntosh, and Corte Madera Fire Department, under direction of Frank Nelson, have developed excellent programs resulting in a closer communication with the people of the community.

Local organizations make major contributions to the life of Corte Madera. The work of the Lions Club, Women's Club, and Volunteer Fire Department is discussed elsewhere. But not to be overlooked is the help given by the Corte Madera Optimist Club whose activities for and with the young have provided shop equipment for the special class at Neil Cummins School.

Best Diving Is Found Within 33-Foot Limit

In depths of 25 feet or less, the avid skin diver gets more than usual sporting thrills. Believe it or not, lakes and quarries offer the best, the most interesting diving at such depths.

If this hits your fancy, you'll be diving within the "single atmosphere zone," within 33 feet of the surface, the safest diving area.

Stay in this 33-foot zone and underwater swimming becomes far less cumbersome, far more enjoyable. As you near the surface from the single atmosphere zone, you need not worry about decompression. But under no circumstances should you ever descend more than 130 feet. Rapid descent results in pain in the ear. Under no circumstances should you ever hold your breath while returning to the surface.

Remember that 75 percent of the world's best diving occurs in depths less than 25 feet.

The Days Before Shopping Center

Until the advent of the Corte Madera Shopping Center in 1954, business in Corte Madera consisted of Parkside Market, Solon Realty, Pingree Realty, the old Village Corner and Hiway Fountain in Village Square, and some businesses along Highway 101, such as H. Koch and Sons and Littleman's (Cala Foods).

In 1954, the property tax rate was $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation and property tax receipts were $65,489.

In 1955/56, with Corte Madera Center beginning to get into full swing, the sales tax ordinance was passed, property tax rate decreased to $1.34, property tax receipts were $74,417, and sales tax revenue was $6,068.

Under the impetus of growing shopping center success, business in Corte Madera began to expand. Paradise Shopping Center and Sanford Terrace were complete in 1963; Park Madera Shopping Center, J & B Ford and Campbell Bishop Chevrolet opened their doors in 1964; Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth and Bianco Cadillac came to the Town in 1966, and the Cooperative Shopping Center opened for business in 1967. The last three years have seen the arrival of Cinema I, Raydine's Ice Skating Rink and Handi-Kup Co.

In 1961/62 — for the first time — income to the Town of Corte Madera from sales tax revenue was $127,908, exceeding property tax income of $117,268. Property tax rate in that fiscal year had decreased to $1.00.

By 1969/70, with a tax rate of .99, and with sales tax receipts of $356,898 still exceeding property tax income of $244,392, the Corte Madera business community was attracting income tc the town which was supporting approximately one third of the Town's million dollar budget.

This is noteworthy since the sales tax figure represents actual total sales of over $35 million, and it wasn't until 1980 that Corte Madera was to reach its maximum sales potential.

SPIRIT ABOUNDS

A 'Can-Do Town' Image

The kind of identity a town acquires is often due to the presence or lack of a spirit of co-operative inter-action among individuals, organizations, the business community, and town officials.

Since this spirit is present in abundance in the Town of Corte Madera, it can aptly be described as "a can-do town of yes-sayers."

The controlled growth of the town has been the result of an active and sensitive interest on the part of many town councils and many mayors, notably immediate past mayor, Edward W. Colthurst, and current mayor H. S. (Pete) Norville.

Improvements to the town such as new town hall, public safety building, the new corporation yard, San Clemente Drive, and the library branch under construction are the result of council actions of the past as administered by managers suchas Arthur Brandow, Ronald Usher, and Ronald Bartels.

Zoning administrators and public works directors such as William McBride and Arthur Morrison have efficiently administered policies set by councils, and by commissions and boards composed of Corte Maderans J. W. McClintock, C. W. (Bill) Thomas, William Gilbert, and Herber c. Leney.

Recreation facilities in Corte Madera, starting with the Town Park development so carefully guided by the Park and Recreation Commission, headed by Robert Riboli, have expanded tremendously in the past two years.With their ears turned to the needs of the young, this commission has advised town council in its enactment of a full time recreational program including a Drop-In-Center for high school students, activities for senior citizens and classes geared to the needs and talents of young children and adults.

Corte Madera Police Department, under the direction of David McIntosh, and Corte Madera Fire Department, under direction of Frank Nelson, have developed excellent programs resulting in a closer communication with the people of the community.

Local organizations make major contributions to the life of Corte Madera. The work of the Lions Club, Women's Club, and Volunteer Fire Department is discussed elsewhere. But not to be overlooked is the help given by the Corte Madera Optimist Club whose activities for and with the young have provided shop equipment for the special class at Neil Cummins School.

Lions Club Reflects Interest In Town

Corte Madera Lions Club this year enters its third decade under the leadership of B.A. (Bev) Sill as its 21st president.

Sill, a charter member and past president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, also will be celebrating his 55th birthday anniversary along with the Town of Corte Madera, and his 15th year as a resident of Corte Madera and manager of Crocker-Citizens Bank in Corte Madera Center.

Chartered in October 1951, the Corte Madera Lions Club has carried out its philosophy of "doing for others" with solid contributions to the Town.

The Corte Madera Recreation Center built by Lion members and friends, was paid for in seven years, deeded to the Town, and continues to be maintained and managed by the club. Besides being available for private rentals, the building is often loaned free of charge for activities of a community nature, and is the site for many programs presented by the Town recreation department.

The tennis courts in Corte Madera Town Park are another gift to the Town from the club, bringing to a total of some $200,000 the monetary value of the club's contribution to Corte Madera.

In addition, Lion members contribute freely of time and money toward the support of the blind, youth organizations as the Boy Scouts and little league, car clubs, international organizations, and community functions as the annual Fourth of July Celebration.

The Lions exchange student program has been active and successful for several years, and recently resulted in the marriage of two young Japanese students who met while visiting in Corte Madera.

Those who have served as president of the club the past twenty years have maintained a continuing interest in the town and its residents include: William Talley, founder; Philip Arone, Charles F. Pendleton (former councilman), Haskell Billings, Fred J. Schultz, Lee Johnson, Donald W. O'Neil, Lloyd L. Prosser, Ernest McCutchen, William H. Schwartz, Timothy F. Murray, Robert Vogel, Edward W. Sabo, C. W. (Bill) Thomas (members of the town planning commission), John McDermott, Arthur Hallin, Chris Gartman, Jack Hauser, Frank Lopez and James Tonge.

How To Avoid The Mosquitoes

Advice to the ever-increasing number of women who join their husbands on camping and fishing trips: Let the man leave his after-shave lotion and hair-tonic home. They can cause the wrong female to put the bite on him.

Recent studies have shown that mosquitoes — only the female bite — are more attracted to persons wearing certain fragrances. (So the ladies, too, should go light on perfumes and colognes.)

One skin treatment the winged biters don't go for is diethyltoluamide — deet, for short — an ingredient found in insect repellent and described as greaseless and nearly odorless.

SINCE 1916

The History Of Corte Madera

Incorporated on June 10, 1916, when it had become obvious that the sleepy little village was becoming more than a summer home-away-from-home, the Town of Corte Madera has passed through its growing pains with dignity and grace.

Originally part of the Corte Madera de Presidio Rancho which extended from Baltimore Canyon on the north to Point Tiburon on the south, Corte Madera was first settled by John Reed who was granted 8,000 acres of rancho lands by the Mexican Governor, Figueros, in 1834.

Reed established a lumber mill in Mill Valley, and the cutting of timber in the Corte Madera area gave the town its name. With the discovery of gold in California came an influx of settlers, some of whom squatted on the land and took up claims of 160 acres each.

Little development occurred until the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was built in 1890 and a station was located in the present Village Square area — to become at that time Corte Madera's central business district. The building which in 1907 was the Corte Madera Livery Stable, J. P. Allen, Prop., still exists and houses Corte Madera Hardware and The Launderette. Its past history also includes use of the upstairs room as a roller skating rink.

The advent of the railroad and the ferry system linking Marin to San Francisco spurred the building of summer homes by San Franciscans, many of whom become permanent residents of Corte Madera as a result of the San Francisco earthquake.

A population of 500 in 1916 increased to one of 1,095 in 1940, three years after the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge. The thirty-year span between 1940 and 1970 saw a gradual and steady population growth to a new total of 9,421 Corte Maderans.

With people came a need for housing, and to the delightful homes of earlier years have been added the attractive residences dotting the wooded Corte Madera Ridge with its Christmas Tree Hill, and Palm Hill. Post-World War II development saw the marshlands turn into Madera Gardens, Marina Village, Mariner Cove, Marin Estates, with Mariner Green and The Uplands on the north slope of Tiburon Ridge.

With people also came the need for government services, business, schools, and recreational facilities. In 1913, J. P. Allen of the Corte Madera Livery Stable welcomed as a fellow business associate Mrs. Bessie Pingree whose firm, Pingree Realty, is still active in Village Square under the direction of her daughter, Mrs. Auda Bordanaro, and granddaughter, Mrs. Jan Valk.

First town hall was constructed in 1928, to be replaced by the present structure in 1966. The old Larkspur-Corte Madera School of the 1911 era was replaced by the new in 1940. Corte Madera Town Park site was acquired in 1939 and is now developed almost to full potential, providing the major outdoor recreational area in the town.

Neil Cummins School opened its doors in 1952, the Corte Madera Recreation Center became a reality in 1953 thanks to the Corte Madera Lions Club, Corte Madera Shopping Center opened for business in 1954, Redwood High School welcomed students in 1958, and children began answering the bell at San Clemente School in 1962, and at Granada School in 1966.

Completion of the new Public Safety Building in 1966 on Tamalpais Drive, and removal of the U. S. Post office to brand new quarters around the corner on Pixley Avenue in 1969 completed a civic center complex which is complemented by its proximity to Town Park.

The new Corte Madera Branch of the Marin County Library now under construction on a portion of the Sanford estate on Meadowsweet Drive, and renewal of Tamalpais Drive due to start in the late summer are both indicative of the vibrancy of the town. Further business and residential development is planned, with town officials and residents guiding the growth to insure that the Town of Corte Madera retains its identity as a small town of beauty under the guardianship of majestic Mount Tamalpais.

How To Prevent Theft Of Motor

In this day and age, no unlocked outboard motor stays completely safe from the hand of thieves.

How to prevent the theft of your outboard Motor?

Using a bicycle lock may come as a surprise to you. But that bicycle lock makes a handy safeguard.

First tighten the motor down on the transom. Then insert the bicycle lock through the small holes in the turnscrew handles.

Now your motor locks in place. And no thief can loosen the handles.

The History Of Corte Madera

Incorporated on June 10, 1916, when it had become obvious that the sleepy little village was becoming more than a summer home-away-from-home, the Town of Corte Madera has passed through its growing pains with dignity and grace.

Originally part of the Corte Madera de Presidio Rancho which extended from Baltimore Canyon on the north to Point Tiburon on the south, Corte Madera was first settled by John Reed who was granted 8,000 acres of rancho lands by the Mexican Governor, Figueros, in 1834.

Reed established a lumber mill in Mill Valley, and the cutting of timber in the Corte Madera area gave the town its name. With the discovery of gold in California came an influx of settlers, some of whom squatted on the land and took up claims of 160 acres each.

Little development occurred until the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was built in 1890 and a station was located in the present Village Square area — to become at that time Corte Madera's central business district. The building which in 1907 was the Corte Madera Livery Stable, J. P. Allen, Prop., still exists and houses Corte Madera Hardware and The Launderette. Its past history also includes use of the upstairs room as a roller skating rink.

The advent of the railroad and the ferry system linking Marin to San Francisco spurred the building of summer homes by San Franciscans, many of whom become permanent residents of Corte Madera as a result of the San Francisco earthquake.

A population of 500 in 1916 increased to one of 1,095 in 1940, three years after the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge. The thirty-year span between 1940 and 1970 saw a gradual and steady population growth to a new total of 9,421 Corte Maderans.

With people came a need for housing, and to the delightful homes of earlier years have been added the attractive residences dotting the wooded Corte Madera Ridge with its Christmas Tree Hill, and Palm Hill. Post-World War II development saw the marshlands turn into Madera Gardens, Marina Village, Mariner Cove, Marin Estates, with Mariner Green and The Uplands on the north slope of Tiburon Ridge.

With people also came the need for government services, business, schools, and recreational facilities. In 1913, J. P. Allen of the Corte Madera Livery Stable welcomed as a fellow business associate Mrs. Bessie Pingree whose firm, Pingree Realty, is still active in Village Square under the direction of her daughter, Mrs. Auda Bordanaro, and granddaughter, Mrs. Jan Valk.

First town hall was constructed in 1928, to be replaced by the present structure in 1966. The old Larkspur-Corte Madera School of the 1911 era was replaced by the new in 1940. Corte Madera Town Park site was acquired in 1939 and is now developed almost to full potential, providing the major outdoor recreational area in the town.

Neil Cummins School opened its doors in 1952, the Corte Madera Recreation Center became a reality in 1953 thanks to the Corte Madera Lions Club, Corte Madera Shopping Center opened for business in 1954, Redwood High School welcomed students in 1958, and children began answering the bell at San Clemente School in 1962, and at Granada School in 1966.

Completion of the new Public Safety Building in 1966 on Tamalpais Drive, and removal of the U. S. Post office to brand new quarters around the corner on Pixley Avenue in 1969 completed a civic center complex which is complemented by its proximity to Town Park.

The new Corte Madera Branch of the Marin County Library now under construction on a portion of the Sanford estate on Meadowsweet Drive, and renewal of Tamalpais Drive due to start in the late summer are both indicative of the vibrancy of the town. Further business and residential development is planned, with town officials and residents guiding the growth to insure that the Town of Corte Madera retains its identity as a small town of beauty under the guardianship of majestic Mount Tamalpais.

How To Prevent Theft Of Motor

In this day and age, no unlocked outboard motor stays completely safe from the hand of thieves.

How to prevent the theft of your outboard Motor?

Using a bicycle lock may come as a surprise to you. But that bicycle lock makes a handy safeguard.

First tighten the motor down on the transom. Then insert the bicycle lock through the small holes in the turnscrew handles.

Now your motor locks in place. And no thief can loosen the handles.

MRS. JACK HAUSER
Plays big role

Mrs. Hauser Plays Major Town Part

The attractive appearance of the clover leaf interchange on Highway 101 at Corte Madera, is due in large part to the efforts of Mrs. Jack Hauser, member of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, KTIM broadcaster, and past Cub Scout den mother and Fourth of July Committee member.

As spearhead of a Women's Club committee, Mrs. Hauser conducted a three-year campaign of letter writing and meetings which finally resulted in state legislative appropriation of monies for landscaping.

Mrs. Hauser's contribution to the appearance of Corte Madera won the women's club an award from the California Federation of Women's Club and a letter of commendation from the White House.

This effort by Mrs. Hauser is typical of the activities over the years of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club which, immediately after its organization in 1906, proceeded to acquire street lights for the town. On Christmas eve 1907, the first 32 lights, paid for with $250 in gold, were lit.

Other programs of the past 65 years have included supervising the care of the old board walks, circulating a petiton to bring gas to the town, acquiring and maintaining two parks, a concern that high fences were keeping out the sunlight at the county jail (circa 1911), circulation of an anti-saloon petition, passage of a resolution endorsing woman's suffrage, assisting families during the depression years.

The members of the club have raised the money to finance their activities through events which have added to the recreation of the community: amateur talent shows, box socials, musical programs, operettas, dances, card parties, cookery sales, fashion shows, teas, and their famous annual Fresh Flower Hat Luncheon.

Mrs. Mary Hart Eastman was first president of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, a position more recently held by Mesdames George Entwistle, Phillip Trau, Jr., John Conkle, Louis Ivancovich, and Aden Cuykendall.

Paradise Motors Is Appointed Dealer Of Swedish-Made Saabs

Paradise Motors of 5804 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, has been appointed a regular dealer of the Swedish-made Saab cars, according to Ralph T. Millet, president of Saab Motors, Inc., U.S. distributors.

Most Active

Corte Madera's most active homeowners associations include Christmas Tree Hill Dwellers Association, Corte Madera Avenue Improvement Association, Marin Estates Home Owners Association, Mariner Cove Improvement Association, and Chapman-Montecito Home Owners Association.

The new Saab dealership is owned and operated by Julle H. Lewicki, a native of Sweden who has been residing in California for the last five years, and active primarily in the service of Swedish-made automobiles. Before coming to the U.S., Lewicki was employed by a Swedish automobile manufacturer in a service capacity.

Saab models available through Paradise Motors include: The new Saab 99 models, offered in both two and four-floor versions and equipped with an electronic fuel injection system for high performance and clean exhausts; the rally tested Saab 96 sedan, powered by a 1700 cc V4 engine and well-known the world over for its many successes in international rallies, from Monte Carlo to Baja California, also the Saab 95 station wagon and the Saab Sonett III sports coupe, a high performance fiber glass bodied sports model offering GT handling and comfort in an attractive Swedish-Italian design.

Saab cars and parts will be directly available through Paradise Motors from the West Coast depot and headquarters of Saab Motors, Inc., in Torrance.

Popular Class

Zim-Fried!
Zim's

NEW ON MENU Zim-fried chicken is making its debut in the Bay Area. Arthur Zimmerman, left president and founder of Zim's and Hank Hance, creative director of Sturges Advertising, study a small version of the outdoor advertising sign which has been used to announce the new dish. It is on the menu at Zim's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Zim-Fried Chicken Is New Feature

Zim's Restaurants, the organization that originated the glorified hamburger almost 25 years ago in San Francisco, is now seeking to do the same with its Zim-Fried Chicken.

"With 10 San Francisco restaurants, two in Marin County (in the Corte Madera Center, and on College Avenue in Kentfield), and one in San Mateo, Zim's intends to make Zim-Fried Chicken as familiar to local residents, as its famous deluxe broiled Zimburger," says Arthur Zimmerman, President of the firm.

The scrumptious chicken with sesame seed studded batter, is served appetizingly with corn on the cob, and french fries at most Zim's locations, including the two handsome Zim's Restaurants in Marin. Zim-fried Chicken is being offered as a luncheon item, as a child's plate, and as a delicious dinner item with a choice of crisp fresh salad or with savory soup of the day.

Marin residents will find that Zim's units in Corte Madera and in Kentfield have made a vast change from the Zim's that first opened in Corte Madera, which served broiled hamburgers and hot apple pie exclusively.

Zim's now features a more extensive menu.

Malaria Warning To Drug Users

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) —The largest malaria outbreak in this country in 20 years has been stamped out here but the elements that caused it remain and the disease could strike again.

The malaria here was totally limited to hard drug users, according to the California State Health Department. The malaria parasite was transferred from person-to-person via infected blood on shared hypodermic needles and syringes.

The elements which could trigger another outbreak here or elsewhere, authorities said, are the increasing use of heroin, both at home and among servicemen in Vietnam, where malaria is rampant, and the tendency among drug users to share injection equipment without adequately sterilizing it.

Dr. Ronald Roberto of the California Health Department warns that future epidemics might not be limited to drug addicts.

A total of 44 persons in Bakersfield contracted the disease since the first of the year, with the last case reported March 30. Dr. Owen Kearns, Kern County health officer, set up a temporary clinic and urged heroin users who might be infected to come in for preventive treatment — no questions asked.

More than 350 persons accepted the offer —a startling figure in a community of 180,000 where less than a decade ago Sheriff Charles Dodge estimates there were probably 50 hard drug users at most.

"It was startling to us and I think to everybody there," sai Dr. Roberto, whose offices are in Berkeley, Calif.

He and Dr. Kearns said the local outbreak had been traced to an unnamed former soldier who had contracted the disease in Vietnam. When he returned and shared his drug equipment with others, the parasite spread.

Those infected and those who came to the clinic fearing they might be were treated with a drug called chloroquine which effectively eradicates the parasites. But Dr. Roberto said the drug would not block a reinfection and one could become susceptible again after about 10 days.

"It appears now it's stamped out but it could possibly get started again," he said. "All we have to do is miss one person who has the parasites."

The strain of malaria, Plasmodium Vivax, is rarely fatal and its chief symptoms are chills, fever and nausea. But some forms of malaria can be deadly.

Dr. Roberto noted there are still anopheles mosquitoes in the marsh lands of the northern Central Valley of California which are capable of carrying malaria if they bite an infected human.

The last large outbreak in California occurred in just such a way when 35 Campfire Girls were stricken in 1952 after bitten by mosquitoes which had previously bitten returning Korean War veterans who had the disease.

Dr. Roberto said malaria parasites carried by mosquitoes undergo changes and result in a more virulent form of the disease when passed on to man.

The potential for new outbreaks among drug users and possibly even among non-drug users "increases as drug use continues in Vietnam," Dr. Roberto said. "All we can do is make the word known among drug users —don't share injection equipment unless it is sterilized."

3-Million Volumes Now In Library

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Ten years ago former Chancellor Franklin Murphy and University Librarian Robert Vosper received Regental authorization to double UCLA's book holdings (then at 1,500,000 volumes) within a decade — a remarkable challenge. On January 5 the challenge was met when the Friends of the UCLA Library (a private support group) and the UCLA Foundation presented to Chancellor Young volume number 3,000,000, making the UCLA Library 12th in size among university libraries.

As a fitting recognition of the enduring importance of books in the history of civilization, this landmark book is an original copy of Ptolemy's "Liber Geographiae" (Book of Georgraphy) printed in Venice on March 20, 1511.

"Students and faculty may disagree on some matters," said Chancellor Charles E. Young, "but they are quick to affirm that a distinguished library is essential to the work of scholarship — for both teaching and learning in all fields of study."

University Librarian Robert Vosper added:

"The world's great metropolitan centers are all marked by major library collections as well as my museums, music centers and other resources. The Los Angeles community requires extensive library resources for educational and cultural enrichment, and to serve the needs of industry, government and the professions. The UCLA Library provides for all these operations in addition to its own students and faculty."

The .recently-opened $4,000,000 addition to the University Research Library includes handsome quarters for UCLA's distinguished special collections of rare and early books and manuscripts.

The University Research Library includes special quarters, for UCLA's 25,000-volume Oriental Library, as well as up-to-date facilities and equipment for using the Library's extensive collection of materials in microform.

A new public affairs service has been established to provide ready access to accurate information on a variety of matters of current concern. The PAS will include important files of the official publications of California and other states, of the U.S. Government and foreign governments, and of international organizations. By tying in to the Library's computer, the PAS will provide access to the computer tape records of the 1970 U.S. Census, and ultimately to other data banks in the United States.

Correct Way To Dock Boat

Boaters who just can't judge the distance it takes to bring their boats to a stop do considerable damage to these boats each year by banging into piers, rocky shores, and other obstacles.

Boats have no brakes other than the reverse gear. And it takes a skilled handler to use this reverse gear effectively.

To cut down on damage, boaters should practice the art of judging stopping distances. Best way for them to do this is to pick out some fixed object in the water and then try their skill.

Paradise Motors Is Appointed Dealer Of Swedish-Made Saabs

Paradise Motors of 5804 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, has been appointed a regular dealer of the Swedish-made Saab cars, according to Ralph T. Millet, president of Saab Motors, Inc., U.S. distributors.

Most Active

Corte Madera's most active homeowners associations include Christmas Tree Hill Dwellers Association, Corte Madera Avenue Improvement Association, Marin Estates Home Owners Association, Mariner Cove Improvement Association, and Chapman-Montecito Home Owners Association.

The new Saab dealership is owned and operated by Julle H. Lewicki, a native of Sweden who has been residing in California for the last five years, and active primarily in the service of Swedish-made automobiles. Before coming to the U.S., Lewicki was employed by a Swedish automobile manufacturer in a service capacity.

Saab models available through Paradise Motors include: The new Saab 99 models, offered in both two and four-floor versions and equipped with an electronic fuel injection system for high performance and clean exhausts; the rally tested Saab 96 sedan, powered by a 1700 cc V4 engine and well-known the world over for its many successes in international rallies, from Monte Carlo to Baja California, also the Saab 95 station wagon and the Saab Sonett III sports coupe, a high performance fiber glass bodied sports model offering GT handling and comfort in an attractive Swedish-Italian design.

Saab cars and parts will be directly available through Paradise Motors from the West Coast depot and headquarters of Saab Motors, Inc., in Torrance.

NEW HOTPANTS BIKINI

Boylegged pants replace the traditional high-sided style in this year's brief swimwear. This version at Montgomery Ward, Corte Madera is in bright polyester print, in combinations of purple or brown, sizes 34 to 40.

Growth Of Fire Dept.

Eight years before the Town of Corte Madera was incorporated, the Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department was formed and, until 1916 provided fire protection services with two horse carts — one stationed adjacent to Mahood's Store (Village Square) and one at Robert's Garage (Morningside Drive and Redwood Avenue).

The volunteer firemen continued this service to their town — as they still do — until 1961 when Lee Larson, one of their members, became the town's first full-time paid member of the Corte Madera Fire Department.

Quality of service remains the same, though the equipment has changed a bit. The horse teams were replaced by the first fire truck, a small Chevrolet Pope Hartford. In 1928, a bond issue was passed allowing for the purchase of an American La France 500 gpm pumper.

The organization was incorporated in 1930, and equipment was housed in a then new station on the corner of First Street (Tamalpais Drive) and Willow Avenue.

Today, in the new public safety building on Tamalpais Drive, the fire department and volunteer fire department have seven pieces of equipment, five paid firemen, and 25 volunteer members.

Chief of the department is Frank Nelson, and Bud Ralson is president of the volunteers. Roll call of past fire chiefs of the volunteers encompasses the history of the town: William Cassidy, William Russell, Henry Geister, George Seaton, Foster Mahood, Gordon Pingree and Frank Nelson.

Zim-Fried!

NEW ON MENU Zim-fried chicken is making its debut in the Bay Area. Arthur Zimmerman, left president and founder of Zim's and Hank Hance, creative director of Sturges Advertising, study a small version of the outdoor advertising sign which has been used to announce the new dish. It is on the menu at Zim's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Zim-Fried Chicken Is New Feature

Zim's Restaurants, the organization that originated the glorified hamburger almost 25 years ago in San Francisco, is now seeking to do the same with its Zim-Fried Chicken.

"With 10 San Francisco restaurants, two in Marin County (in the Corte Madera Center, and on College Avenue in Kentfield), and one in San Mateo, Zim's intends to make Zim-Fried Chicken as familiar to local residents, as its famous deluxe broiled Zimburger," says Arthur Zimmerman, President of the firm.

The scrumptious chicken with sesame seed studded batter, is served appetizingly with corn on the cob, and french fries at most Zim's locations, including the two handsome Zim's Restaurants in Marin. Zim-fried Chicken is being offered as a luncheon item, as a child's plate, and as a delicious dinner item with a choice of crisp fresh salad or with savory soup of the day.

Marin residents will find that Zim's units in Corte Madera and in Kentfield have made a vast change from the Zim's that first opened in Corte Madera, which served broiled hamburgers and hot apple pie exclusively.

Zim's now features a more extensive menu.

No Real School Fund Assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's $3 billion revenue-sharing plan for education would redefine the foggy federal role in the area but critics see little hope that it would ease financial pressures on the nation's elementary and high schools.

Nixon told Congress his proposal would establish "an appropriate federal role in elementary and secondary education" and provide a "bold new approach ... to meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

The plan would consolidate 33 grant programs into five packages and give states more authority in spending the money, including about $200 million new funds.

But of more immediate concern to parents and school authorities is a crisis of finances threatening the very existence of education in some communities.

"Countless Ohio school districts in very severe financial difficulty," said a telegram to the National Education Association (NEA) from its Ohio affiliate. "Last year only 29 per cent of all new operating tax levies for schools were approved by voters. This contrasts to 99 per cent in 1950."

Dayton city schools expect to end this calendar year $14.2 million in the red. Cincinnati schools face a $4 million deficit. Even the affluent, fast-growing Dayton suburb of Kettering is taking steps to close two school buildings and transfer their pupils to other buildings.

"In excess of 100 Ohio school districts out of 631 total could be considered to be in critical financial bind," the telegram added. "We believe Ohio to be on the brink of a total collapse of its public school system unless legislature responds with vast increase in state aid."

Other telegrams and letters pouring into NEA headquarters in response to a survey tell a similar story.

From Tacoma, Wash.—"Clover Park School District No. 400 reduced its certificated staff by nearly 100 teachers, dropped all teacher aides, dropped specialized classes in languages, math ... curtailed maintenance programs to a level that borders on irresponsibility, allowing buildings to deteriorate seriously."

From Topeka, Kan.—"Kansas education picture bleak. Sample from 311 (school) districts shows 20.8 per cent reduced staffs for 1970-71 ... teacher salaries skidding downward ... organized tax protest groups statewide defeating bond elections."

From Boise, Idaho—"Our teachers are restless. One thousand showed for an emergency delegate assembly in the capital city ... many taxpayer groups springing up and organizing to resist taxes."

From Denver, Colo.—"At least 80 per cent of Colorado school districts will have to increase property taxes next year unless state support is increased by the 1971 legislature ..."

From Santa Barbara, Calif.—"A tax defeat has brought a decision to lay off 300 teachers beginning in May."

From Michigan —"Detroit ... dismissing 192 emergency substitutes in regular positions which will further increase already impossible class loads ... Lincoln Park having to get special permission from the State Board of Education to run half-day classes."

From Connecticut —"The Hartford Board of Education has cut back $4 million."

From Indianapolis, Ind.—A state representative was quoted as saying during a legislative debate, "hatred for education is in the air in this house."

U. S. Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. told UPI he sees no letup in the problem and said that "school systems are in for a continuing period of belt tightening."

"I think that the conditions, severe as they are, are such that we can sustain the schools over the next two or three years during a time of reappraisal of federal priorities and the realignment of budgets."

When the President unveiled his revenue-sharing plan for education, Elliott L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, was asked if Nixon's proposal would help ease the situation.

"It is not so designed," he replied, "and I do not believe it can honestly be represented as succeeding in that purpose."

Richardson did say that the administration's general revenue-sharing program, which is in addition to the change in the present system of grants, would make another $2 billion available for schools "and that would have significant impact."

Congress is cool to the idea of revenue sharing in general, however, and chances for approval of the plan are not considered good.

The federal share of the nation's public elementary and high school bill is nearly $3 billion but even so this is less than 7 per cent of total education outlays. State and local governments provide the rest of the $42 billion annual cost.

Education Commissioner Marland thinks the federal share should be 25 per cent or more. So did his predecessor, James E. Allen Jr., who unsuccessfully fought for that goal within the administration.

The 1.1 million teacher-member NEA thinks the federal government should put up one-third of the cost of education.

"Only the federal government is capable of coming up with sums of the magnitude needed," NEA President Mrs. Helen Bain told UPI. "And since our whole nation is a beneficiary of our education system, this increased responsibility would not be misplaced."

Both Marland and Mrs. Bain agree that the present heavy reliance on real estate taxes to support schools must change. Mrs. Bain wants "redistricting to provide broader tax bases." Marland said the tax base "must more and more move to the state and federal levels."

The first federal role in education, in 1787, involved land grants to the states, which specified that sections of land be set aside for schools. Money came much later. The starting point generally is considered to be passage in 1950 of the Impacted Areas Program. Many schools were having trouble assimilating the children of servicemen and workers from nearby federal installations, and Congress moved to help them meet these added financial burdens.

When the Russian Sputnik rose high in the skies, and shocked Americans began demanding space-age scientists, Congress moved again and voted federal support of scientific studies. With scientists assured, the government could turn to children—poor children, black children from rotting slum buildings and white children from rural shacks. Children who fail. Children who can't read. Children who quit school early.

Then, Lyndon B. Johnson, a former teacher, became president and the landmark Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA) was passed by a Congress,

Malaria Warning To Drug Users

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) —The largest malaria outbreak in this country in 20 years has been stamped out here but the elements that caused it remain and the disease could strike again.

The malaria here was totally limited to hard drug users, according to the California State Health Department. The malaria parasite was transferred from person-to-person via infected blood on shared hypodermic needles and syringes.

The elements which could trigger another outbreak here or elsewhere, authorities said, are the increasing use of heroin, both at home and among servicemen in Vietnam, where malaria is rampant, and the tendency among drug users to share injection equipment without adequately sterilizing it.

Dr. Ronald Roberto of the California Health Department warns that future epidemics might not be limited to drug addicts.

A total of 44 persons in Bakersfield contracted the disease since the first of the year, with the last case reported March 30. Dr. Owen Kearns, Kern County health officer, set up a temporary clinic and urged heroin users who might be infected to come in for preventive treatment — no questions asked.

More than 350 persons accepted the offer —a startling figure in a community of 180,000 where less than a decade ago Sheriff Charles Dodge estimates there were probably 50 hard drug users at most.

"It was startling to us and I think to everybody there," sai Dr. Roberto, whose offices are in Berkeley, Calif.

He and Dr. Kearns said the local outbreak had been traced to an unnamed former soldier who had contracted the disease in Vietnam. When he returned and shared his drug equipment with others, the parasite spread.

Those infected and those who came to the clinic fearing they might be were treated with a drug called chloroquine which effectively eradicates the parasites. But Dr. Roberto said the drug would not block a re-infection and one could become susceptible again after about 10 days.

"It appears now it's stamped out but it could possibly get started again," he said. "All we have to do is miss one person who has the parasites."

The strain of malaria, Plasmodium Vivax, is rarely fatal and its chief symptoms are chills, fever and nausea. But some forms of malaria can be deadly.

Dr. Roberto noted there are still anopheles mosquitoes in the marsh lands of the northern Central Valley of California which are capable of carrying malaria if they bite an infected human.

The last large outbreak in California occurred in just such a way when 35 Campfire Girls were stricken in 1952 after bitten by mosquitoes which had previously bitten returning Korean War veterans who had the disease.

Dr. Roberto said malaria parasites carried by mosquitoes undergo changes and result in a more virulent form of the disease when passed on to man.

The potential for new outbreaks among drug users and possibly even among non-drug users "increases as drug use continues in Vietnam," Dr. Roberto said. "All we can do is make the word known among drug users —don't share injection equipment unless it is sterilized."

Assemble Gear, Then Take Photograph

Before setting forth on your camping trip, assemble all your gear for a picture. A photo inventory won't stop you from losing something, but it's a good way not to leave things behind when you move on.

Simply check the photo ot see if you have everything. A photo inventory can also come in handy when filing an insurance claim for lost or stolen equipment.

Chairman For July 4th

The fifth annual Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July Celebration Committee has as its 1971 chairman, G. M. (Tom) Thomason, manager of Corte Madera branch, Bank of America, and first vice president of Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

With Albert E. Kogler acting in his fifth year as parade marshall, tentative plans include a Twin Cities Old Time Picnic on Saturday, July 3, in Corte Madera Town Park with a firemen's water battle, horseshoe contest between councils of both towns, and a band concert.

Activities scheduled for Sunday, July 4th, are the Art and Craft Show, Optimist Club Pancake Breakfast, Lions Club spaghetti dinner, concerts by the Terra Linda Sanitary District Non-Marching Band and Richard Slusher's "Adults Only" Band, cable car transportation, parade, and fireworks.

Assisting Thomason are Louis Malvino, Edward Saunders, Mrs. Henrietta Patton, Mrs. Shirley Walker, Mrs. Jacqueline Branch, Frank Bigley, Walter Nagel, Jack Sutherland and Mrs. Barbara Packard.

NEW HOTPANTS BIKINI

Boylegged pants replace the traditional high-sided style in this year's brief swimwear. This version at Montgomery Ward, Corte Madera is in bright polyester print, in combinations of purple or brown, sizes 34 to 40.

Growth Of Fire Dept.

Eight years before the Town of Corte Madera was incorporated, the Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department was formed and, until 1916 provided fire protection services with two horse carts — one stationed adjacent to Mahood's Store (Village Square) and one at Robert's Garage (Morningside Drive and Redwood Avenue).

The volunteer firemen continued this service to their town — as they still do — until 1961 when Lee Larson, one of their members, became the town's first full-time paid member of the Corte Madera Fire Department.

Quality of service remains the same, though the equipment has changed a bit. The horse teams were replaced by the first fire truck, a small Chevrolet Pope Hartford. In 1928, a bond issue was passed allowing for the purchase of an American La France 500 gpm pumper.

The organization was incorporated in 1930, and equipment was housed in a then new station on the corner of First Street (Tamalpais Drive) and Willow Avenue.

Today, in the new public safety building on Tamalpais Drive, the fire department and volunteer fire department have seven pieces of equipment, five paid firemen, and 25 volunteer members.

Chief of the department is Frank Nelson, and Bud Ralson is president of the volunteers. Roll call of past fire chiefs of the volunteers encompasses the history of the town: William Cassidy, William Russell, Henry Geister, George Seaton, Foster Mahood, Gordon Pingree and Frank Nelson.

No Longer Fits Image Of Engineer

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — The engineering student, damned by campus militants and praised by indignant taxpayer as the last level-headed clean-shaven survivor of traditional student life, no longer quite fits his stereotype.

Admittedly, the average student engineer still displays a tendency toward haircuts, shoes, and even an occasional necktie, but — in increasing numbers — he also comes equipped with an active social conscience.

So believes Associate Dean Alfred C. Ingersoll of the UCLA School of Engineering and Applied Science, on the basis of his close observation of campus life over two decades.

As an educated guess, Dean Ingersoll believes that the percentage of "socially concerned" engineering students has tripled over the past decade, from roughly 10 per cent of the total in 1961 to about 30 per cent today.

Among many such students, especially on the graduate level, good pay, security, and other material rewards are no longer the primary lures in considering a job.

"Many students will take a lower salary in return for 'psychic rewards' — the chance to tackle work that will lead to building a better society," he says.

No Real School Fund Assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's $3 billion revenue-sharing plan for education would redefine the foggy federal role in the area but critics see little hope that it would ease financial pressures on the nation's elementary and high schools.

Nixon told Congress his proposal would establish "an appropriate federal role in elementary and secondary education" and provide a "bold new approach ... to meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

The plan would consolidate 33 grant programs into five packages and give states more authority in spending the money, including about $200 million new funds.

But of more immediate concern to parents and school authorities is a crisis of finances threatening the very existence of education in some communities.

"Countless Ohio school districts in very severe financial difficulty," said a telegram to the National Education Association (NEA) from its Ohio affiliate. "Last year only 29 per cent of all new operating tax levies for schools were approved by voters. This contrasts to 99 per cent in 1950."

Dayton city schools expect to end this calendar year $14.2 million in the red. Cincinnati schools face a $4 million deficit. Even the affluent, fast-growing Dayton suburb of Kettering is taking steps to close two school buildings and transfer their pupils to other buildings.

"In excess of 100 Ohio school districts out of 631 total could be considered to be in critical financial bind," the telegram added. "We believe Ohio to be on the brink of a total collapse of its public school system unless legislature responds with vast increase in state aid."

Other telegrams and letters pouring into NEA headquarters in response to a survey tell a similar story.

From Tacoma, Wash.—"Clover Park School District No. 400 reduced its certificated staff by nearly 100 teachers, dropped all teacher aides, dropped specialized classes in languages, math ... curtailed maintenance programs to a level that borders on irresponsibility, allowing buildings to deteriorate seriously."

From Topeka, Kan.—"Kansas education picture bleak. Sample from 311 (school) districts shows 20.8 per cent reduced staffs for 1970-71 ... teacher salaries skidding downward ... organized tax protest groups statewide defeating bond elections."

From Boise, Idaho—"Our teachers are restless. One thousand showed for an emergency delegate assembly in the capital city ... many taxpayer groups springing up and organizing to resist taxes."

From Denver, Colo.—"At least 80 per cent of Colorado school districts will have to increase property taxes next year unless state support is increased by the 1971 legislature ..."

From Santa Barbara, Calif.—"A tax defeat has brought a decision to lay off 300 teachers beginning in May."

From Michigan —"Detroit ... dismissing 192 emergency substitutes in regular positions which will further increase already impossible class loads ... Lincoln Park having to get special permission from the State Board of Education to run half-day classes."

From Connecticut —"The Hartford Board of Education has cut back $4 million."

From Indianapolis, Ind.—A state representative was quoted as saying during a legislative debate, "hatred for education is in the air in this house."

U. S. Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. told UPI he sees no letup in the problem and said that "school systems are in for a continuing period of belt tightening."

"I think that the conditions, severe as they are, are such that we can sustain the schools over the next two or three years during a time of reappraisal of federal priorities and the realignment of budgets."

When the President unveiled his revenue-sharing plan for education, Elliott L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, was asked if Nixon's proposal would help ease the situation.

"It is not so designed," he replied, "and I do not believe it can honestly be represented as succeeding in that purpose."

Richardson did say that the administration's general revenue-sharing program, which is in addition to the change in the present system of grants, would make another $2 billion available for schools "and that would have significant impact."

Congress is cool to the idea of revenue sharing in general, however, and chances for approval of the plan are not considered good.

The federal share of the nation's public elementary and high school bill is nearly $3 billion but even so this is less than 7 per cent of total education outlays. State and local governments provide the rest of the $42 billion annual cost.

Education Commissioner Marland thinks the federal share should be 25 per cent or more. So did his predecessor, James E. Allen Jr., who unsuccessfully fought for that goal within the administration.

The 1.1 million teacher-member NEA thinks the federal government should put up one-third of the cost of education.

"Only the federal government is capable of coming up with sums of the magnitude needed," NEA President Mrs. Helen Bain told UPI. "And since our whole nation is a beneficiary of our education system, this increased responsibility would not be misplaced."

Both Marland and Mrs. Bain agree that the present heavy reliance on real estate taxes to support schools must change. Mrs. Bain wants "redistricting to provide broader tax bases." Marland said the tax base "must more and more move to the state and federal levels."

The first federal role in education, in 1787, involved land grants to the states, which specified that sections of land be set aside for schools. Money came much later. The starting point generally is considered to be passage in 1950 of the Impacted Areas Program. Many schools were having trouble assimilating the children of servicemen and workers from nearby federal installations, and Congress moved to help them meet these added financial burdens.

When the Russian Sputnik rose high in the skies, and shocked Americans began demanding space-age scientists, Congress moved again and voted federal support of scientific studies. With scientists assured, the government could turn to children—poor children, black children from rotting slum buildings and white children from rural shacks. Children who fail. Children who can't read. Children who quit school early.

Then, Lyndon B. Johnson, a former teacher, became president and the landmark Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA) was passed by a Congress.

MRS. JOHN RAMSEY
Headed citizens committee

The Forces Behind The New Library

Mrs. John Ramsey, mother, Cub Scout den mother, member of St. Patrick's Women's Club, and Fourth of July float builder, early in 1968 became 1968 chairman of a nine-member citizens committee to study library services in the Lower Ross Valley.

After a four-month study the group, including Corte Maderans Mesdames John Conkle, Howard Allan, Alfred Kraeger and Joseph Wallace, presented to Marin County Board of Supervisors a master plan calling for the new concept of a regional library system.

Through this regionalization, Corte Madera qualified as the site of the Southern Marin branch, thus acquiring a library 10 times the size of the present one located at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

With approval granted, the five Corte Madera committee members became citizen advisors charged — with guidance by former Town manager Ronald Usher — with locating a building site in Corte Madera, and with supervising the planning and building stages.

The last hurdle — an appropriate site — was cleared when the wooded hillside property owned by the late Fred Sanford was offered for sale. The decision to accept it was immediate, for the beautiful location was also close to the highway and to public transportation.

In the spring of 1970, architect Neil Smith and Associates presented a library design which showed careful planning to obtain the park-like atmosphere of the property.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies in November were individuals representing the citizenry, the committee, town, county, and business community — all of whom had cooperated in the completion of an important project.

Chairman For July 4th

The fifth annual Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July Celebration Committee has as its 1971 chairman, G. M. (Tom) Thomason, manager of Corte Madera branch, Bank of America, and first vice president of Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

With Albert E. Kogler acting in his fifth year as parade marshall, tentative plans include a Twin Cities Old Time Picnic on Saturday, July 3, in Corte Madera Town Park with a firemen's water battle, horseshoe contest between councils of both towns, and a band concert.

Activities scheduled for Sunday, July 4th, are the Art and Craft Show, Optimist Club Pancake Breakfast, Lions Club spaghetti dinner, concerts by the Terra Linda Sanitary District Non-Marching Band and Richard Slusher's "Adults Only" Band, cable car transportation, parade, and fireworks.

Assisting Thomason are Louis Malvino, Edward Saunders, Mrs. Henrietta Patton, Mrs. Shirley Walker, Mrs. Jacqueline Branch, Frank Bigley, Walter Nagel, Jack Sutherland and Mrs. Barbara Packard.

AMERICAN PLEAS REBUFFED

This letter sent by Mrs. John C. Duke of San Rafael to North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy at the Paris Peace Talks was returned to her yesterday unopened. Mrs. Duke said she had written asking that American prisoners of war be released and that she was moved to do so by the pleas of wives of prisoners. United Press International said today that all such letters from Americans are being sent back by the Paris post office at the request of the North Vietnamese and that the French postmaster has complained of the burden on his office. "I feel quite rebuffed," Mrs. Duke said.

A Major Break In Disarmament Talks

Nixon Says Impasse On Offensive Arms Solved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon announced today a major breakthrough in the disarmament talks with the Soviet Union —an agreement that the two sides will try to negotiate curbs on both offensive and defensive missiles.

In a brief statement carried live on radio and television, Nixon said if the effort succeeds, "today may be remembered as the beginning of a new era in which all nations may devote more of their energies not to war but to the works of peace."

In the view of White House sources, some form of agreement might be reached this year. Nixon, in his announcement, did not use the word "simultaneous" to describe the talks on defensive and offensive weapons but officials were inclined to believe this would be the case.

It was the first significant development in the SALT (strategic arms limitation treaty) talks which have been going on for more than a year and a half.

Previously, the Soviet Union had insisted the talks —for the present at least —be confined to defensive weapons. The United States wanted both offensive and defensive missiles on the agenda.

The agreement, announced in both Washington and Moscow, represents "a major step in breaking the stalemate on the nuclear arms talks," the President declared.

The step means that Soviet and U.S. negotiators will try to work out a pact to curb their defensive weapons such as antiballistic missiles (ABM) and offensive missiles such as MIRV (for multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles).

Nixon cautioned that "intensive negotiations ... will be required to translate this understanding into a concrete agreement."

He noted however that the ageement involved acceptance by the two governments "at the highest levels" and said negotiations will "be actively pursued."

Nixon's broadcast appearance lasted only about three minutes. He first read this formal statement:

"The governments of the United States and the Soviet Union, after reviewing the course of their talks on limitation of strategic armaments, have agreed to concentrate this year on working out an agreement for the limitation of the deployment of antimissile ballistic systems.

"They have also agreed that, together with concluding an agreement to limiting ABMs, they will agree on certain measures with respect to the limitation of offensive strategic weapons.

"The two sides are taking this course in the conviction that it will create more favorable conditions for further negotiations to limit all strategic arms. These negotiations will be actively pursued."

After making the formal announcement, Nixon said:

"If we succeed, this joint statement that is being issued today may be remembered as the beginning of a new era in which all nations may devote

Kidnappers' Execution Time Passes

ISTANBUL (UPI)—The deadline his captors had set for his execution came and went today with no word of the fate of kidnaped Israeli diplomat Ephraim Elrom. The Turkish government remained adamant in its refusal to give in to the abductors.

The "Turkish People's Liberation Army" said it was responsible for abducting the 59-year old consul-general from his Istanbul apartment Monday and added it would shoot him to death if all "revolutionary guerrillas" were not released from Turkish prisons by 5 p.m (8 a.m.PDT) today.

Deputy Premier Sadi Kocas said the government would "not bargain with hooligans.

"We don't fear they will kill the Israeli diplomat," he said.

More than 1,000 policemen and military troops searched for the kidnapers' hideout.

Political sources said they believed the abductors would free Elrom and flee as was done in two previous kidnap cases this year.

Police officials appeared confident they soon would capture the kidnapers.

Istanbul police chief Muzaffer Caglar said "the net around them is tightening." Ilgiz Aykutlu, chief of Istanbul's political police, said "we are nearing the end of this affair."
ever, authorities imposed a news blackout on most details of the hunt following the arrest Tuesday of one of Elrom's alleged abductors, identified by police as a former university student named Ayhan Yalin. One report said he was turned in by his father.

Oxnard Beaches Put On Disaster List

The Ventura County coastal area was damaged by extremely high tides and wind-driven waves on April 23.

Has Stepped Up Fight On Drugs Paid Off?

By MICHAEL WIDMER
United Press International
(Second of two articles)

The country has responded to the drug problem with a bewildering variety of federal, state and local programs and nobody knows which are working and which are not.

By some standards, the results are encouraging. For example, drug arrests and seizures have skyrocketed; the number of addicts receiving treatment has risen; and drug education courses and materials now reach countless schoolchildren and adults.

The trouble is that most of these efforts appear to have had little impact so far on drug traffic or use among the young, a nationwide survey by UPI indicates.

The number of addicts overall is still on the increase.

Virtually no one, for instance, claims that a decline in drug use on college campuses is the result of a decline in the availability of drugs. If anything, most drugs are easier to obtain now than three years ago.

One of the most extensive community-wide drug education efforts in the nation took place in San Francisco in February. For the entire month, KQED-TV, the local public broadcasting station, carried daily prime-time programs on the drug problem. They included interviews with experts, teachers, ministers, ex-addicts, students, Timothy Leary, Huey Newton, Eldridge Cleaver and representatives of many other organizations.

Commercial stations helped promote the effort and it was estimated that 500 community groups watched the programs each night.

Mel Wax, public affairs director at KQED, said the station "received an enormous amount of mail but I couldn't guess whether in the long run it did any good."

The same uncertainty surrounds drug education in the nation's schools, where the major community efforts have been directed.

"We're funding a whole lot of educational experts, getting them to design drug education programs for us," said Milton L. Luger, director of the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission for New York State. "You ought to see the broad spectrum of approaches. They don't know which approach is really effective."

Some schools invite police officers to lecture students on the dangers of drug use. Others simply include "drug facts" in health classes. Others try to deal with the subtleties of drug use and abuse in the United States and in all societies in recorded history.

An example of the more sophisticated approach is in Rochester, Mich., an affluent suburb of Detroit, which has just set up a pilot project in Hamlin Elementary School.

At the kindergarten level, children are given a general health course on physical fitness and nutrition and introduced to common poisonous plants and household chemicals and compounds. By the eighth grade, they study the history of drugs and the social symptoms of drug misuse.

It is too early to say whether such a program can be successful in its avowed aim of teaching youngsters the dangers of playing around with drugs. The nature of the program suggests it is a long-term one with any meaningful results not expected for years.

"I don't think any town has a drug education program that is meeting the problem," said Robert Morgan, who directs a program in the Bedford, Mass., schools. "Ours is beneficial as a preventative for those who are wavering. But it doesn't convince the person who is already using."

Another response has taken the form of hotlines, drop-in centers, free clinics and self-help residential treatment centers like Synanon, Daytop Lodge and Marathon House.

Self-help is the theme of most of these programs which employ youthful and nonprofessional staffs, often former addicts. There is little evidence to indicate what kind of person profits from which type of program, if any.

"Drug treatment and prevention programs in New York City are a bewildering array," says a report of the city's Addiction Services Agency.

"The field is in a great state of confusion," said Dr. Victor A. Gelineau, research director for the Massachusetts Division of Drug Rehabilitation which helps fund 60 self-help and community based programs. Altogether, there are about twice that number in the state, plus more than 100 hotlines.

Dr. Matthew P. Dumont, head of Massachusetts drug rehabilitation, sees these noninstitutional, self-help programs as "models for new ways to deal with the young, where they may learn important skills such as how to communicate, how to get along with peers and authorities, how to organize, and perhaps most important of all, how to help a fellow human being.

"In many communities they are the only places where adolescents may congregate without being told to move on or buy something," he said. "The traditional adolescent crisis is now perceived in terms of the drug problem. What we are really setting up is a youth center rather than just a drug center.

"As examples of institutions for the young, self-help programs have implications for the primary prevention of drug abuse that may be more profound than any other effort, including the expenditure of millions of dollars on drug

Seale Jury Delayed On Clarification

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—The jury deliberating the murder-conspiracy case against Bobby G. Seale and Mrs. Ericka Huggins today requested clarifications of law before deciding the fate of the two Black Panthers.

Seale, 34, chairman of the Black Panther party, and Mrs. Huggins, 23, a Connecticut Panther leader,are charged with aiding and abetting in the death of Alex Rackley, 24, whose tortured body was found May 21, 1969 in Middlefield. Rackley allegedly turnedpolice informer against the Panthers.

Shortly before the seven white and five black jurors broke for lunch Thursday, a sheriff in the Superior Courthouse reported he heard loud voices from the room where the jurors were deliberating.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey was asked by the jury during the morning to clarify kidnaping and being an accessory to kidnaping, which is part of one of the charges against the defendants.

The judge said that to find someone guilty of being an accessory, the accused must have been more than just "inactively present" and must have done more than just "passively acquiesced" in the crime.

The judge also reread his charge regarding the difference between kidnaping resulting in death, and just kidnapping. Conviction of the first charge could result in the death penalty or life in prison, while the kidnapping alone carries a maximum sentence of 50 years.

The jury also asked for a written list of possible verdicts for Mrs. Huggins and the legal definition of conspiracy. The jurors received the case Wednesday.

The state accuses Seale of ordering Rackley's murder and Mrs. Huggins with taking part in the interrogation and torture before Rackley was shot to death.

House Pronounces SST Dead On Senate Ballot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In the wake of an overwhelming Senate vote against the supersonic transport, the House today gave up any further effort to revive the faster-than-sound plane and formally pronounced the project dead.

"The SST is at the present time dead and cannot reasonably be revived," Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the Appropriations Committee told the House.

Mahon said the House negotiators would go along with the Senate in using $85.3 million in an SST bill to terminate the project rather than to revive it.

The House last week, in a surprise move, agreed to reverse the purpose of the money to keep the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane going rather to pay the Boeing Company for the cost of shutting down the project.

The Nixon administration official heading the SST project suggested today that Boeing itself was partly responsible for the defeat, saying the company had been "reluctant" to help revive the project.

William M. Magruder, director of SST development in the Transportation Department, said that reluctance was demonstrated by a statement made last week by Boeing's chairman, William M. Allen that the cost of reviving the SST program could run as high as $1 billion.

"The only conclusion we could draw from the air frame manufacturer's public speculation on the possible cost was that the company viewed a reinstatement of the SST program with some reluctance" Magruder said in a statement.

Congressional proponents of the SST agreed generally that they lost the fight when Allen made his statement.

The Senate finished off the faint hopes of SST supporters in a 14-hour session that lasted until nearly midnight Wednesday. When the votes were cast, the SST had gone down for the third time this year in the Senate.

On a roll call of 58 to 37, the Senate approved a motion by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to delete $85.3 million for SST development from a supplemental appropriation bill. Both California senators cast votes in support of the amendment.

The funds originally were included in the bill to be used to close out operations on the SST but the House, in a surprise maneuver, amended the language to stipulate further development.

After passing the Proxmire amendment, the Senate then voted to return the $85.3 million to the bill, add another $70.5 million and restrict the total $155.8 million to termination costs for ending the SST.

The House was considering today a motion by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to concur in Wednesday night's Senate action denying further funds for the SST except for $155.8 million to settle the contracts.

This would be used to pay:

The Boeing Co., the developer, $52.1 million; General Electric Co., the engine builder, $33.18 million; airlines that advanced Boeing "risk money" for early research, $58.5 million; the Transportation Department, $12 million.

Under the original $85.3 million, only Boeing and GE would have been paid.

Boeing management said in a statement that despite the Senate rejection of an SST for a third time this year, "this country must have one."

Ironically, it was Boeing itself which virtually killed off any hopes of reviving the 1,800-mile per hour plane. After the House action last week, Boeing estimated it would cost an extra $500 million to $1 billion to start up again and finish work on the two planned prototyes.

Backers of the SST began losing momentum after the Boeing statement.

Reed Trustee Calls For Probe Of $22,000 Foundation Grant

By GEORGE NEVIN

A Reed School District trustee today called for thorough investigation into a $22,000 foundation grant to clear up persistent suspicion of unauthorized travel and credit card expenditures by district officials.

The trustee, Kenneth G. Wells, said that although he has no proof that the expenses were not legitimate, improprieties do exist in expenses charged to a 1966 grant from the Charles F. Kettering Foundation.

The grant, originally $20,000, was awarded to the Marin County Schools office on Dec. 1, 1966, to establish an innovative educational program at Reed's showcase Granada School and to promote these programs in other school districts in California and throughout the nation. Two years later, the foundation added another $2,000 to the grant.

Only an audit or other investigation will determine if officials and trustees misappropriated foundation monies for their own purposes, Wells said, but three other points are known.

First, the contract for the grant was between the foundation and the Marin County Schools office, which was to have administered the program for Reed, but in February 1969 the balance of the fund, which stood at $4,244, was transferred to the Reed district in violation of the contract.

Second, $9,481 was spent for travel and $3,774 for operation of the experimental program, while the contract specified a maximum of $5,500 could be spent for such purposes.

Third, only $8,135 was spent for salaries in connection with the program, while the contract

Computer Men Get Spy Warning

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., appealed to the nation's computer technicians today to help him stop government from labeling people "on the basis of their thoughts."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the American Federation of Information Processing Societies, Ervin said computers and data banks have helped foster "the insatiable curiosity of government to know everything about those it governs."

He urged the several thousand computer programmers and technicians in his audience to prevent the government from going too far.

"If the attitude of the present administration is any indication," he said, "government will make increasing use of computer technology in pursuit of its current claim to an inherent power to investigate lawful activities and to label people on the basis of their thoughts.

"Some of you will help develop such systems ... It falls on your shoulders to make known the restrictions and the limitations of the machines as well as the alternatives for what is proposed. When the political managers ignore or abdicate their responsibility to assure the application of due process of law, then you may have the final say," he added.

By coincidence, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a report in Washington based on an investigation by hie Economy in Government subcommittee which said the federal tovernment now employs 5,277 computer systems — a nine-fold increase in 10 years. He estimated their annual cost at $2.2 billion.

In his Constitutional Rights subcommittee's investigation into spying by Army intelligence, Ervin said, he learned that an analyst was told to categorize people in computers on the basis of scraps of information.

The analyst "had to apply various number combinations which indicated a person's beliefs or status," he said. "For instance 134-259 indicated that a person was a non-Communist, while 135-395 indicated Communist party membership or advocacy of Communism.

"We were told that since many of these persons were young people with no political philosophy and no organized memberships, the analyst had nothing to go on but some political utterances, he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Controversial Aide Faces Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Otto F. Otepka, once fired for breaching State Department security, must convince the U.S. Senate he should keep his $36,000-a-year job on the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB).

Otepka

Indications were that Otepka, first confirmed to the SACB post two years ago after a bitter political wrangle, will face the same opposition and the same charges that he is linked to rightwing causes.

The Americans for Democratic Action, the United Auto Workers, and former Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, were among those lined up with anti-Otepka testimony as a three-man Senate Judiciary Committee panel opened hearings on President Nixon's nomination of Otepka to a full four-year-term.

Decision Reaffirms Court Faith

OPELIKA, Ala. (UPI) — The Deep South's first black sheriff since Reconstruction says his faith in American justice was reaffirmed Wednesday in an Alabama courtroom.

Amerson

Sheriff Lucius Amerson of Tuskegee and his chief deputy, Richard Coleman Jr., also black, were cleared by an all-white federal jury of charges they violated the civil rights of a Negro prisoner by beating him in jail. Their defense counsel included Alabama's white attorney general, William J. Baxley.

Amerson, 37, said the seven-man, five-woman jury, which deliberated an hour and five minutes, consisted of "12 unbiased people." They would have acquitted a white sheriff under similar circumstances, he said.

Steel Wage Hike?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 13.5 per cent wage increase Congress voted this week for railroad signalmen as part of egislation ending the two-day nationwide rail strike may become a target for steelworkers in their contract talks with the steel industry.

Top negotiators for both sides in the steel talks conceded that the rail pay settlement signed into law by President Nixon would have an effect on their negotiations, which appear headed for an August walkout —by 450,000 steel workers.

Union president I. W. Abel indicated he would be glad to settle for an annual ay raise that high for his members, but chief industry negotiator R. Heath Larry said the 13.5 per cent pay raise for one year was "not a very happy outlook"

On Mars Voyage

MOSCOW (UPI)—A five-ton Soviet rocket hurtled through space today on a six-month, unmanned voyage to Mars. It was the Soviets' second expedition to explore the Red Planet.

At Cape Kennedy, America's Martian probe, Mariner, sat on the launch pad, its firing postponed indefinitely for the second time since May 8 for additional tests on a control unit. The United Staes has photographed Mars in three other space missions since 1965.

Both the Soviet and the American rockets were scheduled to complete the 290-million-mile voyage in November.

Sadat On Canal

CAIRO (UPI) —President Anwar Sadat of Egypt declared today that the Suez Canal an be reopened only as part of an overall Middle East peace settlement and that barring this "it would be better to fill it with sand."

Sadt told a cheering national assembly in a speech televised throughout Egypt (and monitored in neighboring countries including Israel) that Egypt's insistence that its troops must occupy both sides of the canal in any settlement is "nonnegotiable."

In an apparent effort to demonstrate that he is as tough as the "hard-liners" whom he jailed after an attempted coup d'etat a week ago, Sadat said the Egyptian army is so keen to fight Israel again that "I can hardly hold them back."

(In Tel Aviv, an Israeli political source said, "It is a tough speech. But I read it as meaning he still wants the Suez Canal opened, but on his terms."

Sea Harassment

Aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Duane (UPI) — An American deepsea lobster boat reported Russian trawlers ran through her gear early today, 24 hours after Russian and American officials held an at-sea conference designed to halt such harassment.

The Pat San Marie, a lobster boat owned by Prelude Corp. of Westport, Mass., reported to the Coast Guard that about 16 small trawlers swept through her gear about 5:45 a.m. EDT 20 miles south of Nantucket Light Ship.

The Coast Guard said the Pat San Marie "gave descriptions of two of the trawlers" and said they saw their names, Curyz and Aeiv.

Dollar Buying Set

BONN (UPI) —Today was Ascension Day, a bank holiday. On Friday the money markets will open and the U.S. dollar is expected to drop nearly six per cent off its former value in West Germany.

This would put the Bonn government's seal on an exchange rate that has been a fact of life in Western Europe ever since the dollar ciris of earlier this month.

But when Friday comes and th West German central bank starts selling some of its $17 billion in American dollars at a new low rate, speculators will make millions.

9 Jews Convicted In USSR

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Leningrad court today found nine Jews guilty of illegal Zionist activities that included conspiring to hijack a plane and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from one to 10 years, Jewish sources said.

The three-man collegium combining the functions of judge and jury handed down its judgments after one day of deliberation following the 10-day-old trial.

This completed another phase in Soviet prosecution of more than 30 Jews or Zionists sympathizers arrested in June 1970. Twelve persons were sentenced previously to prison for attempting to hijack an airplane at Leningrad in a bid to flee the country.

The court today sentenced Hillel Butman to 10 years imprisonment and Mikhail Korenblit to seven years, the sources said.

They were singled out in official TASS news agency accounts of the trial as the ringleaders in the early stages of the plotting among Leningrad Zionists to seize an airliner.

The other sentences were:

Five years for Lassal Kaminsky, five for Lev Yagman, four for Vladimir Mogilever, three for Viktor Boguslavsky, three for Solomon Dreizner, three for Lev Korenblit and one for Viktor Shtilbans.

Under Soviet law the sentences can be appealed.

All the sentences wee for "strict regime" in labor camps. They followed exactly what the prosecutor asked except for Mikhail Korenblit and Lassal Kaminsky, who received terms of one year less than requested.

Tass news agency had indicated in its reports the guilty verdicts were a foregone conclusion. West reporters were not allowed to attend the trial.

In its dispatch on Wednesday, Tass said nothing of the verdict to be rendered and neglected to point out that the collegium of one professional judge and two lay jurors had to find the defendants guilty before passing sentence.

Tass referred to the defendants throughout their eight-day trial as "the criminal group."

Specifically, they were accused of having a role in an abortive attempt to take over a Soviet A-2 plane on June 15, 1970, and fly it to Sweden, there to seek asylum and make their way to Israel.

Twelve other persons were tried for the same hijacking plot in November. Two received death sentences, later commuted to 15 years in prison.

Mennonites Help Repair The Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There were no press notices to build advance support for these antiwar activists. They just appeared.

The women wore granny dresses. The men were bearded.

But instead of placards, they carried hammers and saws. And instead of littering, they began to pick up litter.

Seventy Mennonites from the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia came to Washington Tuesday to repair benches ripped apart for firewood by demonstrators and to pick up litter at West Potomac Park, the site of the May Day tribe's camping grounds two weeks ago.

"This is our way of showing we're for peace," one Mennonite said. "We want to be constructive, not destructive."

The 70 workers are members of the Mennonite Disaster Service, a 20-year-old organization that cleans up after tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and other natural disasters.

The Mennonites said they believe in "praying for, obeying and paying" the government.

Phonics will ignite the fire of learning.
Illiteracy will extinguish the flame.

Senate Kills U.S. Troop Cut Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate leader Mike Mansfield, beaten decisively in his bid to cut the U.S. military contingent in Europe by 50 per cent, has pledged to continue his fight to stop the drain of American resources in maintaining the 300,000-man force.

After a long day of debate, the Senate Wednesday night defeated the Mansfield proposal 61-36. It was a victory for President Nixon, who received the support of former Democratic Presidents, Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman, in opposing the move.

Mansfield said after the vote he had "no regrets, no apologies, no alibis." He said he felt he had achieved a victory by bringing the issue to the Senate floor and that he would raise the matter again once the impact of the debate sinks in.

"The vote doesn't represent the concern and uneasiness of a sizeable majority of the Senate," the Montana Democrat said.

Speaking to packed galleries, Mansfield said the issue of keeping a large American force in Europe a quarter century after the end of World War II "will not be hidden under a shroud forever, not from this week on."

Mansfield argued the United States faces "not only the possibility of an indeterminate stay ... but maybe a permanent stay" in Europe. He said the Nixon administration had given "not one hint of understanding" of the problem.

It defeated 68 to 29 an amendment by Rep. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., which would have required the President to come to Congress for authorization to keep in excess of 150,000 troops in Europe after Dec. 31.

Another amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, which would have required the withdrawal of only 50,000 troops in Europe rather than the 150,000 proposed by Mansfield, was defeated 81 to 15.

The Senate defeated 63 to 26 a proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., for a phased withdrawal. B

Still another amendment by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, RMd., which would have requested Nixon to negotiate with European allies on reducing the U.S. contribution to the NATO garrison and report back to Congress by Septemer, failed 73 to 24.

Fierce Battles In Two Valley Areas

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops battled dug-in North Vietnamese at both ends of the A Shau Valley today supported by U.S. helicopters that came under heavy fire. B52s bombed in neighboring Laos where a Communist offensive rolled on unchecked.

A military spokesman in the Laotian capital of Vientiane said North Vietnamese forces launched a 12-hour rocket and mortar attack which drove Laotian government forces out of Houei Kong, last government outpost on the strategic Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos.

New fighting flared in Cambodia where the government, balked in its efforts to keep Route 4 open to the port of Kampong Som, began a new drive southward on Route 3. Route 3, east of Route 4, is longer but Phnom Penh needs the supplies funneled through the big port. A Phnom Penh dispatch said 1,800 peasants abandoned their homes in the path of the government drive.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from a firebase overlooking the valey in the northern part of South Vietnam that ARVN troops killed 38 North Vietnamese in the bitterest fight of the campaign to drive Communists from bunkered strongholds.

That battle was at the southeastern end of the 35-mile-long valley. It began in darkness Wednesday night, raged until 3 a.m. today then picked up at dawn when the South Vietnamese launced a second attack. By the end of the day they had overrun 26 bunkers, captured 10 buildings and a Russian-built truck.

Another battle was reported at the northeastern end of the valley, which is 375 miles north of Saigon. There the 54th ARVN regiment fought for eight hours, killing five of the dug in enemy. ARVN casualties were reported light.

In southern Laos the military situation grew more serious by the minute and the North Vietnamese were reported consolidating their hold on the entire Bolovens Plateau—a drive that in effect widened the Ho Chi Minh Trail complex of supply lines to Cambodia and southern Vietnam.

Activist Jailed; Refuses To Talk

SEATTLE (UPI) —Leslie Bacon was jailed for contempt Wednesday when she defiantly refused to answer federal grand jury questions about the bombing of the U.S. Capitol and the May Day demonstrations in Washington, D.C.

As she was spirited off to a city jail cell, her attorneys said they would appeal.

The blonde antiwar activist had been granted a limited immunity from prosecution, but spurned the legal shield when asked 18 questions about radical activities before the grand jury.

The 19-year-old Atherton, Calif., girl was sentenced by Federal Judge William Goodwin to a jail term not to exceed the present grand jury term, which ends in February.

Goodwin ruled if she decides to cooperate with the grand jury investigation, the contempt sentence would be terminated.

"I have no intention of answering those questions," Miss Bacon said in court.

The buxom blonde said the government has "paranoid fantasies" of conspiracies and is trying "to frame innocent people."

Miss Bacon and her attorneys said she had already answered most of the questions put to her in the grand jury session Wednesday.

"She doesn't know what they are talking about when they ask about the bombing and she's told them so," an attorney said.

Nixon's Pot Views Raised Before Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Commission on Marijuana and Drug abuse, ordered to report next spring to President Nixon and Congress on the effectiveness of marijuana laws, will not necessarily be swayed by the President's opposition to legalizing "pot."

"Insofar as the statement by the President, he is entitled to his opinion just as any citizen of the United States is," former Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said as the panel wound up its hearings Wednesday.

The hearings produced an assortment of views on marijuana, ranging from suggestions that it be licensed and sold over the counter to reports of bizarre effects and potential escalation to harder drugs that suggested tighter controls.

The panel' next public hearings will be in San Francisco June 14 to 16 and Chicago Aug. 23 to 25.

Nixon, who appointed nine of the 13 members including Shafer and the vice chairman, told a May 1 news conference: "Even if the commission does recommend that it (marijuana) be legalized, I will not follow that recommendation."

The panel was formed by Congress to study both marijuana and drug abuse in general and to make recommendations on each.

"We know the President is just as concerned about the problem as you are," Shafer told the skeptical witness, Dr. Lester Grinspoon of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston. "He is a fair minded person."

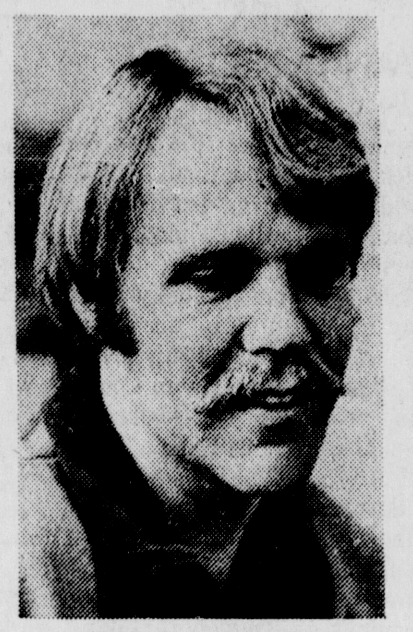
RAP SESSION

Youth Leader Sees Need Of 'Third Ears'

By GEORGE NEVIN
(22nd in a series of 24 raps)



JOHN G. ANDERSON
'There's a God-shaped vacuum.'
(Independent-Journal photo)

Narrowing the divide separating youths from adults demands a lot of effort and understanding, but the situation needs more "third ears."

This is the feeling of John G. (Yohann) Anderson, area director of Young Life in Marin, an organization seeking to bring high school youth and adults together.

At 33, Anderson, called "Yo" by his young friends, is on the adult side of the temporal line. But he considers himself "an intermediary — a third ear — who can help parents relate to kids."

Why a third ear? Parents listen with one ear, he said, and their children with another. The truth lies in between, and it's the third ears who will help find it and point it out to young and old.

Anderson, who wears his blond hair collar-length, sports a bushy mustache and drives a camper van, has been a Young Life staffer six years. He joined the organization in Southern California, where he was a high school teacher, and has been in Marin since October setting up programs at four high schools.

As far as he's concerned, "the generation gap has always existed, but we're in a different ball game today. Kids used to get in trouble by stealing a horse and buggy, but today they can take a car a lot farther."

Basic conflicts between young and old are more serious today, he said, not because they're different but because "kids today can destroy themselves faster. The tools of expression are that much more powerful."

Part of Anderson's work consists of training adults to work with youths in Young Life. "The most important thing is that they learn to be an adult ear rather than an adult mouth," he said.

The focus of Young Life is on communication. A brochure printed by the organization quotes author Philip Wylie: "The fundamental complaint of young Americans . . . does not refer to the hypocricies, lies, errors, blunders and problems they have inherited. It is, instead, this: that they cannot talk with grown people. Their efforts to communicate with us are invariably and completely squelched."

Anderson agrees: "The generation gap is mostly a communication gap. To narrow it, adults have to establish contact — literally — with youths."

He feels physical closeness helps break down the barriers keeping age groups apart. "We try to teach our adult volunteers to slap kids on the back, shake hands, punch them lightly — anything to set up physical contact."

The current generation of young people is searching for the answers just like past generations, he said. "Young Life tries to help by making them see what it is they're looking for. We believe they need to fill a vacuum inside — a God-shaped vacuum."

Since it's hard to relate to a concept like God on a personal basis, Young Life emphasizes establishing a rapport with Jesus Christ. "Everyone, even an atheist, needs to have something to worship, to look up to. The ultimate relationship is with Christ," Anderson said.

In working with youths, Anderson said he tries to keep one thing in mind: "Scratch them where they itch."

Today's youths itch to know what their lives lack and how to fill that lack, and they itch to establish meaningful relationships with others, said Anderson.

Lack of communication separates the age groups, but so does fear, Anderson said.

"Most adults are afraid of young people, just plain scared," he said. "That's why parents use the authoritarian approach, but this just tends to polarize both sides."

Some youths are trying to tear down American institutions, he said, but he believes the institutions are sound.

"We need changes in attitude. The people manning positions of leadership need to be changed. We could change institutions and put the same type of people in charge of the new ones and still have the same problems."

Ultimately, he said, the solution to the problem rests with each person. "Concern must start with each individual. If adults could stop seeing the trappings of you — long hair and wild clothes — and look into the heart of each individual, something significant would happen."

Marinwood Asks Fire Protection From County

Marinwood wants the Marin County fire station at the county farm in Lucas Valley reopened for the 1971 fire season.

Donald A. Duerr, chairman of the board of directors of Marinwood Community Services District, requested the service yesterday in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The fire station at the county farm was closed last October when the 1970 fire season ended.

Duerr cited "numerous fires in the hills surrounding Marinwood and upper Lucas Valley, which have endangered homes in this valley."

He said Marinwood has adequate fire protection for structures but is not equipped to handle large watershed fires.

Chrysanthemum Sale Saturday

More than 2,000 plants of 200 varieties of chrysanthemums will be on sale Saturday at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank at Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael.

The sale, sponsored by the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin will start at 9 a.m. Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance the society's annual show in October in San Rafael, said publicity Chairman Peg Keener.

Many rare and unusual varieties as well as new introduction species will be for sale, she said.

Novato Flood Work Pact Closer Now

The Novato Creek Flood Control District has indicated it is willing to enter into a joint powers agreement with the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District for improvements along Novato Creek, according to Betty L. Zoeller, district secretary.

The district is planning a dredging project for navigational purposes, and the flood control district is planning flood control work along the lower creek.

About 75 residents attended a special meeting on dredging Tuesday night, and Lewis E. Fredrickson, assistant flood control engineer for Marin County, indicated a joint powers agreement would be possible, Mrs. Zoeller said.

Some residents at the meeting advocated immediate dredging, but district directors held fast to their program to check all possible methods and financing before proceeding, Mrs. Zoeller said.

Fredrickson said yesterday that there is a possibility that there would be areas of work where the two district could share the costs. For example, he said, if dredging for flood control is in an area where it also is needed for navigation.

11 Killed In A Bus Plunge

SAN MIGUEL DE LUENS, Spain (UPI)—A bus carrying Italian veterans and widows of the Spanish Civil War went off a mountain road Wednesday and fell 120 feet, police said today.

Police said 11 persons, six of them women, were killed and 21 persons injured, nine of them seriously. The bus had 36 passengers, most of them in their 60s or 70s.

The Spanish army bus was carying the party to lay wreaths at a monument to the Italians killed in the 1930s war near the Atlantic seaport of Santander.

Bids Called For New Creek Bridge

The state Division of Highways has called for bids June 16 in Sacramento to replace the narrow bridge over Tolay Creek on Highway 37, just west of the junction with Highway 121, Sonoma County.

A total of $135,000 has been appropriated for the new, 42-foot-wide bridge.

10 Sentenced On Drunken Driving

Ten persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced last Friday by Judge David Menary Jr. were:

Charles James Power, 44, of San Francisco, arrested Oct. 7 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year, fined $250 and ordered to jail for 15 days.

Fred Hugo Peters, 46, of Santa Rosa, arrested Aug. 22, in Sausalito, who was placed on probation for six months and ordered to work 80 hours at the Hanna Boys Center in Sonoma.

Leo Thomas Cronin, 41, of 12 San Gabriel Court, Fairfax, arrested Dec. 30 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $360.

Sentenced Monday by Judge Menary were:

Earl Leslie Kemp, 55, of 256 Los Angeles Boulevard, San Anselmo, arrested April 29 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months, fined $302 and ordered to jail for five days.

Harry Edward Linder, 44, of 10 Fern Way, Kentfield, arrested March 24 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $182.

Jarrett William Bradley, 30, of Santa Rosa, arrested May 6 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $150.

Peter Anthony O'Shea, 44, of San Francisco, arrested May 14 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $211.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Sarah Elizabeth Brunetti, 56, of 657 McClay Road, Novato, arrested Dec. 3 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $150 fine or serve four days in jail.

Katherine Keyes Winburn, 36, of 70 Spindrift, Passage, Corte Madera, arrested Dec. 15 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $200 fine or serve four days in jail.

William Alexander Romack, 49, of 2575 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 6, Fairfax, arrested April 30 in San Rafael, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Nomination Of Nixon Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Donald W. Riegle, R-Mich., one of the leaders of the "Dump Nixon" movement, says there is only a 50-50 chance President Nixon will be the GOP nominee in 1972.

"If Nixon continues the policies of the last two years during the next two years, he is no going to be re-elected," Riegle said Wednesday. He also said there is a distinct possibility Nixon will not seek a second term.

Has Stepped Up Fight On Drugs Paid Off?

education curricula in schools systems which otherwise do violence to young minds," Dumont said.

Despite dramatic increases in the number of addicts under treatment—either in residential centers or methadone maintenance clinics—most addicts are not involved in rehabilitation programs, and those who are often end up back on drugs.

Dr. Robert DuPont of the Washington, D.R., Narcotic Treatment Administration said only about 3,500 of the city's 16,000 addicts are under regulated treatment. According to a recent survey by the New York Daily News, 22,000 of the city's more than 100,000 addicts are involved in some sort of rehabilitation program.

Dr. George Gay, director of the Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic, believes the San Francisco Bay area has a minimum of 15,000 heroin addicts—a several-fold increase over two or three years ago, he says.

Estimates of heroin addiction in the United States now range up to 500,000 persons. But that still doesn't begin to compare with the 6 million Americans who are addicted to alcohol. And there are countless others hooked on legal drugs.

Experts are unanimous in pointing to "a pilltaking socIety" as one explanation for drug use and abuse among the young.

An estimated 13 billion amphetamine and barbiturate tablets are produced by pharmaceutical companies in this country each year—and about half find their way into illicit channels, according to Matthew Dumont.

"Such tremendous production makes easy the diversion of large supplies into improper channels of trade," said Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Even the 50 per cent that are prescribed legally are enough "to provide every man, woman and child in the country with a month's supply," Dumont said. "Most of them were unnecessarily prescribed."

"The pharmaceutical industry is redefining and relabeling as medical problems calling for drug intervention a wide range of human behaviors which, in the past, have been viewed as falling within the bounds of the normal trials and tribulations of human existence," say four doctors in a recently published book, "Mystification and Drug Misuse."

"The drugs do not, however, reach the source of the anxiety or misery and do not remedy the unfavorable social and interpersonal arrangements and personal circumstances which generate anxiety or unhappiness," they said.

"To decry the use and misuse of drugs by young people while paying so little attention to the growing use and misuse of psychoactive agents in general, both those prescribed by physicians and those obtained over the counter without prescription, is highly misleading and unproductive," they said.

"Drug use, like war, is not a medical problem but a social, political and economic one."

Despite these constant temptations to try drugs and their easy availability, there are some signs that drug experimentation among precollege youth may soon level off as it apparently already has on most college campuses.

Experts unanimously point to the factor of "peer group pressure" —the youth subculture—as one of the strongest inducements to drug use by adolescents. Many observers say this factor may now be working in favor of less drug experimentation.

"I think there's a peaking out of the rate of drug use generally," said Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago and a nationally recognized expert on drug use. "The excitement and novelty is diminishing. With wider experimentation, there is also a growing know-how and less glamor."

Studies of seven high schools in Fullerton, Calif. (Orange County) show that marijuana smoking and drug taking in general no longer give the status they once did.

Drugs like LSD which were a central part of the psychedelic revolution a few years ago are now passe in many circles, especially as young groups find other outlets in their search for life styles.

People are turning away from psychedelics, said Thomas Stachnik, director of the Governor's Office on Drug Abuse in Pennsylvania. "There's a fairly strong movement among young people in terms of getting back to the earth, keeping your body pure, growing organic food."

One police official in Farmington, N.M., credited the "Jesus freaks" movement—which now has groups all over the country—with helping his community's drug problem. "It consists of a bunch of ex-drug addicts, hippies, carrying the Bible and going around preaching the word that the only real answer is The Lord," he said. "We've had some of our local weed-heads joining their movement."

Black groups in many cities have formed self-help collectives which stress political commitment and action as the means to "kick drugs."

One of the most important and as yet unanswered questions is whether the youngest among the drug takers will follow the example of older youth and seek other harmless outlets for pleasure and status.

But even were this to happen, there would undoubtedly still be thousands of youths turning on to drugs because their lives have become so desperate or void.

This suggests that the only legitimate way to deal with the drug problem is not to see it as a special "problem" or "crisis" but to understand what social, political and economic conditions prompt millions of young persons to turn to drugs.

"Drugs are related to social conditions and there have always been fluctuations in its use," said Richard Hawlzins, who works at The Creative Learning Group, a drug education organization in Cambridge, Mass. "But drug use in some form will be with us as long as people can grow plants and synthesize chemicals."

Appeal On Contempt Of Court Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An appeal by three labor leaders and San Francisco Typographical Union 21 — found in contempt of court in January for the riotous demonstration at the Independent-Journal last Valentine's day — was denied yesterday by the California District Court of Appeal.

According to attorney Nathan R. Berke, the petition for writ of review was turned down without comment by presiding justice John B. Molinari.

The petition was filed last month by the union; its president, Leon Olson; its vice president, Donald H. Abrams, and Jack Goldberger, president of Periodical Drivers and Helpers Local 921.

All were found in contempt Jan. 26 by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court for violating his injunction limiting picketing at the I-J, preventing violence or threats of violence to the paper, its employees or customers and preventing damage or destruction of I-J property or property of I-J employees.

Keating found that the union and the three officials urged thousands of labor supporters to come to San Rafael last February for the massive demonstration. He ruled the union and men had "engaged in combination and in concerted activity with each other and with others to violate the preliminary injunction."

The officials were fined and sentenced to 15 days in county jail each. The union and Olson and Goldberger were fined $1,500 apiece and Abrams $750.

Had their appeal been heard and upheld it would have only affected the fines, said Berke, who represents the I-J.

He said the men had waved their right to appeal the jail sentences when they asked to be allowed to serve them before appeal.

Yesterday's decision by Judge Molinari means the union and officials must either pay the fines or pursue the appeal procedure to the California Supreme Court.

The union has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 of last year.

News Is Good On Phosphate Detergents

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A student who heads the UCLA Associated Students Office of Environmental Studies says most Americans can use phospate detergents without harming the environment.

Paul Silver, a junior, said current studies indicated that phospates dumped directly into the Pacific Ocean "are so thoroughly diluted and the ocean is so rich in phosphorous that they are harmless to marine life."

He said the pollution danger from phosphate detergents "is not as great as it might appear to be" since 60 per cent of the people in the United States live along the seacoasts and another 25 per cent have their waste discharged directly into the ground.

Silver said phosphates are dangerous only when dumped "into certain confined rivers or lakes.

Soprano Awarded Contest Grant

Soprano Sharon de Fremery of San Anselmo has been awarded a grant from the International Institute of Education to compete in international vocal competitions in Geneva and Munich this fall.

Mrs. de Fremery, whose husband, Phillip, is a classical guitarist, has sung operatic leads at Dominican College of San Rafael and at Sigmund Stern Grove with the San Francisco Opera's Merola program.

Both musicians are graduates of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and were artists in residence at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo last fall.

Two Reports Of Missing Checks

Two persons living in apartments at 129 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, told police that they have missed checks from the mail over the past two or three months, police reported today.

Terry L. Gibson of Apt. 5, reported the loss of one personal check of $455 and his income tax refund, no amount given.

Michael M. Toomey of Apt. 7 reported the loss of six unemployment checks, totaling $342, from the State of Rhode Island, according to police.

Injuries Minor In Cycle-Auto Crash

Edward Randolph Cox, 20, of 60 San Felipe Way, Novato, suffered scrapes of his right leg in a car-motorcycle accident yesterday at First Street and Grant Avenue, Novato, police reported today.

Cox's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Frances F. Morton, 58, of 2066 Feliz Drive, Novato, at 5:49 p.m., officers said. He refused medical treatment.

Electrical Rate Hike Is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Wednesday asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a 1.6 per cent increase in its electricity rates, or $12 million annually, to cover increased prices in gas used for generating electricity.

John S. Cooper, PG&E attorney, said if the hike was not granted, the company's return on investment in the electric division "will drop from 7.5 per cent to 6.28 per cent—well below the figure of 7.5 per cent found fair and reasonable by the commission just a few months ago."

Hearing examiner William Cline took the case under submission.

Juvenile Court Due Theft Case

The case of Barbara Lynn Stephens, 18, of San Francisco, who is charged with burglary, has been transferred to Marin Juvenile Court.

A codefendant, Randy Turner, 19, also of San Francisco, is to appear in Municipal Court June 15 for a preliminary hearing.

The pair was arrested May 11 when Sausalito police allegedly found them at the home of Philip J. Bailey at 61 Crecienta Drive. A quantity of stereo equipment was found piled by the door of the house, police said.

REED

specified that $16,500 was to be so spent. Wells said Reed paid at least $50,000 in program-related salaries out of its own funds, at least part of which could have come from the $13,255 spent for travel and operation.

What bothers Wells most, he said, is that he is the only trustee anxious to investigate the grant thoroughly. A motion to conduct a thorough audit died for lack of a second at Tuesday's board meeting.

He said he is concerned that the other trustees and the district administrators may attempt to "sweep the whole thing under the rug." Indeed, discussion of the foundation grant was not listed on Tuesday's preliminary agenda which was sent to the Independent-Journal, and Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello did not mention Wells's motion when reporting the meeting to the I-J yesterday.

Wells said he is concerned with numerous expenses charged to the program, which he called the "Granada experiment," but never explained. Some examples: $107 for car rental in Houston, Tex., although "nobody from the district ever went to Houston as part of the program;" undocumented credit card expenditures totalling $1,559, and hundreds of dollars in cash advances with no explanation of where the money went.

"I'm not saying all these expenses are phoney," Wells said, "but they ought to be investigated. This is no way to run a district."

Wells also questioned some 27 trips to all parts of the country by district officials, principals, teachers and a trustee.

While the county schools office was overseeing the fund, Wells said, officials there disallowed several expenses made by district personnel. The sums later were covered by the district from tax money. The total is unknown.

Other examples of wrongdoing also exist, according to Wells who said he hopes to have proof in a week that an employee billed both the foundation grant and another organization for one trip and collected from each.

Wells also is bothered by the fact that the district, as part of the Granada experiment, hired a director of research, Charles L. Jenks, and paid him $15,000 per year in 1967-68 and 1968-69. Although Jenks, under the terms of the contract, was to work solely on the Granada program, only $6,500 of his salary was paid by the grant, leaving district taxpayers to pick up the remaining $23,500.

Wells said several teachers were hired in 1968-69 as part of the program, but their salaries, totalling $25,000, were paid by district funds, not the grant.

"In sum," said Wells, "the Granada experiment has proved very costly to the district."

Although Wells's motion Tuesday was for an audit, he said today the district could investigate the grant itself without spending any money. "All of these people (recipients of questionable expenditures) are still around," he said. "Why can't we just ask them why they did all this travel?"

Without investigation, Wells said, nagging questions will remain forever unanswered.

Stanford Will Shut Off Heart Patient Publicity

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University hospital will no longer routinely give out names of patients undergoing heart transplant operations.

Dr. Eugene Dong, a member of the Stanford heart transplant team, said in making the announcement Wednesday that "we no longer feel that our patients' names can be considered public information. They are entitled to as much privacy as other patients."

84.3 Feet Of Snow This Season

PARADISE LODGE, Wash. (UPI)—Snowfall at Mt. Rainier National Park has bettered its own world mark with 84.3 feet recorded so far this season.

The weather station here recorded a three-inch snowfall earlier this week, bringing the season total to 1,014.5 inches.

The old world record at an official weather station was 1,00.3 inches, set at Paradisa in 1955-56.

Cycle Stolen

Someone took his 1970 model motorcycle valued at $950 between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday, from his carport at 575 Canal Street, Apt. 5, Robert D. Torrey reported to police.

The development in the secret negotiations which have been going on since Nov. 17, 1969, appeared to represent a significant concession by Moscow, which previously had insisted that the initial talks be limited to defensive weapons, such as the ABM system.

Nixon's position has been that both offensive and defensive systems should be negotiated simultaneously.

The SALT talks have been marking time in Vienna since Gerard C. Smith, the chief U.S. negotiator, flew to Washington following the last full U.S.Soviet discussions May 7. Smith conferred with Nixon for half an hour Wednesday.

The current round of the SALT talks had been scheduled to end in Vienna the last week of May, followed by a summer recess.

Nixon cautioned that "intensive negotiation" would be necessary to translate the new Moscow- Washington understanding into a concrete agreement.

U.S. officials expressed limited optimism that some form of agreement in the immensely complicated process of curbing nuclear weapons might now be within reach.

The Presient's remark that the understanding resulted from negotiations involving the highest levels of both governments appeared to indicate he had been in contact with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, but White House officials refused to discuss this aspect.

The White House said Smith would fly back to Vienna Friday to resume talks with the Russians.

The President discussed the understanding in an hour long Cabinet meeting this morning and then met with Congressional leaders of both parties.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the news was "very encouraging."

Mansfield gave "great credit" for progress in the talks to Smith.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who like Mansfield was among 20 congressmen who attended the White House briefing, called the agreement "a most significant foreign policy understanding" but cautioned: "There is still a long road ahead."

Shopping Center Gains In Novato

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night tentatively approved plans for completion of the Novak Shopping Center, southwest of Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue.

Developer H. L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct a series of buildings to house large and small businesses and a movie theater at the 6.94 acre site.

The committee also continued indefinitely review of plans for 50 townhouse units and two single-family units at the south end of Libra Drive, south of Pleasant Valley Unit 4.

Man Indicted On Murder In Novatan's Death

OAKLAND (UPI) —Grand jurors returned a murder indictment Wednesday against Christopher Cowsar, 21, in the stabbing of an Air Force recruiting sergeant.

Cowsar is charged with killing S. Sgt. Rogers D. Mobley Sr., 32, of Novato in a recruiting office at nearby Berkeley.

Witnesses quoted the Berkeley man as shouting that Mobley must die because he sent men to Vietnam.

Innocent Plea In Checks Case

Ruth Eleanore Trombley, 29, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of fraudulently possessing checks.

A pretrial conference was set for next Wednesday.

San Rafael police arrested Mrs. Trombley last Thursday after she allegedly attempted to purchase items valued at $22.67 from a San Rafael drug store with stolen checks.

Astronaut Lovell Will Head Project

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., who has spent more time in space than any other man, today was named deputy director of the Science and Applications Directorate at the Manned Spacecraft Center (MSC).

Lovell has flown numerous Gemini and Apollo missions and commanded the Apollo 13 flight which aborted when an oxygen tank exploded on the way to the moon.

OBITUARIES

Martha Benno Dies At 88

Martha Benno, 88, of 23 Manor Road, Fairfax, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a short illness. She was the widow of Lorenzo Benno.

A native of Switzerland, she had lived in Marin County since 1922. She was a member of the Italian Catholic Federation.

Surviving are two sons, Eugene J. Campini of San Francisco and Americo Campini of Fairfax; a brother, Louis DeFillippio and a sister, Elena Leoni, both of Switzerland, and four grandchildren.

A Mass of Resurrection will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax. Burial will be at Italian Cemetery, Colma. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keatons' Mortuary.

INEZ McDONALD

Inez B. McDonald, 84, retired Petaluma teacher, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

A native of Verango County, Pa., Miss McDonald moved to Ventura County as a child and was educated there. She received her teaching credential from San Diego State College and taught in Southern California schools before moving to Petaluma 50 years ago.

Miss McDonald had taught at the former Philip Sweed School on Keller Street until her retirement in 1952. She had lived at 330 Bodega Avenue until her hospitalization three years ago.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

Her surviving nieces and nephews prefer donations be made to the First Presbyterian Church.

Court Rules In Abortion Question

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has ruled that unmarried women under 21 may obtain therapeutic abortions without parental consent.

The court's 4-3 decision, in the case of a 20-year-old Los Angeles woman, said legal abortions fell under a 1953 law allowing an unmarried minor to consent to "medical surgical care related to her pregnancy."

A dissenting opinion said the therapeutic abortion law was passed 14 years later, and the Legislature did not intend "to confer on girls under the age of 21 the awesome power to extinguish human life."

The ruling meant minor girls can obtain abortions by meeting the same standards applied to other women.

Accident Leads To Felony Count

William Carl Smith, 21, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of felony drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Smith is to plead to the charges June 3.

He was arrested at the home of a friend Saturday after police said he left the scene of an accident at Second and G streets, San Rafael, in which a 17-year-old boy suffered an injured leg.

Club Sponsoring Fishing Session

The Novato Kiwanis Club will sponsor a fishing session for youngsters Saturday at Pioneer Memorial Park starting at 9 a.m. with a stock of 1,000 small trout in the pond.

Youngsters nine and under will fish from 9 to 11 a.m. and those from the ages of 10 through 12, will fish after 11.

MRS. VAN DENBURGH

Funeral for Elizabeth J. Van Denburgh, 67, of 1076 Los Gamos Road, Terra Linda, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

She died unexpectedly Tuesday at a San Francisco hospital. A native of Albany, N.Y., she had lived in Marin County nine years. She had worked as a nurse's aide at Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael.

Surviving are her husband, Albert G. Van Denburgh; a daughter, Grace E. Price of Novato; a brother, William Jennings of Bridgeport, Conn.; two sisters, Grace Mulcare of New Jersey and Mrs. Leotine Daley of Bridgeport; and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Marin Memorial Gardens in Novato.

EZRA SORTH

Ezra N. Sorth, 79, of Novato, a retired carpenter, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

Sorth, a resident of Novato for 17 years, lived at 1106 Ferris Drive.

He had been a resident of California for 41 years and formerly lived in Castro Valley, Alameda County. He was a native of Illinois.

One of his later jobs was working on the Greenbrae Bridge. He was a member of Carpenter's Local 35.

Surviving are his wife, Myrtle, of Novato; three sons, Bill Sorth of Oakland, Mason West of San Anselmo, and Bert Sorth of Yreka, Siskiyou County; five daughters, Martha Heiser of Fair Oaks, Sacramento County; Clara Reish of El Paso, Tex., Rena Mayes of Illinois and Jewell Ross and Ruby Brunner of Novato; and numerous grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato. Burial will be at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

EVA DOHRING

Funeral arrangements for Eva Dohring, formerly of 38 Harcourt Streetn San Rafael were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary. She died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Miss Dohring, 81, was born in San Francisco. She lived there most of her life except for a period of several years when she operated a ski lodge at Emigrant Gap.

She moved to San Rafael at the home of a friend, Mrs. Leslie Grant a year and a half ago.

She has no known survivor.

JAMES KREMER

Private funeral has been held in San Rafael for James G. Kremer, 56, of San Anselmo who died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital following a lengthy illness.

A native of Great Falls, Mont., he came to California 20 years ago and lived with his wife Harriet at 45 Rutherford Avenue in San Anselmo the past four years.

He taught mentally retarded children at Francisco Junior High School in San Francisco until two years ago when cancer forced his early retirement. He had taught at the school for 12 years, and held a master's degree in education from Stanford University. He was a member of the Classroom Teachers Union and the Marin Orchid Society.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a stepson, Michael D. Walker, who resides at the family home; two sisters, Mary Jane Lakey and Shirley Gilliespie of Great Falls, Mont., and two brothers, Robb of Detroit and John of Lewiston, Mont.

The ashes will be taken to Great Falls where they will be scattered.

County Reports Worst Invasion Of Plant-Tree Rust Disease

Central Marin is suffering its worst invasion of the Hawthorn-Juniper Rust since the disease was first discovered in Marin in 1966.

Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard today reminded homeowners, nurseries and landscapers that Tam (Tamariscifolia) Junipers may not be sold, planted or replanted within regulated areas.

The regulated areas extend from Mill Valley and Homestead Valley in the south to Ignacio in the north, and from Fairfax to the Bay.

As of May 10 this year, the season not yet over, 1,139 Tam Junipers have been removed from 88 properties in Mill Valley. More plants will be uprooted in Mill Valley and Corte Madera next week. The worst previous year was in 1968 when 943 junipers were removed from 72 properties. This year's total could double the 1968 figure.

Late spring rains have apparently created ideal weather conditions for the spread of the rust disease, said Assistant Agricultural Commissioner Philip Economon. Heavily infected Tam Junipers and Paul Scarlett Hawthorn trees have been found in Mill Valley and Corte Madera within the past week.

County officials and state pathologists are working together to eradicate the disease, which occurs nowhere else in the Western Hemisphere. Eradication methods include removal of all infected Tam Junipers as well as Tam Juniper plants within a 300-foot radius of such infection sources since these are in the category of being "exposed" to the disease. Hawthorn trees, on the other hand, may be sprayed with a fungicide as a means of breaking the reproductive cycle since they can transmit the disease only while in foliage.

"Apparently, the seriousness of this problem has not reached all interested parties," said Ballard. He has notified nurseries, landscape architects, garden clubs, and city parks and recreation departments departments in writing, describing the disease.

One landscape firm recently planted 100 Tam Juniper Plants in a new housing project in Marinwood by mistake," said Economon. "Since state law prohibits the sale, planting or replanting will be removed and destroyed."

A research pathologist is now working with the Marin Agricultural Commissioner to test several new fungicides which might control the rust disease on Hawthorn trees.

Hospital Directors To Meet Tomorrow

Petaluma Hospital District directors meeting originally scheduled for May 27 will be held instead tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Hillcrest Hospital, according to administrator Joseph Horner.

Junior Theater Sets Signups On Saturday

Signups for both the elementary school and the high school summer workshop programs of the Junior Theater of Marin will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The Teen Theater Unit will produce a dramatic version of Robert Louis Stevenson's classic horror story, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," according to Gregory Norgaard, director.

He said that a large cast will be needed as well as a technical crew, dancers, musicians and students wishing to specialize in costume design, set construction and makeup. The play will be presented at San Rafael High School Aug. 6 and 7.

Youngsters from the first through eighth grade may sign up for the workshop which will produce a three-act play about Pochahontas written and to be directed by Shirley Bonbright of Ross.

The play will feature touches from the Indian culture, including Indian sign language.

Los Angeles Exhibit

An exhibit of oil paintings by Naomi Hardy of Mill Valley will be held at the Julie Dohan Gallery in Los Angeles from Monday to June 25.

Three Youths Selected As Boys State Delegates

Three Marin County youths have been selected for Boys State June 19 through 26 at Cal-Expo in Sacramento, by Wilkins Post, the American Legion of San Rafael.

They will be among the 860 boys from high schools throughout the state to spend the week for a course in practical politics. Two representatives from the state will go on to Boys Nation in Washington D.C.

Those selected from Marin County were: John V. Schalich of Marin Catholic High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schalich of 135 Los Ranchitos Road; David G. Urquhart of San Rafael High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Urquhart of 144 Rollingwood Drive and William Dobbs of Terra Linda High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dobbs of 20 Oak Mountain Court, all San Rafael.

Indian Tribal Dances Scheduled Saturday

Indian tribal dances and rituals will be featured at a day-long Pow-Wow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Redwood High School which has been scheduled for six classes studying Indian history.

Funds raised will be given to a northern California Indian reservation, students said, and in addition to the Indian dances, there will be booths where craftwork will be displayed and sold and organic food, Navajo fry bread and squaw will be sold.

Prison Official Killed: 9th Death In 18 Months

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI)—A veteran Soledad State Prison official was stabbed to death Wednesday—the ninth person killed at California's troubled penitentiary in the past 18 months.

Kenneth E. Conant, 49, a program administrator, was stabbed in the back of the head with a prison-made knife and two other officials suffered minor wounds while subduing his inmate attackers.

Four prison employes and five inmates have died in the racially tense prison 115 miles south of San Francisco since January 1970, when a guard killed three black prisoners fighting in the yard A young white guard was killed a few days later.

The slaying of Conant apparently had no connection with the earlier racial incidents as the victim and the two inmates seized after his death were white. Jerry W. Lund, 28, and Eric Hilton, 29, both convicted robbers from Southern California, were held for investigation of murder.

The slaying occurred as a special federal commission was meeting in another part of the prison investigating charges that California Rural Legal Assistance, a federally-financed legal aid group, had fomented violence among inmates. The hearings were indefinitely postponed after Conant's death.

Three out-of-state judges are investigating charges by the Reagan administration against CRLA, including the accusation that its attorneys were involved in the "motivation" of earlier violence at Soledad. The hearings had no apparent link to Wednesday's killing.

Two groups of black convicts — the "Soledad Brothers" and "Soledad Seven" — have been charged with the slayings of two white prison guards in the months following the deaths of the three Negro prisoners.

One of the so-called "brothers," George Jackson, was the brother of a teen-ager who smuggled four guns into Marin County Courthouse last Aug. 7 in an abortive escape and kidnapping attempt which ended with his death and those of two convicts and a judge.

Angela Davis, 27, an avowed Communist and former UCLA professor, was charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy for allegedly supplying young Jonathan Jackson with the weapons.

Conant, of Salinas, Calif., was a non-uniformed employe who directed activities, custody requirement and rehabilitation programs for inmates.

Jury Trial Is Set For Marin Pair

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury trial has been set for July 12 before Judge Walter Calcagno of San Francisco Superior Court for a Marin couple accused of performing sexual acts for an undercover officer.

Michael Marsolais, 29, and his wife, Frenchie, 27, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of conspiracy, oral copulation, soliciting for prostitution and possession of marijuana.

The couple, who live in San Quentin Village, was arrested in a San Francisco motel room March 4 after a policeman took about 300 feet of film and still photographs of the pair allegedly performing sexual acts.

The officer said he was offered sexual relations with Mrs. Marsolais.

The couple, who operate the Karmic Operat at 9 Vivian Way in San Rafael, said, according to police, that they had appeared in virtually every erotic film then running in San Francisco movie theaters.

Scout-O-Rama To Draw 3,000 Boys

Three-thousand Boy Scouts, Cubs and Explorers will demonstrate their skills in the annual Scout-O-Rama which will open at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus, according to Theodore A. Murray, chairman.

The program, which will run until 6:30 p.m., will start with music by the Troop 24 Bagpipe band from Corte Madera under the direction of John Sutherland.

The Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco, 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station, St. Vincent's guitar group and bell ringers from St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in San Rafael will also provide music.

Among the 86 exhibits will be a frog jumping contest put on by Pack 2 of Corte Madera and a narcotics display by Police Science Explorer Post 392 of Novato.

Novato Post 334 will have an exhibition of dune buggies, stock cars modified and maintained by post members. They will also display their motor bikes.

The "Pinewood Derby" will feature racing cars made by 8-and-9-year-old Cub Scouts from Pack 75 of Novato, and visitors may participate in a compass course manned by San Rafael Troop 31.

The San Rafael fire department will set up a fire prevention booth on the tennis courts and will have a large truck available for exploration.

San Anselmo's Post 15, which has been involved in mountain rescue work for the past six years, will demonstrate its members' skills with a 60-foot tower they have erected.

Food and soft drink booths will be manned by the Marin Council commissioners' staff.

Influx Of Townhouses Brings Ire

The Lynwood Park Improvement Association, perturbed by the number of townhouses being authorized in adjacent areas, will renew its opposition to any further multiple or townhouse units nearby.

Association members agreed Tuesday night to seek more equitable distribution of townhouses and apartments in Novato, according to Secretary Sharon Colosi.

There are more than 1,500 townhouses planned for the south Novato area, Mrs. Colosi said. "We want some single-family homes."

Western Hosts Inc. is constructing townhouses adjacent to Lynwood Park, and to the South, McKeon Construction Co. plans to build more than 500 townhouses and condiminiums.

The association also took under consideration formation of a garden club, which could perhaps undertake street planting, Mrs. Colosi said.

Health Program Talk Is Tonight

The San Anselmo School District's proposed health education program will be explained to parents tonight at 8 o'clock at Isabel Cook School.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday by running a day early the announcement, written for today's paper, thus incorrectly stating the meeting would be held last night.

The new program also is slated for presentation Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Sleepy Hollow School and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Wade Thomas School.

Etna's Lava River Destroys Farmhouse

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI)—Molten lava from Mount Etna destroyed a farmhouse and swept over a vineyard today while black gases spumed skyward from a huge fissure near the erupting mountain's main crater.

Five villages were threatened by the lava flow and most residents were prepared to leave their modest homes if necessary.

NO OPEN BURNING IN BOLINAS

Bolinas Fire Chief Jose A. Silva today stated that yesterday's Independent-Journal report of stringent fire regulations in the Bolinas area contained an erroneous implication that open burning would be permitted until June 1.

The story said open burning would be prohibited during the fire season and the chief noted that such burning is prohibited the year around and that no open burning is allowed at any time.

The chief also reminded Bolinas residents they will need permits from the fire department to operate outdoor barbecues after June 1.

Demolition Of Safeway Wins Informal Nod

Plans for demolition of Mill Valley's Safeway Market and an adjacent medical building and service station and their replacement with a small shopping center have received informal approval from the city's architectural advisory committee.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the work is being held up, however, until the City of Mill Valley and the Army Corps of Engineers decide whether a flood control project will be built in Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio, which bisects the property.

Safeway representatives gave no estimate Tuesday of when the new food market, drugstore and service station that will replace the present buildings will be started.

Watches Taken From Firm

Watches valued at about $250 were stolen yesterday from a showcase at Rossi Pharmacy in San Anselmo, police said today.

Officers said the theft of 10 watches took place as employees were busy in other parts of the store.

A witness told police she observed a sandy-haired youth about 17 years of age run from the store clutching small boxes at about 5:40 p.m.

11th Business Firm Hit By Vandalism

The number of businesses vandalized recently in an outbreak of window smashing, apparently related to a printers' strike against the Independent-Journal, reached a total of 11 with the release yesterday of a belated report by San Rafael police.

A plate glass window, 64 square feet in size, was smashed at Rossi Motors Inc. at 595 Francisco Boulevard. A bullet fired through the window sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning traveled across the showroom and broke a glass Mercedes emblem. Owner Roland Bacci said he felt it was connected with the 16-month-old strike of San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J.

Rossi Motors was one of four I-J advertisers hit Monday night or early Tuesday morning in what appeared to be the latest reoccurrence of a wave of vandalism characterizing the strike from its inception. Seven other advertisers were hit last Thursday.

Leon Olson, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, several of whose members are in jail on confession of window breaking, said he had not even heard of the latest incidents.

"I have no reason to think that it would start now because there has not been anything like that for several months now," Olson said.

Poll Backs Resignation Of Hoover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Poll reported today that by a small majority, the state's residents feel that the time has come for J. Edgar Hoover to retire as chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said the margin was 51-45 in support of the 76-year-old Hoover's resigning with 4 per cent having no opinion.

The poll also checked into what Californians felt limits should be on the powers of the FBI and other investigative agencies.

The public approved by the overwhelming margin of 78 to 19 per cent the FBI's right to keep files of information about political radicals and dissenters. But Californians disapproved by a margin of 59-39 per cent the FBI's having access to confidential records of citizens from income tax files, Social Security files, and bank records.

Innocent Pleas To Grand Theft

Scott Alan Laurie, 22, of Mill Valley, and August Cadwell Belden, 21, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of grand theft.

A pretrial conference was set for June 2.

The pair was arrested May 9 by Sausalito police who said they discovered the men stealing hatch covers from a storage yard behind Zack's Restaurant on Bridgeway.

Ex-Convict Bound Over On Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — William F. Hardke, 31-year-old San Anselmo ex-convict has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court on four felony charges stemming from a shoot-out following a bar hold-up.

He is to be arraigned June 7 before Judge Walter Calcagno.

Hardke was arrested April 15 after he allegedly attempted to shoot at two pursuing policeman and his pistol jammed.

The officers said they had heard gunfire outside a bar about 1 a.m. The bartender and patrons told the officers they had been held up and $200 taken by a bandit who fired two shots as he left.

Hardke was cornered shortly afterward in a dead-end street where he was wounded in the arm by the officers who said they fired three shots at him when he allegedly tried to shoot them.

He is charged with armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, assault on officers and being an ex-convict who possessed a firearm.

PILOTS OWN PLANE

Though Jim Dwyer of Cincinnati can't walk, he can fly an airplane. Crippled by polio since he was 4 years old, Dwyer, now 24, overcame many difficulties to earn his solo license yesterday. He demonstrates how he slides from the wing of the plane into his waiting wheelchair which he must use to get around. The plane has a special rudder-pedal attachment that permits him to use his hands entirely when flying.

Car Jumps Curb, Rolls 133 Feet

A runaway car, carrying with it a passenger honking on the horn to warn others, rolled 133 feet down a steep grade yesterday on Clark Street in San Rafael, according to police.

The passenger, wife of Allan D. Brodnax of 18 Blossom Drive, San Rafael, owner of the Peugot sedan, was alone in the car when it jumped the curb and broke a mailbox post in front of the Carla Merla residence at 14 Clark Street.

The car crossed the street and jumped the curb on the opposite side, crossing the lawn of Lincoln Borba at 25 Clark Street, coming to rest against a fire hydrant at Clark and Greenwood Streets, police reported.

Mrs. Brodnax was not injured. No other details of the accident were available.

Hearing Set In Drug Sale Case

A 23-year-old Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a warrant charging him with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent.

Dennis Phillip Tsigelatos, of 721 Alice Street, was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest by Marin drug agents, and he posted $3,175 bail to return to court June 3 to enter a plea.

He is accused of selling $325 worth of pot to an agent March 26 and $20 worth of the drug to an agent March 29.

No eetails of his arrest were available today.

Two Are Bound Over In Marijuana Case

Daniel J. Miller, 25, and Thomas W. Villas, 24, both of Sausalito, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court om charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

They are to be arraigned in superior court Monday.

The pair was arrested May 2 when Sausalito police visited their apartment after a complaint from neighbors of loud music.

Police said they found 15 marijuana plants growing in the apartment.

A third roommate, Michael G. Edmond, 23, turned himself in to authorities later on a warrant, but charges against him were dismissed Tuesday when the district attorney's office reported investigation had determined he was innocent of the charges.

Edmond is an undercover narcotics agent with the San Francisco Police Department.

Fairfax To Reply To Oak Manor's Emergency Calls

Fairfax Fire Chief Charles M. Thornton said yesterday his department will continue to answer resuscitator calls in Oak Manor, despite a decision Monday by the Fairfax City Council to stop giving emergency service to Oak Manor.

Police Chief James R. Orr said police will respond "in life or death matters."

The city council voted 3-2 Monday to instruct police and fire departments to cease answering Oak Manor calls.

The council also voted 4-1 against proceeding with moves toward annexing the area.

Officers of the Oak Manor Homes Association have said they have no desire to annex to Fairfax.

Psychiatric Exam Ordered By Judge

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. asked the report on William R. Baxman, 20, be presented on June 2. Baxman, accused of possession of stolen property and dangerous drugs, was arrested April 25 while hiding in bushes on Keokuk Street, Petaluma, with items taken from an auto that was parked nearby.

Food Conspiracy Outlets Revealed

The Marin Food Conspiracy, described as a cooperative buying effort to get food at lowest possible prices through bulk purchase, is now in operation.

Announcement of the food project was made yesterday by Donna Huckins, a supervisor in the department of public social services and consultant to the family and children's services advisory committee.

Mrs. Huckins said that a young woman, speaking for the food conspiracy, appeared before the advisory committee Tuesday night and asked for volunteers to work for the project. The spokesman, according to Mrs. Huckins, said she did not want her name revealed to the press.

Mrs. Huckins said the food conspiracy now has the following seven neighborhood centers where orders are taken and food distributed:

Mill Valley, 55 Amicita Avenue; Lagunitas, 1 Corona Road; Corte Madera, 1409 Casa Buena Drive; Terra Linda, 20 Joseph Court; San Anselmo, 77 Angela Court; Fairfax, 18 Kent Avenue, and San Rafael, 5 Harte Avenue.

Those who want to participate in bulk purchase should go to these neighborhood centers on Wednesdays between 3 and 7 p.m. to put in their orders. The orders may be picked up the following Wednesday between 3 and 7 p.m.

Mrs. Huckins gave these examples of low prices available through bulk purchase: honey wheat berry bread 39 cents a loaf, tomatoes 19 cents a pound, large AA eggs 40 cents a dozen, raw and homogenized milk 49 cents a half gallon.

Mrs. Huckins said this is how the system works:

Tuesdays are buying days. Members of the food conspiracy leave early in the morning for farms, dairies and wholesale food outlets. They return about noon with fresh fruits, vegetables, eggs, meats, cheeses, and grains which are put in a central warehouse at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. Individual orders are boxed at the central warehouse and distributed to the neighborhood centers on Wednesday afternoon.

Those who order food will not always get every item ordered because all food must be purchased in bulk. If there are not enough orders for a particular item, that item cannot be bought, said Mrs. Huckins.

She announced that many more volunteers are need to operate the food conspiracy. Jobs include separating food, compiling food lists, making food runs, building shelves, truck driving and telephoning. Equipment such as camping coolers, food scales, cartons boxes and bags are needed.

Mrs. Huckins said meat and milk cannot be carried in centers where proper refrigeration is not available. She did not know which centers are equipped with refrigeration.

"To the best of my knowledge, all facilities meet all health standards and have whatever permits are needed by the county or the cities involved," she declared.

A flyer circulated by the food conspiracy gives this information about its aims:

"The food conspiracy provides us with an opportunity to support, through our spending, farmers and farmworkers — the people who really produce. So often the cheapest prices are offered by corporation-owned markets determined not to handle produce picked by union farm workers.

"Now we can escape the vicious proposition of either buying from these corporations' antiunion policies or watching the price of our food climb still higher. The Marin Food Conspiracy supports through its buying power, the progressive struggles of all workers involved in the food industry and will donate perishable surplus to families whose providers are on strike."

Street Artists Win A 'Corner' From Alioto

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A corner of Civic Center Plaza across from City Hall was ordered set aside Wednesday for an "artist's corner" by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The mayor took the action in hopes of placating a group of "street artists" who have been arrested in recent weeks while trying to sell their wares without a permit.

Alioto said all of the city's street artists would have free access to a corner of the open, tree-studded plaza on weekends to exhibit and sell their art work.

"The artists of the great cities of the world have long enjoyed places where they regularly exhibit their work before the public," said the mayor. "There is no reason why San Francisco with is own rich cultural tradition should not provide its own artists with a comparable setting."

21-Year-Old Arraigned On Drugs

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, who was arrested after he allegedly phoned a bomb threat to the San Anselmo police station, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

No charge was filed in connection with the bomb threat pending further investigation, the district attorney's office reported.

Woods pleaded innocent to the two misdemeanors and a pretrial conference was set for June 16.

He was arrested May 3 after a male caller told the San Anselmo police dispatcher: "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Woods's residence, and when police entered they found a suspected marijuana cigarette fitted in a hose attached to a World War II gas mask, police said.

Police said after Woods's arrest that he said he did not make the phone call, but that it was made by another man whom he did not know.

Some archeologists hold to the theory that Nazareth was a town at least 1,000 years before Christ's time.

Last 2 Arraigned In Draft Protest Case

The last two of 33 persons arrested in a San Rafael draft protest May 5, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, and jury trials were set for five others.

Arraigned on charges of failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place were Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, of Mill Valley and Robert Alan Le Blanc, 23, of San Rafael.

Miss Kallins, Le Blanc and 24 other demonstrators facing the same charges are to return to court next Thursday to enter pleas.

Two more of the group — Richard Alan Raznikov, 24, of San Rafael, and Thomas Louis Oleari, 22, of Fairfax — are to plead to the charges today.

The five who have pleaded innocent and who are to stand trial June 10 are: Bryan Thomas Geddy, 23, of Fairfax; William Gaston Begelow, 19, of Tiburon; Lillian Lee Cunningham, 19, and Gary Mathew Bjork, 18, both of San Rafael, and Mary Blair Willard, 22, of Kentfield.

The 33, as well as four others who were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, were arrested at a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U. S. Selective Service.

Comedienne To Appear At Benefit

Comedienne Totie Fields will appear June 4 in San Francisco in a benefit for the building fund of the Greek Orthodox Church of Marin County.

The benefit will be at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant on Columbus Avenue. A no-host cocktail party will begin at 6 p.m.

Donations for the evening, including dinner, will be $25. Tickets may be purchased through the Downtown Center Box Office in San Francisco.

Outstanding Senior Citizen Award To Be Given

The Outstanding Senior Citizen Award will be given next Wednesday to a senior citizen who has done the most for his organization or community.

Eighteen persons have been nominated for the title of Marin's Outstanding Senior Citizen of the Year and the winning candidate will be announced at an awards luncheon next Wednesday at Holiday Inn.

Those nominated were: William Schofield of San Rafael, Raymond J. Palmer of Greenbrae, Julia Walsh of Kentfield, Dr. Charles C. B. Musante of San Rafael, Ruth Murray Jones of San Rafael, Edith I. Foran of San Anselmo. Stephania Jasinski of Fairfax, Katharine Meysembourg of Fairfax, Pearl M. Dutra of Mill Valley, Aaron Garnet Miller of San Rafael, Florence Benedict of San Rafael, Mabel Kegg of San Rafael, Alberta Dodds of San Rafael, Lillie J. Givens of Marin City, Betty Cannon of San Rafael, Marguerite Johnson of Novato, Adelbert Von Rotz of San Anselmo and Arthur E. Ojeda of San Rafael.

The candidates were selected from various groups throughout the county, said Edward T. Ryken, executive director of Marin Senior Coordinating Council. Candidates are chosen by formal election or by the executive boards, Ryken said.

A panel of nine judges will select the winner from these candidates. The names of the judges is not announced.

The winner will receive a gold plaque and have his name placed on a perpetual plaque at the library in the Civic Center.

All of the nominees will receive a framed scroll giving a summary of their service to the community.

For the past two years the judges have not been able to select one winner, but have split the award between two persons.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, mayors of the Marin's cities and other dignitaries have been invited to the luncheon, Ryken said.

Angela Nicoletti, Kentfield soprano, will furnish the entertainment.

RUTH MURRAY JONES
Poet wins nomination

RUTH MURRAY JONES

The shores of Bodega Bay where she was born 75 years ago, the desert of Nevada and the beauty of Marin County inspired Ruth Murray Jones to become a poet. She has had poetry published throughout the world and won several prizes for it.

In the four high schools she attended in California and Nevada she learned the love of literature. She graduated from the University of Nevada with a bachelor's degree in English.

She was one of the founding group of the Marin Branch, of the American Association of University Women and has served terms as all of its officers including president. Last year she was awarded a life membership in the organization, which nominated her for the senior citizen award.

Within the framework of the university women, she started the Creative Writing Workshop.

She has lived in San Rafael since 1924. She and her late husband, Victor, lost their son, Deane, during World War II. Writing became her emotional outlet for the loss of her son.

Her writing led her into many fields, such as history, nature study, conservation and art. She belongs to numerous organization in those fields.

Mrs. Jones of 1340 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, has two children, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE
San Rafael's nominee

CHARLES C. B. MUSANTE

The nominee of the Goldenaires for the Senior Citizen award refuses to quit work or give up any of his hobbies, even at the age of 85.

Dr. Charles C. B. Mustante of 219 Center Street, San Rafael, still practices dentistry several days a week at his office in the Albert Building.

He works in his vegetable and flower garden, does woodworking and takes time out to fish. He is an accomplished pianist. He played in the Marin Symphony until 1966. He plays for the Neighbors of Woodcraft and the Goldenaires, a senior citizens club sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department. He also played in the Bohemian Club orchestra for many years.

Dr. Musante was born in San Francisco and graduated from St. Ignatius High school and the University of California School of Dentistry where he taught for 13 years.

It was his woodworking skill that brought him the nomination. He has made many pieces of furniture and other "safety aids" for the recreation center.

JULIA WALSH

In spite of her 71 years, Julia Walsh is always willing to help other senior citizens. She takes them to doctors, hospitals and shopping.

Her good nature always comes through as she cheerfully does things to help others.

She was born in Ireland and came to San Francisco as a girl. She lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County 10 years ago.

Mrs. Walsh of 920 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, is a member of St. Sebastian Church in Kentfield, Women's Auxiliary of Barracks 550. World War I, Terra Linda Seniors, Marin Senior Association and the American Association of Retired People.

She was nominated by Fairfax Senior Association.

MABEL KEGG
Choice of hospital

MABEL KEGG

Her interest in everyone in the hospital and attempts to help other patients won the nomination for outstanding senior citizen for Mable Kegg from the Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

She is active in the craft program group discussions and community singing at the hospital.

She comes by the latter quite naturally. For three years she was one of a pair of ''Polk Bonnet Sisters'' singing program on radio station KPO.

Mrs. Kegg 92, was born in Oakland and later married George Kegg, an artist with the San Francisco Examiner. They spent much of their time in Carmel where they were active in theater groups and light opera. Mrs. Kegg lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County four years ago.

KATHERINE MEYSEMBOURG
St. Rita's selection

KATHARINE MEYSEMBOURG

After a life of hard work, Katharine Meysembourg, cannot stop, so continues doing things for others.

She makes lap robes for convalescents and sews for all the festivals and Christmas boutiques of St. Rita's Senior Club which nominated her for the outstanding senior citizen.

Mrs. Meysembourg was born 82 years ago in Illinois. She married Nicholas Meysenberg and the couple farmed for many years. He went into the livestock trucking business. Then 30 years ago they moved to California where he was a carpenter until he retired. They have been married 55 years and have seven children.

Mrs. Meysembourg of 66 Willow Avenue, Fairfax, is modest about her work, but never refuses to do her part.

ALBERTA DODDS
Retired employees choice

ALBERTA DODDS

More than 30 years of service to the community has won the nomination for outstanding citizen for Alberta Dodds from the National Association of Retired Federal Employees. She is a charter member of its Chapter 400 here.

She was born near Colorado Springs, Colo., and came to California as a young girl with her family. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Dodds, 67, worked for the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau until she was married. When her husband James was transfered from superintendent of the Air Corps Shops at Crissy Field to Hamilton Air Force Base, the couple moved to Marin County. That was 35 years ago during World War II.

She also uses her talents in Chapter 215 Eastern Star, Tamalpais Temple No. 129 of Pythian Sisters, San Rafael Goldenaires. She is chairman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church blood donor drive and a director of the San Rafael Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

For all of her activity, Mrs. Dodds says that she receives much more from these organizations than she gives.

AARON G. MILLER
Gay 70s nominee

AARON GARNET MILLER

Rev. Aaron Garnet Miller was born in Nazareth, Pa.

He graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo 41 years ago. He also attended the University of California in Berkeley.

His first pastorate was in Lakeview, Ore. From there he went to Garberville and then back to Sausalito where he was minister of the Presbyterian Church there for 10 years. He was minister of the Santa Veneita Presbyterian Church for nine years before retiring in 1969.

One cannot say that he has retired because he still works for the community and has a smile for all those he meets on the street.

He started the Gay 70s Club, sponsored by the Gallinas Village Community Serivces District, which nominated him for the award.

Reverend Miller, 66, of 849 Descanson Way, San Rafael, organized the Protestant Chaplains Association and the Marin County Council of Churches. He joined the Rotary Club in Garberville and carried his membership with him to Sausalito. He is stated clerk of the Presbytry of the Redwoods which goes from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border.

ARTHUR E. OJEDA

Entertaining senior citizens groups throughout Marin County with his travel films, brought Arthur E. Ojeda, nomination for the top senior citizen award from the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Ojeda collected the films during more than 40 years of travel in 46 countries for Standard Oil of California. He was a member of the oil company's executive staff and his travels have taken him all around the world.

He has lived and traveled in the British Isles, Scandinavia, the Soviet Union, New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania and Indonesia.

He was born 66 years ago, Bisbee, Ariz. He graduated from the University of Arizona. While working for Standard Oil during world War II, he was loaned to the State Department and served two years in the United States embassies in Spain and Portugal as a petroleum attache.

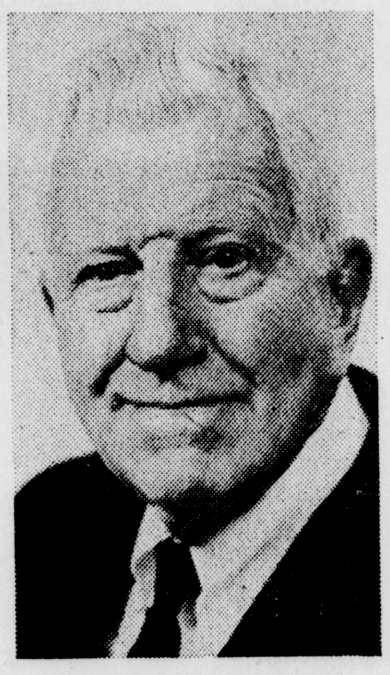
BETTY CANNON
Venetia Oaks choice

BETTY CANNON

Retirement after working as a dental nurse for 20 years at Hamilton Air Force Base, did not mean retirement for Betty Cannon.

She has kept herself busy doing volunteer work for the Red Cross, Cancer Society and her church. She had been in the Women Air Corps for three years prior to going to work at Hamilton.

She was nominated by the Venetia Oaks Seniors for the outstanding senior citizen award.



WILLIAM SCHOFIELD
Funsters nominee

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD

The fortitude and determination with which William Schofield overcame a stroke he had a year ago and his cheerfulness during it, brought him the Marinwood "Funsters" nomination for the senior citizen award.

The stroke paralyzed his right side, but he worked to overcome it. He now is able to walk again in the park in Marinwood and can drive his car.

Schofield, 79, of 27 Millstone Terrace, San Rafael, was born in Rutherford, N.J., but lived most of his life in Orange, N.J.

He was a member of the New York Stock Exchange for 28 years and a member of the Buttonwood Club, a club of members of the New York Stock Exchange who have been on it for 25 years or more.

He served in the Cavalry during World War I and was in the New Jersey National Guard for more than 10 years. He and his wife, Natalie, moved to Marin County two years ago.

ADELBERT VON ROTZ
San Anselmo civic leader

(Independent-Journal photos)

ADELBERT VON ROTZ

Adelbert Von Rotz was founder and past president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce. So that organization nominated him for the Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Born and reared in Switzerland, he learned the art of cabinet making there. He decided if he wanted to make any money he would have to come to the United States.

He came here in 1920 and since that time used his skill in constructing more than 1,000 homes in San Anselmo, Fairfax, San Rafael and Santa Venetia. He has also constructed shopping centers.

He became interested in politics and was elected to the San Anselmo City council in 1942. He served two years as mayor. He served as member and for five years as chairman of the Marin County Palnning Commission.

He has been president of the San Anselmo Lions Club, a director of the Marin County Development Association and Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association. He was one of the founders of the latter association.

Von Rotz, 73, of 1 Alpine Terrace, San Anselmo, was a founder and past president of the Marin County Contractors Association. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Marin County Property Owners Association and a director and former vice president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council in Marin County.

FLORENCE BENEDICT
Goldenaires nominee

FLORENCE BENEDICT

Florence Benedict's leadership in many senior citizens organizations and her philanthropic work in Marin County won her nomination for outstanding senior citizen from the San Rafael Goldenaires.

Mrs. Benedict, 74, was born in New York City and lived most of her life in Floral Park, Long Island, N.Y. She was active there in the Parent-Teacher Association, the Methodist Church and Eastern Star.

She came to Marin County in 1964. Since then she has been recording secretary, vice president and president of the Marin Senior Citizen Association; recording secretary for the Goldennaires and a member of Marin Federated Republican Women. She has been active in all sewing projects for the Goldennaires' Needlework Guild of America.

EDITH I. FORAN

When a senior citizen center was first opened in Marin County 17 years ago, Edith I. Foran was appointed to be its first hostess.

She later served as chairman of hostesses until the center at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, closed.

She was the first woman president of the Marin Senior Association Inc. serving two terms. She had been secretary to the organization prior to that.

Mrs. Foran, 83, is still active in the Marin Senior Association which nominated her for the Outstanding Senior Citizen Award this year.

She was born in Manistee, Mich. She married Bryce I. Foran, an attorney of Louisville, Ky. After his death in 1942, she became a librarian for Washington State University at Pullman, Wash.

Mrs. Foran is also a member of the Goldenaires, American Association of University Women and San Rafael Improvement Club.

LILLIE J. GIVENS
Marin City nominee

LILLIE J. GIVENS

More than a quarter century of service to the people of Marin City brought Lillie J. Givens her nomination to the outstanding senior citizen award from the Marin City Seniors.

In her 27 years in Marin City, Mrs. Givens, 69, a native of Louisiana, has worked for the betterment of that community. At the present time, she is president of the Marin City Seniors.

She did all this work in addition to rearing six children; and helping with eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

MARGUERITE JOHNSON
Club picks worker

MARGUERITE JOHNSON

Marguerite Johnson took charge of the kitchen for the luncheons and dinners held by the Novato Senior Citizens in the Novato Community House. After two years of this work, the club elected her treasurer to handle the finances of the organization which now has more than 300 members.

The club calls on her for many other jobs, which she performs uncomplainingly.

Mrs. Johnson, 65, of 823 Las Palmas Avenue, Novato, was born in Kansas, but spent most of her life in Grand Junction, Colo.

On her husband's retirement, they moved to Florida but five years ago, they moved to Novato to be near their only daughter and family. They joined the Novato Senior Citizens Inc. the same year.

RAYMOND J. PALMER
Former teacher chosen

RAYMOND J. PALMER

Palmer Hall, the science building at Tamalpais High School, was named for Raymond J. Palmer who retired in 1959 after 32 years of teaching science at the school.

Palmer, 77, was born in Ohio and graduated from Whitter College in Whittier, Calif. When he started teaching at Tamalpais High School in 1927, he was also assigned to be varsity football coach. He took pride in his athletes who made good in college or professional ball.

However, his greatest contributions were in teaching chemistry and bacteriology. He was one of the pioneers in teaching bacteriology in high school.

He was always interested in conservation and is still active in this field. He is a member of the Audubon Society and Conservation League.

Palmer is also a member of the board of directors of American Field Service and Sons in Retirement. He is vice president of the Retired Marin County Teachers Association.

PEARL M. DUTRA
Mill Valley's choice

PEARL M. DUTRA

Her friendly smile and willingness to be helpful and to work for organizations has won the nomination for Outstanding Senior Citizens Award for Pearl M. Dutra.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department nominated this year.

Mrs. Dutra lives with her daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Gilmore at 60 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley.

She was born in San Jose and is a third generation Santa Claran. Her father and grandfather had been ranchers in Gilroy. Her parents moved to San Francisco just before the 1906 earthquake. After that they moved to Millbrae. She lived there with her husband John W. Dutra who died in 1963. She moved to Mill Valley three years ago.

She is active in The American Association of Retired People, Naive Daughters of the Golden West, Goldenaires and Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church Women's Club. She was instrumental in starting the senior citizens program in Mill Valley.

STEPHANIE JASINSKI
Chosen By two

STEPHANIE JASINSKI

In spite of a stroke last December, Stephanie Jasinski has regained the use of her hands so that she can continue her work knitting an Afghan and bandages for the lepers.

This is only part of the work which she has done for the less fortunate and senior citizens for many years. It won for her the nomination by the American Association of Retired Persons, of which she is a charter member. She was also nominated by the City of Fairfax.

She was born 82 years ago in Pennsylvania and was a registered nurse, working for more 40 years in Pittsburgh, Pa. and Detroit, Mich. She was secretary to the senior citizens in Detroit.

She is also a member of the Fairfax Senior Association, St. Rita's Seniors and a charter member of the American Association of Retired People.

Death Penalty Stirs Debate

By MARY LEYDECKER

Four Marin attorneys split sharply today in a discussion of capital punishment, with the county's district attorney and a former district attorney favoring retention of the death sentence and two defense attorneys arguing for abolition.

Speaking on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program were Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, former Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, Theodore C. Lachelt, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, and Herbert G. Hawkins, co-chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

All agreed that the May 3 decisions on two death sentence cases handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court still left undecided the central issue of capital punishment.

Bales explained that the recent decisions only dealt with the role of juries in handing out the death sentence and that the high court is now being asked to rule on whether death constitutes a "cruel and unusual punishment."

He and the others said they did not expect a "rash of executions'' before the Supreme Court either decides this issue or refuses to consider the matter.

Even the two attorneys who opposed the death sentence did not expect the Supreme Court to abolish the death sentence and all four preferred the matter to be decided either by the Legislature or a vote of the people.

Bales said he strongly felt the death penalty should be retained, saying his reason was not an endorsement of "an eye for an eye" type punishment but rather based on the protection of society.

He said that "many robbers, kidnappers and burglars purposely do not arm themselves so they won't be facing the gas chamber," and added that doing away with capital punishment in California would be "an incentive for these people to kill their victims."

Garety said that there "is no clear cut answer" as to whether the death sentence is a deterrent but he argued for it as an "expression of the community of abhorrence and revulsion" to such crimes as the Tate murder.

"If it means saving the life of one innocent child, one gas station attendant or store clerk," capital punishment should be retained, Garety said.

He also cited prison slayings, saying, "what deterrent is a life sentence to a life termer."

He and Bales agreed, however, that the matter should be put to a popular vote in California.

Lachelt, who felt that such a vote, particularly if the voting age is lowered, would end in abolition of the death sentence, said he and others who work for abolition would be happy with either a court decision or a vote to end it.

"People do not spring full blown from Hell," Lachelt quoted from a book written by Caryl Chessman, executed kidnapper and "red light bandit." He called for an examination of the lives of people who "commit heinous crimes," saying that they have "crippled minds" and should not be executed.

Hawkins called "many, many murders spur of the moment affairs," where the murderer never thinks of the penalty. He asked why, if the death sentence is a deterrent, do felons, such as those held in yesterday's Soledad Prison slaying, commit murder when they know they face capital punishment.

He said that persons who are "rich, white and male" seldom are executed because they can afford better legal services and that "poor, black and female" people are much more likely to be sentenced to death.

(Garety responded by saying that "it is a fact of life that more violent crimes are committed by poor persons.")

Hawkins called the death penalty "clearly a form of revenge," saying that "because we have feelings of abhorrence and revulsion, we don't have to add the revolting and abhorrent act of killing someone."

He also said that if the community really believes in revenge "we could stone a murderer to death or tear him limb from limb in a public square" instead of sitting home watching television while 20 witnesses watch an execution.

In answer to a question phoned in by a listener, Hawkins said that "no one here is suggesting turning such persons (murderers) loose." He said that if capital punishment is abolished, laws should be changed so that "some people Can be locked up permanently."

The Sounding Board program will be repeated at 10:05 Sunday.

Call For Bids On Outfall Line

San Rafael Sanitation District board members last night called for bids for a 1,000-foot outfall pipeline extension of the Marin Bay Treatment Plant at Peacock Gap.

Norris W. Rawles, district administrator, said the board approved the plans and specifications for the joject, estimated to cost between $70,000 and $80,000, and asked for bids prior to June 16.

The project has been approved by the State Regional Water Quality Control Board, Rawles said.

Draft Option: Fight Fires In Voluntary Corps

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A national firefighters corps, which would qualify as an alternative to military service, is being proposed by the International Association of Fire Chiefs' president.

Matthew Jimenez, who also is chief at nearby Hayward, prepared his plan for an association meeting today and suggested volunteers undergo four months of training in fire fighting and disaster control.

The remainder of the volunteers' two years of service should be in high fire danger areas or in small towns with understaffed fire departments, he suggested.

Jimenez suggested financing the program with federal funds and said it had been drawn from a similar operation he had seen while visiting Italy.

Bike Ride Set For Goastline

A bicycle ride to demonstrate support for creation of a California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will start at 11 a.m. Sunday at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito.

The riders will go across the Golden Gate Bridge and end up at Baker's Beach in the Presidio of San Francisco, where a rally and picnic will be held at 1 p.m., according to the California Coastal Alliance, which is sponsoring the event.

Speakers at the rally will include Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, who is expected to speak in favor of the Coast Bill, AB1471, aimed at preventing destruction of the California coastline.

Marin City Bid For More Funds

An application for additional federal funds and more time to complete development of Marin City won approval from the Marin County Redevelopment Agency board last night, Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd reported.

Shepherd said the amendment to the agency's current federal loan and grant contract for development asks a two-year time extension and $918,105 and will be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in the next week.

One-third of the funds being sought must come from local sources, according to Shepherd.

YMCA Cash Stolen

Cash totaling $56 was stolen from a safe at a Young Men's Christian Association office at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, last Thursday, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

NOMINATED FOR GENERAL STARS

With the signal of new duties the Army has announced the nomination of Cols. Mildred C. Bailey, 52 (left), a native of Fort Branwell, N.C., who will head the Women's Army Corps, and Lillian Dunlap, 49, of Mission, Tex., who will head the Army Nurses Corps, to the status of generals. Lovejoy Elected To Housing Association

Jean Lovejoy of San Rafael, a member of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, has been elected president of the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin.

She was unanimously elected last night to succeed the late Elmo Cerruti, who died unexpectedly on April 11.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association, announced that the association has received $20,000 from the San Francisco Foundation for the 1971-72 fiscal year. "This is the third year of support from the foundation," said Mackey. "It will provide two-thirds of the association's operating budget."

The Association For Housing Also:

SEED MONEY — Heard from Douglas P. Ferguson, association counsel, that a drive is under way to raise $35,000 in seed money to pay for pre-construction cost of low and moderate income housing.

PILGRIM PARK — Announced that opening ceremonies for the new moderate income housing at Pilgrim Park, Merrydale Road and North San Pedro Road in San Rafael, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 5. William Davis of the First Congregational Church of San Rafael made the announcement.

SPEAKER — Heard David McDonald, development coordinator of the Foundation for Cooperative Housing Services in San Francisco, described the advantages of cooperative housing developments.

TRAINING — Authorized executive director Mackey to attend an eight-week training session in Washington, D.C., for housing specialists, beginning June 21.

NEW MEMBER — Welcomed Peace Lutheran Church of Mill Valley as the 42nd member of the association; introduced Gordon D. Williams, a new delegate from the Presbyterian Church of Novato; and welcomed a guest, Silma Simmons of United Methodist Church of Novato.

FINANCE — Heard from Jackie Parnell of the Co-op of Marin that a financial advisory committee is exploring ways to get low interest money to finance housing, outside of federal government programs.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 8 p.m. June 16 in Room 400 of the Civic Center.

Hearing Set In Bad Check Case

A 20-year-old San Rafael man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a bad check charge after he went to the San Rafael Police Station to inquire about a traffic ticket.

Vithaya Chaloeicheep of 424 Mission Avenue was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest and is to plead to the check charge today.

He was held at the jail in lieu of $1,875 bail.

San Rafael police said that when Chaloeicheep went to the station to inquire about the traffic matter, police discovered there was a warrant for his arrest, charging that he signed the name of Propat Soparkthpong to a check given to a San Rafael used car dealer April 2.

Joint Work On Seashore Bus Urged

Recreational bus service to Point Reyes National Seashore should be worked out jointly by public agencies and the Marin Transit Systems Inc., a private bus company based in Marin City.

That was the consensus of the transportation committee of Marin's City-County Planning Council. The transportation committee, headed by John DeBecker, met at the Civic Center to hear from Paul R. Kahn, vice president of the transit firm.

The transportation committee passed the following resolution on a motion by Anne West:

Golden Gate Bridge District, Marin County Transit District, and Marin Transit Systems should get together and work out a recreation transit service to seashore by this summer if possible.

Kahn told the committee that his private bus firm intends to work with public agencies on a bus service from the Sausalito and Tiburon ferry terminals to the seashore.

He acknowledged that his company had asked the state Public Utilities Commission for a permit to extend the present Mill Valley to Tiburon bus service to Stinson Beach and Bolinas. But this is completely separate from the concept of a bus service to the seashore and within the seashore, said Kahn. He said the private bus firm is not trying to go it alone on the bus service to the seashore.

TOO MUCH SOMETIMES NOT ENOUGH

A Mill Valley customer of the W. J. Sloan store in Northgate, San Rafael, mailed a letter this week to the store and — apparently because she did not have a new 8-cent stamp — put an old 10-cent air mail stamp on the letter.

Although the Post Office did not fly the letter from Mill Valley to San Rafael, today it demanded an additional one cent from the firm because the new air mail rate is 11 cents.

Two Brothers Plead Innocent

Two San Anselmo brothers have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary stemming from two separate burglaries. Preliminary hearings were set for next Tuesday for both Mark S. Botai, 19, and Kenneth Paul Botai, 22.

Mark Botai was arrested Saturday when San Anselmo police saw him walk out of a Red Hill Avenue record store at 5 a.m.

Kenneth Botai, who is also charged with attempted grand theft, was arrested last Friday on a warrant charging he attempted to steal a bicycle, May 12 from the garage of Michael Murphy, 15 Pastori Avenue, San Anselmo.

Fill Donated To Lucchesi Park

Half the 20,000 cubic yards of fill dirt needed for development of Petaluma's Lucchesi Park has been donated, according to Park Director Richard W. Schollenberger.

He said that Mel Hein, manager of Hein Brothers Basalt Rock Co. of Petaluma, will provide 10,000 cubic feet of dirt. In addition to the free fill, Schollenberger said transportation will also be provided at no cost by the 649th Engineering Co. of the California Army National Guard, Petaluma.

Shollenberger said it is hoped that another 10,000 cubic yards of dirt can be received, perhaps from the state Division of Highways, so that development can begin in July.

Cyclist Injured In Fairfax Accident

James Broderick, 39, of 14 Canyon Road, Fairfax, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital following a motorcycle accident yesterday near his home.

Officials said Broderick was admitted at 6:15 p.m. with torn cartilage in the right knee.

Also involved in the accident was Mark Oates, 13, of 458 Cascade Drive, Fairfax. He was treated for a cut right arm and a broken finger on the right hand, hospital officials reported.

Details of the accident were unavailable from Fairfax police.

Air Board Accused In Napa-Solano Fuss

EUREKA (UPI)—The State Air Resources Board was told yesterday it is responsible for "a blow to the whole concept of regionalism" by deciding to cut parts of two counties from the Bay Area Pollution Control District.

Victor Calvo, chairman of the BAPCD board of directors, addressed the state board at a hearing into plans to cut parts of Sonoma and Solano counties from the nine-county organization.

The state group, on April 21, ruled in principle that about half of the two counties could be excluded. The hearing yesterday was to work out details of the plan.

Calvo said the fragmentation of territory under his district's jurisdiction would "undercut our enforcement program and impede the efforts of the District to attain recently enacted strict California and federal air quality standards."

In Napa County, he said, the state board's action is being regarded "as an escape hatch through which effective air pollution control regulations may be avoided".

Napa County has not yet petitioned for action similar to that requested by Solano and Sonoma Counties.

Calvo quoted a newspaper story that said a Napa supervisor felt the reason his county hadn't asked to be let out of the district was because he didn't think Solano and Sonoma would be successful.

"We regard the action that you took at your April meeting as overly hasty, inconsistent with your earlier findings and at variance with principles set forth in law," Calvo, a Contra Costa County supervisor, said.

He said a section of the Health and Safety Code requires the Air Resources Board to divide the state into air basins "based upon similar meterological and geographic conditions."

Political boundaries are also to be taken into consideration under the code, Calvo said.

"No meterological evidence was submitted to the ARB to show that the climates of the excluded areas differ in any way from the climates of other areas, for example Marin County and the Santa Clara Valley," he said.

He said Solano County claimed its northeastern portion is a transitional zone between maritime and valley influences.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has never denied this, Calvo said, and has submitted a report on air currents that drew "much the same conclusions."

"But we pointed out that there are many such zones in the Bay Area," he said.

"This fact does not warrant splitting these zones into adjacent basins without reference to political boundaries."

More Pay Asked From N. Marin Water District

The North Marin County Water District board has been asked for a 4.8 per cent pay raise and merit pay for employees.

Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill also proposed Tuesday night that outside construction and maintenance personnel be granted a four-and-a-half-day work week.

Directors will consider the proposals at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Churchill said the proposed cost-of-living pay hike and the merit pay would cost about $32,700 a year.

The merit pay, up to 8 per cent, could be granted to employees at the top of their salary scale who have four years with the district, he said.

Churchill said he proposed the 36-hour week for outside construction and maintenance personnel, numbering 11, because trade unions covering similar work have cut back their work week.

Churchill also proposed that employees, who now have nine holidays, be granted an additional holiday, and preferably two more, Admission Day and Lincoln's Birthday.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

STAFFORD LAKE — Approved an agreement with Marin County on county use of Stafford Lake for recreation, an agreement to guarantee water quality control and clearly define district and county lands.

COMPUTERS — Authorized Churchill to negotiate for use of Marin County computers to handle district accounting.

USAGE — Received a report that water consumption last month was down 22.7 per cent from April, 1970, because it was cooler and damper last month than in April, 1970.

Screwwork Cases

MISSION, Tex. (UPI)—The National Screwworm Eradication Center reported 13 cases of screwworms in Texas during the first four months of 1971.

Abatement Panel Pay Committee To Meet June 8

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement Board's salary committee will meet at 8 p.m. June 8 at the district office at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, to discuss proposed salary increases for district employees.

Allan D. Telford, district manager, has recommended a 6 per cent cost-of-living raise for the district's nine employees as well as additional fringe benefits. He said that if all the requests were granted by the board, it would cost the district $13,232 more than this year.

The full board will hear recommendations from the salary committee on June 9 at 8 p.m. at which time Telford said the board expects to adopt a budget for 1971-72.

Marin Women

New Horizon Opens — Veterinary Medicine

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Veterinary medicine is a fast growing field for women, many of whom are becoming full-fledged doctors with DVM degrees, and for others who are animal technicians, or veterinary assistants.

Currently in Marin three young women are exercising their skills as doctors in pet hospitals, and a fourth veterinarian is planning to work part-time as soon as she can make arrangements for the care of her two young children.

A graduate of Washington State University veterinary school in 1962, Dr. Carrie A. Corvin now owns and operates her own veterinary hospital in Ignacio, after gaining experience in pet hospitals in Sausalito and Mill Valley.

ALSO A WASHINGTON State graduate, in 1968, Dr. Susan Reinke is employed at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley. She has two years previous experience in a New York pet hospital. Her husband, Dr. Jerome Reinke, is a veterinarian at Tamalpais Pet Hospital in Mill Valley.

Another husband-wife veterinary team consists of Dr. Sharon Sharpnack of the Terra Linda Veterinary Hospital and Dr. Eric Sharpnack, who is employed at the Marin Veterinary Clinic at Point Reyes, where they live. Sharon was graduated from the veterinary school of the University of California at Davis in 1967.

Dr. Nancy Newton, wife of Mill Valley's new planning commissioner, was graduated in 1966 from the veterinary school at Michigan State University and practiced as a doctor at several hospitals before coming to Mill Valley.

ALL OF the women said they had liked animals since childhood, made the decision to become veterinarians at a very young age and had never wanted to be anything else.

Sharon said, "I think girls naturally feel protective. In vet school they seemed to take more care in nursing sick animals, and they were better at first in surgery because they were used to doing finer things with their hands and fingers."

The women experienced no great difficulty, as compared with many women physicians, in gaining admission to their professional schools, although Susan said, "I do believe that women have to have higher grades on the average than men," and Sharon admitted, "I had to apply a second time because my grades weren't high enough the first time. There were 11 girls in my class," she said, "and those that graduated are very successful as vets."

Carrie Corvin, who was in the first 10 students admitted in her group, commented, "If you take your pre-vet work at a college having a veterinary school, you have a better chance of being admitted because you become known."

Nancy Newton credited her ready acceptance to the fact that "the Michigan State University school of veterinary medicine is noted for its liberal policy in this respect."

THE FOUR women agreed that though there were a few faculty members and men colleagues who showed prejudice against women in the field, on the whole there was very little of it in school. How a woman is treated, they say, depends on her personality and attitude.

There was general agreement on qualifications a woman needs who wants to become a veterinarian.

First is a liking for and desire to care for animals. Then since the educational requirements include a college degree and four additional years at a veterinary school, a student should have generally good intelligence and high grades in college with interest and good achievement in the scientific pre-med courses.

All emphasized the need for great physical stamina because women have to handle the large animals as well as the small ones in school, and they can be as good at it as a man, they believe, though most prefer to work with small animals.

SHARON COMMENTED, "There are always men around to handle the large animals. If I had a hospital I would hire a man to do that."

Susan pointed out that ability to deal with people is also very important, noting that "some students make the great mistake of thinking that being a vet is just a matter of handling animals."

With their degree in hand, young women veterinarians have problems of employment to consider.

Some encountered reluctance to hire a woman, and two experienced a pay differential, with a lower salary for women than for men doing the same work. But the scarcity of veterinarians has a tendency to keep that to a minimum, they say.

THEY SAY there was some hesitancy on the part of a few

ATTORNEY'S VIEW

Women Told To Police The Laws

By BARBARA HOSMER

It's up to women themselves to work to get rid of laws that are keeping them down, attorney Jettie Pierce Selvig said yesterday.

"Give us our rights and we'll protect ourselves," is the message she urged women to give their state and federal legislators.

Speaking to the Soroptimist Clubof Marin in San Anselmo, she said that women no longer need "protective" laws and she urged passage by Congress of the Equal Rights Amendment to insure women equality under the laws of this country.

THE MILL VALLEY lawyer, who is associated with the San Francisco law firm of Belli, Ashe, Ellison, Choulos and Lieff, said that old laws which purport to "protect" women only serve to keep them down in low-level jobs and should be done away with via the Equal Rights Amendment.

It's up to women, and the place to educate them about such matters is in clubs and chapters "such as this", she told the club.

Mrs. Selvig said that labor unions have conscientiously worked to better the lot of men workers, often at the expense of women members, adding that for example it was not unusual to find them bargaining for a "cough for the women in the rest room and a pay raise for men." Management, she said, liked this because of the great numbers of women many businesses employ.

THE COURTS, and especially the U.S. Supreme Court, have been no friends to women, either, she said. Neither the Fifth nor Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution, which guarantee "due process of law" and "equal rights" for citizens, have not abrogated laws that limit women's right to work, give them longer prison terms than men for similar offenses, deny occupational opportunity or right to property.

Despite these constitutional amendments every state has laws that discriminate against women, the former president of the National Association of Women Lawyers said.

"The doctrine of placing all females in a class for protection still stands," she said.

THE SUPREME COURT has had no case in which it upheld women's rights to employment,, Mrs. Selvig added, even though, she said, last January the court instructed a lower court to take closer look at the test case of Ida Phillips versus Martin Marietta Corp. of Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Phillips claimed her civil rights were violated when she was refused employment because she was the mother of pre-school age children.

She explained that Mrs. Phillips' attorney argued that Martin Marietta employed men with pre-school age children, and the court opinion said that such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an occupational qualification necessary to the operation of business.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, she added, disagreed in a separate opinion, saying that he feared "the court has fallen into a trap of assuming that the act (Civil Rights Act of 1964) permits ancient canards about proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination."

SO, MRS. SELVIG said, the court in effect has not upheld the right of women to equal job opportunity.

"With victories like these, who needs defeats?" she said.

All such laws and opinions upholding sex discrimination would be unconstitutional with the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, she said, adding that married women are discriminated against particularly in state laws about property ownership and its management. Community property of the marriage, she said, is by right in California managed by the husband.

The law looks upon a married couple as one, and the one is the husband, she said.

While she praised the Family Rights Act of California as being forward-looking in placing no blame on either partner in dissolution of marriage, she said that it is presenting new problems for women.

It assumes, she said, that women are able to earn a reasonable living, and currently many wives of long years who are suddenly finding their marriages dissolved have no training nor job experience to equip them to earn a living.

"It will be a just law only after we advance the limit for women to include equal job opportunities, control over thier own bodies including free legal abortion, paid maternity leaves and child care centers," Mrs. Selvig stated.

ONE MAJOR "breakthrough" was the issuance by the secretary of labor of guidelines regulating employment by firms that are federal contractors, she pointed out. The guidelines not only call for end of discrimination on the basis of sex or race but also require affirmative action programs instructing businesses to actively recruit and hire women and minorities, she said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

16-Year-Old Girl Declares She Is For Strictly Single Life

DEAR HELEN:

I'm another "Remaining Single."

I agree with the girl and Steve who say marriage is not for them. Most of the marriages I've seen are failures. The man gets drunk with the boys (or the girls), and the woman stays home with the kids.

No matter how much they seem to love each other at first, they end up nagging and fighting, and it's mainly the man's fault.

Not all of us girls want to become men's play-toys or baby machines. They have their fun, then they leave, either before marriage or afterwards. They basically don't like women except "in their place."

It makes me mad to think that I'll be considered a "failure" if I don't get married, no matter how successful I am, or that there'll be whispers about me being strange.

I'm not saying Iwill never marry, but I DO resent feeling that it's expected of me. From what I've observed, in my own family and elsewhere, a woman is a fool to scrap a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a man who isn't as smart as she is.

Up with women's liberation! — TIRED OF MALE WEAKLINGS AND BULLIES, AGE 16.

DEAR 16;

By the time you change your mind (if you do) a great many more men will be considering women as equals, not "play-toys." Any girl who thinks she must "give up a career for four walls, a bunch of squalling kids and a basic woman hater" has studied a species of married life that won't be around much longer. Why don't you interview young, happily married career girls and get a different slant? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 19-year-old stable young man. I've been going with this girl for two years and intended to marry her, but she has been playing me for a fool.

I keep finding her with other guys, and I know she wants to break up with me but, like a dummy, I keep begging her to come back. She does, probably out of pity.

You'd think I'd have more pride, but I can't lose her.

Maybe you can tell me, Helen, how to fall out of love. — CAN'T HACK IT

DEAR C.H.I.:

Make a date with a cute girl who has just been dumped by a two-timing boy friend. Spend no more than 10 minutes each downgrading your "ex" and then get on with the new. It won't happen like that, but you'd be surprised how fast you can fall out of love when there's a place to land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother is pretty far out, a lot better than most parents, except when it comes to this 17-year-old boy I want to date. He wants me to go to his prom with him, which is up on the mountains. His mom will even come down to get me and bring me home, but 'No!'

Mom says she trusts me but doesn't trust him, mainly because she thinks he does dope. He really doesn't, but even great parents get paranoid if you mention grass, and she read one of his letters that asked me what I'd think if he started. I told him I'd break up with him, but she won't believe he isn't like "the rest of those wild boys in his town."

IS IT HATE?

DEAR I.I.H.:

You make a scary boy and a suspicious parent compatible the same way you "condition" children to overcome their fear of animals: a little at a time.

Casually mention his achievements in school and elsewhere or have an older friend do it. — H.

Veterinary Medicine For Women

of the older clients to think they were not as well qualified as men, but they felt some of this attitude was due to their own inexperience in handling people, because it was overcome later.

"Some even prefer a woman," Sharon declared. "Cat people seem to want a woman to handle their cats, but some owners of large animals seem to be embarrassed to talk to a woman."

Susan explained that there will probably be more opportunities for girls in the fast growing field of animal technicians, noting that the five animal handlers during the day at the Tamalpais Pet Hospital where she works are all girls.

The California Veterinary Medical Association in Oakland said that two-year courses for animal technicians are now offered in the animal science department of the Los Angeles Pierce College in Woodland Hills and San Diego State College, and a four-year course is being proposed at California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

NUPTIAL VOWS SAID

New Demo Women's Director Hopes To Erase An Old Image

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic women work as hard if not harder than men in nuts-and-bolts chores for their party, but they receive little recognition and, more often than not, no pay.

Mrs. Harriet Cipriani, newly appointed director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee, said women themselves are partly to blame for their small representation in the party's councils.

'They should have been working at it," she said.

SHE HOPES to change the picture in next year's selection of delegates to the national convention and of candidates for state and national public office. But she emphasized that a successful election is pretty much the result of a do-it-yourself campaign. She cited Ohio as an example.

The Federation of Women's Clubs in Ohio decided to sponsor one of their own for state treasurer, and selected Mrs. Gertrude Donahey. They helped arrange speaking dates for her and exposed her to wide publicity, then supported her against male candidates in the primary and general elections.

The result: Ohio now has its first female treasurer —and the pleasant distinction of license plate No. 1 on her automobile.

"You always hear that women won't back a woman candidate, that they're jealous," Mrs. Cipriani said. "That just isn't true.

"Mrs. Donahey told women, 'This isn't my campaign, it's our campaign,' and they felt they had a stake in the race."

SHE SAID Democrats are proud that a commission headed by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., adopted guidelines that would forbid sex discrimination in selecting Democratic convention delegates.

Mrs. Cipriani urged women to "make sure they're in on this" and end up with better proportionate convention representation.

A study she made earlier this year showed a fluctuating ratio of women to men among delegates to the last three national Democratic conventions. In 1960, 303 women were included among the 2,717 delegates. In 1964, the count was 416 of 2,934, and in 1968, 405 of 3,049.

HARRIET CIPRIANI
Brings new ideas

Each of the 50 states sent at least one woman to the 1968 convention. Alaska was represented by one in the 22-member delegation, and for Hawaii it was one of 26. Three states chose two women to serve in their delegations —Alabama, Delaware, and West Virginia — but none accorded the women anything close to their actual voting muscle.

Women's total strength in state offices grew from 166 in 1969 to 191 in 1970, rising from 150 to 166 in legislatures, from five to nine as treasurer, and from one to three as auditor.

TWELVE WOMEN now serve in the House of Representatives, compared to nine last year, but the U.S. Senate counts only one woman among its 100 members — Maine's Republican Margaret Chase Smith.

Mrs. Cipriani wants to see the Democratic numbers increase appreciably.

She is planning to schedule a women's conference this fall, to which the top party leaders in each state will be invited. That would add up to a total of about 200, compared to the 3,000 who attended the last such meeting here in 1966, and Mrs. Cipriani said the smaller number is just about right.

A meeting of several thousand women is quite expensive and unwieldy. Panel discussions are too big, she said, and the conference becomes a social gathering.

"WITH 200 we can cover the role of women in the 1972 campaign and talk about how to get more of them to run for public office," she said.

Consumers Told To Always Fight Back

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Ways for consumers to fight back on their own were discussed yesterday by attorney Michael Silberstein of San Rafael, who has witnessed the poorer elements of society battle for their rights.

His remarks were made during the second lecture in a series, "You the Consumer" in Novato, sponsored by the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women and the Association of California Consumers.

During his talk he cited home rentals, autos and repair services among the growing problems in the consumer field.

He said his interest in consumer laws and self-defense tactics stemmed from his work with Legal Aid in San Mateo where he represented poor people, who suffered the brunt of inferior products.

Switching to the field of charge accounts, Silbertsein said that while normal interest rates are 18 per cent annually on carryovers, some stores hike the rate to as much as 37 per cent on accumulated monthly interest. He said it was wiser to borrow — say an amount of $100 from a bank to pay a bill at 18 per cent — than pay the higher rate.

A frustrating area is wily sales people, especially auto salesmen, he said, who sell cars all day to the consumer who may only buy a car every one to five years. When buying, have the salesman write it all down, he said.

There is legislation on the books to protect the consumer, but the consumer must have the willingness to see that an offense is corrected, he said.

TWO ACTS in effect to protect the consumer, Silberstein said, are the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act and the Rees-Levering Auto Sales Finance Act. The bills are not all protecting, he said, but in some cases the consumer can recover legal fees, and in some situations, triple damages. There is also the Truth-in-Lending, he said.

Silberstein said irregularities in purchases or in services should be reported to the consumer fraud division of the California Attorney General's office. Writing letters to the president of companies is another way he suggested to let the company know of any irregularities.

"Be informed, shop carefully and don't buy impetuously," he said.

A BENEFIT open to the homeowner is the Homestead Act, which Silberstein explained. For a minimal fee, a form, purchased at a local dime store or variety store may be filed with the county recorder listing the owner's address and in the event there is a foreclosure, the property would be protected up to $15,000 or $20,000, depending on the amount paid on the mortgage, he said.

The small claims court was suggested as another area where the consumer can find protection.

"The courts are very crowded, he said, "but the consumer can rant and scream."

He suggested two books to help the consumer — "How to Fight Your Case in Small Claims Court" and "What to do About Your Bad Car."

How Much Paint?

In a recent survey conducted by a paint manufacturer, do-it-yourself painters most often asked: How much paint do I need to paint my house? The answer: Read instructions on paint can label or ask the paint dealer.

"San Marin Art Faire" will be presented by the San Marin High School Parent-Faculty Club at the school in Novato from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Mrs. James Studley is chairman.

Lee Hilton, curriculum specialist with the Novato Unified School District, has gathered 200 items from Novato and San Marin High School; Hill, Sinaloa and San Jose Junior High Schools including flatwork, sculpture, jewelry and assemblages. Als on display will be 300 pieces of flatwork from the 12 elementary schools.

Art in action will be featured. Ronald Jolliffe's ceramics class will demonstrate Japanese techniques of raku firing, and Mrs. Brenda Lorraine's students will demonstrate tie-dyeing techniques. San Marin students will have ceramics, weaving, original prints, lithographs, etchings, woodcuts and jewelry for sale. The Parent-Faculty Club will have a booth with paper flowers, beads and baked goods donated by a church group for sale. Food will be on sale at the gymnasium patio with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Irwin and William Stiveson as chairmen.

Performing during the day will be Mrs. Joan Smith's modern dance club and John Yardas's band, vocal group and rock group. Mrs. Mona Arthur will demonstrate macrame, Mrs. Diane Miklos, weaving, and Mrs. Studley will demonstrate stitchery.

Displays will also be featured in the industrial arts building under the direction of teachers Duane Bengs and Donald Mavestiti.

THE EDUCATION for Childbirth Association of Marin is sponsoring its semi-annual free film festival tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater of Redwood High School.

Films to be shown are "A Shared Beginning" and "Journey With a Friend," both showing new trends in childbirth, and two films on home delivery, "Child Birth at Home" and Kirsa Nicolina," made in Muir Beach and shown throughout Europe, where it has won several awards.

THE ANNUAL breakfast of the Tamalpais Centre Woman's Club will be tomorrow at noon at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. Mrs. A. M. Komora is chairman.

MRS. PAUL Brand of San Anselmo and Mary Henry of Corte Madera are hostesses for the 93rd annual meeting of the San Francisco YWCA and the Marin and San Mateo County units being held tomorrow evening in the San Francisco State College cafeteria.

Beginning at 6:30 a social hour and dinner will precede a talk by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles at 8 p.m. on "Toward Educational Excellence; the Role of the Citizen."

FAIR DAY, sponsored by the Davidson Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, will be held tomorrow, beginning at 11:45 a.m. at the school in San Rafael.

A luncheon of salad and spaghetti will be on sale to the public.

THE ANTIQUES study group of the Novato Newcomers Club are planning a trip to Sonoma tomorrow. Members will leave the Novato Fair Shopping Center at 9:30 a.m.

They will visit the home and shop of Lucille Bjorkman and several other shops. Mmes. Richard Long and Edgar Garland are reservations chairmen.

MEMBERS OF the Christian Women's Club will serve a public breakfast from 9:45 a.m. to noon tomorrow at the Rafters restaurant at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

Speaker will be Mrs. Henry L. Edington of El Cerrito, chairman of the Council of Women, Northern California Billy Graham Crusade. Pianist Maxine Jenison of Mill Valley will present a musical program.

Mrs. Harold Mickens of San Rafael is reservations chairman.

AN OPEN house and tea is being hosted tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m. by members of the Stinson Beach Allied Arts at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Support of the community center is the group's major purpose. Funds raised through rummage sales and bazaars have also been donated to the Audubon Canyon Ranch, the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, Indian schools for scholarship grants and local parent-teacher clubs.

COURT ST. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, received a first place award for membership at the 25th Biennial Conference of the Catholic Daughters held last weekend in Los Angeles. The award was accepted by delegates Mmes. William Webb and Andrew Medvic, both of San Rafael.

SOCIALITES OF Marin and Sonoma Counties will have a dance for single adults tomorrow at 9 p.m. at the Heidelberg Inn in Santa Rosa.

Chairman is M. E. Van Hoosen of Novato.

MR. AND MRS. Edward Schulman of Novato had an orientation program for the Foreign Study League, a teen-age travel and study program at their home last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulman are counselor directors for the tour, which will leave Marin County July 4 for a six-week's trip to Rome, Germany, Switzerland, England, the Netherlands and France.

MRS. HENRY EDINGTON
Christian women's speaker

The meeting covered foreign currency and exchange, clothes, luggage and packing and the academic philosophy of the program.

The entire group of 145 students and teachers from the Bay Area that will be traveling in Europe will meet on Saturday in San Jose.

Students making the tour from Marin and Southern Sonoma are Ned Parker and Ladd Schulman of Novato; Lori Collins of Greenbrae; Janet Russel of Ross; Glenda and Joan Corstorphine, Karen Amandoli, Hal Shenson, Brant and Mark Ward of San Rafael; Nancy Koch of Sleepy Hollow; Michele and Claudia Heath of Tiburon, and Janet Gunthorp and Ronnie Redding of Petaluma.

REEDLAND WOODS School's public Renaissance Faire will be held on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at its grove in Tiburon.

Students have purchased booths to sell their handicrafts: macrame, paper flowers, beads, candles and leather goods. Breads, cakes, ciders, tarts and sandwiches will be sold. Games for all ages have been planned.

"LA FIESTA" is the theme of the Mexican dinner-dance to be given by the Sausalito Yacht Club Saturday at the clubhouse. Members will wear informal, preferably Mexican clothes.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 6 to 8 p.m., and Don Pedro Salas will entertain with his guitar and songs. from 8 to 9 p.m. a Mexican dinner will be served, and dancing will complete the evening.

Chairman is Jack Yelverton, and Mr. and Mrs. Yelverton are reservations chairmen.

THE NOVATO Newcomers Club gourmet group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Patrick in Novato at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. John McGuire and Mrs. Patrick have planned the menu and will demonstrate the preparation of a Korean dinner. Mrs. Jerry Carstens is reservation chairman.

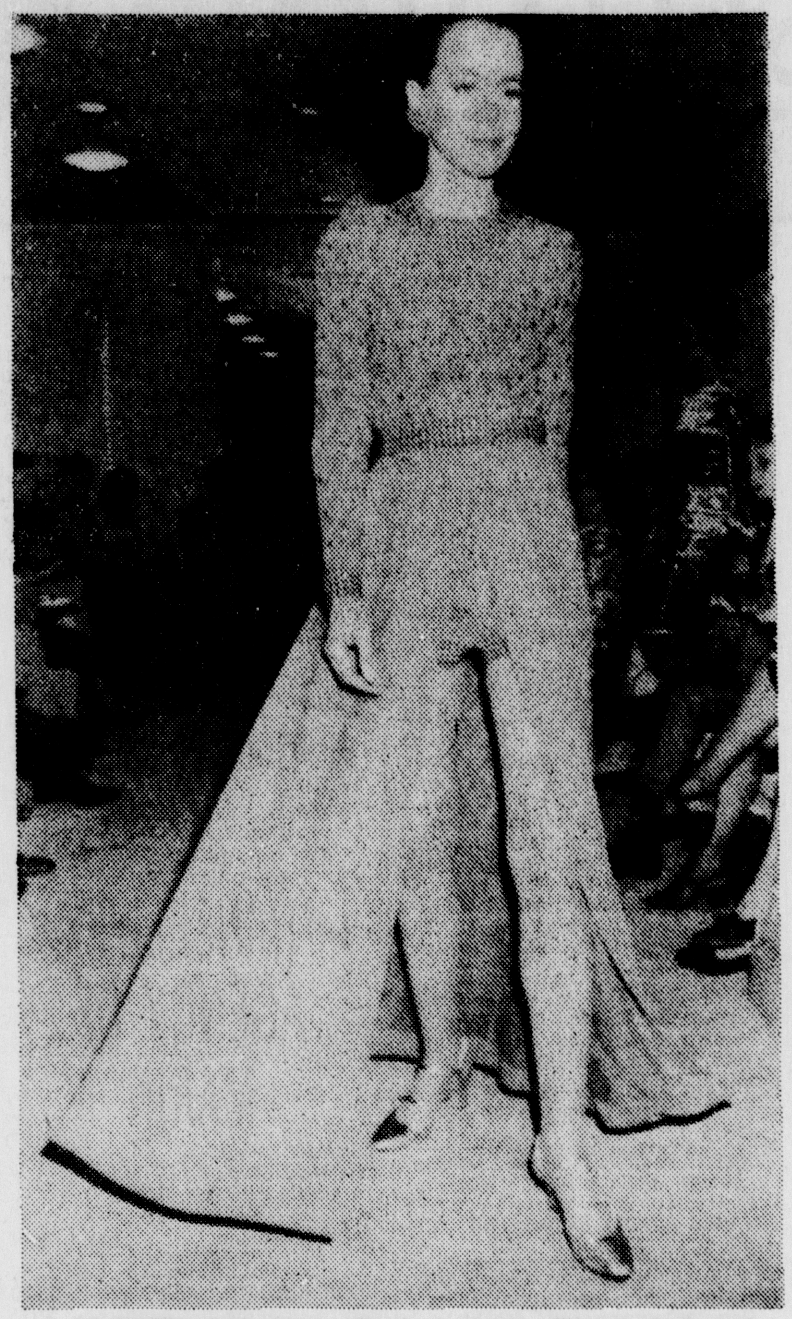
"MEET THE Cast" party will be held Saturday night at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, following the Pelican Players performance. The audience is invited to stay after the performance for dancing and refreshments.

Designers Skirting Issue In Hemlines For The Fall

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designers fraught with what to do about hemlines finally have skirted the issue with a flattering compromise. Down with the extremes of the mini, up with the awkward (for most) look of the midi, and onward with a happy compromise of lengths covering the knees.

Matter of fact, the New York firms currently showing their advance fall and winter collections to the nation's buyers are so adamant about the knees being covered next season that the firm of Teal Traina apologized when a model appeared in a late day black chiffon dress above her knees. The knees would be covered by the time that design got into production and shipping, Teal Traina, the president, assured his audience.



AS PART of the New York designer firms' shows of their fall and winter collection, Mollie Parnis showed this floor length formal in red crepe studded with golden nailheads. The skirt is slit to the waist to show matching shorts with the cuffs trimmed with the decorative nailheads. (UPI Telephoto)

TO GO with the more conservative hemlines coming into fashion, there also is the fail-safe revival of the classics of the 1930s and 1940s.

Consider these revivals among others:—The blazers, not only blazing the fashion trail into the whole range of daytime wear but into more formal apparel. The designer at Malcolm Charles said blazers cover all of a woman's problem areas."

— The "chubbies," those waist-length fur jackets usually done in bulky-looking furs like silver fox and once standard in the wardrobes of Hollywood's glamour girls.

—Casual, wraparound coats, belted bathrobe fashion, their wide collars worn turned up around the neck. Teal Traina did one in natural cashmere, others in furs such as a black calfskin collared and cuffed in black-and-white skunk.

—SHIRT DRESSES, in daytime wools or in deluxe evening versions from designers like Mollie Parnis. Miss Parnis liked them for day as step-in versions done in challis prints, with slight flare to skirts.

—Return of argyle patterns in fabrics, big diamond-shaped designs in daytime dresses, coats, suits and cape costumes.

—A big season ahead for black for both day and evening with the "little black dress," a basic a woman can depend on when in doubt what to wear.

—Casual sweater top looks to some of the most glamorous of evening clothes, some of them jewel-studded all over their high necklines and long skinny sleeves.

—Return to the fitted look with waists belted, clothes hugging the bosom—"I've never seen anything wrong with showing the figure," said Traina.

Vows Are Exchanged In Home Of Bride's Mother

Mrs. Jane Ray Valceschini and Richard A. Merriam, both of Marin, were married Saturday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Herbert James Ray of Nevada City. It was a second marriage for both.

The bride's son Mark gave his mother in marriage, and her niece, Rebecca Ray of Nevada City, was maid of honor. The bridegroom's best man was his son, Putnam.

Also attending were the bride's family and a few close friends of the couple, the bride's sons, Scott, Clark and Matthew and Mr. Merriam's son Pendleton.

After the reception they left on a brief trip to Lake Tahoe and will make their home in San Rafael.

Mr. Merriam is the son of Mrs. Louis T. Merriam of Greenfield, Mass., and the late Mr. Merriam, and the bride is the daughter of the late Admiral Ray.

Roberta Williams Wins Alumni Award

Roberta A. Williams of 208 A Bulkley Street, Sausalito has been named a recipient of an Education Alumni award presented by the University of San Francisco.

A 1971 graduate in secondary education and library science she was one of five recipients chosen for their academic work, student teaching, and promise as future educators.

Couple Says Vows In San Francisco

St. Francis Lutheran Church in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding of Susan Eleanore Albrecht and Gerald Raymond Skeels of Larkspur on May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Albrecht of San Francisco are the bride's parents. Mrs. Dennis McNamara of Mill Valley was matron of honor, and Delores Thompson, Sturgis, Mich., was bridesmaid.

Best man for the bridegroom was John McFadden of Tiburon, and ushers were Dennis McNamara and Phillip Walters of Mill Valley.

Following a reception at the church, the couple went on a wedding trip to Carmel and Monterey. They are living in Larkspur. The bridegroom is a parish worker and organist for the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

Susan was graduated from Fort Van Couver High School in Vancouver, Wash., and Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore. She is employed with the Health Department for the City and County of San Francisco.

Gerald, the son of Mrs. Max Skeels of Oregon City was graduated from Oregon City High School and Lewis and Clark College. He also attended the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus, Ohio.

Richard Trice Is Engaged To Mary Ann Sherman

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sherman of San Quentin are announcing the engagement of their daughter Mary Ann To Richard John Trice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Trice of Concord.

Mary is the sister of Mona Jean Sherman of San Quentin and Stephen Ford of Corte Madera and the granddaughter of Mrs. Bessie Taylor of Redwood City. She attended San Rafael High School.

Richard is the brother of Thomas Trice of Concord, William Trice of Pittsburgh, Robert Trice of Eureka and Mrs. Paul Harrison of El Sobrante. Mrs. Agnes Stoffel of Walnut Creek is his grandmother. He was graduated from Mount Diablo High School and attended Mount Diablo Valley College, both in Concord. The future bridegroom is employed by Cable Television in Concord.

The couple plans to be married Aug. 28.

The parcel of land last above described includes all of the land described in the following deeds, to-wit:

1st - a Deed from Mathew Parrot and wife to David McMullin, dated February 7, 1865 and recorded in the County Recorder's office of the County of Marin, State of California in Book E of Deeds at page 283;

2nd - a Deed from O. L. Shafter, et al, to David McMullin, dated October 4, 1865 and recorded in said Recorder's office in Book E of Deeds at page 423;

3rd — a Deed from Oscar L. Shafter, James McM. Shafter and Charles Webb Howard to David McMullin and Samuel McCurdy, dated December 28, 1867 and recorded January 7, 1868 in the County Recorder's office of the County of Marin, State of California, in Book F of Deeds at page 436.

EXCEPTING therefrom the portion thereof containing 0.341 of an acre, more or less, conveyed to State of California by Deed recorded June 13, 1957 in Liber 1121 O.R. page 157, for purpose of widening State Highway.

ALSO EXCEPTING therefrom any portion thereof lying Westerly of State Highway No. 1.

The sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by, and pursuant to, the power of sale conferred in that certain Deed of Trust, dated November 12, 1968, executed by GEORGE E. WALKER, a single man, ROBERT L. MATTHEWS and LYDA MATTHEWS, his wife, and JERALD R. HUMBERT and KATHLEEN HUMBERT, his wife, as trustors, in which ETHEL RIGHETTI is named as Beneficiary, and WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY as trustee, and recorded on November 18, 1968, in Book 2255, page 588 Official Records, Marin County, California.

Notice of Default and Election To Sell the above-described property under said Deed of Trust was recorded on January 5, 1971, in Book 2427, page 551, Official Records, Marin County, California.

The undersigned was appointed and substituted as trustee under said Deed of Trust by substitution dated April 12, 1971, and recorded on April 16, 1971, in Book 2453, page 527 Official Records of Marin County, California.

Dated: April 28, 1971.

Portuguese Festival On Sunday

The annual Portuguese Holy Ghost Festival will be celebrated in Novato Sunday with a parade, a special mass, dining and dancing.

Mary Antoinette Nunes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Nunes of Novato, will be queen of the festival sponsored by the IDESI (Independent Society of the Divine Holy Spirit).

Joanne Barbosa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barbosa of Novato, will be the little queen.

The celebration will start at 9:30 a.m. with a parade from Olive Avenue and First Street to Our Lady of Loretto Church, where a requiem mass will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m.

After mass the queens will be crowned and the celebrants will march to the IDESI Hall, Sweetser and Machin avenues, where the traditional lunch of bread, meat and gravy will be served.

There will be dancing in the afternoon, dinner and dancing in the evening.

Attendants to the queen will be Maria S. Belo and Delores Flores of San Rafael and cape bearers will be Joseph and Mary Grace Silveira of Santa Venetia, Richard Avella of Novato, Lucia Santos of Dixon, Solano County,and Alvaro Anacleto of Novato.

Maids to the little queen will be Diane Eyler and Sherry Wilkinson, both of Novato and cape holders will be Nancy Lee Razentes and Dorene Schmidt, both of Novato, and Suzie Borges of Sonoma.

Holy Ghost festival queens from Sausalito, Vallejo, Petaluma,Sebastopol and Benicia are expected to parade, the sponsors said.

10-Cent Property Tax Hike Looms In Larkspur

Larkspur City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst, in a preliminary budget totaling $1,028,439 for fiscal 1971-72, has called for salary increases and other new expenditures totaling $72,000.

Next year's budget, as proposed in a 30-page document, would require a tax rate of $1.995 per $100 assessed valuation. This year's rate is $1.895.

Assessed valuation in the city is expected to reach $36,437,644, the document says, for a 13 per cent increase over this year's $32,245,703.

Bathurst explained the higher assessed valuation figure as 8 per cent dictated by law and 5 per cent for new growth in the community.

While the proposed tax rate represents a 10-cent hike, the actual budget figure is $11,518 less than this year's due to a drop in state gas tax revenues.

This year the city received about $158,000 from the state tax but next year will receive only $65,000 for capital outlay projects.

In requesting a 5 per cent salary increase for most employees, Bathurst turned down suggestions the city begin an incentive pay program for firemen and police officers.

"I believe an incentive program is a desirable fringe benefit," Bathurst says, "however, it is my feeling that the city cannot afford same this year."

Besides the 5 per cent increase, Bathurst has recommended his three top assistants receive pay hikes "commensurate with respective responsibilities and duties."

Under the proposal, Harlan Barry, administrative assistant, would receive the title assistant city manager with an increase in pay from $1,100 per month to $1,213.

John W. Appleton, planning and building superintendent, would become the director of planning and building with a pay hike from $1,155 to $1,243.

The foreman of public works, Warren Mistron, would become the superintendent of public works at $950 per month. He now makes $862.

Other new expenditures included in the budget are a total of $9,000 as salaries to city councilman, who currently are not paid, $15,570 for an additional policeman and two cadets to the 11-man department, $12,500 for master plan upgrading and $10,000 torward a new police station.

A breakdown of recommended department budgets (with this year's in parentheses) shows: Administration, $49,320 ($41,306); finance, $10,206 ($8,736); legal, $10,900 ($12,200); planning, $21,458 ($13,343); engineering, $5,650 ($4,400); general government building, $10,260 ($15,531); insurance, $110,000 ($84,300); police, $185,360 ($155,212); fire, $217,151 ($208,748); inspection, $24,687 ($23,824); public works — street operation, $51,238 ($59,898); public works — street maintenance, $8,850 ($8,600); public works — street construction, $65,000 ($158,000); public works lighting, $41,362 ($35,006); public works drainage, $14,831 ($25,409); parks, $26,079 ($25,700); recreation, $19,900 ($15,500); library, $51,488 ($43,944) and public works — sanitary, $104,647 ($99,300).

The budget will be considered by the city council June 1 and 2 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Erosion Linked To Seeping Sewage From Bolinas Mesa

Sewage seeping from Bolinas Mesa was said last night to be a possible cause of the falling away of the mesa's seaward cliffs, perhaps more to blame than tidal and wave erosion at the base of the cliffs.

The point was made at a sparsely attended public hearing at the Bolinas Community Center. About 30 persons turned out for the hearing, first step in a study of erosion and its effect on Bolinas Beach, Bolinas Lagoon and the Stinson Beach area.

Lars Weseth of 166 Ocean Parkway, Bolinas, said that 30 to 40 feet of the cliff in front of his house had eroded and fallen away in the past two years.

"If you will look at the bottom of the cliff, it is always dripping water and it smells like sewage from septic tanks," Weseth said.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, agreed that some cliff erosion is caused more by water from above than by action of the waves beneath.

Roberts told those attending the brief meeting that it would take approximately three years for the corps to complete the study which has just received $5,000 in funds. The study was authorized by Congress in 1967.

"Then, if we have a feasible project, the federal government would pay half the cost, the state one quarter and the fourth quarter would have to come from local sources," he said.

Archie Goldsberry, manager of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District offered the corps of engineers all the records his district has on the erosion.

Joel Gustafson of the University of San Francisco, said that three studies have been made showing that the cliff has eroded about 120 feet in the past 100 years. He estimated that if one-third of it was washed into Bolinas Lagoon, it would raise the bottom by 3.5 feet.

Capt. Nils Millen of the State Department of Fish and Game asked that a special study be made to save the little neck clam area around Duxbury Point.

JIM GILMARTIN

An Exotic Mission For Two Coaches

Richard Hart of Ross and Ray Dal Poggetto of Greenbrae once again are packing their globe-girdling luggage for another exotic sports mission on behalf of the United States Navy.

On June 9, Hart, the popular and extremely successful basketball coach at Redwood High School, and Dal Poggetto, commissioner of officials for the Far Western Conference, will depart for the Pacific and Far East to conduct several basketball clinics for Navy personnel.

Following an itinerary similar to one they conducted last year, the pair will hit Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong, Taipei and Tokyo.

They expect to return early in July. The poor guys. Besides having to be away from home for about a month, they have to get paid for this drudgery. Aw gee. But quite an honor.

CONGRATULATIONS to Al Scott and Jerry Colletto of Novato High School and Al Endriss and Jesse Payan of Redwood for their selections as coaches in the annual North-South Marin All-Star High School football game this summer.

The Novatans will coach the North while the Redwoods will head up the South. The game, sponsored by the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club, will match the outstanding senior players from the 1970 season. Players, date and site will be announced shortly, says co-chairman John W. McGlynn of Mill Valley.

ALSO, BOUQUETS and a "sorry about that" to Art Morrill of Novato.

Last weekend he tied with Santa Clara's Tommy Angelo for high point trophy in the 13-14 age group in the Marin Ivitational "AA" Swimming Championships at Novato but didn't get a mention in Monday's account of the meet.

When I wrote the story, which involved nearly 400 youngsters from 37 clubs, I missed this local star because he was entered as unattached, although he has been swimming for the Dolphins of Marin Club for the past four months.

With so many youths involved we can only concentrate on the local stars and I'm still kicking myself in my rotund posterior for missing this all-star. Keep up the great work, Art. Your two first places, two seconds and two thirds over the weekend were truly outstanding.

DARYLE LAMONICA, the great quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, will be a Marin visitor tomorrow and Saturday competing in the Marin Country Club's 36-hole invitational golf tournament at Novato, a best ball twosome event pairing members and guests.

He'll be the guest of committeeman Dick Hunter, according to ex-New York Yankee pitcher Art Schallock, who'll also compete.

ALAN LEE, the ex-Tamalpais High School sprint champion, pulled a hamstring in the Santa Barbara Relays and couldn't compete in the sprints for University of California at Santa Barbara. However, he did run the 880 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championships and placed fifth.

According to Tam Coach Bruce Grant, Lee has run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds this year, and not 9.8 as I recently mentioned. So he isn't really slowing down with old age.

Colonial Invitation Or Mexican Open?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The way Homero Blancas and Lee Trevino have been playing lately, the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opening today might again live up to the "Mexican Open" nickname tagged to it by Trevin last year.

The two Latin Americans waged a final day duel with Gene Littler for the $25,000 first prize a year ago with Blancas taking the title by a stroke with a three-under-par tour of the 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 Colonial Country Club layout.

Trevino and Littler shot 69 and 67, respectively, and tied for second at 274.

Blancas, on the surface, isn't moving in that same class since he ranks 36th with $26,103 pocketed.

But, the past two weeks Blancas has been right in contention going into the final rounds at the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas and the Houston Champions.

His putter, which had been the key club in his winning drive here a year ago and which had put him in contention at Dallas and Houston, seemed to desert him on the final 18 each of the last two Sundays.

"I took three 6's in Dallas, including a bogey on a par-5 hole that I had birdied, and that killed me," Blancas said.

He shot a closing 73, his only over-par round, and wound up seven shots off the pace and picked up but $2,482.

Then, at Houston, he was knocking up among the leaders going into the final round.

"I three-putted three times on the first nine holes," he said. "If I could have two-putted those holes, I would have been four-under instead of one-under for the 72 holes."

He didn't say so, but a fourunder would have tied him with Houston winner Hubert Green and Don January, whom Green beat in a sudden death playoff. He wound up tied for seventh and won $3,800.

Trevino, incidentally, who had finished five shots off the pace at Dallas to win $4,542, was just one shot back at Houston and won more than $7,200.

The two Latins, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Littler—who has won more money here than anyone else by finishing in the money all 17 times he's played—rule as the top contenders since Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer chose to bypass the Colonial in favor of a vacation.

Andros Considers Oklahoma Job

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros admits he has "been invited back for a visit" to talk about the athletic director's job at Oklahoma, his alma mater.

"I think that's a great honor," he said Wednesday.

Andros, 47, took over as head coach at Oregon State in 1965 after three years at Idaho. He was a one-time football star at Oklahoma. "I'd hate to leave Oregon State and coaching," he said, "but there comes a time in any guy's life when he has to consider the future.

Teams Trade Lances

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —In a blockbuster trade involving three teams and seven players, the Los Angeles Rams landed Lance Rentzel from Dallas Wednesday and the San Diego Chargers gave up Lance Alworth to the Cowboys.

To get Rentzel, the Rams sent tight end Bill Truax and wide receiver Wendell Tucker to the Cowboys.

For Alworth, Dallas shipped three players to the Chargers—defensive tackle Ron East, tight end Pettis Norman and offensie tackle Tony Liscio.

Rentzel, 28, was charged with indescent exposure before a 10year-old girl last season and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Alworth, a nine-year pro veteran who has had financial problems, sued the Chargers last December for $5.6 million, alleging breach of contract, and followed that up with an anti-trust suit against the NFL and all of its 26 teams.

Later Alworth and the Chargers settled their difficulties and the former Arkansas star was given a contract through 1974 for dropping his legal actions. for all parties.

"Certainly, I'm sorry to be leaving the team and the organization which stood behind me. When you get loyalty life that, you want to repay it.

"It was a great thing for me when Dallas gave me a chance. But right now I'm glad to be back in the NFL. And I hope to have a great year with my new team."

Rentzel was given a probated sentence. His probationary status included the understanding he would receive regular medical and psychiatric care.

"We're not worried about his future conduct," Ram executive Jack Teele said.

"We know we're giving up one of the top flankers in the league in Rentzel," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "But I hought he would be better off in another city where he had the same opportunity to play regularly."

Landry said he met previously with Rentzel and Cowboy president-general manager Tex Schramm to discuss the possibility of a trade.

Los Angeles was one of the teams Rentzel mentioned if he had to be traded, Landry said.

Married to inger-dancer Joey Heatherton, Rentzel is a six-year veteran who spent his last four seasons in Texas after being traded from Minnesota to the Cowboys in 1967.

The 6-foot-2, 202-pounder from Oklahoma caught 28 passes for 556 yards in 11 games before quitting the team after his troubles last season. In his four-year career at Dallas, he caught 186 passes for 3,491 yards and 31 touchdowns.

At 31, Alworth is at the twilight of a career that saw him

Things Can Get Worse For Wells

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders' Warren Wells could lose his probation status over a weekend stabbing incident and face a possible prison term.

Superior Court Judge Leonard Dieden says he has asked for a detailed report in the "alleged incident" in Beaumont, Tex., Sunday in which Wells was stabbed near the heart at a bar by a 26-year-old woman.

Dieden said Wednesday he asked the Alameda County Probation Department and the district attorney's office to investigate jointly the incident.

"The purpose, of course, in calling for the report is to determine if there are sufficient grounds to revoke Mr. Wells' probation," Dieden said.

Meanwhile, in Beaumont, hospital officials described Wells condition as good.

Wells was put on a three-year probationary status by Dieden in 1969 following his conviction of attempted rape. Deiden revoked the probation in February, and reinstated it after Wells spent 60 days in the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center for "diagnostic study."

Dieden allowed Wells to return to his home in Beaumont following his release from Santa Rita. He was put under the observation of a psychiatrist at Texas Southern University in Houston, where Wells attended college.

Part of the terms of the probation prohibit Wells from drinking, or frequenting a bar.

JUGGLING ACT — Chicago Cubs' catcher J. C. Martin rolled on his back after colliding with third baseman Ron Santo (10) while the two were chasing a pop-up by San Francisco's Ken Henderson yesterday. Martin juggled the ball but still made the catch with his bare hand.

Washington Baseball Coach Retires

SEATTLE (UPI) —Former major league pitcher Ken Lehman has retired as baseball coach at the University of Washington, a post he held for eight years.

"I just felt it was time for a change," Lehman said Wednesday.

In his eight seasons with Washington, Lehman's teams won 106 while losing 179.

Wrigley Field Is No Pitcher's Paradise

CHICAGO (UPI) —Juan Marichal went after his seventh win of the year today as the San Francisco Giants met the Chicago Cubs in the finale of a three-game series.

Marichal, who has lost two games, will be trying to put the Giants back on the winning track after they were outslugged by the Cubs Wednesday, 9-5. San Francisco leads Atlanta by 7 1-2 games in the National League Western DivIsion.

The Giants rapped three homers off the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins Wednesday, but that wasn't enough as Billy Williams drove in six runs for Chicago with two homers and a triple.

Williams cracked a three-run homer in the first inning, then led off the third frame with his 11th homer of the year. In the sixth, he tripled in two more runs.

The Cubs' J.C. Martin also hit a homer in the second, his second in two games, after Brock Davis had singled.

Hal Lanier and Bobby Bonds each had solo jobs for the Giants, and Dick Deitz hit a two-run homer in the third, his sixth of the year.

The hitters were helped by a 23 mile an hour wind blowing out of Wrigley Field.

Ferguson Jenkins survived a shaky first four innings, then blanked the Giants the rest of the way to chalk up his eighth win in his last nine decisions against San Francisco.

Young Steve Stone started for the Giants, but was tagged for four hits and five runs in the first two innings. He was followed in the second by John Cumberland. It was the second loss against three wins for Stone.

Baseball Championship Goes On Line Tomorrow

The Novato High School Hornets, leading the Marin County Athletic League baseball race by one-half game going into the final day of the season, can wrap up the pennant either directly or by default.

A victory by Novato over San Rafael tomorrow afternoon, or a loss by Marin Catholic to Terra Linda tomorrow night would clinch the pennant for the second time in three years for the Hornets.

Marin Catholic is the only team left with a chance to catch the Hornets, and can do that only if San Rafael pulls an upset in the 4 p.m. game at Albert Park. Then the Wildcats could take the crown by beating Terra Linda at Albert at 8 p.m.

Probable pitchers for tomorrow's games are John Klingler (2-2) for San Rafael, Mike Lamb (5-1) for Novato, Tom Olson (6-1) for Marin Catholic, and Mike Sabel (4-0) for Terra Linda.

Two Bouts Added To Fight Card

FRESNO (UPI) —Two four-round bouts have been added to tonight's benefit show at which former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is to make a ringside appearance.

Boxing promoter Pete Rokas said heavyweights Dave Sherman of Fresno and Willie Henderson of San Diego will square off in one of the bouts and middleweights Jim Dempsey of Fresno and Agapeto Villegas of Mexicali, Mexico, in the other.

Proceeds from the benefit will go to the United Cerebral Palsy fund and the families of two late fighters, Eddie Pace and George Kennedy.

The main event will feature a lightheavy match between to-prated Eddie Jones and Terry Lee.

Ali, who is appearing ringside at the request of Pace's widow, will speak following the bouts.

Pop Warner Signups

San Rafael Junior Bulldogs will hold Pop Warner football signups for boys 9 through 14 Saturday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Davidson Junior High School's gymnasium.

Athletics' Amazing Hurler Tosses His Fifth Shutout

OAKLAND (UPI) — Vida Blue, the Oakland A's sensational young lefthander, claims he's still learning how to pitch.

If that's true then there is no telling how good he can become, although right now he's the best in the majors with five shutouts and a 9-1 record.

Wednesday night the 21-year-old flamethrower pitched a three-hitter as the A's rolled over the Milwaukee Brewers, 30.

Only this time he didn't stick to his fastball as much as he had in previous games. In fact Blue threw as many curveballs as he did fastballs, something new for him.

"I think I'm improving with very game," he said. "I'm learning as I go along. One thing I've learned is that you don't have to overpower people for nine innings. If you do you 'll only hurt your arm."

Against the Brewers Blue started off slowly as he battled his control, but once he got his curveball working, it was no contest. He struck out only five batters but he said he wasn't looking for strikeouts as much as he was trying to make good pitches.

"All I was trying to do was get the ball over the plate in spots," he said. "It took me a few innings to get loose, but that's all right because in the end I had a good fastball and that's what I needed.

Three hits off Blue, who has given up only 45 in 86 2-3 innings, were singles. One was by Roberto Pena in the third, the second was by Danny Walton in the seventh and the third was by Ron Theobold in the eighth.

Blue leads American League pitchers in victories, innings pitched, shutouts (5), complete games (9), strikeouts (86) and earned run average (1.14).

Home runs by Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson accounted for all the runs. Monday hit his sixth in the sixth for what proved to be all the help Blue needed. Then, Jackson, who celebrated his 25th birthday on Tuesday by striking out four times, lined his sixth with Joe Rudi aboard in the seventh for insurance.

A's manager Dick Williams says he has run out of words to describe Blue.

"TheRe isn't much I can say about him that I haven't said before," said Williams, who previously called Blue another Sandy Koufax.

Blue is on a 30-victory course but that's something he doesn't care to talk about.

"They give me the ball and tell me to go out there and I try my best," he said. "I'm not thinking about any goals or records."

The way Blue is going he could come close to 20 victories by the All Star break.

Lew Krausse, the Milwaukee pitcher, said don't be surprised if that turns out to be the Case.

"He's really something, isn't he," Krausse said.

Manager Dave Bristol shook his head in disbelief.

"EVEn when he's off a little he is better than most pitchers," Bristol said.

Bristol was alluding to the three walks Blue gave up in the first three innings. Blue has issued only 31 thus far but he said he wasn't too upset at his work Wednesday night.

"As things turned out they didn't hurt me, so I'm not worried about them. I wasn't all that wild."

Bill Parsons was the loser for the Brewers. The A's reached him for nine of their 10 hits in seven innings. Parsons, who struck out eight batters including Blue four times, now is 4-4.

Chuck Dobson (2-0) pitches tonight for the A;s in the final game of the current series with the Brewers. Krausse (1-4) pitches for Milwaukee.

7 Spots To Fill At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —The seven remaining spots in the starting lineup for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race probably will be filled Saturday, with Sunday, the last day of qualifications, devoted to the traditional "bumping" process.

Observers figure there are eight or nine unqualified cars with a "good" chance of making the lineup, and a half dozen other machines with a fair chance.

And if this weekend follows last year's final round of time trials, most of the activity will come Saturday. the extended weather forecast includes a chance of rain by Sunday, which is all the more incentive to be ready for qualifying runs Saturday.

However, the forecast was favorable for today and Friday, the last two full days of practice at the famed speedway as the unqualified cars and drivers sought enough speed to make the 33-car lineup, and those already qualified worked on perfecting race day performances.

Only 20 cars made practice runs Wednesday at the Indianapolis motor speedway, and it was the drivers in cars already qualified for the May 29 race who set the speed pace.

Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., the 1968 Indianapolis champ, had the day's quickest lap at 172.977 miles per hour in the car he put on the outside of the front row.

A.J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., a three-time Winner here, had a fast lap of 172.018 and Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo, also in a qualified car, had the only other speed of the day over 170 m.p.h., turning a lap at 170.293.

Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., had the fastest lap in a car which hasn't been qualified, 168.445 m.p.h. That speed is quicker than average speeds turned in by four of the 26 machines which were qualified last weekend.

However, the next fastest speed Wednesday was only 165.168 m.p.h., by rookie John Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa. That speed is well under the slowest qualifying spped yet posted for this year's holiday weekend grind — 167.817 by Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex.

Rain interfered with practice Wednesday at the 2 1-2-mile oval, halting track workouts nearly three hours.

Atlanta Stadium Making Sluggers Out Of 'Em All

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Atlanta Stadium seems to make a slugger out of everybody.

With its pleasing background, moderate distances and light air density, the stadium that houses the Atlanta Braves is fast becoming a modern day Ebbets Field and a torture chamber for pitchers.

For the third successive game Wednesday night there were six home runs hit at Atlanta Stadium, bringing the total for the year to 58 in 20 games. That's a better ratio than last year when 211 homers were hit there in 81 games, a major leading total.

Clete Boyer and Mike Lum each hit two for the Braves Wednesday night as they led their team to a 10-4 victory over the Montreal Expos. Boyer and Lum certainly do not fall into the category as home run hitters, yet Boyer has hit four at Atlanta in the last three games and other non-power hitters, such as Ralph Garr of the Braves and Bob Aspromonte of the Mets each hit two in one game this week.

The Expos got homers from Rusty Staub and pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore Wednesday night but couldn't offset the heroics of Boyer and Lum. Boyer, although batting only .222, has hit five home runs and driven in 10 runs in the last five games.

"I've always been a streak hitter," said Boyer, in trying to give a reason for his current spurt. "I hit five in three games in Washington back in the early '60s when I was with the Yankees. I can't explain it, I just get lucky at times."

In other NL games, Chicago walloped San Francisco, 9-5; Pittsburgh took over first place in the East Division by defeating Cincinnati, 6-1; Philadelphia beat the New York Mets, 4-1; Los Angeles edged St. Louis, 6-5; and San Diego downed Houston, 6-5, in 10 innings.

In the American League it was Baltimore 4 Washington 1, Boston 7 New York 2, Detroit 12 Cleveland 1, Kansas City 2 Chicago 0, Oakland 3 Milwaukee 0 and Minnesota 12 California 6.

Roberto Clemente collected four hits, including a triple and an inside-the-park homer, to drive in three runs in the Pirates' victory. The triumph moved the Pirates one full game ahead of the Mets, who suffered their fourth straight loss.

Chris Short scattered seven hits in going the distance to defeat the Mets. Terry Harmon's bases-loaded double in the seventh drove in three runs and tagged Jerry Koosman with his second loss against three victories. Mike Ryan had a homer for Philadelphia.

Rookie Bobby Valentine's run-scoring single in the eighth inning earned the Dodgers a come-from-behind victory. The Dodgers tied the game at 5-5 with two runs in the seventh with Willie Davis driving in the tying run with a single.

Ollie Brown's two-out single off second baseman Denis Menke's glove scored Nate Colbert with the winning run in the Padres' triumph. Colbert doubled with two out and scored when Brown's smash skipped off Menke's glove into short rightfield.

make 493 receptions for 9,584 yards and 81 TDs in nine years with the Chargers. He ranks No. 7 on the list of alltime pro receivers.

Last season he caught 35 passes for 608 yards.

The 6-foot-2 180-pounder from Arkansas holds two all-time pro records. He caught at least one pass in 96 consecutive games and gained more than 1,000 yards on receptions in seven straight seasons.

The Chargers obtained three players with a total of 18 years pro experience. Norman, 31, was with the Cowboys nine years while the 31-year-old Liscio was at Dallas seven years and East, 27, was with the Cowboys two seasons.

Truax, 28, was the key to the trade for Rentzel. The exLouisiana State player was a starter for the Rams for the past four seasons. He has a career total of 180 receiptions for 2,177 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Truax underwent knee and elbow surgery in the offseason.

The other Ram going to Dallas, Tucker, 27, is a four-year veteran.

Yugoslav Defeats Mark Cox

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — Favored Yugoslav Zeljko Franulovic beat defending champion Mark Cox of Britain in straight sets, 6-0, 9-8, 6-2 today to enter the men's singles final of the $36,000 British had court tennis championships.

Jaime Fillol of Chile will meet the winner of the delayed match between veteran Aussie, Frank Sedgman, and Britain's Gerald Batrick in the other semifinal.

Franulovic, the second seed who is favored to win the top prize of $4,080 following the withdrawal of Australia's Tony Roche with a stomach muscle injury, beat Cox for the first time as he raced through the first set in 15 minutes for the loss of only 10 points.

He appeared headed for a repeat performance in the second set when he led 3-1 and 41-love before the sixth-seeded Cox pulled himself together.

Cox saved set point in the 12th game and then blew a couple of his own in the 14th. He lost another in the 16th and this set up the tie-breaker, in which Franulovic led 4-1 and then trailed 4-6 before he finally wrapped it up at 9-7 for a 9-8 set that lasted 65 minutes.

A fourth game break in the third set put the Yugoslav on hs way into the final.

Donna Caponi Heads Field

BUENA PARK, Calif. (UPI) —Two-time U.S. Women's Open champion Donna Caponi of Hollywood, Calif., heads the LPGA field in the $41,000 Suzuki Golf Internationale that gets under way Friday at the Los Coyotes Country Club.

An 18-hole pro-am with a $3,000 purse is set today.

Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., winner of last weekend's $50,000 Sealy Classic, and Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the ladies' pro tour this year, also will be favorites in the 54-hole tournament.

Los Coyotes is a 6,041-yard, par 75 layout.

Two of the world's top women amateurs, Martha Wilkinson of Anaheim, Calif., and Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., also are entered.

Dryden Voted The Best

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Dryden, the sensational rookie goaltender for the champion Montreal Canadiens, was an overwhelming winner in the balloting for the Conn Smythe Trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding player in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Dryden, a 6-4 law student at McGill University, received 47 of a maximum 55 points in voting conducted among members of the National Hockey League Writers Association. Frank Mahovlich of Montreal and Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks were second and third, respectively, in the voting.

Dryden, who appeared in only six regular season games after being called up from the minors, set a record by taking part in all 20 of Montreal's playoff games.

Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) —Chris Cannizzaro, veteran catcher, was acquired Wednesday by the Chicago Cubs from the San Diego Padres in return for minor league infielder Garry Jestadt and cash.

Golf

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —The United States Walker Cup golf team arrived here today full of confidence for the forthcoming cup clash against Britain and the amateur championships in Scotland.

The 10-man U.S. team has only three players who have played in Britain before—Bill Hyndman, Bill Campbell and Steve Melnyk.

Despite their long flight the Americans immediately boarded a motor coach and set off for St. Andrews where they intend to play their first practice round later today.

The Walker Cup will be played over the old course at St. Andrews, May 6-27, and the week-long amateur starts at nearby Carnoustie, May 31.

Basketball

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Richard Hood, fifth-round draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers, Wednesday signed a contract with the National Basketball Association club.

ENROUTE TO A MILESTONE VICTORY

Golden Gate Fields Exacta Pays $5,792

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The one-two finish Wednesday at Sherry's Question and Eager in the fifth race at Golden Gate Fields produced a $5,792.50 Exacta payoff, second largest of the track's spring season.

The $217.00 straight payoff on Sherry's Question, who was making his first start of the year after winning one of six tries in 1970, was the highest of the year. The only higher Exacta return this season was the $8,066.50 paid by Miss Vagel and Dunkette on March 31 for a California record.

Sherry's Question, ridden by Senon Trevino, finished a half length in front of Eager, a four to one shot ridden by Dale Long.

The big Exacta payoff overshadowed Ratty Rulla's narrow victory over favored Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise in the $15,000 added Sir Francis Drake Stakes.

With Charlie Tohill aboard, Ratty Rulla moved to the outside in the stretch, took aim at Pharos Man and Aegean's Promise and then outfinished them.

Ratty Rulla paid $6.00, $2.80 and $2.40 while Pharos Man returned $2.60 and $2.40 and Aegean's Promise paid $3.00. In his initial stakes triumph, Ratty Rulla posted a 1.04 clocking for the five and a half furlongs.

Stoneham, Brass Talk Real Estate

CHICAGO — There was nothing unusual about Horace Stoneham making a road trip with his Giants. The president of the ball club does it all the time. Stoneham loves watching his team at home or on the road.

But what was the rest of Candlestick's front office brass doing on this trip? There was Pete Stoneham, the club's vice president and son of the president; Chuck Rupert, controller and Stoneham's son-in-law; Jerry Donovan, assistant to the president, and a stranger with a brief case who sat beside Stoneham on the flight from San Francisco to Chicago.

WHEN THE team check in at the Executive House, the Giants' Chicago hotel headquarters, there was more brass of National Exhibition Company, the legal name of the Giants. All of NEC's directors were in the hotel already.

Surely, Stoneham hadn't summoned all of his executives and directors to Chicago to watch the Giants and Cubs in a three-game series at Wrigley Field. After all, somebody had to be left at home to watch the shop notwithstanding the fact that the Giants are worth watching this year.

What was going on? And who was the stranger with the brief case?

THE STRANGER stripped the mystery from the unusual gathering when asked by an inquiring reporter what it was all about. He identified himself as Angelo Valenti, special representative of Marubeni-Iida Co., Ltd., with head offices in Tokyo and other offices throughout the world, including one in Los Angeles that does $45 million business a month.

Valenti, an expert on land developments, disclosed that he already had inspected the Casa Grande properties of National Exhibition Company and also some very valuable property NEC owns between the twin cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

NOW, HE was ready to make his report to NEC directors on the feasibility of development of those properties. He already had made his report to Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., a subsidiary of the $5 billion dollar Japanese company.

Obviously, the big Japanese firm was interested in developing the properties with NEC. Valenti certainly wouldn't have made the trip to Chicago if Marubeni-Iida wasn't interested in putting some of its vast surplus treasury to work.

YOSHIRO SHIMAO, executive vice president and general manager of Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., with headquarters in Los Angeles, has been conducting negotiations with Stoneham. They have been going on for some time.

Last winter at a NEC stockholders meeting, Stoneham reported a whopping operating loss of the Giants for the third straight year due to declining attendance in Candlestick Park. At that time he said "real estate has to be our salvation" if the situation in Candlestick continued.

THE WINNING ways of the Giants this season have taken care of the Candlestick attendance problem.

Stoneham's skill as a real estate operator may take care of that dividend NEC stockholders missed last year. Stoneham did more than watch baseball games when his Giants visited Japan for two weeks in the spring of 1970, a trip that cost them the loss of their pitching ace Juan Marichal for most of last season but may now reap rich real estate rewards.

A HERO'S WELCOME

Celebration In Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) —The National Hockey League champion Montreal Canadiens returned home Wednesday to a heroes' welcome unparalleled in Montreal's sport history.

A quarter of the city's population, a crowd estimated by police at between 500,000 and 600,000, mobbed Montreal's streets during a victory parade for the newly-crowned Stanley Cup champions.

The Habs clinched the top award in professional hocky Tuesday night when they edged the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 in the final contest of the best-of seven series.

"How nice it is," said team captain Jean Beliveau as he sat in a convertible inching its way down the street from the Montreal Forum to the City Hall. "We are very fortunate to win."

The parade route was a mere two miles long, but it took almost three hours to cover as cheering Montrealers forced their way through police lines into the middle of downtown St. Catherine Street.

In both English and French, Montrealers shoted themselves hoarse as they cheered their favorite players — Beliveau, Conn Smythe Torphy winner Ken Dryden and Henri Richard, who led the Habs to their victory over Chicago with two goals.

Decker Tops Pitching Statistics

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Decker of San Rafael, righthander for Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, leads latest PCL pitching statistics and it isn't even close.

Decker, former star at Petaluma High School, has a 4-0 record and 1.80 earned run average for the Chicago Cubs' farm club. Decker's 55 strikeouts also top the league and so do 31 walks.

Broncs Vs. San Jose In Playoff Opener

SANTA CLARA (UPI) —The first round of the NCAA District 8 baseball playoffs will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday with Santa Clara meeting San Jose State.

The Broncos are the West Coast Athletic Conference champions while San Jose State won the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

The winner of the three-game series will meet the Pacific-8 Conference champion.

Ali Making Plans For Another Bout

OAKLAND (UPI) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammed Ali said Wednesday he is preparing to sign for a bout to be held within the next six to seven weeks.

Ali named George Foreman, Wilt Chamberlain and English heavyweight champion Joe Bugner as possible opponents. He said he wants to have two fights before a rematch with heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ali said the bout with Los Angeles Star Chamberlain, an on-again-off-again affair, is still alive. He said his manager, Herbert Muhammad, had received a call from Chamberlain's lawyer Wednesday and he was awaiting the outcome of their talks.

Of Foreman's chances against Frazier, Ali said, "I don't think that Foreman could hit him as quick and as hard as I did."

Ali was in Oakland for a series of speaking engagements.

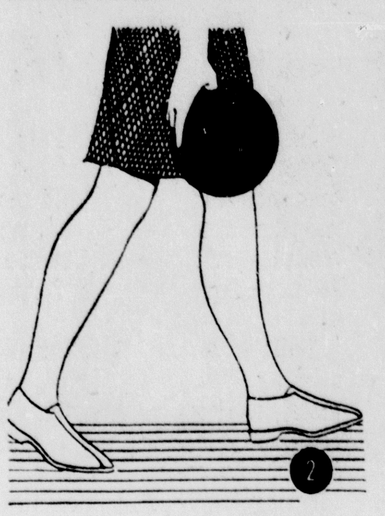
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



A well-timed swing means the ball should reach the bottom of its arc at the finish of the second step. If the ball is past this position, your footwork is slow. And if it hasn't dropped that far, you're moving your feet too quickly. Have someone check you on this.

Duane Thomas' Demands On The Questionable Side

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duane Thomas lost me somewhere.

He's the fine running back for the Dallas Cowboys or maybe you'd better make that he was their fine running back.

Duane Thomas says he's quitting the Dallas Cowboys and those people who claim to know him best say whenever he says anything he means it.

A three-year contract seems to be at the seat of all the trouble. The three-year contract has Duane Thomas' name on it and calls for approximately $22,500 a year plus a few fringe benefits. Thomas thought it was a pretty good contract when he signed it a year ago, but he doesn't think, it's so good anymore. He wants a new one. For more money. Naturally.

Multiple-year contracts are much more common in pro football and basketball than they are in baseball because the football and basketball whiz kids coming out of college generally are in greater demand by the pros than their baseball brethren.

Maybe you've heard of the Yiddish word "chutzpah." Technically it means nerve but that's losing a lot in the translation. Actually it comes closer to meaning gall, brass and pure affrontery all put together.

Until now the classic definition of the word was best illustrated by the famous story of the young man who murdered both his parents and then asked the court for mercy on the grounds he now was an orphan.

But these athletes who insist on signing multiple-year contracts are showing some "chutzpah" too.

What frequently happens in football and basketball with those who sign these three-year contracts is that they have a good first year, like Thomas did, and then demand to renegotiate their contracts. If that first year happens to be a poor one, they simply keep playing for the original amount.

Isn't that nice of them?

Duane Thomas isn't really that much to blame. He is only trying to do what he has seen so many others do. One of the things that bothered Thomas had to do with a provision in his contract calling for him to receive an added sum should he be voted Rookie of the Year.

Dennis Shaw of Buffalo and Bruce Taylor of San Francisco were voted to two Rookies of the Year by the UPI which selects from both conferences, while the AP had Shaw alone.

Thomas still felt he was entitled to the money set forth in his contract because he was named Rookie of the Year by a magazine. That prompted one wag to say "then let the magazine pay him the money," but the Cowboys paid it to Thomas nonetheless.

He says he's quitting anyway. I don't get it.

Duane Thomas didn't do so badly for a 23-year-old rookie. Along with his salary he got an additional 1-14th of that amount for the division playoff; an added $8,500 for the NFC championship; an extra $7,500 for the Super Bowl, plus the sum the Cowboys gave him for his being named by the magazine.

That comes to somewhere around $40,000 and how many people do you know who made that in their first year?

Players today generally determine how they want their money, then when the ball club gives it to them the way they asked for it, they say they want the money another way.

"There is no possible way to give a player a sizeable bonus on a one-year contract," says one NFL general manager. "This is simple economics. Let's say the player asks for $100,000 for signing with you and you agree to give it to him. Fine. Now he doesn't want it all at once because he has to give most of it away to taxes. So he takes $50,000 immediately, as front money or whatever else you care to call it, and spreads the remainder over the next two, three or four years. Then he invests that first $50,000 in a hamburger chain or something like that, and when that goes bad naturally he's looking for more money."

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

PORT OF OAKLAND — This view of the Port of Oakland pictures the revolution overtaking the shipping business — the boom in use of containerized cargo. In the foreground is the Matson Co. container yard. Containers are used to facilitate the loading of cargo on and off ships. Last month, Pacific Australia Direct Line established Oakland as Northern California's only roll-on/roll-off port by basing its revolutionary shipping service at the new installation, which is open to the public this weekend.

Port Of Oakland Leading Container Shipping Boom

OAKLAND — The Port of Oakland has completed development of the largest and most modern containerized shipping complex on the West Coast, the 140-acre Seventh Street Terminal.

Built at a cost of $32 million over a five-year period, the giant maritime complex has been the major element in the Port's recent leadership in meeting the boom in containerized shipping.

Its development has also sparked Oakland's emergence as Northern California's largest port and as the second largest container port in the world, behind New York.

The terminal differs significantly from traditional shipping facilities that consist of piers and cargo sheds, the type that were once the mainstays of ocean shipping.

Now freight is moved to a great extent in van-like containers that can be interchangeably handled in rapid order by all modes of transportation. In addition to speed, containers provide for their contents security from damage and pilferage.

Weighing up to 35 tons, the large metal boxes are moved to shipside by straddle carriers, "transtainers" or trucks. The vans are loaded and discharged from vessels by giant cranes that have a two-minute loading cycle.

Ships that once were in port from three to seven days now take on and discharge cargo at Oakland in 36 hours or less.

In all, Seventh Street terminal features seven berths, with an eighth planned for the future. Five of the berths have been specifically constructed to handle containers while two are designed to accommodate a combination of containerzied and break-bulk cargoes.

Nine container lines and one roll-on/roll-off service have based their Northern California operations at Seventh Street since initial portions of the complex were opened in 1968.

Seventh Street is divided into three main terminal areas — Matson Navigation Company Terminal, Oakland Container Terminal and the Public Container Facility operated by Marine Terminals Corp.

Matson maintains the base for its Hawaii container service at a 42-acre installation that includes two berths, 31 acres of container storage space, an 11-acre container freight station and two container cranes. Two Japanese flag carriers, N.Y.K. Line and Showa Line, also operate from the facility.

Oakland Container Terminal's one-berth, 20-acre installation is Northern California headquarters for four Japanese container lines: Japan Line, "K" Line, Mitsui-O.S.K. Line and Yamashita-Shinnihon Line. The facility includes a 26,000 square foot container freight station, storage area for 1,200 containers and has the use of 40-ton capacity container cranes.

The four-berth Public Container Terminal is available to all lines for containers, combination container-break bulk or general cargo operations. It includes a 50,000 square foot covered container freight station, a 61,440 square foot covered combination container freight station-transit shed and offers 785,000 square feet of open storage area. The facility has the use of three 40-ton container cranes.

The public terminal is Bay Area headquarters for United States Lines, Johnson Line and Pacific Australia Direct Line. By mid-year it will be Northern California base for ScanStar's new combined container service.

The Seventh Street development is not all shipping facilities. Also included is a 2.4-acre recreational area complete with picnic facilities, a fishing pier and 40-foot-tall Bay observation tower. The area is known as Port View Park.

Having the tremendous advantage of a location on the mainland side of San Francisco Bay, the city of Oakland has historically been the transportation hub of the West Coast's second largest market area.

The western Terminal for transcontinental railroads - Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Sante Fe - are in or near Oakland. More than 1,000 trucking companies serve the city, 40 with terminals within three miles of the Oakland docks. The East Bay city is the center of a major network of freeways and is the site of Oakland International Airport, operated by the Port and one of the nation's fastest growing aviation facilities.

But it took a modern shipping complex like Seventh Street to make the city's intermodal mix complete. Now freight in metal boxes flows into the Port from all over the world. In Oakland the vans are transferred for shipment by any of the other three major modes of transportation - all within the confines of the Port.

In developing Seventh Street, several things were required - research into the future of the shipping industry, a belief in the advent of containerization and extensive funding.

The terminal was financed by Port-generated revenue, Port revenue bonds, tenant capital and $10.1 million in grants and loans from the Economic Development Administration.

The EDA provided those funds recognizing that Oakland was a city with a long-time, high unemployment rate and that containerized shipping could have a strongly beneficial effect on the local economy. That result hasmaterialized. Oakland Mayor John Reading now says that one in five Oakland jobs result from activities of the Port. Seventh Street Terminal itself has meant more than 3,000 new jobs for the community, more than 1,000 of them filled by members of minority groups.

A port prospers on the goods that flow across its wharves, and that's where Seventh Street has had a tremendous impact on Oakland.

In 1967, only months before the first portions of the terminal were opened for Matson and the six Japanese lines, Oakland's container tonnage was 950,047 tons. Last year, with five of the seven berths complete, Port tonnage in vans had soared to 3,650,699 tons, a gain of almost 400 percent. The primary difference was Seventh Street.

Also important is the fact that over that period break-bulk cargo remained relatively constant, the net result being that Oakland surpassed neighboring San Francisco in shipping activity by about 1.8 million tons annually.

A string of flat cars powered by a diesel switch engine and carrying a host of American and Japanese freight containers had smashed through a ceremonial barrier on Sept. 12, 1968, to first open Seventh Street.

Since that day more than seven million tons of containerized freight have moved through the Port, while additional portions of the terminal have been developed.

Looking to the future, Port Executive Director Ben E. Nutter believes that as much as 6.5 million tons of cargo will be shipped through Oakland during 1971, of which about 4.2 million will be containerized.

He cites several reasons for that confidence.

"Seventh Street Terminal is complete. Pacific Australia Direct Line roll-on/roll-off service located at the facility last month and ScanStar will establish its new container operation at the terminal in the next few weeks," he says.

"Those factors, combined with a complete year of United States Lines service and expanded Seatrain and Sea-Land Far East operations make the 1971 outlook at the Port look extremely encouraging."

Nutter announced that the public would be able to see the new ocean terminal during Port open house activities this Saturday and Sunday.

Free boat tours will be conducted around the facility from 9:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. both days. In addition, bus tours of other Oakland marine terminal facilities, Oakland International Airport, Port of Oakland Industrial Park and Jack London Square will be offered during those same hours. Both tours will depart from Seventh Street Terminal Berth O.

Recovery Seen For Philips Lamp

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your view on Phillips Lamp, purchased at 18? — J.N.

A. This international electronics giant had a discouraging year in 1970, with earnings off 7 per cent to $1.11 a share, despite a 16 per cent gain in sales to an all-time high of $4.2 billion. The poor performance reflected sluggish economic conditions in the U.S., which absorbs 13 per cent of sales, and sharply higher labor and material costs. A cost-cutting program, expansion of oversea markets and an upturn in the business climate in the U.S. should turn profits around this year.

Q. I have E bonds dating from 1941 which are soon coming due. Should I replace these with other Treasury issues? — A.S.

A. Because of a recent Treasury announcement you will be able to continue holding these bonds. The Treasury has extended maturities another 10 years on E bonds purchased between May, 1941 and April, 1952. This was announced as being the third and final extension for the series, which can be exchanged for H bonds at any time prior to maturity. Interest will be paid at the rate prevailing when the bond enters the extension period; and at present this rate is 5½ per cent.

Marketing Pact For Microform Data Inc.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (BW) — Microform Data Systems Inc. has announced the establishment of a marketing agreement with Capitol Computer Graphic Systems Inc. of Bethesda, Md.

According to Dean Mack, president of Microform, CCGS will be marketing agent to the federal government for Microform's information retrieval systems, which utilize high reduction film technology.

Western Airlines Scores April Jump

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Western Airlines reports its April traffic — aided by Easter and Passover season travel — increased 23.4 per cent over April of last year.

Based on preliminary figures, seat miles sold totaled 421 million, compared to 341 million for April 1970. Easter travel took place in March last year.

Prices Make Strong Bid On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices were strong in moderate turnover after almost two hours on Wall Street today.

Analysts attributed the advance to a follow through of Wednesday's demand and general optimism about the economy. However, they noted it was "a selective rise," and one said it may take some encouraging news to keep the rally going.

Some caution reflected talk that key interest rates are coming under upward pressure.

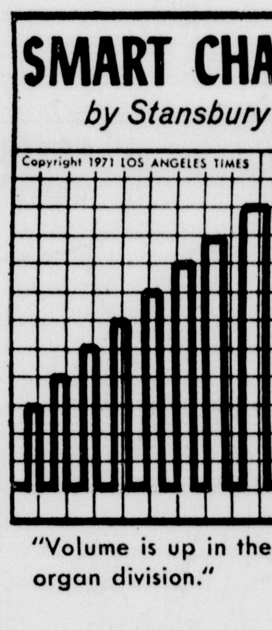
Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index was up 0.45 at 101.52. Of the 1,433 issues crossing the tape, 730 pointed higher while 373 retreated.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Advances topped declines, 449 to 203, among the 891 issues on the tape.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list included Commercial Solvents up 2 3-8, American Telephone unchanged, Kinney Services up 34, National Cash Register 1-2 higher, General Electric up 3 3-8, Westinghouse up 7-8, and Federal National Mortgage 1 5-8 higher.

Steels and motors tacked on fractions. So did most airlines and aircrafts. Missouri Pacific lost a point in the otherwise narrowly mixed rail group.

Among the most active American Exchange issues were United Nations Investors up 1-2 on 99,900 shares, Asamera Oil up 2 on 56,200 shares, and General Battery unchanged on 39,800 shares.



"Volume is up in the pipe organ division."

Ex-Laborer Turns Dream Into Reality

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's fastest growing motel chains is headed by a man who got out of the Navy in 1945 at the age of 22 and went to work as a common laborer.

But it so happened that as a laborer Earl Gagosian—now president and board chairman of Royal Inns of America Inc.—was working on building a motel.

Laborer or not, Gagosian had a rich man's dream which he translated into reality. He believed—and is on his way to proving—that a bit of luxury "bedding down" combined with economy of building, are the touchstones to success.

He believed that the average American, growing in affluence every day, would pay for extra attention and a few sybaritic luxuries. He threw in some of these "goodies" of convenience living with each motel and came out a winner.

Royal Inns are nothing like the old concept of motels. They are ultra plush with cocktail lounge, restaurant, color television in each room, Italian motif furniture, rich carpets, sauna and therapy pools.

Gagosian runs his empire from the fifth floor of the Royal Inn located on San Diego's Point Loma, overlooking the bay. The corporate offices take up one floor.

At present there are 40 Royal Inns in operation with a total of 4,100 rooms. Construction in 1971 is expected to bring the total to 6,462 rooms by December.

Gagosian says he expects sales of at least $30 million during 1971.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, May 20, the 140th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. There is no evening star.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Taurus.

On this day in history:

In 1506 Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1927 Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" monoplane. He landed in the French capitol 33½ hours later.

In 1963 the supreme court legalized sit-in demonstrations.

In 1970 House Speaker John McCormack retired at the age of 78.

A thought for today: Writer Charles Dudley Warner said, "What small potatoes we all are, compared with what we might be."

Mercury Miner Predicts Doom

ALMADEN (UPI)—The manager of an idle mercury mine says "environmental alarmism" is going to drive the industry out of business.

Robert K. Linn, manager of the New Mercury Mine, said Tuesday only one major mercury mine in the state is now operating.

The firm also owns the New Idria Mine 60 miles south of Hollister which is the only operating mercury mine in the state. California produces 75 per cent of the nation's mercury.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Book Sometimes No Help On Penalty Doubles

You can't rely on books or newspaper articles to tell you everything you ever wanted to know about penalty doubles. After you have learned the "book" requirements for a double, you still have to know something about judging your opponents. Given the very same cards, you might double a flighty opponent but pass cautiously against a conservative opponent.

AN OVERCALL

When today's hand was played, South made a flighty overcall of two diamonds. There is little to gain in bidding a five-card suit against a strong notrump since game for your side is very unlikely. There is much to lose if your opponents take the trouble to apply the ax.

In this case, West conservatively (perhaps timidly) passed the overcall of two diamonds. West has 6 points in high cards and knows that his partner has at least 16 points. East should also have two or three trumps, perhaps more, for his opening bid. The defenders therefore have far more points and almost as many trumps as South. If South happens to make two diamonds doubled, he will score only 80 points (a mere part score) below the line.

PROPER BID

A conservative South would bid two diamonds if he had an extra diamond instead of a low heart or a low spade. That's why doubling a conservative player will not make anybody rich.

In the actual hand, West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy's king went to the ace. East returned a spade to the king, and West cashed the jack of hearts and then got out with a spade. South led a trump, and East took the top trumps and led a third trump. South had to lead clubs, giving up two tricks in that suit.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A 9
♥ - 4 2
♦ - Q J 10 9 7
♣ - K J 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds or pass.

This is a borderline bid and it is correct to go either way.

Senate Panel Sets Challenge To Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, acting in direct opposition to Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed new budget, has ordered salary hikes for college and university faculty members and state workers.

The committee Tuesday ordered a 10 per cent pay hike for state college and university faculty members and a five per ient increase for all other state workers.

Welfare Position On Strikers Told

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The State Social Welfare Board has recommended that welfare benefits be denied to persons on strike since they are "voluntarily participating in a trade dispute.'

The board took the position Tuesday in a 12-page statement resulting from two public hearings it conducted on the subject.

Fund Asked For Youth Job Bureau

Marin youth commissioners have recommended that $1,000 in county "seed" money go to a youth employment service which the YMCA of Marin wants to start next month.

The recommendation for the $1,000 aid will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for final decision.

James Looney, executive director of the YMCA, told commissioners Tuesday night the aim of the employment service is to serve as a contact between youths seeking jobs and county employers, and to help train and counsel youth for employment.

The Marin Youth Commission also:

VD — Set June 30 as the deadline for youths to submit articles on venereal disease and vie for $50 in prize money offered by the Marin Pharmaceutical Association. Entries must be submitted to the youth commission office in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice.

VACANCIES — Announced that three vacancies will occur on the commission in June because Laurie Packard, Carol McClure and Peter Sorensen are leaving for college.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Announced that youths who want to solicit funds for Pakistan relief should contact the youth commission office at the Hall of Justice.

BUDGET COMMITTEE — Appointed Albert J. Boro, Peter Sorensen and Paul M. Cohen to the budget committee to fight for more funds in the new budget. Youth commissioners want a full-time youth coordinator and $10,000 in new "seed" money to help youth projects, whereas the county administrator recommended a half-time coordinator and $4,000 in "seed" money.

Sausalitan Says Report Of His Threat Untrue

A 26-year-old Sausalito man yesterday called untrue the report said to have led to his bail being set as high as $62,500.

Ian Strider — booked Monday on suspicion of a variety of offenses, including burglary — was released the next day on $500 bail after being charged with only a misdemeanor count of possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court on setting the $62,500 bail said he was doing so because he had been advised by sheriff's deputies that Strider had threatened to shoot the persons responsible for his arrest as soon as he got out of jail.

Strider, who is also known as Barry Ford, told the I-J yesterday, "That's not true. I didn't threaten anyone. I don't want to hurt anyone. I don't even own a gun."

He is to appear June 2 in municipal court on the misdemeanor charge.

Marinite Wins Speaking Contest

Ondina Hardy, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School has won champion speaker title in a Lions Club sponsored contest held at Hoberg's Resort in Lake County.

Miss Hardy, daughter of Mrs. Arnella Hardy of 525 Heather Way, San Rafael, will compete in the semi finals at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Oakland Center for the Blind.

All speakers in this year's contest sponsored by Lions clubs in California and Nevada were given the subject, "Should Youth Become Involved — How and When?" Miss Hardy was sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions Club.

Art Show Set At St. Vincent's

A show and sale of original art by students at St. Vincent's School for Boys will be held in the gardens of the school from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, according to school officials.

Refreshments will be available and live music will be played during the show.

Visitors may also take tours of the oldest home for boys in the west.

3R Schools Will Show Student Art

Students of the 3R Schools of San Rafael will hold their first art show from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday in the school gallery at 3833 Redwood Highway.

Pen and ink sketches, water colors, collages and textures by youngsters from the third grade through the tenth will be shown, according to Rita Berg, the school's art director. She said this year was the first time art was added to the curriculum of the school.

77 Strep Cases During Last Week

Seventy-seven cases of streptococcus infection were reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Second most common communicable disease reported was gonorrhea, with 22 cases. There were also 11 cases of rubella and one each of syphillis and infectious hepatitis.

Student Bid For More Event Funds

According to Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent, student body officers asked that the district pay an additional $16,000 toward such activities as drama and music.

Currently, drama and music productions are financed by both district and student funds.

Student funds are derived primarily from bookstore profits and through the sale of student body cards.

The request came Tuesday night during informal budget study by district staff and two trustees — Theodore C. Wellman and Donald K. Felt.

Grasham said the trustees also were told departmental requests exceed by $500,000 what the district's business manager will recommend for a fiscal 1971-72 budget.

On May 6, the board was given a preliminary budget totaling about $6.5 million including departmental requests.

Los Angeles Grand Jury Bill Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee has given its approval to legislation that would require Los Angeles County to set up two grand juries every year

One would deal with criminal matters and the other with civil. On a voice vote, the committee approved the bill by Assemblyman Peter Schabarum, R-Covina, and sent it to the full Assembly.

Some Common Sense Rules To Follow For Bike Riding

Bicycle riding is an excellent way to improve the health, enhance stamina, get fresh air and lose pounds. This form of exercise may delay the hardening process and improves the flow of blood to the brain. By strengthening the back muscles, cycling lessens the chance of suffering a slipped disk. Lung function is better, too, since deep breathing has a beneficial effect on the respiratory muscles. Regular cycling has been said to retard physical deterioration and to prolong life. An early morning ride is a great eye-opener.

CYCLE SAFETY can be accomplished by following a few common sense rules. Basically, this means using the same judgment you use when behind the wheel of the family car. The cyclist should ride with the traffic, never into it. He should obey all stop signs and stoplights and stay off streets where parking is not allowed. When pedalling along on a busy thoroughfare keep an eye peeled for opening car doors by checking the rear windows of parked vehicles.

LEARN TO ride in a straight line, weaving about is distracting to oncoming cars and a nasty spill may be your 'reward' for losing control. Be sure the brakes are in working order. If you plan to ride at dusk or evenings, equip the bike with a light and a reflector. Parks —ideal for cycling — cannot be recommended since the muggers took over.

DOGS SEEM to be drawn to bicycles therefore it is best to treat all animals as potential biters. When cycling in a residential area, watch for cars backing out of driveways.

GOOD BICYCLES are not cheap and it might be wise to use a rental service for a week or two before purchasing one. Department stores and specialty shops offer their customers a wide variety of models and prices. Select a frame that is sturdy, yet light, and one that is welded properly. The wheels must be perfectly true from side to side and the spokes tight. Brakes should grab properly if you are to stop smoothly.

YELLOW TEETH

Mrs. H. T.writes: My daughter hates to smile because she has yellow teeth. The toothpastes and powders she has tried have not done any good. How can these stains be removed?

REPLY

A dentist may be able to clean the teeth and advise her on how to keep them white with an electric toothbrush and abrasive toothpaste. On the other hand, nature prearranges tooth color as well as the color of the eyes. I assume she does not smoke or chew betel nuts.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

L. D. writes: I am 41 years old and in terrible pain all the time.My doctor is sure I have rheumatoid arthritis. How can he be so positive without blood tests and X-rays?

REPLY

Perhaps he wants to save you money because there are many tests that can be done. Rheumatoid arthritis offers many telltale signs that distinguish it from other types of arthritis, except gout. Tests substantiate a diagnosis and help determine the extent of damage.

BRAIN ABSCESS

B. T. writes: What causes brain abscess?

REPLY

An abscess is a localization or collection of pus. Brain abscess usually comes from infection elsewhere in the body, or from rupture of an infected sinus or ear through the inner lining of the skull into the brain. These lesions need immediate attention — surgery, as well as antibiotics and other drugs.

Tallest Woman In World Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — The body of the world's tallest woman was transferred Wednesday from the hospital where she died to a funeral home near her Louisiana home.

Delores Pullard Johnson, 8-feet-2, died Tuesday without recovering from the March 11 surgery to remove a brain tumor that caused her abnormal growth. She was 24.

Doctors at Methodist Hospital spent 10 hours March 11 removing a tumor on the pituitary gland. The tumor had caused the gland to secrete abnormally, which caused her to grow so tall. She weighted 431 pounds at death.

Peace Talks Off For Ascension Day

PARIS (UPI) — The 114th session of the Vietnam peace talks was put off today until next week to allow the French government employees at the conference center to take a holiday along with most of their countrymen.

Ascension Day, a Roman Catholic observance, is a holiday in most businesses in France. Banks and markets also are closed.

STARS ABOVE

Uranus: Strange Motion, History

By SHERMAN WALKER

Uranus is a planet of both strange motion and history. It is so far from the sun it is hard to observe, even with a pretty good telescope.

Sir William Herschel, English astronomer, chemist and physicist, discovered Uranus in 1781. He was observing different objects in the constellation of Gemini, one of which was larger and somewhat different from a star. Closer examination and a few nights of watching showed that it was indeed a planet.

A search of the records proved that it had been seen a score of times, but it was thought to be a star. Uranus is now in the constellation of Virgo, which was described in a subsequent column.

One characteristic that makes Uranus different is that its axis almost seems to lie flat; that is, the axis is almost in the plane of the planet's orbit.

Another of Uranus' unusual characteristics is that each pole and the equator all receive the same amount of sunshine during the course of a complete revolution, although at that distance it doesn't make much difference.

Uranus is about one billion miles from the sun. Its diameter is 32,000 miles and its mass 14.7 that of earth's.

Jury Verdict Bill Dies In Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A two-bill package to allow juries to return a less than unanimous verdict in all cases with the exception of the penalty phase of capital cases has been rejected by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The bills by Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, died in the committee Tuesday for lack of a motion to move them out to the full Assembly.

Hike Asked In Rohnert Rec Budget

A budget increase of $60,000 for the 1971-72 year was recommended last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said he had recommended the current budget of $101,591 be increased to $148,259, but that the commission at its special meeting agreed that additions must be made to the capital outlay funds and increased the total to $161,000.

Pekkain said the commission increased the request of $632 for the community and recreation center to $5,000 to include expanded parking facilities and replanting of ivy. Also requested was $2,000 for Alicia Park for parking improvements and protection for lights from vandalism.

The recommended $720 expenditure for Benecia Park was increased to $1,500 to add fencing around the ball diamond and light protection.

Pekkain said the commission also budgeted an additional $8,000 for the employment of a full-time maintenance man. He said the department now shares an employee with the public works department.

He said funding for all current recreation programs was increased to accommodate greater participation and said the only cut by the commission was in reducing funds for park land acquisition from the recommended $52,000 to $48,750.

Quakes Registered Off Oregon Coast

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California seismograph registered two strong earthquakes today, centered about 500 miles to the northest.

This would put the epicenter some 150 miles off the Oregon coast.

THE INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL
presents
"RAP SESSION
with
Youth & the Over-Thirties"

CONTEST ☆$800.00 in cash prizes

For the best letters on how "you" think Youth and the Over-Thirties may reach a better understanding of one another.

This I-J contest is your opportunity to give your candid opinion about the relationship between youth and older people today . . . the conflicts, the life styles, the differences in values, the areas of agreement. And most essentially, to present your ideas on how a better rapport between youth and the over-thirties may best be reached.

Actually it is 4 contests for 4 separate age groups. Letters will be judged not for literary merit but for content . . . for ideas which offer constructive solutions. Put your creative thinking cap on, read the rules, and write a letter. Ideas are now in session.

4 SEPARATE CONTESTS FOR 4 SEPARATE AGE GROUPS

Select your age group, at right, Prizes are the same for each group. Final judging will be by an independent jury.

AGE GROUPS	1st PRIZE	2nd PRIZE
1. 14-17	$125	$75

SURE SIGN OF SPRING

A mother robin feeds her three wide-mouthed 8-day-old babies high in the nest she made in an American elm tree in Chicago. According to observers she built the nest in two weeks, doing most of it after a rainy day when small twigs could be mixed with mud. The eggs hatched in 13 days.

Poet-Commentator Ogden Nash Dies At 68 — Of Kidney Failure

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Ogden Nash, who commented on the foibles and frustrations of 20th Century life in hundreds of improbably rhymed verses, died Wednesday. He was 68.

Nash died in Johns Hopkins Hospital after complications arising from surgery to combat kidney failure. He had been hospitalized March 13 and was kept alive more than a month by an aritificial kidney machine. Cause of death was listed as kidney failure.

His wife and two daughters were at his bedside when he died.

His best known lines were his 1931 advice to an anxious suitor: "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker."

The phrase passed into the American idiom, with many who use it not knowing Nash was the author. Nash later said, "They are the only lines I ever wrote that will survive me. In fact, they're just the right size, shape and length for a tombstone."

When his sister was married, he wrote:

"Beautiful spring at last is here

"And has taken my sister away, I fear."

Many of his verses celebrated his marriage of more than four decades to the former Frances R. Leonard. Once he advised:

"To keep your marriage brimming

"With love in the living cup:

OGDEN NASH
20th Century comment

"Whenever you're wrong, admit it;

"Whenever you're right, shut up."

In "The Perfect Husband, Nash noted:

"He tells you when you've got on too much lipstick,

"And helps you with your girdle when your hips stick."

A verse on the occasion of his wife's birthday observed:

"Speaking of wisdom and wealth and grace, as recently I have dared to —

"There are a lot of people compared to whom, I'd rather not be compared to.

"There are people I ought to wish I was: but under the circumstances.

"I prefer to continue my life as me —for nobody else has Frances."

A native of Rye, N.Y., Nash attended Harvard for one year (later calling himself a "quarter-bred alumnus") and then became an advertising writer. His experiments with humorous verses led to a job with the New Yorker. He turned to fulltime writing and published more than 20 books.

To be near his daughters and grandchildren, he moved to Baltimore.

Long before state and federal laws were passed to control billboards along scenic highways, Nash wrote:

"I think that I shall never see

"A billboard lovely as a tree.

"Indeed, unless the billboards fall

"I'll never see a tree at all."

Nash was at his best when his verses commented on the frustrations of everyday life — situations familiar to his readers.

"A door is what a dog is perpetually on the wrong side of," he wrote.

On gardening:

"My garden will never make me famous,

"I'm a horticultural ignoramus ..."

Suburban Americans might wryly agree with the observation: "A commuter is one who never knows how a show comes out because he has to leave early to catch a train to get him back to the country in time to catch a train to bring him back to the city."

Later in life he wrote: "Middle age is when you've met so many people that every new person you meet reminds you of someone else."

Sometimes his ryhmes were nostalgic. In "The middle," he commented:

"When I remember bygone days

"I think how evening follows morn;

"So many I love were not yet dead,

"So many I love were not yet born."

166th Birthday Celebrated By A Russian Man

MOSCOW (UPI)—Becoming the oldest man in the world is largely a matter of hard work and lemonade, according to the man who claims that record.

Shirali Mislimov celebrated his 166th birthday in Bazavu, Azerbaijan, Wednesday by doing a day's work and toasting his health in lemonade, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"He has never used alcohol and has never smoked," Tass said of Mislimov, who the Soviets claim to be the world's oldest man.

On his birthday, the report said, he rose at dawn to do his daily chores in the garden and orchard near his house. Later, regional officials and some of Mislimov's 209 relatives called to drink his health.

Wyoming Begins Its Own Study Of Eagle Deaths

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming today began its own investigation of what killed golden and bald eagles which federal officials said apparently were slaughtered by a poison they outlawed four years ago.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said Wednesday 22 of the eagles apparently were killed by a poison called Thallium, a toxic which has not been sold publically in Wyoming since 1965 and which has been banned for federal use since 1967.

Following the announcement in Washington, Wyoming Gov. Stanley Hathaway ordered five golden eagles found near Casper last week confiscated from federal authorities.

Jim Bradley, fish and game warden for the area, removed the birds from the federal agency and said he would take them to Laramie for an independent study of the cause of death.

Cast Of 100 For Tam Play

A Cast of nearly 100 will gather this Sunday and next atop Mount Tamalpais for the 54th annual ountain Play, J. M. Synge's "Playboy of the Western World."

The play, at 2 p.m. in the mountain's outdoor theater, is directed by Robin Jackson of Mill Valley.

The cast will include Mary Ellen McCurdy and Jean McKimmey of Mill Valley, Joseph Vandenberg and Bobbie Bluhm of San Rafael, Stuart Rudin and Joseph Rily of San Francisco, James Haran of Daly City, Pat Vaughan and James Treanor of Tiburon, Ann Madden of Corte Madera, Anna Heins of Novato and Sussane Berry and Allen Seaman of Mill Valley.

The play, which follows the wanderings of an Irish boy, will feature Irish music and dancing, as well as a horse race. Two San Rafael sisters, Kathleen and Mary Claire Hannon, both champions of Irish dancing, will appear with the award-winning McTeggert Irish Dancers.

Special music for the play—being performed on the 100th anniversary of Synge's birth — has been prepared by Mrs. Neil Kelly of Mill Valley, long associated with the Whirlaway Marin folk dance group.

William Carson of San Francisco is set designer.

Parking will be available near the theater, although busses will pick up patrons in Marin City. Play tickets are $2 for persons 21 and over and $1 for those between 6 and 20 years old.

'Comedy Of Errors' For Weekend

Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" will be presented by the Terra Linda High School drama department tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in room 802 of the Performing Arts Building.

The play, one of Shakespeare's first is based on a Roman comedy by Plautus and centers around problems that arise when two sets of identical twins are mistaken for one another during the course of an afternoon in the small town of Ephesus.

The twin Antipholus's will be played by Tom Elkjer and the twin Dromios by John Isham. Abby Goldman will take the role of Adriana and Andree Krier will portray her sister, Luciana.

Mill Valley Creeks Cleaning Scheduled

Mill Valley's creeks, dumping grounds for rusting appliances, old tires, discarded clippings and other assorted junk, will be scoured clean Saturday.

Volunteer workers will gather at 11 locations at 10 a.m. and begin a foot-by-foot cleanup of Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio and its tributaries.

The cleanup, which will last until noon, is sponsored by the Marin Alternative in cooperation with the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce and junior chamber of commerce, the Outdoor Art Club, Oddfellows, De Molay, the city youth commission and the Marin Ecology Center.

Debris will be taken to a lot near Tamalpais High School where it will be sorted into refuse to be discarded, recyclables to be taken to a recycling depot run by Whole Systems Inc. at the Richardson Bay Heliport, and organic garbage, to be used by the ecology center.

Volunteers are asked to wear old or washable shoes, gloves and short pants and to carry a rake. Sacks will be provided by Whole Systems.

Gathering places for volunteers are: Throckmorton Avenue at Cascade waterfall, the south end of Old Mill Park, West Blithedale Avenue and Lee Street, Miller Grove Park, the city hall parking lot, Miller Avenue near Montgomery Ward, Miller Avenue and Millwood Street, La Goma Street near Egger and Son Nursery, Buena Vista Avenue and Manor Drive and Alto School.

Property owners who do not wish to have their creeks cleaned should call Mrs. Dartmond Cherk and these areas will be avoided.

Memorial Day Services Planned In San Rafael

Veterans, government officials and citizens will gather at the Doughboy statue outside the old Marin courthouse in San Rafael May 30 for Memorial Day services.

Alfred T. Little of San Rafael, publicity chairman for the observance, said the 1 p.m. event probably will be the last held at the old courthouse, since it is hoped the statue will be moved soon to its new site at the Marin Civic Center.

Lawrence T. O'Brien, general chairman of the observance, willpreside. Members of the county board of supervisors and all Marin mayors have been invited.

Veterans' units and color guards are to form by 12:30 p.m. on Fifth Avenue behind the courthouse. Organizations wishing to present floral tributes should report to flower chairman Jerry Moon at the Fourth Street entrance to the courthouse.

A Marine Corps color guard and firing squad will be present.

Camps Full For Next Holiday

The state Department of Parks and Recreation has advised that most state parks, including Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin, are taking no more camping reservations for the Memorial Day weekend.

Except for several redwood parks in the extreme northern part of the state and a few parks in the central part of California, every state park that offers reserved camping is booked, said William Penn Mott Jr., department director.

An official at Taylor Park said that the facility's 73 reserved spaces have been booked for some time. In addition, he said the reserved camping areas have been filled for the last six weekends.

Autograph Party For Nature Book

Autographed copies of a nature book by a Marin team and a work by a San Anselmo man will be available at a "publication celebration" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The books are "Living Water," by photographers Ernest Braun of San Anselmo and David Cavagnaro of Bolinas, and "Edge of A Continent," by Don Greame Kelley of San Anselmo.

Photographs contained in the Braun-Cavagnaro book were featured recently in Life magazine, which also honored the men.

Acrylic Painting Demonstration Tonight

Vincent Perez, chairman of the department of drawing at the California College of Arts and Crafts, will demonstrate contemporary acrylic painting tonight at the Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The program, second in the Marin Society of Artists's current evening series, will begin at 8 p.m.

Greedy Handful Halt Nation's Railroads

Suppose that a handful of men had a "corner" on the diesel fuel burned by railroad locomotives, and suppose that handful decided to raise the price.

Suppose, then, that the railroad operators objected to the price increase, and these few men who had the market corner replied: All right, then, you will run no trains!

There would be a great deal of public outrage about such a greedy, unconscionable performance. Congressmen and governors would orate. Consumer groups would grind out protest petitions. Socialists would cite the performance as evidence of the breakdown of the capitalistic system. Labor unions would damn the greedy few for denying all the railroad workers their livelihood for the sake of additional profits. The President of the United States probably would declare a state of national emergency.

THIS WEEK, a handful of men in a position of similar power shut down railroad operations in the United States for a similar reason.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen called a strike against the nation's rail carriers. They recruited enough pickets to place at least one at just about every terminal. And, for the sake of "union solidarity," members of the other railroad brotherhoods refused to pass the pickets to man the trains. The railroads ground to a halt.

THE BROTHERHOOD of Railroad Signalmen represents about two per cent of railroad workers. The other 98 per cent were not involved in their dispute.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen want more money for their two per cent — and, of course, more dues to flow into the union's treasury as a consequence.

With the government involved in negotiations, the railroad unions already had been granted increases which will total 42 per cent over a 42-month period — one per cent a month, which is faster than the rate of inflation by a good deal.

That was not enough for the leaders of the two per cent who belong to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen. They demanded 54 per cent over a 36-month period — one and one-half per cent a month.

Because they did not get it, they shut down the railroads.

IT IS JUST as greedy, just as unconscionable, for this handful to disrupt the nation's economy for its private interest as it would be for a handful of men who cornered the diesel oil market to do the same thing for the same reason.

The railroads are in deep trouble. Much of it is of their own making. But much of it is due to the kind of personal greed that is shown plainly in this shutdown by the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

When any handful of men can halt the nation's rail transport because it wants more money, that handful has too much power. It should be stripped of that power, for the public benefit.

That That Interest You're Paying May Be Higher Than You Think

By TREESA DRURY

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Credit used thoughtlessly or unknowingly can harm your family.

Be aware of the fact that different companies charge different interest rates. You should compare rates and shop for credit just as you do for the best retail price.

Consumers all too often are intimidated by credit. They feel beholden to the company that extends credit to them. It should be just the other way around.

The company is going to make a good deal of money from you if you buy on credit. This evidenced by the big push of various banks to promote their "charge everything" cards. It is the interest these banks are interested in obtaining.

ASSEMBLYMAN ALAN Sieroty has introduced a bill that would prohibit credit card companies from charging more than 18 per cent annual interest. Surprised? Credit cards are currently unregulated. This bill if passed would apply to all of these, which would include Bankamericard, Mastercharge, Carte Blanche, Diners Club, American Express and oil company cards.

Sieroty says bank credit cards charge at present from 20 to 40 per cent a year. The holder pays an average 3 per cent discount kickback from the retailer and a one-time service fee of 4 per cent on money borrowed in addition to 1½ per cent a month or 18 per cent a year. Under the bill, the 18 per cent ceiling would include both payment from the consumer and the retailer, so that the discount kickback would be deducted from the interest payment.

UNDER THE TRUTH in Lending Law, all companies must disclose what the annual interest charge is — but there is a loophole.

A department store can disclose 18 per cent a year and get away charging 36 per cent. It all depends on the method of payment deduction. Even if Sieroty's bill were passed this loophole would still exist.

Meanwhile the consumer should check on all of his charge accounts and find out how the interest is figured. Remember when you purchase something on credit to figure in the cost of the interest as part of the price you are paying. When this is done many so-called bargains become overpriced.

Another trick that works quite often: ask the merchant if he will give you a cash discount. In other words say you could put this on your bank charge card, but would pay cash if given a discount.

Often because the merchant wants the money now, wants to avoid the paper work and the payment to the bank, he will accept cash and knock 5 to 15 per cent off the price.

To rent money costs money. Take time to think before you borrow or before you say "charge it".

Many Give Help In Beautification

On Earth Day, April 22 and 23, our school (San Marin High School) planted around the flagpole area as a beautification project. Because of the help of a lot of generous people, our sprinklers are in and sprinkling and the grass has a very professional look.

It is not often that one finds a person who will donate his time, energy and labor simply because there is a willingness to help.

We would like to congratulate and sincerely thank the (nursery, plumber, custodians and) all the ecology club members . . . and all the students at San Marin that helped plant and for their cooperation in keeping off the grass.

Many Tried To Save Horse Hit By Auto

A brief item in your issue of May 15 noted the death of a horse as a consequence of a collision with an automobile on Los Ranchitos Road.

The article did not, in fact could not, tell of the many people who pitched in to help extricate the animal from the ditch where it fell, and on through a long night in an effort to save it's life. Regrettably, all the efforts were in vain, and a youngster was parted from a horse she loved very much.

Some of those who helped so unselfishly are unknwon to ourselves and our daughter Zoe, to whom the horse belonged. We should appreciate it, then, if you would publish this so we may make known, both to the "strangers," and our neighbors in Los Ranchitos, how deeply we appreciate their kindnesses.

Reasons For Opposing Fund Raising Drive

I feel I must reply to Helen Hodge's letter in your May 17 issue lest your readers get the impression that all San Rafael merchants are a miserly lot who contribute nothing to the needs of worthwhile charitable activities in our community. This is not so.

Because of the incessant demands on merchants for donations of merchandise and money, our committee of 18 members decided in January to initiate a program to control the situation.

As a result San Rafael merchants were advised that all soliciting organizations would be required to get written authorization from the chamber of commerce, to get San Rafael merchant cooperation.

As for the Deputy Sheriffs Associtiion telephone fund-raising effort, we felt we had no right to interfere. However, as an association of merchants we had a right, for our members to evaluate the program and approve it or disapprove it.

In cooperation with the Better Business Bureau (which heartily disapproves of this type of fund raising), our subcommittee evaluated the sheriff's program and found it unacceptable for three reasons: 1. Telephone fund raising in general cannot be accepted. 2. A telephone call from the "Deputy Sheriff's Association" has implications of pressure to which we object. 3. Confirmed distribution of total receipts is 75 per cent for overhead and 25 per cent to charitable organizations.

We agree with Helen Hodge that the sheriffs have helped some very worthy causes. We object to the fact that only 25 cents of your dollar gets there. (United Crusade is more than 90 cents.)

WALTER ZURCHER

Possible Reasons For Promiscuity

Bravo for your May 14 editorial, "Is 'Smut' for Adults Education for Child?" The last paragraph is pertinent: "Does the distribution of literature advocating birth control to permit unmarried couples to indulge in "safe" sexual intercourse serve to improve public morals or to promote promiscuity?"

Meanwhile, on page 2 of the same date appears, "Projected Teen-Age VD Rate Brings Request for Education," wherein it says nearly 10 per cent of California's teen-agers have venereal disease and incidence could rise to one out of two by 1980".

Recently I viewed a film for possible use in educating teenagers on this subject. Not a word was said to the effect that it might be well for the young to defer until adulthood the kind of behavior which may result in adult responsibilities. A lukewarm suggestion was made that it would be well to be careful of "casual encounters," illustrated by picturing an adult woman waving goodbye and boarding a bus while a boy's voice explains that it was his first "experience" and he hardly knew who she was . . . The context is a doctor's office where teen-agers are requesting help with VD and are being queried as to who the party was they had sexual relations with some eight weeks ago. One scene shows dozens of teen-agers entering and leaving a series of doors, implying a myriad of sexual adventures. . .

Possible causes of promiscuity may be:

1. Psychological theories from which people infer that anyone who doesn't hunger and thirst constantly after sexual experience is therefore not a complete "normal" man or woman or teen-ager and we have all been made fearful of such a stigma!

2. Movies and novels, written mainly by men, in which literally dozens of beautiful (non-VD) women lie in wait at every turn for sexual adventures with whatever male happens along, who usually is the super-sexed antihero (is this wishful thinking by adolescent male writers?)

3. Constant wooing of the public by advertising, brainwashing everyone into believing he must have all his desires now! . . .

4. Past teaching of sciences as if all there were to man were his animal nature . . .

5. Elevating of science, technology, and sociology to a kind of religious status since nature abhors a vacuum and "God is dead" in eyes of many moderns . . .

It is clear that the gift of the pill by science has not solved our sexuality problems. It may be that the pendulum has swung as far to the direction of sexual freedom and promiscuity as it can go and is about to swing back toward sexual restraint and responsibility. . .

American Prestige On Line As Mediator In Middle East

JERUSALEM — The line between the role of mediator and merely helpful friend in court is a thin one, indeed. For all the protestations to the contrary, the United States has crossed that line and now before the world, in the aftermath of the Rogers-Sisco tour of Arabia, is playing the part of nervous negotiator.

This may have been inevitable in light of the doubtful status of the United Nations mission of Gunnar Jarring. But American prestige is on the line, and failure could be a blow. That threat is underscored when one learns here how very small is the advance toward a settlement.

It consists, as Israeli officials see it, of President Anwar El-Sadat's expressed desire to seek an interim settlement of the conflict with the opening of the Suez Canal as its centerpiece. But in this view Sadat would make the settlement a conditional part of a full-scale peace agreement, with the Israelis committed, by opening of the canal and pulling their troops back a fixed distance from the east bank, to withdrawing to their borders prior to the Israeli conquests in the six-day war.

THAT IS UNACCEPTABLE. Therefore, when the men in power here are told that Israel must at this point do the giving, they stiffen their backs. On the contrary, Sadat must state explicitly that an interim settlement is no more than that, with all other issues to be worked out in lengthy negotiation.

To the inquiring reporter passing through this part of the world, America's predicament seems to be understood little, if at all. The belief is still strong that Uncle Sam, with his unlimited flow of dollars, can put the pieces together again.

In Egypt the starry-eyed expectation is that an interim settlement will bring loans and even grants. The line is already forming with applications for the Export-Import Bank, the World Bank, and any other window where a request can be tossed in. If the canal is to be opened, the American share of the cost of clearing the sunken ships and doing the preliminary dredging is sure to be large.

The actual clearing will be a relatively minor cost. To dredge the canal so the big super-tankers can go through is another matter. The bill for that will be hardly less than $500 million. Since the canal would presumably be in Egyptian control, there may be some reluctance to put up such a big sum.

AS FOR ISRAEL, the Rogers-Sisco mission heard a request for a grant of $200 million and a soft loan of $300 million. While this was not crudely a quid pro quo for acceptance of an interim settlement, it was in the context of the Rogers persuasion for reasonableness.

With the dollar crisis flaring in the headlines and Washington seemingly unwilling or unable to take any concerted action with Europe to cure it, together with America's continuing unfavorable balance of payments, the due bills hark back to an earlier era. Peace in the Middle East could bring large rewards to all concerned, not least to Washington. But for the U.S.A. the cost of oil to power Western Europe as it transits from the Arab states is of only incidental interest.

Two elements weigh heavily against any settlement in the foreseeable future. One is the trauma of the past as it afflicts the intense, hard-driving men who guide the destiny of this nation of 3,000,000 people wedged in between the great Arab mass. The trauma of three wars and more recently, as every conversation invariably ends, the trauma of the violations in August last year of the cease-fire: the positioning by Egypt of advanced defensive missiles along the canal. You will not be taking the risks, as one Israeli official put it, we will be taking the risks. We will be risking the future of our children.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Abrupt Turn For History As Britain Joins Europe

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If, as both Britain and the six Common Market partners of Europe seem to believe, Britain soon is to join the market as a full-fledged member, history indeed will have taken an abrupt turn.

For the immediate future, it means that when British Prime Minister Edward Heath journeys to Paris for his meeting with President Georges Pompidou it will be not as a supplicant haggling over the price of butter or eggs but as an equal member of the European community to discuss its future.

Historically, it means an end to a British policy which has endured for centuries.

BRITAIN HAS FOUGHT many wars on the continent.

Always they have been waged to prevent the rise of a power— whether it be French, Spanish or German—that might threaten British supremacy.

But the last two blood-sucking world wars and a subsequent shift in the balance of power wrought changes that forced Britain to recognize what others knew long ago, that Britain, after all, is a part of Europe.

THE WAY STILL is not totally clear.

British housewives have been warned that British entry into the market will mean higher food prices, and if the issue were put to popular vote there is no certainty it would win approval. Others oppose it on traditional grounds—that Britain should be aloof from the continent.

Said one anti-Market British leader: "We in Britain are a different people—different in attitudes and different in interests."

In France, too, there remains opposition to British entry, notably among the Gaullists who still hold to the late Charles de Gaulle's dream of a Europe dominated by France.

On both sides there also were those who opposed the Heath-Pompidou meeting on grounds it would suggest an emergency where no emergency existed.

Then suddenly the emergency was provided.

It was the new monetary crisis and the sudden French realization that the German mark dominated the common market.

It went far toward wiping out the last of the French opposition.

SAID ONE HIGH Elysee palace official:

"If we don't let the British in fast to balance out West Germany's weight, we will soon wind up in the Deutschmark monetary zone."

It was regarded as almost a guarantee of the success of the Heath-Pompidou meeting.

Through the years since World War II, it has been the United States policy to press for a united Europe even at economic risk. Should Britain join the market, to be followed quickly by Denmark, Ireland and Norway, it is a policy that may be tested by fire as protective barriers go up against sale of U.S. agricultural products.

The product of one out of every four acres of agricultural land in the United States now goes into export, bringing in better than $7 billion per year.

U.S. farmers will not react kindly to the loss of any part of that market.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

May 20, 1961

The Marin Council for Civic Affairs announced its opposition to a reported move within the county board of supervisors to abolish the position of county administrator.

France ordered a halt to its military offensive in Algeria, but Moselm rebels refused to honor a proposed cease-fire.

20 YEARS AGO

May 20, 1951

Standard Oil Co. of California announced it would drill a new test well on the Mendoza Ranch on the shore of Drake's Bay.

A program at Albert Field followed a parade through downtown San Rafael in observance of Armed Forces Day.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

ERIK M. INGRAM

There's Nothing Secret About It; It's All There In The Letters

The Tamalpais High School District board has taken a bold new step in the conduct of its affairs. It's called business by mail.

Last week the Independent-Journal learned of a letter penned by board president David D. Ring to Trustee Bette Wallace chiding her for her "close supervision" of district personnel.

Copies of the letter were distributed to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins and board members.

WHEN ASKED about the letter, Mrs. Wallace said yes she had received and no the I-J couldn't read it. Trustees Robert W. Corlett and Jerrold Ladar responded similarily.

And the author of the letter, Mr. Ring, declined comment, saying he considers the letter "of a private nature" even though it does concern said Tam district business.

This is the same as a telephone call between two people, said Mr. Ring, who like Ladar and Corlett is an attorney.

Should this practice continue, one can only imagine what future board meetings will be like.

THE YEAR IS 1984 and the board — composed of the same five members — has continued to hold its bimonthly meetings at Redwood High School. However, at the suggestion of one trustee, the meeting place has been moved from the faculty lounge to the spacious office shared by the school's janitor and his assistant.

RING: (glancing at his watch): Well, I think we can start our meeting now, but first I wonder if the audience would stand up and identify himself.

AUDIENCE: Certainly, my name is Vaughn Barker of Larkspur and I'm just an interested citizen.

CORLETT: It's nice to have you here, Mr. Barker. As you know our meetings are always open to the public. Just pull up that barrel of industrial cleaner.

RING: I think we can start now. Dr. Hawkins will you read the first item of business.

HAWKINS: CERTAINLY. The first item on your agenda concerns the purchase and installation of a television camera here at Redwood. I think you all received by letter dated March 29 concerning this item.

RING: Yes we did and as noted in my letter dated April 6 I found your idea extremely intriguing.

LADAR: Dr. Hawkins, I wonder if you could clarify the point you made in paragraph six.

HAWKINS: I think the point is made clear in my second letter dated April 12 which is in reply to your letter dated April 10.

MILLER: (Trustee Frank L.): I just want to know how this is going to affect the budget. Could we possibly save money by buying more than one camera?

HAWKINS: That point is covered in my budget letter dated March 30. You should have received it on April Fool's Day.

CORLETT: I move that we accept the superintendent's recommendation as contained in his letter dated April 15.

RING: Judging by the letters I've received from the board, the superintendent's recommendation passes unanimously.

BARKER: (shifting uneasily on his barrel of "Janitor In A Drum"): What recommendation?

RING: The recommendation contained in the superintendent's letter dated April 15?

BARKER: What did the recommendation say?

CORLETT: Mr. Ring, I hate to interrupt, but I see no reason for this audience which we have allowed to join us to pry into our personal correspondence.

RING: I agree, Mr. Corlett. Next item, Dr. Hawkins.

ART BUCHWALD

Holes For Washington Subway? Obviously A Capitalist Lie

WASHINGTON — My colleague Russell Baker of the New York Times a couple of weeks ago wrote that the reason the Soviets were digging large new holes around Moscow is because they believed that American potholes were really dug for our new missile sites.

For the first time since I've known him, Baker was wrong. It isn't our potholes that the Russians are worried about, it's our subways.

I discovered this the other day sitting on a park bench across from the White House with a Soviet spy named Nicolai. He told me the reason the Soviets were digging their large holes is because we were doing the same thing in Washington.

"NICOLAI, HOW CAN, you sit there and say that we are installing missiles in the Washington area?"

"Ha," said Nicolai. "Why are there large holes all over Washington?"

I started to laugh. "Nicolai, you Communist fool. Those holes are being dug for our new subway."

"Lies, all lies," Nicolai said angrily. "You are not building a subway in Washington. Everyone knows that."

"Of course we are. The plans have appeared in all the newspapers."

"THEN WHAT IS THIS?" Nicolai demanded, taking a newspaper clipping out of his tobacco pouch. He read, "The House today defeated a bill to release funds of $34.2 million for the District of Columbia subway construction project now going on in Washington. Without these funds metro officials said they would not be able to continue the work."

"Nicolai, you naive Red idiot," I laughed. "The reason the House won't fund the subway is because the District of Columbia refuses to proceed with a highway program at the same time. You see, there is this guy Natcher from Kentucky, and he's mad because he wants Washington to have more highways, and he says if the district won't build them he won't release the money for the subway."

"Who is this Natcher?"

"He is a congressman from Kentucky."

"Why would a congressman from Kentucky have anything to say about a subway for Washington?"

"Because," I said, "in Washington everybody from every place in the country has something to say about Washington except the people who live here. Would you believe we have a congressman who lives in South Carolina who has more power than the mayor?"

YOU ARE A capitalist liar," Nicolai said. "No one in the Kremlin would believe that story. Your Defense people are very clever. First they have Congress announce they are going to build a subway. Then when you get your holes dug just the right size for your missiles, Congress announces it will not give any money to complete the subway."

"Nicolai," I said nervously, "I know it doesn't make sense for Congress to let people start building a subway and then refuse to give the money to complete it. But that's the way it is done in the District of Columbia, and you have to believe me."

"My report to the Kremlin still stands," Nicolai said. "If you can prove to me that Washington will have a subway in the next 10 years, I will be happy to change my intelligence."

"I can't prove it, Nocalai," I said, perspiring. "We may or may not have a subway, depending on what happens in the Senate on the subway appropriations bill."

NICOLAI DECLARED, "We will continue digging holes in Moscow until you people stop digging holes in Washington. Your subway story was a good try, but it never fooled us. We were onto it from the beginning."

I left Nicolai and ran to the nearest phone and called Congressman Natcher's office. "For God's sake," I pleaded, "release the subway funds before the Russians install a whole new generation of intercontinental nuclear missiles."

"Russian missiles?" The person on the other end of the phone said. "We're sorry. That's not our committee."

$100,000 To Winner Of April's Lottery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Trudy Moriarty, wife of New York restaurant owner P. J. Moriarty, won first prize of $100,000 Wednesday in the April drawing of the state lottery.

Joint Recreation Plan For Tiburon

With time running out, the Reed School District board has told Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello to work with a citizens committee to formulate a joint school district-city of Tiburon summer recreation program.

Giovanniello will work with the committee, headed by Polly Smith, Marin County parks and recreation commissioner and a Tiburon resident, and return with a proposal at the board's June 1 meeting.

A questionnaire distributed to 2,500 district parents earlier this month indicated overwhelming approval for the program.

The city and school district have cooperated on recreation activities in the past but not in recent years because of a lack of interest. The questionnaire indicated a reversal of that feeling.

Only a month remains before school is dismissed for the summer. The district and the committee hopes to have the crash program organized before then.

In other business Tuesday night, the board was to have considered a preliminary budget for 1971-72, but put off discussion until an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Bel Aire School library.

The Reed School District board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Jane E. Cope, Bel Aire teacher, who is moving to Australia, and of Marguerite Coffin, Reedland Woods teacher aide, who is moving to Nebraska.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year. School will begin Sept. 13 and end June 15.

PAINTING — Approved an $11,629 bid from painting contractor Robert Kunst for painting of Bel Aire School.

Closed Session

The Novato Unified School District board will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. today at the district office to instruct its representatives in negotiations with teachers.

Year In Jail In Drug Case

Phillip Russell McFarren, 20, of Novato, has been sentenced to a year in Marin County Jail for selling amphetamine.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for two years.

McFarren was found guilty, along with Mitchell Dorn Samios, 22, also of Novato, by a superior court jury April 16.

The pair had been arrested on a warrant charging they sold 100 "bennies" to a narcotics agent last Sept. 3.

Samios is to be sentenced June 2.

Creative Writing Prize To Viet Vet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Brian Jones, a 24-year-old Vietnam Veteran, won the $3,000 first prize Wednesday in the Samuel Goldwyn creative writing competition at UCLA.

Jones, a political science major and holder of the Navy and Marine Corps commendation medal, was given the award for his novel, "Fox Song,"

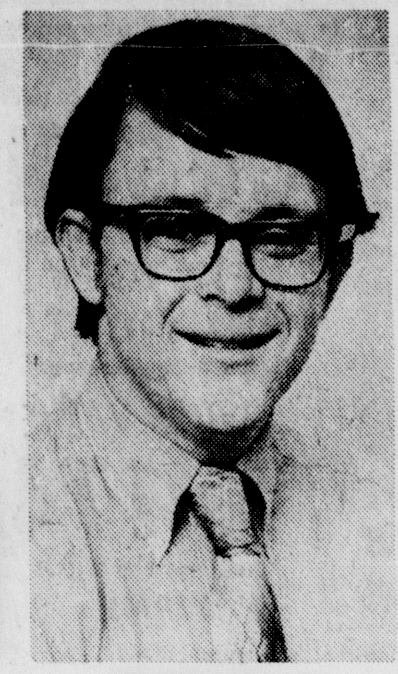
KENNETH C. SODERLUND
Honored By DeMolay



STEVEN DREYER
Wins DeMolay Degree

Two DeMolay Men To Get High Award

Two members of the Mill Valley Chapter of Order of DeMolay will receive DeMolay degrees of Chevalier Saturday at the Mill Valley Masonic Hall.

They are Steven E. Dreyer and Kenneth C. Soderlund, who will receive this, the highest degree of the DeMolay in ceremonies at 8 p.m.

Soderlund is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Soderlund of 2140 Los Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael. He has been a DeMolay since 1964 and held many offices including Master Councilor. He was appointed scribe to the Redwood Empire Division in 1969. He is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and has attended the College of Marin and Oregon State University at Corvallis, Ore. At the present time, he is majoring in planning at California Poly-Technique Institute at San Luis Obispo.

Dreyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Dreyer of 30 Corte Comoda, Greenbrae. He graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin, majoring in journalism. He was editor of the chapter and division monthly publications and past editor of the Northern California DeMolay Association in 1970. He is now working as a reporter for the Marysville Appeal-Democrat.

Task Force Set To Study Health-Medical Merger

Marin's Comprehensive Health Planning Council set up an 11-man task force yesterday to weigh the pros and cons of consolidating all health and medical services under a new county department.

Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday assigned the health planning council to make recommendations on the health-medical merger, proposed by Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator.

The planning council, headed by Ray K. Bolinger, met at Marin General Hospital yesterday and named the task force, with San Anselmo City Councilman James F. Reed as chairman.

Reed's task force will evaulate the consolidation plan and report back to the health planning council by June 9. The full council will then make its recommendation to the county supervisors on June 11, just before the supervisors begin deliberations on the 1971-72 budget.

The task force will be aided by a group of resource people including Campanella, Bolinger, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht; Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of community mental health services and medical department; Dr. John Guerrant, program director of the mental health center; and school nurse.

The proposed merger would put Dr. Cooke as head of a new department of health care services. The health and medical departments, community mental health services, the county service office, and related services would all come under this one large department.

Mary D. Williams of Marin City was elected a director of the health planning council.

She will succeed Mrs. Daniel Collins of Mill Valley, who resigned because she is too busy with other duties including service on the Marin County Grand Jury and the mental health advisory board.

Mrs. Williams, who has been active in senior citizens programs, will join the 30-member board of directors of the comprehensive health planning council.

Smog Alert System Due Board's Ear

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Creation of Bay Area smog alert procedures, similar to a warning system used in Los Angeles, will be discussed tomorrow by officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Under the Los Angeles procedure, persons are warned not to drive cars and school children are banned from playgrounds when pollutants reach certain levels.

Such an alert is soon to be required by the new federal Environmental Protection Agency, according to a Bay Area district spokesman.

The officials — members of the district board of directors and advisory council and staff — will meet at 9:30 a.m. in district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Also on the meeting agenda is an analysis by a special board committee of a critique of the district made last year by a group of graduate students at Stanford University.

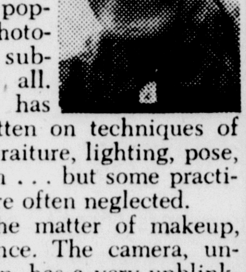
CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By Ken Reichard

PORTRAITS OF BEAUTY



When we talk about beautiful portraits, we generally mean portraits of a lovely woman, probably the most popular photographic subject of all. Much has been written on techniques of such portraiture, lighting, pose, and so on . . . but some practical tips are often neglected.

Take the matter of makeup, for instance. The camera, unlike a man, has a very unblinking eye when looking at female beauty. If there's a flaw, the camera lens will find it. So makeup is especially important. One famous portraitist strongly recommends pancake makeup, stressing that it can hardly be overdone.

However, aside from pancake makeup, which looks natural on film, too much makeup (such as eye detailing) will tend to attract attention to itself and away from the woman herself . . . which is fine for a fashion magazine, but not so good for a portrait — unless you're deliberately striving for drama.

Want a camera that lets you work in close or far away? That takes wide angle or long lens attachments? And that adapts to your budget, too? Take a look at the new SLR's in our big camera display, by the world's great makers.

Art Festival To Open Celebration

Corte Madera Shopping Center will celebrate the Town's 55th Commemorative Anniversary with an art festival in the center arcade Saturday and Sunday.

Members of Terra Linda Art Association, including Mel Cardy, Eleanor Foster, Laureta Hastings, and Stan Painter of Corte Madera will mount the show which will include still lifes, figuratives, landscapes, and seascapes in oil, acrylic, and watercolor.

The Terra Linda Art Association was started in 1963 with seven students, and formal organization occurred in January 1964, following a highly successful Christmas show at Terra Linda Recreation Center.

The association now has its own gallery at 4170-72 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, which is open Monday through Friday, noon until 3 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Current president is Jack Wasley.

PREVIEWING ART EXHIBITS — Louis Malvino, president of the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council and Mrs. A. B. Cardy, chairman of the art show to be held Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and May 22 in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, look over some of the entries which will be displayed.

Growth Of Chamber Traced

Founded in 1964 by Richard G. Burns, Corte Madera attorney, and Donald Sutherland, former manager of Bank of America, the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce has grown to represent a majority of Corte Madera businessman and includes on its roster members of the residential community interested in its efforts to maintain a stable economy for the benefit of the Town as a whole.

JOE H. STEWART JR.
Past Chamber president

Original directors Donald Sutherland, Robert Satterthwaite, Edward Henly, Robert Dolman, Dora Solvason, Richard Burns, Richard Taricco, Harry Kramar, Arthur Brandow, Cornelius Heydenryk, and John Saunders signed the articles of incorporation on January 23, 1964, and the balance of the year was devoted to securing membership, formation of committees, and discussion of subjects as a contest for a chamber slogan and a Miss Corte Madera, a tree planiting project, and preparation of a Town brochure.

"A Guidebook to Corte Madera, California," now in its third printing, was published in 1965, as was a picture brochure and town map.

In 1966, the Town's 50th Birthday Anniversary and a Fourth of July Celebration were co-sponsored by the Chamber which also found a permanent home at 500 Tamalpais Drive, with Mrs. Naydee Beckstead acting as first manager.

Through committees, the Chamber has worked with Town officials to rewrite the Town's business license ordinance, solicitor's ordinance; has obtained a variance in the zoning ordinance on signs, and an amendment to the business license ordinance to obtain relief for the operators of laundromats; and has polled Corte Madera residents on the ferry terminal question.

The Chamber has been the voice of its members on matters relating to flood control, fire protection, a county park, widening of Tamalpais Drive, railroad abandonment, sanitary district merger, acquisition of Pt. Reyes National Sashore lands, college disturbances, the newspaper strike, commuter parking, zoning, BCDC activities, college bonds, public safety building bonds, and water district bonds.

It has supported the Corte Madera Women's Club Viet Nam book drive, the Corte Madera Drop-in Center, a fire chief's convention; has initiated a Corte Madera Citizen of the Year Award, held several candidates night programs, cited local police officers for excellence in the performance of their duties; sponsored a post office open house, and a reception following library ground breaking ceremonies; and has presented three Christmas Carol programs, three Easter egg hunts, and five Fourth of July celebrations.

Active participation by Chamber members — including time and donations beyond the dues schedule — has made the Corte Madera Chamber one of the most active in Marin County under the leadership of presidents Donald Sutherland, Richard Burns, B. A. Sill, Robert Satterthwaite, Robert Dolman, Louis Malvino, Donald Beacock, and Joe H. Stewart, Jr.

The Days Before Shopping Center

Until the advent of the Corte Madera Shopping Center in 1954, business in Corte Madera consisted of Parkside Market, Solon Realty, Pingree Realty, the old Village Corner and Hiway Fountain in Village Square, and some businesses along Highway 101, such as H. Koch and Sons and Littleman's (Cala Foods).

In 1954, the property tax rate was $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation and property tax receipts were $65,489.

In 1955/56, with Corte Madera Center beginning to get into full swing, the sales tax ordinance was passed, property tax rate decreased to $1.34, property tax receipts were $74,417, and sales tax revenue was $6,068.

Under the impetus of growing shopping center success, business in Corte Madera began to expand. Paradise Shopping Center and Sanford Terrace were complete in 1963; Park Madera Shopping Center, J & B Ford and Campbell Bishop Chevrolet opened their doors in 1964; Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth and Bianco Cadillac came to the Town in 1966, and the Cooperative Shopping Center opened for business in 1967. The last three years have seen the arrival of Cinema I, Raydine's Ice Skating Rink and Handi-Kup Co.

In 1961/62 — for the first time — income to the Town of Corte Madera from sales tax revenue was $127,908, exceeding property tax income of $117,268. Property tax rate in that fiscal year had decreased to $1.00.

By 1969/70, with a tax rate of .99, and with sales tax receipts of $356,898 still exceeding property tax income of $244,392, the Corte Madera business community was attracting income tc the town which was supporting approximately one third of the Town's million dollar budget.

This is noteworthy since the sales tax figure represents actual total sales of over $35 million, and it wasn't until 1980 that Corte Madera was to reach its maximum sales potential.

SPIRIT ABOUNDS

A 'Can-Do Town' Image

The kind of identity a town acquires is often due to the presence or lack of a spirit of co-operative inter-action among individuals, organizations, the business community, and town officials.

Since this spirit is present in abundance in the Town of Corte Madera, it can aptly be described as "a can-do town of yes-sayers."

The controlled growth of the town has been the result of an active and sensitive interest on the part of many town councils and many mayors, notably immediate past mayor, Edward W. Colthurst, and current mayor H. S. (Pete) Norville.

Improvements to the town such as new town hall, public safety building, the new corporation yard, San Clemente Drive, and the library branch under construction are the result of council actions of the past as administered by managers suchas Arthur Brandow, Ronald Usher, and Ronald Bartels.

Zoning administrators and public works directors such as William McBride and Arthur Morrison have efficiently administered policies set by councils, and by commissions and boards composed of Corte Maderans J. W. McClintock, C. W. (Bill) Thomas, William Gilbert, and Herber c. Leney.

Recreation facilities in Corte Madera, starting with the Town Park development so carefully guided by the Park and Recreation Commission, headed by Robert Riboli, have expanded tremendously in the past two years.With their ears turned to the needs of the young, this commission has advised town council in its enactment of a full time recreational program including a Drop-In-Center for high school students, activities for senior citizens and classes geared to the needs and talents of young children and adults.

Corte Madera Police Department, under the direction of David McIntosh, and Corte Madera Fire Department, under direction of Frank Nelson, have developed excellent programs resulting in a closer communication with the people of the community.

Local organizations make major contributions to the life of Corte Madera. The work of the Lions Club, Women's Club, and Volunteer Fire Department is discussed elsewhere. But not to be overlooked is the help given by the Corte Madera Optimist Club whose activities for and with the young have provided shop equipment for the special class at Neil Cummins School.

Best Diving Is Found Within 33-Foot Limit

In depths of 25 feet or less, the avid skin diver gets more than usual sporting thrills. Believe it or not, lakes and quarries offer the best, the most interesting diving at such depths.

If this hits your fancy, you'll be diving within the "single atmosphere zone," within 33 feet of the surface, the safest diving area.

Stay in this 33-foot zone and underwater swimming becomes far less cumbersome, far more enjoyable. As you near the surface from the single atmosphere zone, you need not worry about decompression. But under no circumstances should you ever descend more than 130 feet. Rapid descent results in pain in the ear. Under no circumstances should you ever hold your breath while returning to the surface.

Remember that 75 percent of the world's best diving occurs in depths less than 25 feet.

Lions Club Reflects Interest In Town

Corte Madera Lions Club this year enters its third decade under the leadership of B.A. (Bev) Sill as its 21st president.

Sill, a charter member and past president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, also will be celebrating his 55th birthday anniversary along with the Town of Corte Madera, and his 15th year as a resident of Corte Madera and manager of Crocker-Citizens Bank in Corte Madera Center.

Chartered in October 1951, the Corte Madera Lions Club has carried out its philosophy of "doing for others" with solid contributions to the Town.

The Corte Madera Recreation Center built by Lion members and friends, was paid for in seven years, deeded to the Town, and continues to be maintained and managed by the club. Besides being available for private rentals, the building is often loaned free of charge for activities of a community nature, and is the site for many programs presented by the Town recreation department.

The tennis courts in Corte Madera Town Park are another gift to the Town from the club, bringing to a total of some $200,000 the monetary value of the club's contribution to Corte Madera.

In addition, Lion members contribute freely of time and money toward the support of the blind, youth organizations as the Boy Scouts and little league, car clubs, international organizations, and community functions as the annual Fourth of July Celebration.

The Lions exchange student program has been active and successful for several years, and recently resulted in the marriage of two young Japanese students who met while visiting in Corte Madera.

Those who have served as president of the club the past twenty years have maintained a continuing interest in the town and its residents include: William Talley, founder; Philip Arone, Charles F. Pendleton (former councilman), Haskell Billings, Fred J. Schultz, Lee Johnson, Donald W. O'Neil, Lloyd L. Prosser, Ernest McCutchen, William H. Schwartz, Timothy F. Murray, Robert Vogel, Edward W. Sabo, C. W. (Bill) Thomas (members of the town planning commission), John McDermott, Arthur Hallin, Chris Gartman, Jack Hauser, Frank Lopez and James Tonge.

RELAX

After work or before bed a warm, soothing bath with the Jacuzzi can work wonders as an aid to easing everyday tensions. While you lie back effortlessly in your tub, flowing, aerated water from the Jacuzzi gently massages your body. Helps relax muscle spasm and stimulate local circulation where applied. All without drugs. It's wonderful. Ask your physician.

How To Avoid The Mosquitoes

Advice to the ever-increasing number of women who join their husbands on camping and fishing trips: Let the man leave his after-shave lotion and hair-tonic home. They can cause the wrong female to put the bite on him.

Recent studies have shown that mosquitoes — only the female bite — are more attracted to persons wearing certain fragrances. (So the ladies, too, should go light on perfumes and colognes.)

One skin treatment the winged biters don't go for is diethyltoluamide — deet, for short — an ingredient found in insect repellent and described as greaseless and nearly odorless.

SINCE 1916

The History Of Corte Madera

Incorporated on June 10, 1916, when it had become obvious that the sleepy little village was becoming more than a summer home-away-from-home, the Town of Corte Madera has passed through its growing pains with dignity and grace.

Originally part of the Corte Madera de Presidio Rancho which extended from Baltimore Canyon on the north to Point Tiburon on the south, Corte Madera was first settled by John Reed who was granted 8,000 acres of rancho lands by the Mexican Governor, Figueros, in 1834.

Reed established a lumber mill in Mill Valley, and the cutting of timber in the Corte Madera area gave the town its name. With the discovery of gold in California came an influx of settlers, some of whom squatted on the land and took up claims of 160 acres each.

Little development occurred until the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was built in 1890 and a station was located in the present Village Square area — to become at that time Corte Madera's central business district. The building which in 1907 was the Corte Madera Livery Stable, J. P. Allen, Prop., still exists and houses Corte Madera Hardware and The Launderette. Its past history also includes use of the upstairs room as a roller skating rink.

The advent of the railroad and the ferry system linking Marin to San Francisco spurred the building of summer homes by San Franciscans, many of whom become permanent residents of Corte Madera as a result of the San Francisco earthquake.

A population of 500 in 1916 increased to one of 1,095 in 1940, three years after the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge. The thirty-year span between 1940 and 1970 saw a gradual and steady population growth to a new total of 9,421 Corte Maderans.

With people came a need for housing, and to the delightful homes of earlier years have been added the attractive residences dotting the wooded Corte Madera Ridge with its Christmas Tree Hill, and Palm Hill. Post-World War II development saw the marshlands turn into Madera Gardens, Marina Village, Mariner Cove, Marin Estates, with Mariner Green and The Uplands on the north slope of Tiburon Ridge.

With people also came the need for government services, business, schools, and recreational facilities. In 1913, J. P. Allen of the Corte Madera Livery Stable welcomed as a fellow business associate Mrs. Bessie Pingree whose firm, Pingree Realty, is still active in Village Square under the direction of her daughter, Mrs. Auda Bordanaro, and granddaughter, Mrs. Jan Valk.

First town hall was constructed in 1928, to be replaced by the present structure in 1966. The old Larkspur-Corte Madera School of the 1911 era was replaced by the new in 1940. Corte Madera Town Park site was acquired in 1939 and is now developed almost to full potential, providing the major outdoor recreational area in the town.

Neil Cummins School opened its doors in 1952, the Corte Madera Recreation Center became a reality in 1953 thanks to the Corte Madera Lions Club, Corte Madera Shopping Center opened for business in 1954, Redwood High School welcomed students in 1958, and children began answering the bell at San Clemente School in 1962, and at Granada School in 1966.

Completion of the new Public Safety Building in 1966 on Tamalpais Drive, and removal of the U. S. Post office to brand new quarters around the corner on Pixley Avenue in 1969 completed a civic center complex which is complemented by its proximity to Town Park.

The new Corte Madera Branch of the Marin County Library now under construction on a portion of the Sanford estate on Meadowsweet Drive, and renewal of Tamalpais Drive due to start in the late summer are both indicative of the vibrancy of the town. Further business and residential development is planned, with town officials and residents guiding the growth to insure that the Town of Corte Madera retains its identity as a small town of beauty under the guardianship of majestic Mount Tamalpais.

How To Prevent Theft Of Motor

In this day and age, no unlocked outboard motor stays completely safe from the hand of thieves.

How to prevent the theft of your outboard Motor?

Using a bicycle lock may come as a surprise to you. But that bicycle lock makes a handy safeguard.

First tighten the motor down on the transom. Then insert the bicycle lock through the small holes in the turnscrew handles.

Now your motor locks in place. And no thief can loosen the handles.

MRS. JACK HAUSER
Plays big role

Mrs. Hauser Plays Major Town Part

The attractive appearance of the clover leaf interchange on Highway 101 at Corte Madera, is due in large part to the efforts of Mrs. Jack Hauser, member of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, KTIM broadcaster, and past Cub Scout den mother and Fourth of July Committee member.

As spearhead of a Women's Club committee, Mrs. Hauser conducted a three-year campaign of letter writing and meetings which finally resulted in state legislative appropriation of monies for landscaping.

Mrs. Hauser's contribution to the appearance of Corte Madera won the women's club an award from the California Federation of Women's Club and a letter of commendation from the White House.

This effort by Mrs. Hauser is typical of the activities over the years of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club which, immediately after its organization in 1906, proceeded to acquire street lights for the town. On Christmas eve 1907, the first 32 lights, paid for with $250 in gold, were lit.

Other programs of the past 65 years have included supervising the care of the old board walks, circulating a petiton to bring gas to the town, acquiring and maintaining two parks, a concern that high fences were keeping out the sunlight at the county jail (circa 1911), circulation of an anti-saloon petition, passage of a resolution endorsing woman's suffrage, assisting families during the depression years.

The members of the club have raised the money to finance their activities through events which have added to the recreation of the community: amateur talent shows, box socials, musical programs, operettas, dances, card parties, cookery sales, fashion shows, teas, and their famous annual Fresh Flower Hat Luncheon.

Mrs. Mary Hart Eastman was first president of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, a position more recently held by Mesdames George Entwistle, Phillip Trau, Jr., John Conkle, Louis Ivancovich, and Aden Cuykendall.

Paradise Motors Is Appointed Dealer Of Swedish-Made Saabs

Paradise Motors of 5804 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, has been appointed a regular dealer of the Swedish-made Saab cars, according to Ralph T. Millet, president of Saab Motors, Inc., U.S. distributors.

Most Active

Corte Madera's most active homeowners associations include Christmas Tree Hill Dwellers Association, Corte Madera Avenue Improvement Association, Marin Estates Home Owners Association, Mariner Cove Improvement Association, and Chapman-Montecito Home Owners Association.

The new Saab dealership is owned and operated by Julle H. Lewicki, a native of Sweden who has been residing in California for the last five years, and active primarily in the service of Swedish-made automobiles. Before coming to the U.S., Lewicki was employed by a Swedish automobile manufacturer in a service capacity.

Saab models available through Paradise Motors include: The new Saab 99 models, offered in both two and four-floor versions and equipped with an electronic fuel injection system for high performance and clean exhausts; the rally tested Saab 96 sedan, powered by a 1700 cc V4 engine and well-known the world over for its many successes in international rallies, from Monte Carlo to Baja California, also the Saab 95 station wagon and the Saab Sonett III sports coupe, a high performance fiber glass bodied sports model offering GT handling and comfort in an attractive Swedish-Italian design.

Saab cars and parts will be directly available through Paradise Motors from the West Coast depot and headquarters of Saab Motors, Inc., in Torrance.

Popular Class

Belly dancing is one of the most popular classes offered by the Corte Madera Recreation Department.

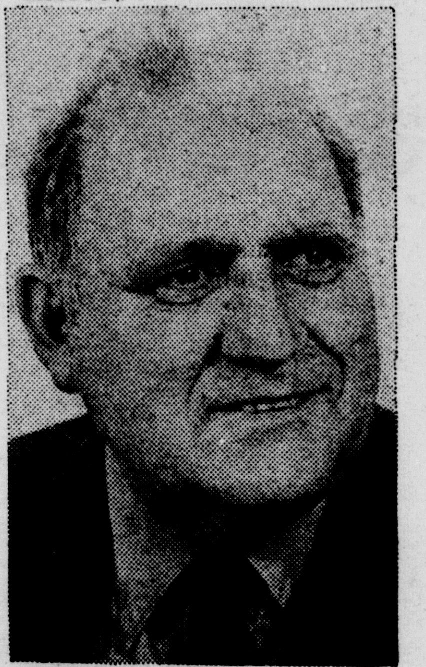
'PAST CHAMBER PRESIDENT — Corte Madera real estate broker, Donald A. Beacock, president of Earle and Solvason, Realtors, is one of the businessmen in Sanford Terrace, Tamalpais Drive. He is past president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce and a past chairman of the Fourth of July Celebration committee.

HEADS MERCHANTS COUNCIL — Louis Malvino of Louis-George Fine Men's Apparel, another Little League team sponsor, is president of the Corte Madera Shopping Center Merchants Council. He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce.



PARK MADERA BUSINESSMAN — Frank Gabel, owner of Gagel's Litho, Inc., is a member of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce and Corte Madera Lions Club. He is a retired 20-year Army Careerman, a boating enthusiast and also raises show cocker spaniels.

Zim's
...where else?
FOSTER — KLEISER
ZimFried!

NEW ON MENU Zim-fried chicken is making its debut in the Bay Area. Arthur Zimmerman, left president and founder of Zim's and Hank Hance, creative director of Sturges Advertising, study a small version of the outdoor advertising sign which has been used to announce the new dish. It is on the menu at Zim's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Zim-Fried Chicken Is New Feature

Zim's Restaurants, the organization that originated the glorified hamburger almost 25 years ago in San Francisco, is now seeking to do the same with its Zim-Fried Chicken.

"With 10 San Francisco restaurants, two in Marin County (in the Corte Madera Center, and on College Avenue in Kentfield), and one in San Mateo, Zim's intends to make Zim-Fried Chicken as familiar to local residents, as its famous deluxe broiled Zimburger," says Arthur Zimmerman, President of the firm.

The scrumptious chicken with sesame seed studded batter, is served appetizingly with corn on the cob, and french fries at most Zim's locations, including the two handsome Zim's Restaurants in Marin. Zim-fried Chicken is being offered as a luncheon item, as a child's plate, and as a delicious dinner item with a choice of crisp fresh salad or with savory soup of the day.

Marin residents will find that Zim's units in Corte Madera and in Kentfield have made a vast change from the Zim's that first opened in Corte Madera, which served broiled hamburgers and hot apple pie exclusively.

Zim's now features a more extensive menu.

Malaria Warning To Drug Users

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) —The largest malaria outbreak in this country in 20 years has been stamped out here but the elements that caused it remain and the disease could strike again.

The malaria here was totally limited to hard drug users, according to the California State Health Department. The malaria parasite was transferred from person-to-person via infected blood on shared hypodermic needles and syringes.

The elements which could trigger another outbreak here or elsewhere, authorities said, are the increasing use of heroin, both at home and among servicemen in Vietnam, where malaria is rampant, and the tendency among drug users to share injection equipment without adequately sterilizing it.

Dr. Ronald Roberto of the California Health Department warns that future epidemics might not be limited to drug addicts.

A total of 44 persons in Bakersfield contracted the disease since the first of the year, with the last case reported March 30. Dr. Owen Kearns, Kern County health officer, set up a temporary clinic and urged heroin users who might be infected to come in for preventive treatment — no questions asked.

More than 350 persons accepted the offer —a startling figure in a community of 180,000 where less than a decade ago Sheriff Charles Dodge estimates there were probably 50 hard drug users at most.

"It was startling to us and I think to everybody there," sai Dr. Roberto, whose offices are in Berkeley, Calif.

He and Dr. Kearns said the local outbreak had been traced to an unnamed former soldier who had contracted the disease in Vietnam. When he returned and shared his drug equipment with others, the parasite spread.

Those infected and those who came to the clinic fearing they might be were treated with a drug called chloroquine which effectively eradicates the parasites. But Dr. Roberto said the drug would not block a reinfection and one could become susceptible again after about 10 days.

"It appears now it's stamped out but it could possibly get started again," he said. "All we have to do is miss one person who has the parasites."

The strain of malaria, Plasmodium Vivax, is rarely fatal and its chief symptoms are chills, fever and nausea. But some forms of malaria can be deadly.

Dr. Roberto noted there are still anopheles mosquitoes in the marsh lands of the northern Central Valley of California which are capable of carrying malaria if they bite an infected human.

The last large outbreak in California occurred in just such a way when 35 Campfire Girls were stricken in 1952 after bitten by mosquitoes which had previously bitten returning Korean War veterans who had the disease.

Dr. Roberto said malaria parasites carried by mosquitoes undergo changes and result in a more virulent form of the disease when passed on to man.

The potential for new outbreaks among drug users and possibly even among non-drug users "increases as drug use continues in Vietnam," Dr. Roberto said. "All we can do is make the word known among drug users —don't share injection equipment unless it is sterilized."

3-Million Volumes Now In Library

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Ten years ago former Chancellor Franklin Murphy and University Librarian Robert Vosper received Regental authorization to double UCLA's book holdings (then at 1,500,000 volumes) within a decade — a remarkable challenge. On January 5 the challenge was met when the Friends of the UCLA Library (a private support group) and the UCLA Foundation presented to Chancellor Young volume number 3,000,000, making the UCLA Library 12th in size among university libraries.

As a fitting recognition of the enduring importance of books in the history of civilization, this landmark book is an original copy of Ptolemy's "Liber Geographiae" (Book of Georgraphy) printed in Venice on March 20, 1511.

"Students and faculty may disagree on some matters," said Chancellor Charles E. Young, "but they are quick to affirm that a distinguished library is essential to the work of scholarship — for both teaching and learning in all fields of study."

University Librarian Robert Vosper added:

"The world's great metropolitan centers are all marked by major library collections as well as my museums, music centers and other resources. The Los Angeles community requires extensive library resources for educational and cultural enrichment, and to serve the needs of industry, government and the professions. The UCLA Library provides for all these operations in addition to its own students and faculty."

The .recently-opened $4,000,000 addition to the University Research Library includes handsome quarters for UCLA's distinguished special collections of rare and early books and manuscripts.

The University Research Library includes special quarters, for UCLA's 25,000-volume Oriental Library, as well as up-to-date facilities and equipment for using the Library's extensive collection of materials in microform.

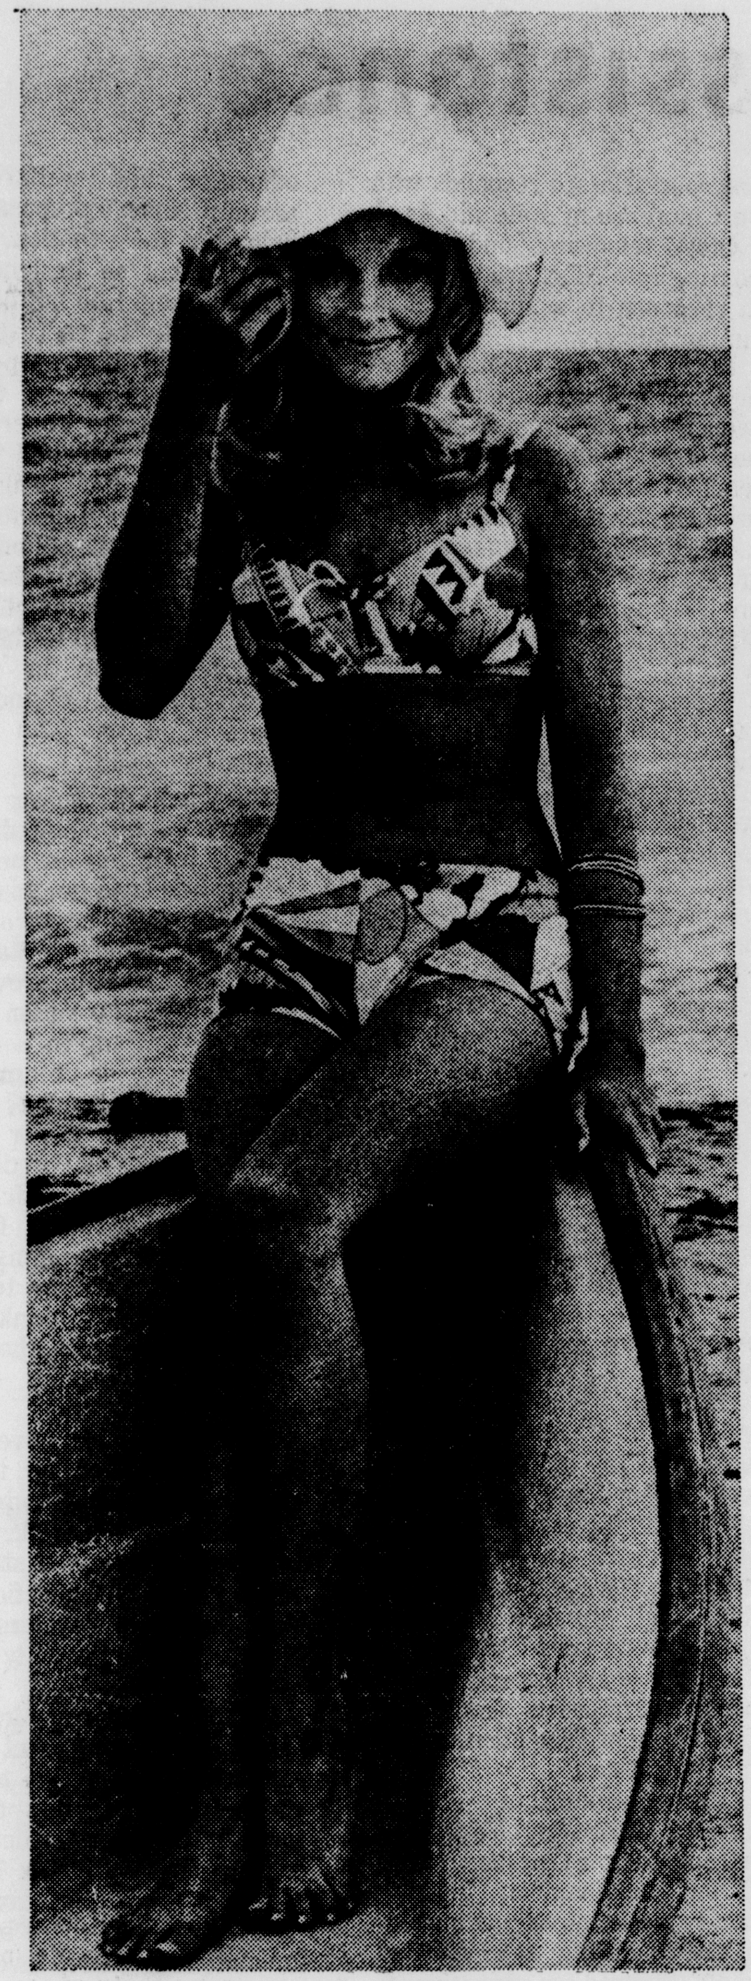
A new public affairs service has been established to provide ready access to accurate information on a variety of matters of current concern. The PAS will include important files of the official publications of California and other states, of the U.S. Government and foreign governments, and of international organizations. By tying in to the Library's computer, the PAS will provide access to the computer tape records of the 1970 U.S. Census, and ultimately to other data banks in the United States.

Correct Way To Dock Boat

Boaters who just can't judge the distance it takes to bring their boats to a stop do considerable damage to these boats each year by banging into piers, rocky shores, and other obstacles.

Boats have no brakes other than the reverse gear. And it takes a skilled handler to use this reverse gear effectively.

To cut down on damage, boaters should practice the art of judging stopping distances. Best way for them to do this is to pick out some fixed object in the water and then try their skill.



NEW HOTPANTS BIKINI

Boylegged pants replace the traditional high-sided style in this year's brief swimwear. This version at Montgomery Ward, Corte Madera is in bright polyester print, in combinations of purple or brown, sizes 34 to 40.

Growth Of Fire Dept.

Eight years before the Town of Corte Madera was incorporated, the Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department was formed and, until 1916 provided fire protection services with two horse carts — one stationed adjacent to Mahood's Store (Village Square) and one at Robert's Garage (Morningside Drive and Redwood Avenue).

The volunteer firemen continued this service to their town — as they still do — until 1961 when Lee Larson, one of their members, became the town's first full-time paid member of the Corte Madera Fire Department.

Quality of service remains the same, though the equipment has changed a bit. The horse teams were replaced by the first fire truck, a small Chevrolet Pope Hartford. In 1928, a bond issue was passed allowing for the purchase of an American La France 500 gpm pumper.

The organization was incorporated in 1930, and equipment was housed in a then new station on the corner of First Street (Tamalpais Drive) and Willow Avenue.

Today, in the new public safety building on Tamalpais Drive, the fire department and volunteer fire department have seven pieces of equipment, five paid firemen, and 25 volunteer members.

Chief of the department is Frank Nelson, and Bud Ralson is president of the volunteers. Roll call of past fire chiefs of the volunteers encompasses the history of the town: William Cassidy, William Russell, Henry Geister, George Seaton, Foster Mahood, Gordon Pingree and Frank Nelson.

No Real School Fund Assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's $3 billion revenue-sharing plan for education would redefine the foggy federal role in the area but critics see little hope that it would ease financial pressures on the nation's elementary and high schools.

Nixon told Congress his proposal would establish "an appropriate federal role in elementary and secondary education" and provide a "bold new approach ... to meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

The plan would consolidate 33 grant programs into five packages and give states more authority in spending the money, including about $200 million new funds.

But of more immediate concern to parents and school authorities is a crisis of finances threatening the very existence of education in some communities.

"Countless Ohio school districts in very severe financial difficulty," said a telegram to the National Education Association (NEA) from its Ohio affiliate. "Last year only 29 per cent of all new operating tax levies for schools were approved by voters. This contrasts to 99 per cent in 1950."

Dayton city schools expect to end this calendar year $14.2 million in the red. Cincinnati schools face a $4 million deficit. Even the affluent, fast-growing Dayton suburb of Kettering is taking steps to close two school buildings and transfer their pupils to other buildings.

"In excess of 100 Ohio school districts out of 631 total could be considered to be in critical financial bind," the telegram added. "We believe Ohio to be on the brink of a total collapse of its public school system unless legislature responds with vast increase in state aid."

Other telegrams and letters pouring into NEA headquarters in response to a survey tell a similar story.

From Tacoma, Wash.—"Clover Park School District No. 400 reduced its certificated staff by nearly 100 teachers, dropped all teacher aides, dropped specialized classes in languages, math ... curtailed maintenance programs to a level that borders on irresponsibility, allowing buildings to deteriorate seriously."

From Topeka, Kan.—"Kansas education picture bleak. Sample from 311 (school) districts shows 20.8 per cent reduced staffs for 1970-71 ... teacher salaries skidding downward ... organized tax protest groups statewide defeating bond elections."

From Boise, Idaho—"Our teachers are restless. One thousand showed for an emergency delegate assembly in the capital city ... many taxpayer groups springing up and organizing to resist taxes."

From Denver, Colo.—"At least 80 per cent of Colorado school districts will have to increase property taxes next year unless state support is increased by the 1971 legislature ..."

From Santa Barbara, Calif.—"A tax defeat has brought a decision to lay off 300 teachers beginning in May."

From Michigan —"Detroit ... dismissing 192 emergency substitutes in regular positions which will further increase already impossible class loads ... Lincoln Park having to get special permission from the State Board of Education to run half-day classes."

From Connecticut —"The Hartford Board of Education has cut back $4 million."

From Indianapolis, Ind.—A state representative was quoted as saying during a legislative debate, "hatred for education is in the air in this house."

U. S. Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. told UPI he sees no letup in the problem and said that "school systems are in for a continuing period of belt tightening."

"I think that the conditions, severe as they are, are such that we can sustain the schools over the next two or three years during a time of reappraisal of federal priorities and the realignment of budgets."

When the President unveiled his revenue-sharing plan for education, Elliott L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, was asked if Nixon's proposal would help ease the situation.

"It is not so designed," he replied, "and I do not believe it can honestly be represented as succeeding in that purpose."

Richardson did say that the administration's general revenue-sharing program, which is in addition to the change in the present system of grants, would make another $2 billion available for schools "and that would have significant impact."

Congress is cool to the idea of revenue sharing in general, however, and chances for approval of the plan are not considered good.

The federal share of the nation's public elementary and high school bill is nearly $3 billion but even so this is less than 7 per cent of total education outlays. State and local governments provide the rest of the $42 billion annual cost.

Education Commissioner Marland thinks the federal share should be 25 per cent or more. So did his predecessor, James E. Allen Jr., who unsuccessfully fought for that goal within the administration.

The 1.1 million teacher-member NEA thinks the federal government should put up one-third of the cost of education.

"Only the federal government is capable of coming up with sums of the magnitude needed," NEA President Mrs. Helen Bain told UPI. "And since our whole nation is a beneficiary of our education system, this increased responsibility would not be misplaced."

Both Marland and Mrs. Bain agree that the present heavy reliance on real estate taxes to support schools must change. Mrs. Bain wants "redistricting to provide broader tax bases." Marland said the tax base "must more and more move to the state and federal levels."

The first federal role in education, in 1787, involved land grants to the states, which specified that sections of land be set aside for schools. Money came much later. The starting point generally is considered to be passage in 1950 of the Impacted Areas Program. Many schools were having trouble assimilating the children of servicemen and workers from nearby federal installations, and Congress moved to help them meet these added financial burdens.

When the Russian Sputnik rose high in the skies, and shocked Americans began demanding space-age scientists, Congress moved again and voted federal support of scientific studies. With scientists assured, the government could turn to children—poor children, black children from rotting slum buildings and white children from rural shacks. Children who fail. Children who can't read. Children who quit school early.

Then, Lyndon B. Johnson, a former teacher, became president and the landmark Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA) was passed by a Congress,

Chairman For July 4th

The fifth annual Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July Celebration Committee has as its 1971 chairman, G. M. (Tom) Thomason, manager of Corte Madera branch, Bank of America, and first vice president of Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

With Albert E. Kogler acting in his fifth year as parade marshall, tentative plans include a Twin Cities Old Time Picnic on Saturday, July 3, in Corte Madera Town Park with a firemen's water battle, horseshoe contest between councils of both towns, and a band concert.

Activities scheduled for Sunday, July 4th, are the Art and Craft Show, Optimist Club Pancake Breakfast, Lions Club spaghetti dinner, concerts by the Terra Linda Sanitary District Non-Marching Band and Richard Slusher's "Adults Only" Band, cable car transportation, parade, and fireworks.

Assisting Thomason are Louis Malvino, Edward Saunders, Mrs. Henrietta Patton, Mrs. Shirley Walker, Mrs. Jacqueline Branch, Frank Bigley, Walter Nagel, Jack Sutherland and Mrs. Barbara Packard.

HONORED FOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO WEST

Enos Edward (Yakima) Canutt, now 75 (inset) was honored recently by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City with the Wrangle Award for 50 years' contributions to the West — as a rodeo cowboy, actor in 48 silent films, premier stunt man and now one of Hollywood's most sought-after action directors. As a young man, Yakima is shown with trophies he won between 1917 and 1923 on the rodeo circuit. (UPI Telephoto)

No Longer Fits Image Of Engineer

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — The engineering student, damned by campus militants and praised by indignant taxpayer as the last level-headed clean-shaven survivor of traditional student life, no longer quite fits his stereotype.

Admittedly, the average student engineer still displays a tendency toward haircuts, shoes, and even an occasional necktie, but — in increasing numbers — he also comes equipped with an active social conscience.

So believes Associate Dean Alfred C. Ingersoll of the UCLA School of Engineering and Applied Science, on the basis of his close observation of campus life over two decades.

As an educated guess, Dean Ingersoll believes that the percentage of "socially concerned" engineering students has tripled over the past decade, from roughly 10 per cent of the total in 1961 to about 30 per cent today.

Among many such students, especially on the graduate level, good pay, security, and other material rewards are no longer the primary lures in considering a job.

"Many students will take a lower salary in return for 'psychic rewards' — the chance to tackle work that will lead to building a better society," he says.

MRS. JOHN RAMSEY
Headed citizens committee

The Forces Behind The New Library

Mrs. John Ramsey, mother, Cub Scout den mother, member of St. Patrick's Women's Club, and Fourth of July float builder, early in 1968 became 1968 chairman of a nine-member citizens committee to study library services in the Lower Ross Valley.

After a four-month study the group, including Corte Maderans Mesdames John Conkle, Howard Allan, Alfred Kraeger and Joseph Wallace, presented to Marin County Board of Supervisors a master plan calling for the new concept of a regional library system.

Through this regionalization, Corte Madera qualified as the site of the Southern Marin branch, thus acquiring a library 10 times the size of the present one located at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

With approval granted, the five Corte Madera committee members became citizen advisors charged — with guidance by former Town manager Ronald Usher — with locating a building site in Corte Madera, and with supervising the planning and building stages.

The last hurdle — an appropriate site — was cleared when the wooded hillside property owned by the late Fred Sanford was offered for sale. The decision to accept it was immediate, for the beautiful location was also close to the highway and to public transportation.

In the spring of 1970, architect Neil Smith and Associates presented a library design which showed careful planning to obtain the park-like atmosphere of the property.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies in November were individuals representing the citizenry, the committee, town, county, and business community — all of whom had cooperated in the completion of an important project.

History Of Name

Colored lights in homes and streets — placed by residents to form a Christmas tree — gave Corte Madera's Christmas Tree Hill its name.
